

Guardian 861

Chapter 861 Fan the Right Flames Fortunately, the wall was covered with a soft cushion for noise isolation, which saved Taz from several broken bones, but he was not in a good shape either.

"Ughh!"

Lil Dee landed on the couch with his body crouched. His stomach rumbled which caused him to throw up as much as he had drunk earlier.

What suffered more than his body was his pride.

He did not expect Kaze would hit him. If the news got out, he would lose face.

"Get him! Get him!"

He shouted as he curled on the couch. He disregarded anything else and simply wanted Kaze dead to vent his anger.

"Aaarh!"

The bodyguards that jumped on Kaze were all knocked down to the floor, twisting and twirling in pain.

The tough-looking bodyguards were like children in front of Kaze.

"Kaze! How dare you hit Lil Dee?! Do you know how many followers he had?!" Taz shouted.

He was not angry but excited. He knew that once Kaze hit Lil Dee, Kaze would have to face the wrath of Lil Dee's fans, so he continued to fan the flames.

Kaze looked at him emotionlessly and then grabbed him by the collar.

Slap!

A few slaps on his face later, Taz's face was swollen and his lips bled.

Kaze threw Taz on the floor, leaving him half dead.

"You have to look at who you are provoking."

Kaze kicked Taz away.

"You fuck! You piece of shit! Call the cops and arrest this maniac!"

Taz cried like a baby on the floor. He was afraid and regretted that he provoked Kaze. He had a taste of Kaze's slaps before yet he continued to fan the flames at the wrong time.

"Yeah! Arrest this crazy bastard!" Lil Dee was afraid as well.

He weighed 120 kg yet he was kicked away by a single kick from Kaze.

The bodyguards he hired to protect himself were no match for Kaze either.

How could the useless idiot, the son-in-law of the Quints, hit him and his bodyguards?!

Lil Dee could not figure it out no matter how hard he thought.

"You want to call the cops on me?"

+16 RONUS Kaze was amused by their naive thinking. They had no idea that even the chief of police, Don Braders, would have to bow before him.

He went over to grab Lil Dee for a few more slaps on his face.

Lil Dee continued to cry and shout in pain.

"Stop it, Kaze! You'll kill him if you don't stop!"

Nancy came over immediately and held Kaze back. She was grateful for what he did for her but she did not want him to get his hands bloody.

"Kaze! Master Lee! Brother, I'm just kidding! I'm not calling the capston you!" LiNDee immediately regretted En: his choice of words.

Kaze tossed him on the couch. He took his phone out and played a recording of Lil Dee trying to coerce Nancy into sleeping with him.

Lil Dee's expression shifted. "Bruh, what is the meaning of this?"

Kaze said, "Nothing in particular. I'm just telling you that I hit you and don't even think about getting revenge, or En else your influencer life is over."

Darcy was a victim of cyberbullying in the past and it made Kaze cautious.

Lil Dee was a famous influencer with a strong following, so Kaze had to be careful.

Lil Dee nodded and tapped on his chest, assuring Kaze that he would not take revenge.

"Brother, don't worry! Lil Dee ain't a little bitch! Even if you want to kill me, I won't fight back. I know you've gone easy on the and I assure you I won't do anything stupid. I swear on my followers, or else I will lose all my fame and following!"