

Guardian 741

Chapter 741 God of War at the Preliminaries

Hank looked proud. He was confident about the preliminaries.

“Are you sure you can get through the preliminaries?” Kaze asked with a soft grin.

Judging from the young masters’ words, there seemed to be a lot of misunderstanding regarding the preliminaries. They thought getting a slot would mean a bright future.

He decided to correct their assumptions, which he needed an example. Coincidentally, Hank turned out to be the best choice to make an example out of.

“I am the ace in our team and with my family’s support, I have the power and the background. If not me, who else?” Hank was confident.

His family had everything laid out for him. As long as he performed well he would pass the preliminaries. The

As for the next round, his family would also invest a lot to make sure he got in. “Great. Then you will soon understand that reality is harsh.”

Kaze ignored him and called Draco directly.

“The preliminaries haven’t started, right? I’m coming to have a look.”

“Boss, I thought you said you would come after the final round.”

Draco was shocked.

Kaze said, "I just don't want the good candidates to be." The

He admitted that he took this matter too lightly.

As long as there was a benefit, even the purest place could be stained with the evil of humanity.

"Alright. We'll wait for you before we start!"

Draco also knew that Kaze did not just want to 'watch'.

The moment Kaze put down the phone, Harry and the others laughed.

"Why don't you think about how to get into the You The Chapter 742 Kaze Did Wrong Harry and the others were surprised.

"You are still being stubborn at times like this? We don't want to waste time on you now. We'll come after you after the preliminaries are over. We will surely crush you by today!"

They then called their drivers to pick them up.

Rose was upset by the young masters' frivolous attitude.

"Stop being arrogant! You people are laughing at Kaze because he can't go? I'll make it happen!" Rose pulled her phone out and called her father.

She said she wanted to attend the preliminaries but she did not mention Kaze.

"You want to go have a look? Sure, I'll ask around."

Nelson was punished together with his direct superior for drinking on duty, but he was released for good behavior. Soon, he secured a way to get Rose in.

“Thank you, Dad!”

Rose then waved her phone at Harry. “I can also attend the preliminaries with just one call. What’s so great about that?” “Hmph. Quite capable, little girl.”

The young masters were embarrassed but they were too egoistic to be calculative with her. Everyone went off after a short while.

Kaze told Winnie to stay back to take care of the other procedures.

He then went to the training ground for the preliminaries with Rose, Sky, and Landon.

“Why is he here?!”

Nelson came out to bring his daughter in but then he saw Kaze.

It was Kaze who reported him and got him and Vanik punished.

Albert even made him stand under the sun, which got him scolded by his other superior.

He hated Kaze for snitching.

“Dad, Kaze wanted to come, so Rose tricked you. She doesn’t even let me call you!”

Landon snitched on his sister immediately.

“Can you just shut up?”

Rose rolled her eyes at Landon and then curled her arms around Nelson’s arm to flatter him. “Dad, | just want to see my idol, the God of War, so | brought Kaze along.”

“No way!” Nelson wore a strict look. “Do you know how much it cost for me to bring you inside? Why must I use the favor on Kaze?”

He then glared at Kaze. “If you are so capable, why don’t you get in yourself? Why ask Rose to bring you in? Get out of my face!”

Harry and the other young masters arrived in a timely manner and they overheard Nelson’s scolding. “Hahaha! Kaze, did you hear? Your senior is asking you to leave! Get out! You are not in the same league as us!”

“Too bad. Not even his senior take him seriously. Is he really the one who spent three billion to acquire Golden Edge? | bet he sucked up to Winnie Souffle for it, yet he called us useless. He’s the one being useless!”

The young masters continued to mock him.

They were certain that Kaze was useless the moment they saw Nelson pointed at him and scolded him. Kaze ignored them and Nelson altogether.

He walked past Nelson without saying anything.

“What are you doing? Get out of here!” Nelson turned around with a fierce look.

However, he quickly zipped his mouth when he saw several uniformed soldiers going up to Kaze.

He recognized them. They were from the discipline divisi ‘aie ones:

“Kaze, where are you going?”

