

The Guardian's Sword #Chapter 1601 - Read The Guardian's Sword Chapter 1601

Chapter 1601

Chapter 1601

The city defense soldiers, who had gathered around the bar, frowned at George's shout.

What happened today was outrageous.

It had happened before when George had asked them to intimidate others and make him look good, but no one had been killed.

However, George illegally deployed hundreds of city defense soldiers out of the army base and even killed someone to assert his authority in front of a gang of thugs and gain a reputation for his woman today.

It was no minor incident.

George's behavior and remarks made the city defense soldiers uncomfortable.

Several city defense soldiers looked indignantly at George.

This man was their superior and leader, and they were supposed to obey him.

However, doubts arose in the city defense soldiers' minds.

'Is it the right thing to work for such a man? Is it worth it?'

The wailing of police sirens came nearer.

It appeared that the men who had just escaped from the bar had called the sheriff's department's tip-off line, so the deputies rushed in.

'Oh no.'

One of George's confidants said.

George waved his hand and said, "Oh no? How dare a few deputies interfere with the city defense army's business?"

The sheriffs department and the city defense army were not in the same league.

The city defense army could wipe out Dorodo's entire sheriffs department whenever and wherever it wanted.

Several police cars were parked in front of the bar. More than ten officers with crossbows got out. However, they were afraid to step forward and even ask questions when they saw hundreds of city defense soldiers inside and outside the bar.

'Let's go. Things are going to get ugly if we stay.'

Another of George's men said.

George glanced at the man and wanted to scold him, but he did not know what to say.

It was because he was a little scared too.

However, it was too late to leave now.

Dorodo reporters from major media outlets crowded the place, and cameras of various sizes were pointing at every corner of Silver Goblet Bar.

The city defense soldiers were all caught on camera, and George and his lackeys were no exception.

"Come on! Let's get out! Withdraw to army camp first!"

George was furious.

As long as he brought out his men and returned to the city defense army's main camp, it did not matter how big the trouble he caused outside.

Would the sheriffs department go to the main camp to hold them accountable?

Would those media reporters go to the city defense army base to ask for answers?

George took the lead while a few of his men followed. The remaining city defense soldiers could only follow George and the others as they prepared to leave.

Just then, there was suddenly a loud shout from the distance.

"Stop right there!"

It was a voice familiar to city defense soldiers.

They turned around to look in the direction of the sound. When they found that it was the city defense army's commander-in-chief, Sean, they obeyed the order to stop.

George could only stop too.

He was terrified as his hand holding the sword trembled slightly.

Chapter 1602

Chapter 1602

The lackeys around him chickened out.

"Don't worry. Sean can't do anything to us! After all, the law can't be enforced when everyone is an offender. There are so many of us. What the f *ck is there to be scared of?"

George cursed to relieve his stress.

Sean marched in with Gregory, Anthony, and Wesley.

He was followed by Quentin, the mayor of Dorodo, and many of the ball's high-profile guests.

'What happened here?'

Sean asked when he reached them.

One of the city defense soldiers immediately saluted and respectfully reported to Sean.

'Sir, Centurion Jokerman had a confrontation with someone, so he asked us to support him. Centurion Jokerman accidentally killed the man, which alerted the sheriffs department and the reporters..."

A furious expression immediately appeared on Sean's face.

George broke the rules by deploying 100 city defense soldiers out of the army camp only to intimidate others and show off.

Besides that, he killed the other party in public.

Where did George get the courage to do so?

Wesley's expression immediately changed as he went forward and slapped his son, George.

"B*stard, hurry and apologize to Commander Lennon! Do you know how much trouble you've caused?"

George was slapped twice, and his face burned with pain.

However, he was angered by his own father instead of apologizing.

"Apologize? Apologize my *ss! What did I do wrong? Why should I apologize?"

George roared like a lion gone berserk, and his eyes were red with blood.

Wesley was terrified. Tonight's events had put him and George in a nasty situation, but how dare this punk refused to admit his mistakes?

Did he not know what a crime it was to defy the commander-in-chief in public?

Besides, that was not the only crime he was guilty of!

However, George laughed boisterously and shouted to everyone in the room before Wesley could stop him, "I, George Jokerman, am a centurion after all. I fought for Dorodo more than ten times! Especially when the enemy attacked Dorodo at night two years ago. If I hadn't warned you, Dorodo would have been destroyed!

'I've done so much for Dorodo! What's wrong with me having some fun with women? What's wrong with killing a man?

