

The Guardian's Sword #Chapter 1721 - Read The Guardian's Sword Chapter 1721

Chapter 1721

"Then I'll leave it to you."

After chatting for a while, Sean and Lisha said goodbye to each other and left separately.

Although they were all living in the mayor's residence, Sean and the other members of the diplomatic convoy lived in rooms located in the northwest corner, while Lisha lived in the center of the main residence, which was very close to where Claremento resided.

The two were far apart and in opposite directions.

After watching Lisha leave, Sean shook his head and walked towards his own room.

Lisha was indeed a good woman.

She had dazzling golden hair, crystal-clear blue eyes like gemstones, a gorgeous face, and a hot figure unique to women in the city-state. Moreover, she had a prominent identity and status, as well as a wealthy and strong family background.

All of this made her shine like a dazzling jewel.

What was the difference between such a woman and a princess of the Middle Ages?

Even compared to Shania, Lisha was slightly inferior. However, Sean did not fall in love with Lisha, he only held a slight sense of gratitude and affection toward her.

As soon as Sean stepped into his room, he sensed that there was someone inside.

"Who's it?!"

With a snap, Sean turned on the lights and saw Shania, Uriah, and Zander sneaking behind the closet in his room.

"I've told you all before, you can't scare the Commander," Zander said with a great deal of helplessness.

Shania stuck out her tongue and said, "Mr. Lennon's senses are so sensitive. Sigh... Although it's very powerful, it also lacks some fun."

Uriah asked excitedly, "Is this the premonition of danger you've developed through the trials of life and death? Commander Lennon, can you teach me?"

Sean was at a loss for words.

These two people were starting to bother him, and even Zander was showing signs of being influenced by them.

"Sorry, Commander, I've tried to persuade them, but it's just..." Zander approached Sean and said.

"It's okay..." Sean waved his hand and then sat down on the chair, and Zander quickly brought him a glass of ice water.

After taking a sip of water, Sean said, "Ms. Green, Uriah, are you guys so bored that you even hide in my room to try and scare me? You might as well find something to do for yourselves."

"No choice, there's nothing we can do here. It's just so boring. I just want to go back to Dorodo as soon as possible. At least in Dorodo, I can do whatever I want."

Shania and Sean were not the same.

Although Shania's status was extremely prestigious and comparable to Sean's, she did not have the strong power that Sean possessed. Therefore, she could only stay in the mayor's residence and could not go out at will.

This was for her safety and to avoid any accidents.

After all, if Shania left the mayor's residence and encountered danger outside, even to the point of losing her life, it was foreseeable that a fierce battle between Dorodo and the Crosac would immediately erupt.

In contrast, if Sean went out, there would not have such an impact as he would not be in any danger at all.

"How're you and Lisha getting along?" Shania suddenly asked with a sly look in her eyes as she scrutinized Sean.

"What do you mean by 'getting along'? We're just ordinary friends. We only met once before, so we're acquainted," Sean frowned and replied.

"Explanation is just sophistry, and sophistry is the truth," said Shania, spouting some nonsense she had learned from somewhere.

Chapter 1722

Sean glanced expressionlessly at Shania and then this mischievous girl immediately shut her mouth obediently.

After dinner, Sean returned to his room. Zander followed him, perhaps to report something, and Sean had some questions for him as well.

Sean had been away from the mayor's residence all day today, and who knew if anything bad had happened here after he left?

"Commander..." Zander said as he approached Sean.

"Have a seat," Sean said as he pulled over a chair.

Zander did not refuse and sat down on the chair. He then began to report his observations to Sean in detail.

"Commander, after my observations these past few days, I found that the residents of Crosac are generally friendly towards Dorodo, especially towards the people from Dragon Kingdom. However, there're also some unfriendly ones, mostly the native residents of the alliance, particularly the several big families of Crosac."

"The several big families of Crosac harbor some hostility towards Dorodo, and among them, the Kaygene family has the most hostility towards Dorodo."

Hearing this, Sean frowned slightly.

The Kaygene family?

Rapido was the young master of the Kaygene family.

It seemed that Rapido's hostility towards him after meeting him today was not just because he saw him as a love rival, but also because of the influence of the Kaygene family.

"What about the military?" Sean asked.