Rose and Sky got nervous when Kaze walked away with the soldiers from the discipline division. “I have something to do. I’ll see you later.”

Kaze then went off,

“Did Kaze do something wrong and the soldiers from the discipline division are here to stop him? He got hit coming!” Nelson laughed out loud.

He was reported by Kaze a few times now and finally, he saw Kaze being taken away by the soldiers. He gloated at Kaze and was delighted by the twist of events!

Chapter 743 Binoculars “That depends on what he did wrong.”

Nelson said confidently, “If it’s a heavy crime, even if he’s not from the military, he would be punished. If it’s something light, he would still be lectured.

“Besides, the idiot is arrogant. I bet he’s going to be taught a lesson, or even beaten up. The discipline division isn’t the friendliest. Even if he’s a stubborn one, they have a way to crack him.”

Rose’s face turned pale when she heard her father.

“Kaze, don’t argue with them! Just cooperate!”

Sky was worried as well.

“Hahaha! He’s taken away by the discipline division the moment he arrived? Did he just turn himself in?”

“Do you think he'll call the soldiers from the discipline division useless? If he did, they would beat the shit out of him!” “Kaze, the idiot! He made my day!”

Harry and the others continued to laugh at him.

“Since when did we allow public viewing for the soldiers' selection? This is not by the rules. Find out who allowed it and deal with it.”

Kaze was talking to the soldiers from the discipline division with a frosty look. He had already contacted them on the way here. “Yes, Sir!” The soldiers gulped nervously.

“And, I got news that the wealthy families are helping their selected candidates to get through the preliminaries as well. Find out what happened,” Kaze said.

“Yes, Sir!”

The two soldiers felt like they had just been to hell and back.

If the God of War noticed all those problems, it would mean that the discipline division was not doing its job right.

On the open-air training ground, all the soldiers gathered in an orderly formation.

It was quiet despite the number of soldiers.

Then, a camouflage—colored jeep drove into the training ground.

The chief commander, Draco, and the other executive officers of the Lilyrose Strategic Department were all standing straight on stage, looking serious.

Based on their reaction, everyone knew that the God of War had arrived.

“He’s here! The God of War is here!”

The young masters staring from outside the training group were excited.

“Too bad we are so far away. We can’t even see the God of War’s face,” one of them said with a sigh.

Harry then revealed a binoculars in his hand. “Hehe, I am well-prepared! With this, I can even see how many moles the God of War has!”

“Great one, Harry! You’re really smart! Let us have a look later!”

“Don’t worry. We can take turns.”

Sky, Rose, and Landon were further away from them but they saw Harry with the binoculars. They envied him.

“If only we can see the God of War’s real face. He’s my idol,” Rose said with pouty lips. “Why don’t we ask them to lend us the binoculars?” Landon said.

Sky scoffed. “No. They tried to beat up Kaze! You want me to talk to them? No freaking way!”

“Yeah! We have another chance to see the God of War.

“Look, the God of War is coming down from the Lee?”

Harry with the binoculars cried in shock.

“What? Let me have a look!”

“No way! That idiot is the God of War?”

The other young masters urged Harry to give them the binoculars. All of them were trying to have a look at the God of War’s true face. Suddenly, a group of uniformed soldiers came over.

“Get down from the platform right away!”

Chapter 744 Spy The young masters were taken down from the platform that they were standing on.

Harry tried to resist but was taken down as well. Agitated and flushed, he shouted, “What are you doing? Show some respect! | am Harry Lokeman of the Lokeman family!”

Slap! The soldier slapped him in the face for being irritating and uncooperative.

“| don’t care what family you are from. This is a restricted zone and no civilians are allowed in here... What are you holding? Give it to me!”

Harry's binoculars were confiscated.

“Military binoculars? You're a spy?!”

The soldiers immediately surrounded Harry and the young masters to search them.

“I'm not a spy! | just want to see what the God of War looks like! Don't accuse me!” Harry shouted.

He was called a spy just because he held a pair of binoculars.

“Trying to see the God of War’s true face is spy activity. The God of War’s schedule is classified, not even we know about it, yet you are here with military binoculars. You are not a spy? | don’t believe you. Take them away!”

