Chapter 1202

[Come over then, I'll be waiting for you.] Nicole mocked, unafraid as she knew that Jared was threatening her. 'Why would he even come over when he just flew back, anyway?'

[You dare challenge me? Very well. We'll see what I'm going to do to you the next time I see you...] Jared replied, sending a few emojis along with the message.

Nicole quickly gazed off at Harvey's direction. As luck would have it, Harvey was not looking at her, so she shifted over and used the monitor to block his view of her.

"No more second chances. Goodbye!" Nicole quickly turned her phone off and acted like nothing had happened after she had sent that message.

Jared chuckled when he saw Nicole's message before placing it aside. He then began to work on the tasks that had accumulated over the past few days.

Hours passed, and the second he looked up from his desk, the sky was already pitch black. Seeing this, Jared turned to the documents on his desk and thought, 'I won't be able to complete them even if I stay up all night.'

Knowing this, Jared took his phone out and gave Max a call. "Max, buy me some food."

Harvey immediately put on a show of machismo. "You don't have to worry about a big guy like me. Instead, I should be the one worrying about you going back alone.'

"Kelly, you should follow Nicole home later. It's better to have company," Harvey looked at Kelly and said.

"I'm fine with anything. I'll just go along with whatever you've decided." Kelly said with a look of indifference, as she was Nicole's aide, and would do whatever she ordered.

Upon seeing how stubborn Harvey was, Nicole decided that she did not wish to argue anymore. "Whatever then. Just let me know when you're home."

"No problem." Harvey looked at Nicole with a smile.

Soon after, the three of them walked out of the restaurant and Nicole proceeded to drive Kelly back home. Harvey stood there and watched until the car had vanished from sight. Then, he entered the car that had been waiting for him for quite a while.

"Chill out. Everything is fine here," Zane assured Nicole as he could tell that she was worried. That's good to know. How are you, Zane?" Nicole asked.

'I'm swell. I've seen the Beacons you got Carl to deliver to me.'

"What do you think about it?" Nicole asked.

Carl introduced it to US and I found it amazing!" he said. "It's really useful to us."

"That's true, and I've been looking forward to it even before it was produced," she replied. "Now, I can rest easy when you and your men go about on your missions."

"Yeah. How are you, by the way?" Zane asked with concern.

'I'm doing pretty well for myself,' she replied. "I'm on a business trip in Lanningbourg."

"Lanningbourg? You've got to take care of yourself. It's not the safest place to be," Zane reminded.

"You're here just in time, Ike. Help me see if I've missed anything." Nicole looked at Ike and thought, 'Finally, someone can help me.'

Ike looked around as his eyes ranged over the equipment in the office.' Everything's here already. This place is almost as good as my lab now."

"Yeah, okay. Still, this place is not remotely comparable to yours. How's the preparation going on your end?" Nicole stopped what she was doing and looked at Ike.

'A few members of my team have not arrived yet, so I suppose your team is more disciplined than mine.'" Ike looked at Nicole in admiration.

"We're just fine." Nicole smiled humbly.

"Well, I'm not going to stick around for a chat. I've got to go back and start preparing too," Ike said, after which he left Nicole's workplace.

Nicole watched Ike as he left and smiled is everyone here?" Nicole asked, eyeing the people in her office.

All of them looked around and it was then that one of them said, "One of us isn't here yet."

"Miss Fisher, are you really here to talk about this project?" Jared asked as he looked at Fiorella.

"Of course, we can't delay this project anymore." Fiorella said, starting to look serious.

"All right, please give me a moment. I'm going to make a call." Jared picked his phone up and dialed Max's number. "Get Castor to come to my office now."

"Miss Fisher, let's have some coffee while we wait in the seating area.

When everyone's here, we can start talking about the project." Jared stood up and walked toward the couch.

"Sure." Fiorella followed him and took a seat on the couch, her eyes glued on him.

"Don't you worry, Miss Fisher. Allowing him to take over is just a formality. You know how busy I am right now, and surely he's able to handle a few minor tasks. If there's something that he is incapable of doing, you can always come to me.

"Actually, I'm still working with you on this project. There will be nothing important to take care of in the beginning, and that's why he'll be monitoring it for now. When I'm done with my work, I'll be taking over. Do this for me, would you?" Jared looked at Fiorella.

Fiorella drew a deep breath. Every time she looked at Castor, she would think of Jared, leaving her in a bad mood, but as Jared had asked her to do him this favor, she could only acquiesce. "Fine, I won't argue, as you seem pretty earnest about our partnership. I'll just work harder for now, but I'll make this one thing clear to you. When you're done with your work, you must take over at once, or else I will be stretching my limits."

'I always knew that you're an understanding person, Miss Fisher. I can't, and won't allow myself to mistreat you, so I'm going to bring you out to dinner tonight. Let's take it as a celebration for the start of our project." Jared smiled at her.

"It's not every day you that you treat others to dinner, Mr. Johnston. I'm going to have a feast tonight." Fiorella finally let out a smile.

Jared looked at Castor and said, "You'll be coming with US too. We must keep Miss. Fisher company, alright?"

"Sure," Castor responded respectfully.

"Hi grandma, Nicole here. How are you?" Nicole greeted Mrs. Wallace Sr. on the phone.

"Yes, Nicole, I'm doing really well. What about you?" Mrs. Wallace Sr. looked at Nicole with concern.

"I've been doing fine. You don't have to worry about me. I've been eating well, and sleeping well. Look, I'm actually having dinner right now."

Nicole showed Mrs. Wallace Sr. her meal.

Mrs. Wallace Sr. looked at her and nodded. "Why are you having dinner at such an hour? You have to take care of yourself, you know?"

"Yeah, I've been working overtime today, so that's why I'm eating late. I usually eat my meals on time." Nicole smiled as she explained.

"Hello, grandma." Harvey face suddenly popped up on the screen and greeted Mrs. Wallace Sr.

'Do you agree with me, Mr. Johnston?' Fiorella abruptly stopped and asked.

"Yeah, you're right.' Jared tapped his glass against hers with a clink.

Castor, pour Miss Fisher some wine," Jared ordered.

Hearing this, Castor quickly poured some wine for Fiorella.

Fiorella looked at Castor and began to lecture him, "It's a pity, Castor. You weren't born with good parents, so you weren't properly educated.

Their actions almost cost you the second half of your life too. Fortunately, though, you were born into a good family.

Max looked at Jared, waiting for his order.

"Excuse me?! Did you not hear me?" Fiorella glared at him and yelled.

Jared nodded in defeat, and Max hurried away to get the car ready.

"Mr. Johnston, your aide isn't behaving sensibly at all." Fiorella criticized Max as she watched him leave.

Jared remained silent. After some time, Max drove to the pick-up area in front of Jared and Fiorella.

"Let's go, Mr. Johnston." Max opened the car door and Fiorella walked over.

In the club, Fiorella got someone to serve them a bottle of vintage wine. When the staff had walked out, she was left alone with Jared in this spacious room.