Zander immediately replied, "The attitudes of Crosac's city defense army, Hibiscus Mercenary Regiment, and Edelweiss Mercenary Regiment towards Dorodo are not the same. Crosac's city defense army tends to be friendly, while Hibiscus Mercenary Regiment and Edelweiss Mercenary Regiment are slightly cold and even hostile."

Of course it was.

Although Hibiscus Mercenary Regiment and Edelweiss Mercenary Regiment were not part of Black Gold Flower Mercenary Regiment as a whole, all three mercenary regiments belonged to Crosac.

Black Gold Flower Mercenary Regiment was wiped out by the city defense army of Dorodo. Therefore, it would be strange if Hibiscus Mercenary Regiment and Edelweiss Mercenary Regiment did not have a favorable attitude towards Dorodo City.

"Okay, I understand..." Sean nodded.

The purpose of the diplomatic convoy's visit to Crosac this time was two. First, it was to eliminate the impact and misunderstandings caused by the previous war and to ease the relationship between the cities of Dorodo and Crosac.

Second, it was to observe the attitude of Crosac towards Dorodo and to make preparations accordingly.

Now it seemed that the situation was very complicated.

"You've worked hard, Zander. Leave the rest to me, and you don't have to worry about it," Sean said with a smile.

Zander thought for a moment and asked, "Commander, will there be a war between Dorodo and Crosac?"

"It's still unclear. The situation is uncertain, but I'll try to avoid it as much as possible. After all, the cost of war is too high," Sean sighed.

Zander also felt the same way when he heard Sean's words.

The cost of the war was undoubtedly huge. Even if they won the battle, the cost will still be very high.

Zander had followed Sean in over a hundred battles, all of which were victories. Even in victory, however, he felt sorrow as he watched his comrades fall one by one in a pool of blood and die in the trenches, each of whom he trusted and valued.

"Alright, go rest. If there's anything, I'll notify you immediately," Sean said with a smile.

Zander nodded and then turned and left.

Chapter 1723

Sean and Lisha left the mayor's residence and headed to the Harvey Tower to attend the auction organized by the Harvey Chamber of Commerce.

The Harvey Tower was located near the central square in the city center. Lisha drove Sean to the destination quickly.

After they left the parking lot, they arrived at the entrance of the Harvey Tower. However, just as they stepped onto the steps, two security guards in suits stopped Sean and Lisha.

"Are you guys here to attend the auction?" A security guard asked, with a suspicious expression on his face and constantly sizing up Sean.

It was because Sean's attire was too ordinary. He did not have a single designer brand from head to toe, and he even had a long sword hanging from his waist. Hence, such attire naturally aroused suspicion.

Most importantly, Lisha was dressed elegantly and radiantly.

When Sean and Lisha were standing together, they were like people from two different worlds, and the difference could be described as heaven and earth.

"Of course," Lisha said somewhat annoyed and then took out an invitation card from her bag.

The security guard took the invitation and looked at it, then understood Lisha's identity.

"Oh, you're the mayor's daughter. Please forgive us for our impoliteness," The two security guards said together with a fawning smile.

Lisha frowned and said, "Can you guys please get out of the way?"

However, the two security guards still stood in front of Lisha and Sean, not letting them pass.

"You guys don't want to let me in?" Lisha asked angrily.

The two security guards hesitated for a moment before saying helplessly, "Ms. Lisha, we have rules for the auction. Only invited guests are allowed in, and no bodyguards or attendants are allowed."

Bodyguards?

Attendants?

These two security guards seemed to have mistaken Sean for Lisha's bodyguard or attendant!

Upon hearing these words, Sean did not feel anything in particular, but Lisha was already extremely angry.

"He's not my bodyguard, he's my friend!" Lisha said unhappily, casting an angry look at the two security guards.

However, the two security guards still did not move out of the way. "This is the rule, Ms. Lisha, please don't make it difficult for us."

"I said he's not my bodyguard, he's my friend, my companion!"

Lisha stomped her foot and then angrily took out her phone. "Just you wait, this isn't over yet!"

After saying that, Lisha made a phone call.

"Hey, Harvey, come out now! Your people are stopping me from entering. Is this your intention? You better give me a good explanation!"

Less than three minutes after making the call, a young man in a black suit with a red tie, sweating profusely, ran out of the Harvey Tower.

This young man was Harvey Connor, the young master of the Harvey Chamber of Commerce and the organizer of today's auction.