The leader raised his hand and ordered his men to take all the young masters away. "What?! We are not spies!"

The young masters panicked, some of them even cried.

They simply came to see the God of War but they were mistaken as spies. "Shut up!"

The young masters who resisted were punched in the stomach and subdued. All of them were taken away.

"Thank goodness we didn't borrow the binoculars!"

Rose and Sky were frightened, Landon even cried.

"The three of you! What are you doing here instead of being in school? Don't try to sneak in. This is a restricted zone. Come with us! We'll contact your parents!"

The leader came over and lectured the three youngsters before taking them away.

The little fiasco outside the training ground did not affect the preliminaries at all.

"God of War! God of War! God of War!"

All the soldiers chanted the name when the person came down from the jeep.

Their combined voices were so loud that it shook the sky.

Kaze raised his hand to quiet them down.

The entire training ground was silenced instantly.

All the soldiers had a strong zeal in their eyes.

“All men should be like the God of War!”

Hank was in the first row and he, too, was excited.

His anticipation was off the charts because he would be one of the first few who would through the selection process. He swore to perform well and stand out so that he could win the God of War’s attention. With that, he would be able to secure a bright future.

“The God of War is coming toward us!”

Someone in the formation cried in shock.

The God of War came at a steady pace.

Everyone's eyes moved along with him.

“I must let the God of War see me!”

Hank lifted his chest and looked as energetic as possible. “He’s coming! He’s coming!” Hank got so excited that his soul almost left his body.

“Great. Everyone seems energetic,” said the God of Wants content is of

The voice sounded familiar to Hank.

go

Why did it sound like Kaze?

Hank got a better look and he was stunned. His mind buzzed and whited out.

How could Kaze be the God of War?!

Hank went blank. He even ae he . . . O

The strict face looked exactly like Kaze's!

Hank instinctively looked down.

Chapter 745 Bad Soldier

Hank did not want the God of War to see him, yet he already stood out from the others. Kaze saw him lowering his head among the other uplifted and energetic soldiers.

It was difficult not to notice him.

Hank was in uniform, so Kaze did not recognize him at first glance. He frowned and asked, "Soldier, why is your head down? Look up!"

Countless gazes landed on Hank instantly.

Hank wanted to die on the spot to escape the attention.

He nervously squeezed the words out of his clenched teeth, saying, "S—Sir! G-God of War! I- | am afraid..." He answered instinctively without realizing he violated a taboo in the army.

Kaze looked rather angry. "What is there to be afraid of? Look up!"

His voice was as loud as the rumbling thunder.

Hank was so frightened that he fell on his butt, and even his hat fell off. He looked at Kaze blankly.

Kaze finally saw Hank's face.

He smiled and then wore a frosty look. "Am | that scary?"

Hank could not spell a full word.

Kaze grunted and shouted, "Draco, how did someone like this get the slot to the preliminaries?!"
Countless disdainful gazes were shot at Hank.

"What do you know? He's so afraid of the God of War that he fell on his butt. I've never seen such a coward even among the new recruits."

"The God of War is right. Why is he here? Did he get in through nepotism?"

"Being in the same formation with him is an insult to us! | hope it doesn't affect our selection, or else I'll wreck him!"

The other soldiers were grumbling softly.

Hank was devastated. He knew his career was over.

Even Chief Commander Lang shuddered when the God of War was angry.

He and the other executive officers came over and glared at Hank.

Kaze said coldly, "The preliminaries today are canceled. We will carefully review everyone's selection process and identify those who got in through nepotism. Upon discovery, they will be disqualified. However, if they voluntarily withdraw, no action will be taken. If we discover any non-cooperation, you will be expelled from the army."

He was not a narrow-minded person.

He came to the preliminaries not because he wanted to get to Hank and embarrass him. It was because of what Harry and the others said.

He believed it was necessary to deliver the right message and make a clear statement. Some of the soldiers stepped out and dropped out of the preliminaries. "Draco, take off your shirt and pants," Kaze said.

Everyone was shocked, not knowing what Kaze was trying to do.

Draco took off his uniform, his pants, and his shirt with Word. Only was left.

