The front desk lady was filled with disdain.

"This is a big office building, mister. We have manners here."

"Do you know what'll happen to you if you keep causing trouble like this?"

A few security guards walked over, glaring coldly at Harvey.

Meanwhile, he glanced calmly at the Rolex watch on his wrist.

"Two minutes..."

"Stop pretending already!"

Nova yelled, laughing coldly right after.

"How dare you order Ms. Pagan to come down here?"

"Who do you think you are?!"

"Even the prince of the Patel family or the eldest young master of the John family has no right to do this! Do you understand?!"

Aunt Anderson cackled coldly, as if she had seen through Harvey.

"You're just trying to show off in front of us to flaunt your strength, aren't you?"

"Have you thought of the consequences of doing such a thing?"

"You'll suffer a horrible death if Ms. Pagan actually comes for you!"

"Let me warn you! You should just leave before you embarrass yourself too much."

"You might just drag us down if Ms. Pagan gets a bad impression of us because of you!"

"We still want our monthly income!"

"How are you going to take responsibility if you ruin our business?!"

Naturally, Aunt Anderson was certain that Harvey was here to cling to her and her daughter. She thought he was just showing off with someone that would never show up after being completely exposed.

'This live-in son-in-law sure is bold to show off like this!' 'Does he have a death wish?!' "One minute left," Harvey said calmly to the front desk woman.

"I'd make the call if I were you."

"If this was all just a misunderstanding, at most, you'll just be scolded. However..."

"Have you thought of the consequences if I actually know Arlet?"

After seeing Harvey's confident look, the front desk lady froze and quickly made the call while gritting her teeth.

"Enough, Harvey!"

Aunt Anderson was boiling with anger; she was furious that Harvey was stealing her daughter's limelight.

"What's the point of doing all this? You're just embarrassing yourself!"

"Leave right now!"

"If not..."

Ding! Suddenly, the doors of the private elevator opened.

A few people walked out, with Arlet leading in front. She was dressed in a short Givenchy black skirt, looking fashionable and professional at the same time.

Aunt Anderson and Nova walked forward respectfully with bright smiles.

"CEO Pagan..." they began, bowing.

Contrary to their expectations, Arlet ignored them completely and quickly walked toward Harvey instead.

"Sorry I'm late, Harvey."

"Honestly! You could've just called me!"

"I would have welcomed you at the front door! I'd open your car door too, if you'd let me!"

The mother and daughter froze; they turned completely sluggish.

'He...He actually knows Arlet?' 'Why does it seem that he's superior to her too?' 'How is this possible?' 'He's just a live-in son-in-law, right?' 'Where did he get such talent?!' Harvey revealed a faint smile.

"Not bad.Looks like your anger issues are mostly gone.Your head doesn't seem like it hurts anymore, either."

"I thought you're about to lash out at me again."

"A little bit of beating does work, after all."

Arlet was about to look for a knife lying around, but then she spotted Nova and smiled at the latter.

"Is this the relative you want to put in the company?"

"To be honest with you, the company doesn't hire people with her standards..."

Aunt Anderson froze instantly; she never thought that her daughter actually got into the company with Harvey's help.

Without his help, Nova wouldn't get that right in the first place.

Safe to say Aunt Anderson, was as ashamed as she was cocky before.

As for Nova, she never wished for Harvey to get her into the company.

How was she going to show off to the Zimmers if that was the case? After all, she was acting all high and mighty just the day before! She couldn't let go of that pride in such a short time! No matter what, she didn't want to give up!
"CEO Pagan! The manager of your personnel department called me!"

Nova exclaimed.

"Wasn't it because of my looks, temperament, and talent?"

"There's no way I got in this company because of this useless live-in son-in-law!"

Nova had a prideful expression, as if she was an actual elite.

After looking at her, the front desk lady and security guards exchanged awkward glances.

Everyone thought that Nova was being a little too conceited.

Harvey turned to Nova with a small smile.

"Since she isn't willing to accept my help..."

"We'll give her a chance to prove herself."