The Harvey Group was previously known as the Connor Group, and the chairman of the group, Mr. Connor, was very excited to have a son in his old age. Therefore, in his happiness, he changed the name of the group from Connor Group to Harvey Group.

Undoubtedly, in the future, Harvey Connor would take over the helm of the Harvey Group and become the person with the highest power and authority in the group. Otherwise, changing the name would be in vain.

Chapter 1724

After Harvey came out of the building, he quickly walked over to Lisha.

"I'm sorry, Ms. Lisha, it's my fault for not arranging things properly," Harvey apologized with a smile, then turned around and gave an angry look to the two security guards.

These two guys were too foolish as they did not know how to discern situations.

Their thinking was too rigid, and they had no judgment at all!

If he had known this would happen, he would never have let these two guys greet guests at the entrance.

"You two idiots! Go collect your final paychecks and get out of here immediately!" Harvey ordered without hesitation.

The two security guards immediately showed a pitiful look and looked at Harvey with pleading eyes.

"Young Master Connor, we were just following your orders..."

"Yes, Young Master Connor, it's not our fault..."

The two security guards said helplessly.

Harvey's face turned livid with anger and he shouted, "How dare you talk back? This is outrageous!"

Just then, a calm voice suddenly sounded.

"It's okay, they're just doing their work. This can't be entirely their fault."

Who else could it be besides Sean who spoke?

Harvey turned his head and asked, "Who're you..."

"He's Sean Lennon, the representative of the diplomatic convoy, and also the commander-in-chief of Dorodo's city defense army," Lisha introduced immediately.

Upon hearing this, Harvey's face changed slightly, and he immediately apologized respectfully to Sean, "I'm really sorry, I didn't recognize Commander Lennon."

"Never mind..." Sean said lightly.

Harvey straightened up and then turned around to the two security guards and said, "You guys are so stupid, and don't even know how to be good with people. Then learn your lesson from now on! Since Commander Lennon spoke up for both of you, I won't fire you, but your bonus for this month is canceled!"

"Yes yes yes!"

"Thank you, Young Master Connor!"

The two security guards breathed a sigh of relief. Although they were very upset about losing their bonus, at least it was better than getting fired.

Harvey's face stiffened as he said, "I said you guys are stupid, and you're really stupid... It was Commander Lennon who spoke up for both of you, you should thank Commander Lennon, not me!"

These two security guards suddenly realized their mistake and quickly came over to Sean, nodding and bowing to express their gratitude.

"Alright, that's enough." Sean felt very embarrassed.

Harvey was indeed very enthusiastic toward him, but his enthusiasm was over the top.

It seemed that what Zander said yesterday was true.

The Dragon Kingdom descendants of Crosac were friendly towards Dorodo and even with a favorable impression, and Harvey was of Dragon Kingdom descent.

"It's getting late. The auction is about to start. Let's go in quickly," Lisha said with a smile.

"Okay." Harvey made a please gesture and said, "Please follow me..."

They entered the Harvey Tower and took the elevator to the top floor, where the auction hall was located.

The spacious hall was already full of people, with at least more than a hundred guests attending the auction, and there was even a VIP room on the second floor specifically prepared for distinguished guests.

"Please follow me upstairs. We've arranged a top-notch VIP room for both of you, and we guarantee that you'll..."

Chapter 1725

Harvey was excitedly speaking, but before he could finish, Sean politely declined. "That's not necessary, Mr. Connor. We'll sit in the auction hall."

Of course, Lisha would not argue with Sean's decision, and she also thought that sitting in the auction hall on the first floor would be more lively than in a private room.

Although the private room had comfortable sofas and tea and snacks, how could Lisha, as the daughter of the mayor, care about such things?

"Since Mr. Lennon has decided to sit in the auction hall on the first floor, let's just sit there. The private rooms on the second floor can be reserved for even more distinguished guests."

Upon hearing Lisha's words, Harvey's face was full of bitter smiles.

Lisha was the daughter of the mayor, and Sean was the commander-in-chief of the city defense army of Dorodo, making them the two giants of Dorodo.

There were simply no guests in Crosac who could match their status. In fact, only the mayor of Crosac, Claremento Crosac, coming here in person could slightly surpass Sean and Lisha in terms of status.

As for the other guests, how could their status compare to Lisha's?

However, since Sean and Lisha had made their decision, Harvey naturally could not argue anymore.