'If it weren't for me, you people would be dead!'

George's words caused a stir.

Countless onlookers on the street, hundreds of city defense soldiers present, and dozens of reporters who had swarmed the area looked at George in shock.

Had he lost his mind?

Didn't he know what a sin it was to say such a rebellious thing in public?

Just then, a cry suddenly came from the bar.

Everyone turned around to look. Then an old man in his 60s walked out of the bar holding the cold corpse of a young man.

'My grandson... How did the Caballero family's grandson die... He was the sole heir of the Caballero family...'

Sean remembered the old man.

He had just met and greeted the old man at the ball earlier.

His last name was Caballero, and he was from a local family in Dorodo. It was a mediocre upper-class family.

Unexpectedly, the young man George killed was the heir of the Caballero family. 2

Chapter 1603

Chapter 1603

"Commander Lennon! Commander Lennon! The city defense army killed a member of the Caballero family. You killed my only grandson. You must give me an explanation today!"

The man surnamed Caballero sat on his knees crying as he cradled his grandson's corpse.

The cameras instantly focused on him as the situation got worse.

By tomorrow morning, the news of the city defense army causing a ruckus and the centurion George killing the Caballero family's heir in a fit of rage would probably be all over Dorodo!

The city defense army would also be pushed to the cusp of low public opinion.

'Commander Lennon, you must give justice, or I will consult the higher authorities of Dragon Kingdom and stop supporting the city defense army.'

Mayor Quentin said sternly, looking solemn.

Sean glanced faintly at Quentin before nodding, "Don't worry. I will be impartial. I won't harbor the guilty."

Everyone heard Quentin's conversation with Sean.

Wesley's heart sank instantly while George looked hatefully at Sean.

"Sean! I contributed more than you do! Don't think you can do whatever you want just because you're the commander-in-chief of Dorodo city defense army. I won't accept it!"

George yanked out his bloody sword and pointed it at Sean from afar.

"I'm going to remove you from your position as commander-in-chief today!

I'll let you realize you're just a sleaze who got your position through connections!"

Then George turned to the lackeys and hundreds of city defense soldiers and shouted, "Brothers, take your weapons and fight with me!"

George's lackeys immediately drew their swords from their belts.

Now that things had come to this point, they had no choice but to rebel, or they would never survive.

Many of the city defense soldiers hesitated as they picked up their crossbows.

Suddenly, Sean burst out laughing.

'How dare a mere centurion claim to have contributed a lot? George, you've done nowhere as much as me!

'I was able to become the youngest nine-star commander in Dragon Kingdom. You can't compare what I've done for Dragon Kingdom. Have you never asked your father or heard about my name in Dragon Kingdom?

"As the Guardian God of war, you described me as a sleaze who gets to the top through their connections. What a joke!"

Nine-star commander!

Guardian God of war!

These words immediately shocked everyone when Sean uttered them!

Gregory and Anthony looked at Sean in shock. Even Wesley looked at Sean in disbelief.

They had no idea who Sean was!

They had assumed Sean was only a commander-in-chief who got into Dorodo's city defense army through connections.

They never expected Sean to be the youngest nine-star commander of Dragon Kingdom and the youngest Guardian God of war in Dragon Kingdom's history!

However, how was that possible?

Would a nine-star commander and Guardian God of war come to a remote city like Dorodo in the City- State Union and serve as commander-in-chief of the city defense army with only 3,000 men?

You could even describe it with the phrase "make a molehill out of a mountain"! i

"You're lying! How can you be Dragon Kingdom's nine-star commander, let alone the Guardian God of war!"

George roared like he had lost his mind.

However, the next moment, Sean unsheathed his sword from around his waist and held it high.

The Guardian Sword!

Chapter 1604

Chapter 1604

Everyone's expression changed at the sight of the sword.

They looked up at the time-worn sword with a solemn expression and reverence!

It was because only the Guardian God of war was worthy to use it!

No matter the identity, government post, or rank someone held, they were unqualified to hold it!

The Guardian Sword proved Sean's identity as a nine-star commander and the Guardian God of war!

"Gosh, it's really the Guardian Sword. I didn't see it wrong, did I..."

"So Commander Lennon is really the youngest nine-star commander in Dragon Kingdom's history and also the Guardian God of war?"

"The commander-in-chief of Dorodo's city defense army turns out to be Dragon Kingdom's Guardian God of war! Am I dreaming?"

The crowd went wild.

The reporters surrounding the place were so excited that they could hardly contain themselves.