He crossed his arms and headed into the elevator.

Arlet froze.

Then, she looked at Manager Smith.

"Since Sir York has already decided, and Ms. Anderson is such a beautiful and talented young lady..." she began snidely.

"We'll give her a chance to prove herself. Interview her like you would anyone else."

"Nobody has a say in this."

After hearing those words, Manager Smith took a step forward.

"Hello, beautiful and talented Ms.Anderson," he said.

"Archa Corporation only accepts those who have at least graduated from top-class universities."

"Unfortunately, you don't meet our requirements since you only graduated college."

"According to our standard procedures, I'm not allowed to recruit you."

"I do hope we'll have other opportunities to work together next time."

Manager Smith then tore the contract in his hand right in front of Aunt Anderson and Nova.

The two froze instantly.

Their expressions were extremely horrible; they wanted to ram their heads into a wall so badly.

They wouldn't have ended up this way if they didn't ridicule Harvey repeatedly.

Nova couldn't even catch her breath after realizing that thousands of dollars worth of yearly income had vanished in the blink of an eye.She immediately passed out on the spot.

"Call an ambulance! Call an ambulance right now!"

Aunt Anderson was panicking, but she couldn't bear to make the call either.

"I'm not done with you, Harvey!"

A shame Harvey was already inside the CEO's office.

He didn't know what had happened at the main hall, but he wouldn't care either even if he did.

The office was filled with exquisite antique couches made out of agarwood.

The shelves were filled with either invaluable antiques, porcelain ware, ornaments, or jewelry.

Aside from that, a few calligraphy paintings made by Rudolf Kock hung behind the main table.

Compared to the things that Kellan got from random stalls, this was in a completely different league.

Arlet smiled when she saw Harvey enjoying her collection.

"Do you want something to drink?"

Harvey turned around before sizing up Arlet. She now seemed a lot more mature compared to her time at home. She was still very much a pure and innocent-looking woman, but there was also a sophisticated aura stopping Harvey from doing whatever he wanted to her.

After taking a few glances at Arlet, he shook his head.

"It's fine. Let me take a look at you."

"I need to look for a store after this."

Arlet almost broke a tooth after hearing Harvey's indifferent words.

'I'm trying so hard to show my gentle side! Can't you at least appreciate me a little?!' 'He's blind! That's for sure!' However, she quickly held her anger back and then slowly took off her jacket. She also undid a few buttons of her shirt.

"I've been hurting right here while I was training this morning. I almost died because of it," she said, pointing at her extremely deep cleavage.

"Take a look here."

Arlet perked up her chest on purpose.

Harvey was completely speechless.

"You...didn't need to do that."

"If your staff sees this, no explanation will get us out of the mess."

"What? Are you scared?" Arlet scoffed.

"Wow, So you Can get scared too?"

"If I scream right now, do you think all one hundred and eight security guards here will kick you out or not?"

Harvey's face darkened instantly.

"Do you want me to take a look at you or not?"

"Stop fooling around and sit down with your clothes on."

"I'll leave if you don't behave yourself."

"Fine! I'll stop. I don't like to wear my jacket though, so you'll have to help me this way," Arlet quickly replied.

Harvey was once again speechless.

Afterwards, he gestured for Arlet to stretch out her hand. He then put two fingers on her wrist. His heart skipped a beat when he touched her buttery smooth skin.

After taking a deep breath to calm himself, he concentrated on the pulses he felt on his fingers.

Soon after, he removed his fingers.

"You drank yesterday?" he asked with a frown.

"How did you know that?" Arlet nodded, confused.

"I got in a good mood when my grandfather was fully recovered, so I decided to have a sip of 1982 Lafite."

"Does this have anything to do with my training, though?"

"I only fixed your headache, but that's only a part of the problem," Harvey told her.

"Your symptoms will return as soon as you consume more alcohol."

"Since you're hasty for success and got overly anxious because of the situation, you almost got yourself in deep trouble."

"We need to deal with your problem right now."