He immediately nodded in agreement and said, "Sure, no problem. Ms. Lisha, Commander Lennon, you can sit wherever you like."

Sean looked around the auction hall and fixed his gaze on two seats in the corner. "Let's sit there..."

After finishing speaking, Sean pulled Lisha along and walked towards the corner.

Harvey could only smile bitterly and say nothing.

It was surprising that the commander-in-chief of Dorodo's city defense army was so low-key.

Sean and Lisha quickly took their seats. The seats on the first floor of the auction hall were almost full, and it seemed that most of the expected guests had arrived.

After exchanging a few words, Harvey left. After all, as the organizer of the auction, he had to deal with various matters backstage and could not accompany Sean and Lisha here.

Five minutes passed, and the auction finally began.

The auctioneer on stage, who started with an opening speech and began to heat up the atmosphere, was a hot woman in her thirties.

This woman was extremely curvaceous. Her body was well-proportioned, and the slim-fitting dress she wore seemed as if it could burst open at any moment, revealing her snowy white skin.

"This female auctioneer is quite famous in our Crosac, and many wealthy merchants pursue her," Lisha gossiped.

Sean smiled and said, "I didn't expect you to be interested in this kind of thing."

"As a woman, I'm naturally interested in gossip," Lisha admitted candidly.

The first auction item was a painting piece by a famous artist from Dragon Kingdom.

The female auctioneer on stage hyped up the piece, making it seem as if it was rare and precious. The starting price was one million, and each bid must not be less than ten thousand.

"One million and five hundred thousand!" As soon as the starting price was announced, Lisha immediately raised her paddle and added five hundred thousand.

The large auction hall immediately fell silent.

All the guests were curious and looked in Lisha's direction. However, Lisha quickly pulled down the veil to cover her face, so no one could see her appearance and naturally could not know who she was.

"Who's this young lady who made such a generous offer?"

"It's not considered generous. The final transaction price of this painting piece should be around two and a half to three million. Although adding five hundred thousand in one bid is generous, it's still far from the estimated final transaction price."

"Why don't you bid then?"

Various discussions quietly arose. Some positive, some negative.

Lisha was very happy to hear this and felt a little bit proud.

"You're interested in this painting?" Sean asked in confusion.

Chapter 1726

Lisha indeed had a strong interest in the culture of Dragon Kingdom, but only in terms of food and cultural landscapes, which was why she frequently visited the mainland of Dragon Kingdom as a tourist.

However, Sean had never heard her mention her interest in paintings before.

Lisha shook her head with a smile and said, "I'm not interested. I just want to participate in the auction."

"Oh, I see," Sean nodded slightly.

"Ms. Fifty-five bids one million five hundred thousand. Is there anyone willing to bid higher?"

"One million five hundred thousand going once!"

"One million five hundred thousand going twice!"

"One..."

Before the female auctioneer on the stage could announce the sale, someone else made a bid from below.

"I bid one million six hundred thousand!"

With this shout, the auction hall became lively again.

"I bid one million six hundred and fifty thousand!"

"I bid one million six hundred and sixty thousand!"

"I bid one million seven hundred thousand!"

"Two million!"

There was silence again for a moment. However, after a while, someone started bidding again.

"Two million and fifty thousand!"

"Two million two hundred thousand!"

"Two million three hundred thousand!"

In the end, the painting was sold to a wealthy man with a big belly for 2.7 million.

Someone had just commented that the estimated transaction price of the painting was probably between 2.5 million and 3 million, and the actual transaction price had indeed fallen within that range.

It seemed that the person who commented was an expert in auctions, with a very sharp eye for the market.

Next up was the second auction item.

This auction item was a weapon, a gorgeous longsword.

The entire longsword was made of refined steel and was very beautiful. The most important thing was that the handle and the part of the blade near the handle were inlaid with seven gems of different colors.

"This long sword was crafted by our famous Crosac artisans using not only traditional forging techniques but also adorned with precious gemstones. All seven gemstones are certified, so there's no need to worry about fake products. This long sword is called the Seven Star Sword, with a starting price of three million, and each bid cannot be less than fifty thousand!"

As soon as the long sword appeared, the atmosphere in the auction hall suddenly became lively.

Anyone could tell that this long sword was indeed a rare and valuable item. Although it could not be used as a weapon, it was an expensive decoration and artwork.