The chief commander, also the regional commander, exposed his body to everyone. Gasp! The moment everyone saw his body, they gasped in shock.

There was not an intact part on his body. His skin looked regrown.

The scars overlapped each other and there were even some claw marks on his back. "The chief commander has that many scars on his body? Scary!" "What's with the claw mark? Is there a monster on the foreign battlefield?"

"Chief Commander Lang climbed out from a mountain o ay await to death many times on the battlefield."

Chapter 746 Draco

All the soldiers on the scene fell silent.

It was brutal out there on the foreign battlefield, and Draco had the battle scars to prove it. "Get dressed."

Kaze waved his arm and said, "You saw it. Your chief commander is single to this day for fear of scaring the women when he takes his clothes off."

It sounded like teasing. However, it was no laughing matter.

"The battlefield is not a place for easy fame or fortune. It's a dangerous and challenging place where you must be prepared to risk your life.

"Let me put it out there now. If you're looking for a career that will make you rich and famous, this isn't the place for you. The door is right there if hard work and danger scare you." Kaze said his piece and walked away.

Back on the training grounds, the soldiers stood at attention for a long time.

The silence lingered.

"That's so uncool, Boss. Now the kids have seen me naked. There goes my reputation."

Draco put on his clothes and caught up to Kaze.

He removed his clothing without hesitation at Kaze's command.

Only now did he whine to Kaze about it.

“Cut the crap.”

Kaze gave him a kick.

For years, Kaze had been giving his brothers—in—arms the same miracle cream Sky used for his face. Draco’s scars looked terrifying because new injuries were inflicted before the old ones could heal completely. Still, it was only a matter of time before the scars would go away.

Draco then received a call.

He put down the phone and said with a chuckle, “Sky and Rose have been taken away by the disciplinary commission. They are now scared shitless.”

“Ill go and pick them up.”

Kaze did not know what to say about it.

The pair entered the military base.

They arrived outside the disciplinary commission bureau. There was a clamor in one of the offices.

“The Lokeman family of Takeno City has been a prominent family for centuries. We have been outstanding citizens. Do | look like a spy to you? | can’t believe you pointed your finger at me and beat me. | demand an apology from your chief of staff, or else!”

“You people just ordered equipment from Maple & Co. You better set this right before | make the phone call to cancel the order.”

“Apologize now. | am of the family of Sunrise City, and our family has a partnership with you. Don’t make me pull the plug!”

Harry and the others made a huge fuss.

Draco raised his brows. "These rich boys on their parents' dime sure are cocky. I'll get in there and give them a thing or two to think about."

While talking, Draco motioned to go inside the office to teach them a lesson. "Forget it. One hit from you, and they're toast."

Kaze patted Draco's shoulder. "I'll go and check it out."

"I'll check on Sky and give him a tour around. The boy has been asking for one." Draco went to another office.

Upon entry, Draco found Landon bawling his eyes out.

Rose was tearful too.

Sky was in a better position, but he did look spooked.

They knew things had gotten out of hand the moment they were taken away.

The God of War was not pleased with civilians watching

Many had been punished. They just witnessed Nelson being brought in.

The disciplinary commission mentioned that Nelson was not the principal offender. Zed gave permission for Sky, Rose, and Landon to observe private military activity.

However, Nelson was given a two-day solitary reflection for his misdeed and to write a formal report on it.

“Draco!”

Following Draco’s presence, Sky stood up and looked at him in shock. “A-Are you enlisted as a soldier here?”

Draco was always in casual wear and aviators when dropping by Horizon Mirror Mansion. He did not look like he had a job. It only dawned on Sky now that Draco was serving in the military.

Sky was curious back then because Draco was pretty badass. Sure enough, Draco turned out to be a military man.

A soldier?

Draco ran Lilyrose Strategic Department.

The disciplinary commission pulled a bizarre look.

Chapter 747 Tip-off

“Come on. I’ll give you a tour of the military base. I made a formal request, so you won’t be arrested over it.” Draco patted Sky’s head.

He warmed up to Sky because of the latter’s relationship with Kaze.

Sky was now a younger brother to Draco.

“Thank you, Draco, for saving us.”

