The sidekick in the forefront swung his fist at Kaze's face with a leer.

Pulling a blank face, Kaze shielded Rose and kicked the attacker in the chest.

"He's ruined," Julius, who had been watching from the sidelines, murmured.

Julius looked at Kaze like he was a dead man.

"Samson? Perfect timing."

Kaze raised his brow in surprise. Backed by the Lees, Samson threw his weight around. Samson's son acted out before Kaze could even get to Samson.