If someone were to wear it, they would definitely look very impressive and stylish.

Lisha glanced at the Seven Star Sword on the stage, then looked at the Guardian Sword on Sean's waist.

Compared with the incomparably gorgeous Seven Star Sword, the Guardian Sword on Sean's waist looked too ordinary, without any decoration and a very simple and ancient style, just like an imitation that could be seen everywhere.

However, Lisha would never forget the stunning scene yesterday when Sean drew the Guardian Sword from its scabbard.

"Do you want to bid this time? Your father, Claremento, is a general. He should like this kind of weapon," Sean said with a smile.

Lisha thought for a while, then nodded and said, "Hmm, indeed... Although this sword is all style but no substance and cannot be used as a weapon, it's of great value as an artwork."

At this moment, there were already many people in the auction hall competing to bid.

"Three million and two hundred thousand!"

"I bid three million and three hundred thousand. Don't try to compete with me!"

Chapter 1727

"This is an auction, whoever has the money gets it. If you don't want others to compete with you, then let your money do the talking!"

"I bid three million and five hundred thousand!"

The chaotic scene in the hall was incredibly lively, just like a marketplace.

It had to be said that the female auctioneer on the stage was really good at creating hype, and the auction items this time were also very impressive, easily attracting the attention of the guests present.

"Three million and five hundred thousand going once!"

"Three million and five hundred thousand going twice!"

"Three million and five hundred thousand sol..."

Just as the female auctioneer was about to drop the hammer, Lisha suddenly raised her No. 55 paddle and shouted, "I bid five million!"

The entire audience in the auction hall turned their heads and looked at Lisha in unison.

Bidding an additional 1.5 million at once was definitely surprising to them. Besides, Lisha's voice sounded so young, which made them even more amazed.

Which wealthy family was this girl from?

She's really generous with her money.

This time, Lisha directly lifted the veil on her face, revealing her beautiful and smooth pretty face.

Seeing Lisha's face, many people in the audience recognized her identity.

"It's the mayor's daughter!"

"It's Ms. Lisha! Ms. Lisha actually came to participate in the auction? Unbelievable!"

"So it was Ms. Lisha who made the bid, no wonder..."

Such discussions were heard one after another in the auction hall.

Lisha was very happy in her heart. Although there was suspicion of using her status to suppress others, her ultimate goal was to win this Seven Star Sword.

As long as she got the Seven Star Sword, it was better than anything.

After Lisha revealed her identity, none of the guests in attendance competed with her bid.

They all knew that Lisha was the eldest daughter of the mayor, and who would dare to disrespect her?

After all, Lisa represented the mayor, Claremento Crosac, and none of the guests here dared to oppose him!

The female auctioneer on stage was very helpless after seeing this scene.

The estimated transaction price for this Seven Star Sword was at least six to eight million, but now, because of Lisha, no one dared to compete with her. As a result, this Seven Star Sword could only fall into Lisha's hands for five million.

In terms of the auction and the owner of the Seven Star Sword, this was certainly a loss, and it was not a small one.

At this moment, however, neither the organizer of the auction nor the owner of the sword could stop the auction, otherwise, this auction would become the biggest joke in Crosac this year.

"Ms. Fifty-five bids five million. Is there anyone who can bid higher than her? If not, this Seven Star Sword will belong to Ms. Fifty-five?"

Although knowing that none of the guests in attendance would compete with Lisha, the female auctioneer still asked out of habit. This was also the process of the auction.

After waiting for a while and seeing no one bidding, the female auctioneer clenched the auction hammer in her hand.

"Five million going once!"

"Five million going twice!"

"No one else is bidding? This is your last chance.... Five million sol..."

Just as the female auctioneer was about to drop the hammer, a woman's voice suddenly came from the private room on the second floor

"I bid six million!"

Six million!

It was one million more than the price Lisha had offered!

Most importantly, someone dared to compete with Lisha!

All the guests in the auction hall on the first floor showed surprised expressions. They looked at the private room on the second floor where the voice came from in disbelief, unable to believe that someone would dare to oppose Lisha.

Chapter 1728

Ms. Lisha is the eldest daughter of Claremento Crosac, the mayor!

Who's the woman in that private room? She must have lost her mind to compete against Ms. Lisha!

Doesn't she know that offending Ms. Lisha means she might not be able to stay in Crosac anymore?