Sky was relieved, but a wave of anxiety quickly washed over him.

“What about Kaze, Draco? Did he commit a serious offense?”

“I doubt he has done anything,” Draco replied peevishly.

Rose asked, “Why did the disciplinary commission approach him?”

“They just want to get an understanding of the situation,” Draco murmured randomly. “So Kaze blew the whistle on all of us. That’s why we were arrested!”

Landon’s eyes bulged.

Draco glared at him. “Show some respect to Kaze or I’ll hit you.”

Out of the three kids, Landon was the most annoying.

Landon turned pale and kept to himself.

Sky said, “Oh, I get it. Kaze reported those people from affluent families to get them arrested, so they can’t pick on us anymore.” “That’s right. They are so cocky, but they didn’t make a peep when they were beat up.” Rose swung her fist furiously.

She believed they were just collateral to the rich young men’s arrest. Besides, Kaze sent Draco to bail them out. They were unharmed.

“You're the loser who turned us in, Kaze!”

Kaze walked into the other office, only for the Givuj shoot angry

looks at him.

“You must be Harry. What happened to you?”

Kaze pointed at one of the guys. He had to take a closer look to recognize who he was. Harry's face was swollen from the beating.

The others were not better off either.

They were wounded.

On the contrary, Kaze was in one piece.

That was the reason why they were sure Kaze had reported them.

Harry glared at Kaze with clenched teeth. “Loser, you got yourself in trouble, but you gave us up to get a pardon. You are such a bitch!”

“Watch your mouth!”

A member of the disciplinary commission widened his eyes, tempted to whip these rich, spoilt kids into shape.

It was blatant disrespect to curse at the God of War.

"It's okay. They have been roughened up. I can take a few insults."

Kaze waved his arm with a smile.

Although Kaze did not tip the disciplinary commission off, the group of young men was only in the situation because of him.

Kaze stared at the group and said indifferently, "You should have learned your lesson by now, so you better get out of the city. If you come near me again, it won't end with just a beating anymore."

Yume sought the group of youngsters to help with her revenge plan. Kaze did not intend to do much. The group would be let off after a brief discipline.

Even so,

the group would not let it go.

"You're a loser, Kaze! We wouldn't be hit if you didn't report us. Do you think the military takes orders from you?"

"It's not over. We will seek justice for Yume. Now that you have pissed off, we aren't going to leave until we're finished with you."

Seeing red, the young men narrowed their eyes at Kaze. "The audacity!"

The disciplinary commission member shouted sternly, "Why are you still whining when you are given a pass? Sign the paper and get out!"

The group of youngsters was unfazed. They turned their noses up at the members of the disciplinary commission.

Harry pointed at the member of the disciplinary commission. on bullshit, bastard you that this

How dare you hit us. Don't you know who we are?"

Chapter 748 Kaze's Malicious

when it's over. I'm going to make the bastard who hit me pay."

"I am Zephyr Garland, the son of the South River State's governor. You have a lot to answer for after beating me up," one of the young men clamored.

Despite his upbringing in politics, Zephyr made a threat.

He was equally punished like the rest of the group.

As a known gentleman in the South River State, he had never been so insulted.

Kaze said indifferently, "Zephyr, should I call your dad to pick you up?"

"Who do you think you are? My dad is too busy to take time out of his day to deal with this. I demand an apology from Draco

now. Zephyr looked at Kaze in disdain.

Like Draco, Loid was a regional commander.

Loid ran the state while Draco oversaw the military.

They were not in the same administration. It was challenging to ascertain who held the higher rank.

“Did you take part in the selection, Hank?”

Harry yelled toward the office door.

He saw Hank entering the disciplinary commission bureau.

“That’s my man. I’m sure Hank came to bail us out, knowing we have been arrested.”

“| bet he passed the selection and got straight down to business.”

Seeing that Hank was escorted by a few military officials, the young men thought he was there for them.

“Hank, Kaze, the bastard, is here too. Hurry up and beat him up. Avenge us!”

Harry and the others shouted with joy while pointing at Kaze.

Hank was a wreck. He lifted his head and saw Kaze standing in the office.