Gregory and Anthony fell on one knee in front of Sean with a thump. Their hearts sank!

Mayor Quentin had no choice but to take half step back holding his daughter's hand and give Sean a standard military salute.

Anyone in Dragon Kingdom who saw the Guardian God of war must salute him.

It was not because of how fancy the title of Guardian God of war was but because Guardian Gods of war had made incalculable contributions to Dragon Kingdom!

"What do you have to say now?"

Sean slowly put down the Guardian Sword, looking disdainfully at George.

George was on the verge of breaking down.

He looked insane, waving his sword and shouting, "No way! No f*cking way! I don't believe it!"

He then spat and shouted at hundreds of city defense soldiers around him, "Brothers, don't believe him. He's a fake. He's not the Guardian God of war! Take your weapons and strike with me. Once we kill Sean and I become commander-in-chief, I will repay you handsomely!"

However, no city defense soldiers listened to him this time.

The city defense soldiers put away their weapons and distanced themselves from George and his lackeys.

George and his lackeys were suddenly isolated and helpless like islands in the middle of the sea.

"George, you violated military protocol by deploying the city defense army into the city to show off. You caused chaos and negative effects. That is the first crime.

"You killed a Dorodo local and aren't regretful, which is the second crime.

"You sowed discord among the army, offended your superior, and intended to rebel. This is the third crime.

"You should be beheaded with one crime, but you can redeem yourself by doing good service.

"I've decided to behead you for several crimes you committed!"

Every time Sean finished a sentence, Wesley's heart sank a little. When the word "behead" was uttered, he was instantly flustered as he knelt on the ground.

"Commander-in-chief, let him live. He's still young, and he had indeed made many contributions to Dorodo..."

Wesley wanted to intercede for his son.

However, Sean did not give him any chance this time.

"I've told you before that it's your son's last chance. Do you think I'd let him go because of you?"

Sean murderously waved his right hand.

Execute!"

Chapter 1605

Chapter 1605

Once Sean finished speaking, several city defense soldiers marched toward George, drawing the swords around their waists.

The gleaming swords sent out an intense chill and murderous intent, terrifying whoever saw it.

However, onlookers were excited that they raised their right hands and shouted.

"Kill him!

"Kill him!

"Kill him!"

They referred to George, Wesley's son, who was also one of the city defense army's centurions!

Wesley's expression changed dramatically as he quickly rushed up to George, wanting to stop city defense soldiers, who were preparing to execute him.

However, more city defense soldiers stood in his way immediately.

"Commander Jokerman, do you want to disobey Commander Lennon and stop the execution?"

A city defense soldier snapped.

Wesley's heart pounded as his hands shook violently.

He did not want to see his son die in front of him, but he could not fight back.

Sean was surrounded only by Gregory, Anthony, and a squad of 20 city defense soldiers.

However, the 100 city defense soldiers George had gathered were now on Sean's side. They even drew their swords to execute George!

How was he going to fight back?

Although he was not weak, he was already over 50 and nearly 60 years old after all!

"You can't kill me! I'm your superior! I'm your commanding officer! You're my subordinate, and you must obey my orders!"

George grabbed his sword and swung it randomly, trying to force the approaching city defense soldiers to back off.

His lackeys followed closely behind him. After all, they had no chance to surrender now.

However, the encirclement was getting smaller, no matter how much they resisted.

"Do it!"

Sean shouted, and the city defense soldiers sprang into action.

Surrounded by hundreds of people, they finally got the better of George's lackeys.

Several city defense soldiers immediately took advantage of the chaos and knocked George's sword out of his hand. They also slammed the guy to the ground.

Another city defense soldier raised his sword and slashed George's neck.

"No..."

Wesley shouted despairingly but to no avail.

He could only watch his son die at the hands of city defense soldiers.

The bloody beheading was all caught on camera.

It might be the first time Dorodo's city defense army had publicly executed someone under the press' watchful eyes.

The scene would have a huge impact on Dorodo.

"Everybody, I'm Dorodo city defense army's commander-in-chief, Sean Lennon. The incident of a centurion attacking someone that took place last night is now taken care of. The centurion was called George Jokerman. He has been publicly executed for multiple charges, including homicide. The officers who were with him were also executed.

"George's father, Wesley Jokerman, is a chiliarch in Dorodo's city defense army. He misused his men and wasn't smart with the people he was using. That's why this major incident happened. Therefore, he is dishonorably discharged from the army and will never be hired.