These were what all the guests in the auction hall on the first floor were thinking.

Lisha also seemed to be caught off guard as well. She had already revealed her identity and offered a high price, but there were still someone who dared to compete with her. This unexpected turn of events left her stunned for a moment before she came to her senses.

"Someone is actually competing with you..." Sean said with a smile.

Lisha was a little angry at first, but after hearing Sean's words, her mood quickly calmed down.

Yes, what could she do even if she's the mayor's, Claremento Crosac, daughter?

The auction was an open and fair competition based on money, and using one's status to oppress others was too domineering and would make people feel uncomfortable. Therefore, it was inevitable for someone to compete against her.

After adjusting her mentality, Lisha immediately raised the paddle in her hand again and said, "I bid seven million!"

"Eight million!" The voice of a woman came again from the private room on the second floor.

Eight million!

She had added a whole million more than Lisha's bid!

Lisha bit her lip and said, "Nine million!"

"Ten million!" The woman from the private room on the second floor shouted another price.

Lisha tightly clenched the handle of her bidding paddle with an expression that looked very unpleasant.

She just adjusted her mentality, but now it had collapsed again.

Suddenly, Sean patted Lisha's shoulder and said, "You don't have to buy it. Maybe your father wouldn't like this sword?"

"That's true..." Lisha smiled, but then suddenly raised her paddle, "Fifteen million!"

Wow!

The guests in the auction hall on the first floor were collectively shocked.

Just a moment ago it was only ten million, and now it had jumped to 15 million!

It seemed that Lisha had decided to compete with the woman in the private room on the second floor. This had gone beyond normal bidding wars or competition.

It was a battle of wills!

The female auctioneer on stage was extremely excited. She had been prepared to sell the Seven Star Sword for a low price, but now a woman suddenly emerged and stubbornly competed with Lisha, raising the price of the Seven Star Sword from five million to 15 million.

This was too good to be true!

The auctioneer could receive a commission from the auctioned items. Although one-thousandth of a commission was not much, it was already quite considerable in such a sky-high price situation!

Silence...

Still silence...

After a while, the voice of the woman in the private room on the second floor sounded again.

"Twenty million!" The woman had indeed raised the bid again!

All the guests looked at Lisha, wanting to see her reaction.

Would she give up?

Or would she continue to bid and refuse to lose?

Would Lisha raise the bid again?

She was not a foolish person!

The true value of this Seven Star Sword should be between six to eight million. Even with some deviation, it should not be too far-fetched. However, now the price had been inflated to 20 million!

Anyone who bought this sword for 20 million was definitely out of their mind!

Chapter 1729

As soon as the words were spoken, Lisha lowered her veil.

In the second-floor private room, Aria, who was sitting on a single sofa holding a glass of red wine with a smile on her face, suddenly froze.

Lisha's not going to bid anymore?

She actually stopped bidding?

How could she not bid?

Did she not really need of buying this Seven Star Sword?

D*mn it!

Aria did not even want to buy the Seven Star Sword in the first place, but because Lisha revealed her identity and she knew that Lisha was the buyer, she decided to compete with her.

She wanted to drive up the price so that Lisha could not get the Seven Star Sword at a lower cost.

Now, however, the price had indeed gone up, yet Lisha had stopped bidding, now the Seven Star Sword landed in Aria's hands at an exorbitant price of 20 million dollars.

D*mn it, she fooled me!

Aria was furious, but now she could not change her mind.

"Miss..." Even Lowich's expression was also extremely bad.

"Shut up!" Aria scolded angrily.

The second auction item unexpectedly belonged to Aria at a high price. She was the sucker this time.

The third auction item was now on the auction block.

It was a necklace named Shimmering Dawn, and the guests in attendance had already estimated its value without the female auctioneer introducing it.

Shimmering Dawn was a series of high-end jewelry made by the famous jewelry brand, Hertz Jewelry.

This Shimmering Dawn series was made up of a necklace, a ring, a pair of earrings, and a bracelet. The lowest- priced item in the Shimmering Dawn series, a pair of earrings, was sold for 13 million at the Mystic Auction.

Hence, by analogy, it was possible to estimate the prices of the necklace, ring, and bracelet.

At this moment, the female auctioneer had not even introduced it yet, but the guests below were already getting excited and preparing to bid. After all, the words 'Shimmering Dawn' were very well- known, and this set of jewelry, even as individual pieces, was highly collectible.