“Ah!” he exclaimed and fell on his bottom.

“What's the matter, Hank? Did the preliminaries wipe you out?”

Hank got up to his feet.

“Did you see the God of War?” an individual asked.

“I saw him.”

Hank stared at Kaze and forced an ugly smile.

“Oh. Did he find you outstanding?”

“Hurry up and bail us out, but the bastard from the disciplinary commission needs to apologize to us first,” the group uttered.

Making a face, Hank said glumly, “Don’t go there. I’m being discharged. I’m only here to cooperate with the investigation of my family pulling strings for my career.”

“What?”

The

group was shocked.

Hank was confident walking out of Golden Edge. Somehow, he was now discharged and under investigation. Hank stood there and nodded at Kaze. “It’s all my fault. I’m so sorry.”

The group of rich youngsters was astonished.

What was going on? They could not believe Hank would apologize to Kaze.

“Take him away.”

Kaze waved his arm at the military officials behind Hank.

“Move along.”

military officer nudged Hank along.

All the military personnel looked down on Hank.

There had never been a case where a spineless soldier would

A good friend of Hank's cocked his head back and pointed at Kags m angrily... Rare. You're wicked, How could you report Hank? You ruined his future!

“Don't you know the expectation his family has of him? ‘he Duncans will make you pay. You're dead meat.” The group thought Kaze blew the whistle on Hank. He destroyed Hank's career.

Hank only apologized to Kaze out of despair.

The group of wealthy youngsters,

looked at Kaze

Chapter 749 They Are Saluting Kaze “Kaze, you are a vile man!”

“Doomsday is ahead of you, Kaze. The Duncans will make you pay. It's not over between us either. It's too late to grovel and beg for forgiveness now.”

Even though Hank was a rival in love, the group of wealthy youngsters felt bad for his predicament. They hated Kaze's guts. "Your families can come after me with everything they have."

Kaze shook his head, unbothered to waste his time on these idiots. He waved his arm at the member of the disciplinary commission. "Put them behind bars since they don't want to leave. They can go, but their fathers have to bail them out."

He then took off.

"Who do you think you are, Kaze? I'll be released when my dad makes the call to Draco." Zephyr was livid.

The others were the same.

They believed Kaze was humiliating them intentionally.

With that, the group made up their mind to get even with him once they got out.

Kaze left the disciplinary commission bureau and met up with Draco who was taking Sky, Rose, and Landon on a tour. He stayed with them for a while.

To be honest, Kaze had not checked out the base of Lilyrose Strategic Department. "Wow! That's the Garo Special Ops Team! | want to be in the special ops team."

Sky's eyes lit up.

The boy had been butting heads with Agnes because he wanted to be a special agent. Agnes would not give her blessing.

“Draco, are you high in rank? Why are the passing soldiers on foot and tanks saluting you?” 1/3

Rose asked curiously.

Draco replied with a smile, “They are saluting Kaze.”

“Tch. You're such a kidder, Draco.”

Rose rolled her eyes.

It was hard to take Draco seriously as he often joked with them.

They thought Draco was kidding.

Once the kids had enough of the tour, Kaze led out of the military base.

“Can you put in the word for my dad, Draco? He’s been put in solitary confinement and self- reflection again. It has happened multiple times lately. Poor Dad.”

Before leaving, Rose remembered that her father, Nelson, was still in a fix.

Draco glanced at Kaze, who kept to himself, and chuckled. “It’s out of my hands. You might want to tell him to tone down. I’m sure his luck will change if he ditches the attitude and takes a humble approach.”

Rose pouted.

She knew the type of man her father was.

Old habits died hard.

Nelson's luck would never change.

Upon exiting the military base, Kaze told Sky and the others to go home while he went to Golden Edge. He wanted to see how Winnie was doing.

“You have gone too far, Winston. Shangrila Group is the biggest shareholder of Golden Edge. We're not being unreasonable to review the financial statements. As one of the shareholders, why are you stopping us from doing our job?”

In the same meeting room, Winnie looked daggers at Winston. Winston scoffed in disdain. “So what if you're the biggest shareholder? You won't be the ones running Golden Edge for long.” “What are you trying to say, Winston?” Winnie asked furiously.