"George's personal property will be transferred to the deceased's family as compensation."

Chapter 1606

Chapter 1606

"As commander-in-chief. I'm deeply sorry for the impact this incident had brought to Dorodo. I now promise that Dorodo's city defense army will never deploy into the city except for major incidents and will only protect the entire city just outside Dorodo and secure the homes that citizens depend on."

Lillian blushed slightly as she watched Sean's thin figure and his ordinary yet easy-on-eyes and impressive face on the television news.

"Are you shy, girly?"

A woman in her thirties came over and joked as she sat beside Lillian.

This woman was Ronald's concubine and Lillian's other mother.

She had a better relationship with Lillian, even though she was not her biological mother. It was because her own mother had always been very strict with her.

"Stop it, Mila.'

Lillian shook her head hard and hid her face in her hands.

"Oh, the news is over..."

Once Mila finished speaking, Lillian quickly dropped her hand and looked at the TV screen.

Lillian was annoyed when she saw that the news was over, and Sean had disappeared from the television screen.

"It's your fault..." "Is it my fault that you missed three seconds appreciating him?"

Mila's teasing remarks made Lillian even shyer.

However, she then said, * Little, I gotta say you have good taste. This man is much better than your father... If you do get him, you'll get to enjoy a good life for the rest of your life.

"The problem is that I can't..."

Lillian looked helpless.

The night Sean and Zander came over was her best chance.

Besides that, she had jumped at the chance and even climbed into Sean's bed.

Even so, she failed.

Later, Lillian asked her father, Ronald, to come up with a way for her to stay in the army camp as an errand runner so she could find a way to get in touch with Sean.

However, Sean refused by saying the opposite sex was not allowed to stay in the army camp. The most irritating thing was that her brother Frank was sent to the army camp instead.

Lillian was angry at the thought that her action had helped her brother out instead.

Mila laughed even harder when she saw Lillian's sullen look.

"Come on. Let's not stay at home. Let's go shopping and have some good food."

With that said, Mila yanked Lillian off the couch.

At the same time.

A fondue restaurant downtown.

Sean and Zander were sitting at a table near the window. A pot in the middle of the table was steaming hot, and bright yellow gravy was bubbling inside.

"Commander, hurry and eat. I can't be the only one eating."

Zander urged, a little embarrassed.

This morning, Sean had nothing to do, and Zander was free, so the two of them left the army camp together and headed downtown.

The two entered the fondue restaurant to try it out after seeing it. After all, they were from Dragon Kingdom. The food in the City-State Union was different from that in Dragon Kingdom, so they missed Dragon Kingdom cuisine very much.

Suddenly encountering a Dragon Kingdom-style fondue restaurant, they had to try it out, of course.

However, Sean did not eat much, which made Zander feel bad.

It would be inappropriate for a subordinate to be eating heartily while his immediate superior ate so little.

Chapter 1607

Chapter 1607

"Help yourself. I'll smoke a cigarette and relax. It's too hot."

Sean said, taking out a cigarette.

It dawned on Zander that that was the reason Sean ate so little.

Therefore, he said no more and dug in.

The fondue restaurant was crowded. Business was good, and Sean and Zander sat in the hall.

If it were a Dragon Kingdom restaurant, smoking was not allowed.

However, many people were smoking in the hall, and Sean was not the only one, so Sean just did what they did.

After smoking a cigarette, Sean finally grabbed his cutlery and picked up a few pieces of bread from the fondue.

"What happened earlier was a good thing. George was asking for it, and Wesley was implicated. The father and son's influence had been removed from the army camp.

That way, I've won over Dorodo's city defense army."

Sean exhaled and said, picking up the cold beer on the table and taking a swig.

"Yes, you've thought of everything, Commander."

Zander said excitedly.

He could not help feeling excited.

It was because they had only arrived in Dorodo for a week, and Sean had won over the entire army in such a short time, including Gregory and Anthony. They also got rid of Wesley and George.

It was a good thing, whichever way you looked at it

Zander had estimated the process would take at least a month or two.

However, it took Sean only a week to do it.

He had always had faith in Sean, but now it seemed he had underestimated Sean's wit, strength, and resourcefulness.

On top of that, the chiliarch position became vacant after Wesley and his son lost power.

Zander did not have a position in the city defense army earlier, so Sean asked him to take over as chiliarch.

Therefore, Zander was now one of Dorodo's three chiliarchs, in charge of 1,000 city defense soldiers!

Sean handled the chaos George caused in Dorodo's downtown area well.