"If not, not only will you go berserk the next time this happens, but your limbs will also be crippled for the rest of your life. You'll be lying on a sickbed till the day you die."

Arlet gasped, and immediately lifted her butt up and leaned against the table. They were big.

Big enough to have a healthy and chubby baby.

"Enough talk, Harvey!"

She was on the verge of tears even though Harvey was still explaining.

"I don't want that! I'd rather die than lie on my bed forever!"

Harvey's expression worsened.

"Why are you doing that? What are you trying to say here?" he asked.

"Do I look like the kind of person who wants that to happen to you?"

"Aren't you supposed to heal me?" Arlet shot back.

A timid expression colored her face.

"I'm ready for you to hit me however you want!"

"You can do whatever you want as long as I'm healed!"

"I like it when you hit harder!"

"You..."

Harvey was startled.

"You're not actually a masochist, are you?"

Harvey stared at her with a bemused look.

Then, he swung his palm forward.

"Who told you I was going to heal you that way?"

"Last time, I was just clearing your veins to relieve your headaches!"

This time, I'll have to deal with the problem once and for all through the martial arts you've been practicing."

"I need you to tell me what style you've been training in to see where the problem is."

After hearing Harvey's words, Arlet's face turned as red as a traffic light. She quickly retracted from him and went to rummage through her drawer. She then took out a textbook with a yellowish cover, and handed it to Harvey.

Harvey glanced at the cover; it had "Wing Chun" written on it.

As one of the hidden martial arts, Wing Chun was quite suitable for a woman to train.

That said, the martial art belonged to the Five Virtues Temple—one of the sacred martial art training grounds.

The book Arlet took out was basically incomplete.

She hurt herself because she only had fragments of information to train with.

Harvey frowned, and spent the time filling up the missing parts of the book.

When done, he threw the book back to Arlet.

"Here. This book only has the first half of your martial art that you've been learning. I filled in the missing parts, so all you need to do is to practice whatever it says here."

"As for the second half, you should find some time to ask for the Five Virtues Temple's help."

"If I tell you about their martial arts, they'll come for me."

"Got it."

Arlet flipped through the pages Harvey fixed excitedly.

Then, she started channeling her energy in front of Harvey.

Half an hour later, she felt a lot more relaxed.

Not only did her chest stop hurting, but it was also abundantly clear that she was in high spirits.

Heck, she was sure she could kick down a battalion at that point.

Harvey smiled after seeing the satisfied look on Arlet's face.

He knew that she had basically recovered.

"Right. Make sure to quit drinking within the month. Drink more radish soup to rejuvenate yourself as well."

"If there's nothing else, I'll be leaving."

"Thank you, Master!" Arlet said enthusiastically, bashful.

"Tell me if you need anything in the future. I'll do my best to help!"

Harvey was about to tease Arlet a little more, but then somebody knocked the door.

A young couple showed up soon after.

The man was covered from head to toe in Zegna haute couture clothing.

The woman, on the other hand, was dressed in Givenchy brands.

The two looked very extravagant together, what with all the luxury items they wore.

"Arlet! You said that the person who dealt with Mr.Pagan's problem would come today.Where is he now?" the man asked hastily.

"He'll be here to fix your problem too, right?" the beautiful woman asked as well.

"Are you alright now?"

"Thank you for your concern, Mr.and Mrs.Robbins."

Arlet smiled brightly at them.

"My problem's been solved.There won't be any pain anymore." She brought out a punching bag from the inner room and sent it flying with a single punch.

Harvey was completely speechless to see it.

'Can you act more like a decent lady at least...?"

"Congratulations, Arlet!"

"Looks like you weren't lying after all!"

"Quick! Tell us where that person is!"

"We need to see him as well!"

Mr.Robbins was filled with anxiety.

"We found so many well-known doctors from all around the world.Even Oskar Armstrong took a look at us before!"

"He told us that it isn't a sickness, and that it's a curse!"

"Only a geomancy expert can deal with it!"

"Even so, we couldn't fix it even after hunting down so many of them..."