If it were integrated into a set, it would be truly extraordinary!

"I think I don't need to say more about the necklace of Shimmering Dawn series. Starting bid is five million, and each bid must not be less than one hundred thousand!"

As soon as the female auctioneer's voice fell, there were voices of bidding all over the audience.

"I bid five million five hundred and fifty thousand!"

"I bid six million!"

"Six million three hundred thousand!"

"Six million four hundred thousand!"

"Seven million!"

"Eight million!"

In just a short moment, the price of the necklace of the Shimmering Dawn series had been raised to eight million by those enthusiastic bidders. Moreover, the upward trend of the price had not yet reached its end.

"What a beautiful necklace... But I'm not interested."

Lisha's tone sounded very excited in the first half of her words, but it became dull and uninterested in the second half. The sudden change in tone was too abrupt, and Sean could not accept it for a while.

"I thought all you women would love this kind of sky-high priced jewelry," Sean said.

Lisha shook her head and said, "Yes, women do love it, but I already have more than a dozen of my own necklaces, several of which are no cheaper than the Shimmering Dawn, so I don't need it."

"Uh, I see..."

Hearing this, Sean muttered in his heart.

She was indeed a rich girl, having several necklaces like this...

The Shimmering Dawn necklace was quickly sold for 156 million, which was not cheap compared to the Shimmering Dawn earrings, but not expensive either.

Next up was the fourth auction item.

Surprisingly, it was a small round shield. The silver shield shone brilliantly under the light and was obviously not an ordinary item.

Chapter 1730

The round shield was the size of a washbasin, with a silver-white body and almost entirely made of metal except for the handle. Moreover, the surface of the shield had complex and exquisite patterns, clearly the work of a masterful carving technique.

Most importantly, there were circles of silver metal in the center of the shield, slightly different from other areas.

"This small round shield was crafted by our renowned Crosac craftsman, Mr. Saint. You can see Mr. Saint's exquisite craftsmanship and beautiful carving techniques on this shield.."

"In addition, the center of the shield is also made of platinum, which further enhances the style of the entire shield. The starting price of this small round shield is two million, and each bid must not be less than ten thousand!" The female auctioneer exclaimed excitedly on stage.

This small round shield was indeed excellent, not only beautiful but also a very high-end work of art that could also be used as a weapon.

This round shield was not a weapon, therefore, it was unlike the long sword just now. Even without any force-dispersing structure, a metal round shield had very strong defensive capabilities.

Therefore, this small round shield had more practical value than the Seven Star Sword just now.

However, the small round shield did not have anything like a gemstone inlaid, so it could not compare in terms of rarity with the Seven Star Sword. This could be seen from its starting price and bidding rules.

At this moment, as soon as the female auctioneer finished speaking, someone immediately shouted.

"I bid two million and fifty thousand!"

"I bid two million and one hundred thousand!"

"I bid two million and two hundred thousand!"

In no time, the price of the small round shield soared to around three million.

However, this was only the starting price of the Seven Star Sword and not an exaggeration, and it was still far from the estimated transaction price of the small round shield.

Just then, Lisha suddenly raised her voice and said, "I bid five million!"

Five million!

Suddenly, the entire auction hall fell silent.

Everyone turned to look at Lisha, no one expecting her to speak up, let alone offer such a high price.

Five million dollars was already considered a high price for this small round shield. However, as the guests present knew Lisha's identity, no one challenged her.

This time, there were no bids from the second-floor private room.

Inside the private room, Aria gritted her teeth and watched the auction platform through the LCD screen.

She really wanted to compete with Lisha to take away her glory. However, who knew if this was a trap that Lisha had set for her.

What if Lisha suddenly let go as she did before, causing the small round shield to end up in her hands at an exorbitant price?

After hesitating for a while, Aria ultimately did not make a bid.

"Ms. Fifty-five offers five million dollars, does anyone have a higher bid? If not, this small round shield will belong to Ms. Fifty-five?"

"Five million dollars going once!"

"Five million dollars going twice!"

"Five million dollars, sold!"

"Sold!"

The hammer fall.

The small round shield was sold to Lisha for five million dollars. However, she had to wait until the end of the auction to take possession of it.

"Not bad, this small round shield is good..." Sean said with a smile.

"I've always valued practicality," Lisha replied with a smile.