The entire Dorodo had a good impression of the city defense army and even more of Sean, who was praised all over the city.

Whoever spoke of him would give him the thumbs up and call him a good soldier or a just and wise commander.

The bond between the city defense army and the mayor had grown closer. You could say that they were in their honeymoon period. Everything was looking good.

Sean brought about all this!

With that in mind, Zander was grateful for his decision to follow Sean.

His choice was not wrong!

"Hurry and eat. Why are you looking at me?"

Sean urged, looking puzzledly at the dazed Zander.

"Oh, sorry. I got distracted."

Zander said and went on dipping and eating.

There was enough food on the table for at least four people, but in Zander's opinion, they were just enough to fill his stomach.

With Sean around, it was not enough, so they would need more food later.

Just then, there was suddenly a scream.

"Mr. Lennon! Mr. Young! What are you doing here?"

Sean and Zander looked up, though the person did not mention their name. They immediately saw a young woman they were familiar with-it was none other than Lillian.

Chapter 1608

Chapter 1608

Lillian was not alone. She was accompanied by a woman in her thirties.

Sean and Zander also knew the woman, having met her at Ronald's house. She was Mila Martinez, Ronald's concubine.

Mila was a unique name. The name had the distinctive style of the City-State Union, but Mila was not a pure local. She had Dragon Kingdom blood flowing in her.

"It's you."

Sean's reaction was indifferent. He gave them a slight nod and prepared to continue eating his fondue with Zander.

However, Lillian came arm-in-arm with Mila and stood before them.

"I didn't expect to see you here, Mr. Lennon and Mr. Young..."

You don't mind me calling you that, do you?"

Lillian asked, excited but worried.

After all, Sean was the city defense army's commander-in-chief. He had the highest position in the city. Only the mayor Quentin could match him.

Therefore, Lillian was afraid that anything she said or did would upset this 'big shot'.

However, Sean did not mind her calling him that. He just found the woman a little annoying.

"Not at all."

Zander said excitedly.

Sean said, forcing a smile.

Zander looked at Mila and asked, 'Mrs. Townsend, are you and your daughter here for fondue?' "Yeah, yes, but I didn't expect to run into you two."

Mila replied with a nod.

Just then, a waiter walked over.

"Excuse me. We're full now. Why don't you wait in the waiting area for a while?"

Lillian and Mila looked embarrassed the moment the waitress finished speaking.

Sean said nothing, and Zander hesitated slightly before asking, "Why don't you join us?"

Zander was looking at Sean while asking Mila and Lillian.

If Sean refused to have fondue with these two women, he would have gotten up and made up some excuse to leave.

That way, they had an excuse to avoid them.

However, Sean did not do that. After all, Ronald was a weapons dealer making huge deals with the city defense army. There was no need to embarrass him over such small things.

It was not a big deal to have a meal together.

"Can we, Mr. Lennon?"

Mila asked, looking at Sean. She was a woman but was smart enough to know that Sean was the one to make the final decision, not Zander.

"Why not?"

Sean said with a smile.

Zander froze slightly, but he quickly figured it out. Then he said to the waitress, ' Add two more chairs, please. We're dining together.' "Oh, okay, hold on.'

The waitress left in a hurry.

Soon they added two chairs and Lillian and Mila sat down together at the table.

It was unknown whether it was intentional, but Mila beat Lillian to the seat beside Zander, so Lillian could only sit next to Sean.

Of course, Lillian was happy with the result. She knew Mila was creating opportunities for her.

However, she was nervous when she sat down next to Sean. She wanted to bring him a glass of wine but found that her hand could not stop shaking. 2

Chapter 1609

Chapter 1609

Lillian was embarrassed.

She could not even hold the wine bottle steadily. Her hand shook so much that it was embarrassing.

However, Sean remained calm and did not show the disgust that Lillian had expected.

He took the wine bottle from Lillian's hand and poured himself and Lillian a glass.

"Am I that scary to you?"

Sean asked.

Lillian shook her head at Sean's words. Then she blushed and said, "I'm just too nervous."

"It's just a meal. What's there to be nervous about?"

Sean said casually.

Mila smiled and touched Lillian's head to encourage her.

Zander's expression was unfazed.

He was usually calm, so he would not laugh under such circumstances.

After a while, Lillian finally felt less nervous and dared to talk to Sean.

During their chat, Sean also learned more about the weapons dealer, Ronald.

