

Chapter 194 Texting

Alayah's p.o.v.

I sit down on Noah's bed to wait for him when his phone lights up and I see he has received a message from someone named Bonnie, probably Lily's friend Noah mentioned. I open the message to read what she send to my Mate and Topaz is right there with me when I open the message, When will you finally realize that I will be the best choice? I can't stop myself as I start typing; The best choice to slam into the wall? I patiently wait until she responds, but it is not exactly what I was expecting; With your cock buried deep inside me.

Is this fucking Bitch for real? I think to myself as I listen to Topaz growling in my head, neither one of us likes the fact that some female is lusting after our Mate or that she would consider sleeping with a male that isn't her Mate. But I guess you have all heard this before from one person or another and I know it won't be the last time you hear this, there will be enough males and females around that will repeat this. Not in your lifetime I send back as Noah walks back into the room, he lifts me of the bed when he is done and I keep looking at his phone.

The screen keeps saying Is busy typing and after a second or so is vanishes to reappear a second later, looks like she has difficulty responding. Why are you so mean is the reply I get and I send back Why are you so dumb, it takes a second for her to respond with What do you mean and I ask if she what she would call someone that has been repeatedly told something not to do and still does it. I would call that person dumb or stupid is her reply and Topaz snickers in my head.

That is why I called you dumb, you have been told over and over again that the Gamma's Sons won't settle for a chosen Mate and yet you keep trying. A roar sounds from the dining room as we walk down the last flight of stairs, "Just someone that doesn't like it when she is called dumb." I mumble when my other Mates move to my side and I feel the rumble in Noah's chest as he laughs. Mom shakes her head while Dad is chuckling and Nikolay asks what I mean.

"Maybe Noah will let you read it after he has, I think he would like to know what kind of message he send." I respond as Noah puts me on my feet and I hand him his phone back with a smirk on my face. Nero wraps an arm around my waist and Nikolay moves to my other side to do the same, Nathan and Noah growls softly when they guide me to the dining room. Dad tells them to get a move on before he wraps an arm around Mom.

Once we are all in the dining room a pissed off looking Wolf walks up to Noah, "Why the fuck did you call my Daughter dumb?" He growls at Noah, but Noah just looks at him as he shrugs his shoulders. "Maybe you should ask your Daughter that question, but then again I doubt she will tell you the truth. Most females around here act as if they are saints when their parents are around, but the moment you turn your backs on them they turn into power hungry females that don't give a crap about what they were taught.

My brothers and I have made it clear every change we got that we won't take a chosen Mate, but it doesn't matter how we put it your Daughters don't want to understand that we will never change our minds in that regard and that is why I am glad we found our Mate." Noah says before he turns his back on the Wolf and joins us at the table for dinner. "You are lying, Noah. You always said that none of you felt a connection to a female in this Pack." A female sitting next to Lily growls.

"Noah wasn't lying, I am not a member of this Pack." I say as I look her in the eye and I hear people start to mumble around us, most of them looking at my neck. "They can't all be your Mates, they are not a multiple and you're siblings." She yells at me before she turns to Alpha Gordon. "Alpha, this isn't right. You have to order her to reject them, they are siblings." Everyone turns their attention to Alpha Gordon as he gets out of his seat and you can hear a pin drop as he slowly looks around the room. "There is no blood between the five of them, they can't mark one another unless their Lycans agree with them and seeing the fact that they are all marked their Lycans agree with them.

I will never order anyone to reject their Mate because a Mate-bond is sacred, history has shown us that we shouldn't mess with it or we might find ourselves in the middle of a war again. Our Lycans and Wolves will never allow a bond to form between blood siblings, Alayah is not blood related to her Mates and there for I see no reason to be against this Mate-bond. I suggest that anyone that isn't willing to accept that starts looking for a new Pack to move to, Crimson Moon Pack will accept the Mate-bond between Alayah and her Mates." He says.

No one says a word as the Omegas start serving us and slowly but steadily conversations start up again, taking almost all the attention away from us and I know you can already guess who's attention we are still holding. Yep you guessed it, Lily and her friends are still staring at us and if I let Topaz have her way I will be crawling onto someone's lap real soon. We talk about leaving for Crimson Moon Pack after breakfast and Alpha Gordon asks me if I managed to get all the numbers I needed.