“Do I have to spell it out for you?”

Winston smirked. “Shangrila Group has on the nerves of multiple prominent families who hold my breath that your company would survive their payback if I were you. It's only a matter of time before these families take over Golden Edge.

“I would advise you to take a hike. Just hand over the shares of Golden Edge and maybe these families will forgive you.”

“Dream on!”

Winnie shook with rage.

“Hmph! I don't want to waste my breath arguing with you.”

Winston waved at his men in the back. "Kick all those from Shangrila Group out." "Get lost! Golden Edge isn't yours!"

A group started pushing Winnie and her team out.

"What are you doing? Why should we leave?"

There was chaos in the meeting room.

Kaze was right outside the door. He kicked the door open and walked in.

"You're an idiot, Winston. Your masters can't

Chapter 750 The Governor

Kaze looked at the group who were pushing Shangrila Group employees out. He said curtly, " Tell these people to stop and leave right now."

"You're a loser, Kaze. Who are you to tell me to leave?"

Winston grimaced.

Smack!

Kaze hit him to the ground.

"Is the slap good enough for you?"

“You!”

Winston cried out in pain and glared at Kaze with his hand over his cheek. In the end, he got scared.

“Come on!”

He got up from the ground and beckoned to his men to leave.

Before leaving, he turned around and put his finger up Kaze’s nose. “Just you wait. Once these young masters are back, I’ll crush you.”

“Get lost,” Kaze responded. Winston scoffed resentfully and stormed off.

Relieved, Winnie said, “We wanted to review the financial statements, but Winston won’t let us. I suspect we might have a problem.”

“It’s okay. Go on and make the necessary reviews. The lapdog will be back.”

Kaze knew Winston would not back down, but the latter was no threat.

Winnie nodded and led her employees to the office next door.

Winston walked out of Golden Edge with gritted teeth and spotted a fleet of luxury cars pulling up. Then, Harry and the others got out of the car.

A few middle-aged men exited the vehicle with a touch of class.

“Mr. Harry?”

Winston went up to them and was surprised to find Harry’s face battered.

Ignoring Winston, Harry said to the middle-aged man, "Dad, we are at Golden Edge." "Mr. Lokeman!" Winston blurted.

Winston knew that Harry's father was the head of the Lokeman family in Takeno City. To think the man would come to Lilyrose himself.

He turned to the cars in the back.

Next to each bruised-up heir stood an imposing figure.

"Um..."

Winston gasped sharply.

These people were either leaders of prominent families or heavyweights among the rich and powerful. They had all gathered in Lilyrose today.

For all Winston knew, these people came to stand up for their sons and get even with Kaze.

Judging by the young men's swollen faces, Winston assumed that Kaze beat them up when they entered the military base. The middle-aged men stood with their sons, seemingly waiting for someone.

Winston soon widened his eyes in shock.

Jesus Christ.

The big man was in the house too.

He, a middle-aged man with a square face, commanded respect with his presence.

The man was often on the news in the South River State.

Zephyr stood beside him. It was plain to see who the man was.

“Governor Farland.”

“Hello, Governor.”

The heads of prominent families greeted the middle-aged man as he moved closer to them.

It was Loid Farland, the governor of the South River State.

It took everything in Winston not to laugh out loud.

Even the governor of the South River State wanted to get payback with Kaze.

The heads of prominent families, the chairman of Mapl XO aadhbre wanted to go at Kaze.

Kaze had crossed these families' young masters, and now their fathers would make him pay.

He was dead meat.

“Come on,” Léid said indifferently and walked toward Golden Edge. “You must be here for Kaze, Governor. I’ll lead the way.”

Winston ingratiatingly approached the group.

Following a glance from Loid, Zephyr said with a blank face "The!"

"For the sake of Golden Edge."

Loid said nothing.

The

group moved along in silence.

The air was thick with tension.

Winston was overjoyed.

These VIPs must be livid.

Kaze was in for it.

Winston was overcome with joy that he could not think straight.

It did not make sense that a group of heavyweights would give Kaze hell altogether.