It turned out that Ronald not only dealt with Dorodo's city defense army but also sold weapons on Dorodo's black market.

Not counting Dorodo's city defense army, Ronald occupied about 40% of Dorodo's weapons market.

The remaining 60% were held by another weapons dealer.

The weapons dealer's name was Alfie Wagner.

Like Ronald, Alfie was from Dragon Kingdom and had settled down here. He also ran a weapons business from scratch. Alfie could be said to be Ronald's strongest competitor.

Ronald had lost many times in his competition with Alfie over the weapons business. Ronald would never have been able to compete with Alfie were it not for the fact that he supplied weapons to the city defense army and thus made a large portion of his profits outside the market.

Alfie also had designs on the city defense army, wanting to negotiate a weapons deal with the city defense army.

However, Alfie had approached the former commander-in-chief several times before but to no avail. Ronald was still the only weapons dealer working with Dorodo's city defense army.

"So Alfie and the Townsend family are enemies?"

Sean asked.

Lillian nodded, but Mila shook her head.

"What is it then?"

Zander asked for Sean.

Mila glanced at Lillian and then explained, "Well, our families have indeed been competing for years, but Alfie has wanted to work with us in the last two years."

"Work with you?"

Sean looked interested.

Mila nodded and continued, "Yes, Alfie seems to want to team up with my husband to control Dorodo's weapons market. But my husband did not agree nor disagree in order to prevent becoming his enemy."

Hearing Mila's words, Sean nodded and replied with an "Oh".

Mila then added, "That's not all. Alfie has a son named Lorenzo Wagner. He wants to marry the Townsend family and join forces in this way."

Chapter 1610

Chapter 1610

Hearing Mila's words, Sean had a faint intuition.

The woman Lorenzo had his eye on was most likely Lillian sitting next to him.

Sure enough, Mila quickly added, "Alfie asked Lili to marry his son, Lorenzo, but Lili never said yes. My husband did not agree since Lili disagreed. Although he's greedy for money, he won't trade his daughter's happiness for money."

Sean smiled. His impression of Ronald had improved slightly.

Ronald was stingy and greedy for money, but this guy refused to use his daughter in exchange for money. You could tell from there that his daughter was important.

Zander nodded and said, "Your husband has his redeeming qualities."

Mila beamed when Zander praised her husband.

Lillian said in a disgusted voice, "I will never marry that Lorenzo. He's a total scumbag. He has a different woman every day. I would regret it for the rest of my life if I married him."

"Is this Lorenzo that bad?"

Sean was not one to gossip. He just wanted to learn more about Lorenzo and his father.

Mila nodded heavily and said, "That's why the Townsend family didn't agree to marry the Wagner family. That Lorenzo is a real scumbag, and there's probably no man in the world more despicable than him when it comes to women."

"Alright."

Sean nodded with a smile.

The City-State Union was a strange place. Speak of the devil, and he would appear.

As soon as they finished speaking, a shout came from the fondue restaurant's entrance.

"Lillian, what are you doing here? And you're eating with other men!"

Lillian and Mila turned around together to look, and a ghastly expression appeared on the two women's faces.

"That's Lorenzo!"

Sean and Zander looked over to see Lorenzo standing before the fondue restaurant's entrance.

Lorenzo was young, only in his early twenties. Maybe only a year or two older than Sean. 1

Most importantly, he dressed luxuriously. The clothes he wore were also inlaid with accessories like jewels. He dressed just like a fancy pillow.

Moreover, his expression was haughty. He exuded arrogance from head to foot. You could tell he was a hothead who had never experienced the harshness of life.

Lorenzo was not alone. He was accompanied by two burly men wearing sunglasses.

'Lillian! You're out of line. I invited you to dinner several times, and you refused to join me. Now you're here with Mila eating fondue with another man. Are you trying to humiliate me? Lillian, I won't go easy on you if you don't give me a good explanation today!"

Lorenzo said and strode over.

The fondue restaurant's customers knew something was wrong and rushed to the cashier to settle their bills. Some even left without paying.

Seeing that something was wrong, several waiters came over to stop them.

However, Lorenzo's two bodyguards shoved them to the ground.

"F*ck off. Get out of the way!"

Lorenzo snarled, his face angry and contemptuous.

Lillian panicked slightly, but the thought of Sean sitting right next to her instantly calmed her down.

"Lorenzo, what do you want? I warn you not to be reckless, or you cant bear the responsibility if anything goes wrong!"

Lillian warned loudly, but Lorenzo kept moving closer toward her.