"In any case, we'll do anything as long as you can get the expert to help us!"
Mrs.Robbins sighed.

"Everything's all up to you, Arlet."

"When I deal with all this, I'll make sure to find you a husband that can take a beating from all the top- rated families!"

Harvey's face darkened instantly.

'A husband that can take a beating? What does that even mean?' Arlet appeared very awkward when she saw the look on Harvey's face, and hurriedly changed the subject.

"The expert's right in front of you, Mrs.Robbins."

"Let me introduce you, Harvey.This is Saul Robbins and Lola Hoffman."

"Mr.Robbins is a prince of one of the Hermit Families."

"Just like my family, the Robbins family had been around since ancient times."

"They have always been in the banking business.The biggest bank in the city, the Golden Sands Bank, belongs to them."

"Mr.and Mrs.Robbins have been married for many years, but they haven't had a baby for the longest time.That was why they tried seeking help through geomancy."

"They heard what my grandfather went through, so they decided to try as well."

"We have a very good relationship with their family, but they're also hasty people. After knowing that you were coming, I decided to call them here too."

Arlet felt a little guilty.

"You might not like this, but I really do hope that you'll help them..." Harvey nodded.

"That's fine. I understand."

He studied Saul with narrowed eyes.

Thinking back, other than the Jean family taking back most of the ninth branch's funds and throwing a bunch of bad debt in Mandy's direction...

There was another reason why Mandy was in desperate need of funds: the Golden Sands Bank didn't keep up with the renewal of the branch's deposits.

That was why the ninth branch was on the verge of bankruptcy.

Arlet passionately introduced Harvey to the couple.

"This is the man who saved both Kellan and my grandfather, Harvey York."

"Hello."

Harvey raised his hand, a polite smile on his face. He didn't want Arlet to look bad.

The couple frowned with horrible expressions.

They quickly understood the situation after touching each other's hands.

"This...is the expert you speak of?" It wasn't that Saul didn't believe Arlet.

Rather, he was under the assumption that all geomancy experts would look like elderly and sage-like people.

Harvey seemed a little too young.

Even if he came out as a con man at this age, no one would believe it.

'What can he do?' 'He probably doesn't even know how to write!' Lola frowned.

She didn't say a word, but her eyes were filled with obvious doubt.

"You're the geomancy master?" Saul asked, not beating around the bush.

Harvey, on the other hand, didn't hold back when he heard Saul's reproachful tone.

"Not really. I know a thing or two, but I don't have any certificates to prove it either."

Saul was boiling with anger after hearing Harvey's words. He immediately thought Arlet was probably fooled by the man in front of him.

'He doesn't even have a certificate, yet he dares to call himself an expert?' 'What a joke!' 'Is he a con man or an idiot?' "Did you graduate from the Springfield University of the royal family, perhaps?"

"Not at all," Harvey said.

"I learned how to operate an excavator pretty well during my time at university. I have a certificate for that, too."

"You're just bullsh*itting then, aren't you?"

After hearing Harvey's words, Saul's expression turned as cold as ice.

"You're in a completely different profession!"

"Why are you talking to us about geomancy when you only drive excavators?!"

"What a joke!"

"Don't you understand the importance of geomancy to Country H as a whole?"

"We'll beat you to death if you keep trying to fool us like this!"

Arlet's expression changed after hearing Saul's words. She knew that the situation was about to escalate.

"Can you not say that, Saul?" she cut him off quickly.

"With our family's relationship, why would I lie to you about this?"

"I'm not stupid."

"You're not lying?" Saul glared coldly at her.

"Look at this guy! How are we supposed to trust him when he doesn't even look like he can write?"

"We skipped the Golden Sands Bank's investment conference for this guy?!"

Lola was filled with disdain as well.

"You're too careless, Arlet!"

Judging from the families' relationships, situations like these wouldn't have happened before.

However, Arlet had been flaunting Harvey to Saul and Lola for the longest time.

The two thought that they were saved...

