

Guardians 20

Chapter 20

Homer deliberately said this in consideration of Sean's feelings, and it made Sean feel comfortable.

"Thanks."

Sean did need a phone, so he did not say no.

"What are you talking about, Mr. Lennon? It's nothing compared to your help to the Larson family.

"By the way, when could Old Master take his second treatment?"

"Old Master slept soundly yesterday. You're indeed a miracle doctor, Mr. Lennon!"

Homer's voice was full of admiration.

"In two days."

Sean did not explain much but replied indifferently.

"Okay! I'll follow up on that soon, Mr. Lennon.

"I gotta go. Just call me if you need any help."

Homer handed him a business card and left.

Homer knew that a hedge between kept friendships green.

Quinn Corporation

Meanwhile, senior management, including members of the Quinn family, arrived at the VIP reception room.

"Larson Pharmaceuticals is going to talk to us about a business deal!"

"Shhh! I heard that Ms. Faye sealed the deal."

"We must take good care of him!"

The company's senior management and members of the Quinn family were excited.

As River City's billionaire, Larson Pharmaceuticals monopolized the medicine industry in River City.

If they could cooperate with them, it would take Quinn Corporation to the next level in River City.

Willow also took it very seriously, so she went to the VIP reception room.

"Stop!"

Willow had just reached the door when Faye reached out her hand to stop her.

"What are you doing?"

Faye glanced at Willow.

“I’m here to talk about the collaboration.”

Willow said lightly as she felt a little speechless. “Collaboration? Who are you to talk about the collaboration?”

Faye folded her arms and sneered.

“I sealed the deal on the collaboration. “I went to high school with the Larson family’s heiress, so the Larson family gave us this deal.” “What are you doing here? “What does this have to do with you?

“Are you here to take credit?”

“Yes, you have no business here, so hurry back.”

Passing members of the Quinn family also sneered and walked straight into the reception room.

Willow bit her red lip slightly and turned away to leave.

“Tsk, she rushes over when there’s something good. I wonder why she works so hard.”

Faye took out her makeup mirror and looked at it, muttering with disdain.

“Faye, don’t you know?

“How can she support the cripple if she doesn’t work hard?”

Someone nearby burst into laughter.

“Haha! That’s true!”

Faye laughed and walked into the reception room too.

“Oh, welcome!”

“It’s such an honor to have Larson Pharmaceuticals here!”

The Quinn family was fawning over a middle-aged man.

“Don’t mention it.

“Mr. Larson told us to settle what Mr. Lennon told us to do.”

The senior executive from Larson Pharmaceuticals said as he waved his hand slightly.

“Huh?”

The Quinn family was dumbfounded.

‘Mr. Lennon?’

‘Which Mr. Lennon?’

“By the way, where’s Ms. Willow Quinn?”

“I want to talk to her about this collaboration.”

The middle-aged man asked again after looking around
