Chapter 1311

"How can you start work with nothing here?" Nicole smiled at him with an awkward expression on her face.

Harvey then realized what he had asked, and with his embarrassment deepening, he quickly explained, "I meant what are going to do today? I can help you out."

He then observed her mood and mannerism.

"Oh, I'm here to plan out the workspace and see how I can furnish the area. ' Nicole looked at the vast space and started to ponder.

"It's not easy. I'll look for a designer for you. Just tell him your ideas and he'll know what to do." Harvey pulled his phone out and was about to contact the designer when Nicole stopped him.

"It's okay. The planning team is on their way, and they'll be here any time now," she said.

"Oh, you've got yourself a team of professionals already." Harvey smiled.

"Both offices should be able to house about twenty to thirty people. There won't be this many people, but there'll be equipment, which takes up space as well," Nicole explained.

"Equipment?" an employee asked. "Do you have the measurements of the equipment you are referring to?"

"The equipment aren't big. I'll just have a few of them in the office. Additionally, it's best to have a set of double doors for the office," Nicole demanded.

"Sure, we'll design it according to your requirements," an employee said.

"When will you begin with the construction and how long will it take?" Nicole asked.

"If it's possible, we can begin today, and you'll be able to use it tomorrow," one of the men said.

"Wow, that's quick! Well then, let's start with the construction today. Thank you very much," Nicole politely said.

"Monitor her closely," Jared said. "As long as she doesn't harm any of our men, just ignore her. I need you to orchestrate a ploy to keep the McCarthys held up in the country, so that we can temporarily sever their connection with their allies from abroad.

"And also, I need you to find out who she has been getting support from. We have to start from the roots," Jared added as he gave Max a solemn glare.

"Yes, sir," Max replied.

"Have you gotten any updates regarding Henry?" Jared looked at Max.

"The head of his security detail is planning to leave, but Henry won't be following him. For the time being, he is staying back with only a few bodyguards," Max reported.

"A good opportunity indeed. Bring him back now," Jared ordered.

"She's busy with her own ventures, so she doesn't have time to waste." Jared looked at Fiorella and replied without a thought.

Fiorella smiled. 'Seems like their relationship is on shaky grounds. I guess this might be my chance.'

"Miss Riddle just got back and she's already busy with work. I heard she sees Mr. Martin rather often too. It looks like she's more of a workaholic than I am. If I leave the country for a long time, I'd want to spend some time with my fiancée as soon as I return." Fiorella said as she attempted to convey some hints to Jared through her gaze.

"The Beacon project is really important to her, and that's why she pays more attention to it," Jared said. 'It really seems that she hasn't really spent much time with me after she came back. If she isn't with Mrs. Wallace Sr., she'd be busy with her work. If Fiorella didn't remind me, I'd probably have overlooked that fact.'

"How's the project going, Miss Fisher?" Jared asked.

"It's doing fine, but Castor is next to useless. He's not even as good as my assistant. I think you should hire someone who's more capable, Mr. Johnston. It's best if you can have a look at it when you're free," Fiorella suggested.

"Okay, I'll consider that," Jared replied. 'So Castor really is hopeless. I've given him chances, but he doesn't seem to be making good use of them.'

Jared did not avoid her gaze. It was an easy question to answer, and so, he said, "No. Nicole likes this restaurant, so she would always be the one bringing me here."

"Oh." Fiorella nodded.

Jared recalled the first time he was here with Nicole, but they were not sitting at this table.

They were so loving and sweet back then. When he reminisced, he could not help but smile while failing to notice that Fiorella was staring at him. When he realized that, her eyes were already on him.

She had never seen him smiling that earnestly before. 'I didn't expect him to be so charming. It feels like I want to give him a hug Fiorella tried her best to be meek before Jared so he could naturally display his protective nature. Even if he knew how to control it, he would still subconsciously protect her, which was what she wanted.

Jared did not think much about it as he thought that it was normal for women to be started whenever strangers made unsolicited moves on them. That was why he was not repulsed by her actions when she was in fear. To him, it was in the nature of men to be protective.

"Let's have our meal," Jared said, using the food as a means of diverting Fiorella's attention.

"Okay."

"By the way, the wine you wanted is ready, but you haven't claimed any of it yet." he said.

'I'll just leave it with you for now and get it next time," she replied, making up an excuse to meeting him again.

“Okay.”

“Hello everyone, welcome.

“Do you have any subordinates?” Nicole looked at them and asked. She could not just have professionals working with her as she also needed staff members.

“We do. All of us have apprentices. If you need more men, we can get them to come over and help out,” Terry said.

“Okay, can each of you bring two assistants over with you? I’m afraid we might get too busy,” Nicole requested.

“Let’s familiarize ourselves with the equipment today and start our work tomorrow when you’ve brought your assistants over.” Nicole looked at them.

“Sure, from today onwards, you’re our lead. We’ll follow your arrangements, Miss Riddle,” Terry said naturally.

“Okay. And by the way, you should stop calling me Miss Riddle. You’re all older than me, so just call me Nicole,” Nicole responded humbly.

‘Just that there was something about Curley Corporation. Will you be coming over?’ Carl said, wanting to see Nicole, just to fail in his attempt once more.

‘I won’t be going there in the foreseeable future. If you miss me, you can meet me back here,’ she said.

‘Forget it. I have a mission to take care of, so I won’t be leaving for a while. If you have me in mind, you should pay me a visit instead,’ Carl said, expressing his desire to meet Nicole in Lanningbourg.

in that case, you should focus on your mission. When you’re done, you can come and hang out with me.” Nicole replied.

She did not wish to visit Lanningbourg at all. After all, she had just began her research, and thus, she could not leave.

“Can’t you just pay me a visit instead?” Carl complained. “You’re just counting on me to come to you after I’m done. How inconsiderate.”

'You just started and you're already this busy? I've been waiting for 5 minutes down here." Jared stated.

"It's the professionals' first day today, so of course, I had to tend to them. Otherwise, it'll look as though as I don't value them," she replied.

"It's just been 5 minutes and you're already growing impatient?" Nicole arched her brows as she looked at Jared.

'I wouldn't dare." Jared opened the door to the car for her.

In the car, Nicole asked, "Why are you treating me to lunch?"

"No reason, really. It's just that having lunch alone gets boring, so it's better to have it with someone I know." Jared looked at her and continued driving.

'Yeah, I don't know how mum and dad are doing now," Nicole replied.

'I'll accompany you after work to pay them a visit." Jared suggested out of the blue.

'You want to accompany me?" Nicole looked at him in surprise, as she wondered if he really was asking to visit the Riddle family. 'What has gotten into him?'

"That's right. Didn't your parents mention that they haven't seen me in a long time? I've always wanted to visit them. Since I'm pretty free today, let's pay them a visit after work." Jared calmly explained to Nicole.

'Okay, but you'll have to pick me up then," requested Nicole.

'No problem,' he said.

Suddenly, an idea popped up in Nicole's mind. She turned to Jared and looked at him shyly as she did not know how to bring it up.