The bigger their hopes were, the angrier they became.

"Mr. Robbins, right?"

Harvey waved his hand to stop Arlet from lashing out. He looked at Saul with narrowed eyes.

"You'd often wake up because of your nightmares, and you can only sleep during noon. Even so, you'd start scaring yourself in the dead of night."

"You'd be struck with terror every time you enter any sort of holy ground."

"While others seek help from higher beings, you'd look like you entered into a haunted mansion." Arlet froze.

Saul and Lola were completely stunned.

"How...How did you know?" Harvey sighed. Then, he looked at Lola.

"You must've been pregnant once, Mrs. Robbins. That said, you had a miscarriage because you didn't take care of your body well."

"Since you were scared of your seniors blaming you for this, you pretended that nothing ever happened."

"That said, you'd always get visions of your child looking for you, constantly asking why you abandoned it."

"You cried about this on many nights, but you kept it all to yourself since you were worried your husband's heart would break."

Lola was stunned; she was completely frozen solid.

'He knows all this without anybody saying a single word?' 'Is he actually a geomancy expert?' "If I'm guessing correctly, you've been asking about this at the hospital for a while. However, all the results were completely normal."

"That said, you still couldn't have a baby no matter how hard you tried."

"This isn't about your body at all."

"This is a mental issue."

"What you need is medicine for the mind."

"It's not hard to deal with this at all..."

"But it's a shame I won't help you."

At that, Harvey turned around and left soon after. He couldn't be bothered to deal with the couple any longer.

"Ah..."

"Please! Come back!"

Saul snapped to his senses and stumbled out, screaming for Harvey.

Lola looked as if she came back from a dream, and then hurriedly she followed Saul.

A shame Harvey completely ignored them; he stepped into the elevator before disappearing into the crowd within.

The couple was panicking; Saul quickly took out his phone to call their subordinates to chase Harvey down.

Arlet, who had been following the two, slapped the phone to the ground.

"What is wrong with you, Saul?!" she snarled, annoyed.

"Harvey's clearly furious now! What's the point if you even manage to find him?" "In the first place, you won't be getting any help if he's not willing to give you any!" Saul's head was drenched with cold sweat.

"We were wrong, Arlet! We were ignorant!"

"We didn't know that he was such a talented man!"

"Please! For the sake of us not having a baby for so long, help us say something to him!"

"Money isn't a problem at all!"

"We'll give him as much money as he wants!"

"We need Sir York's help!"

"That's right! Please help us!"

Lola was terribly upset as well.

"Just give us his address, Arlet. We'll visit him ourselves."

"Well, just calm yourselves for now. If you chase him down like this, he might just get angrier."

Arlet frowned after pondering the situation.

"I'll give him a call later."

At the same time, at the entrance of the Golden Sands Bank's head office located beside the Rio River...

Mandy hesitated for a moment before stepping in with a cold look. Harvey was in a cab when it drove past Mandy.

Thinking about the crisis she was facing, he quickly stopped the cab and ran toward her.

Right as Harvey got to the entrance, his phone started vibrating. He casually picked up the phone.

Arlet's voice could be heard.

"I'm sorry about just now, Harvey."

"Saul and Lola already know that they were wrong. They want to apologize in person."

"Is it fine if you give them a chance, for the sake of your little maid...?"

"I'll even dress up and give you a massage if you want..." Harvey froze, and then chuckled at the thought.

"What did they give you for you to sacrifice this much for their sake?"

"Saul's a good man, Harvey."

Arlet didn't try to hide anything.

"They have a good relationship with our family. They've been hunting for the longest time ever since they couldn't bear a child."

"Saul's a hopeless romantic—he wouldn't give Lola up just for the sake of his lineage, either. You should give him a chance."

At that, Harvey started to understand Saul a little more. He raised his eyes at the hall in front of him.

"Fine. I'm doing something at the Golden Sands Bank right now."

"Tell them to find me here. I'll take a look at them if there's a chance."

"Okay!" Arlet quickly replied.

"Saul will be there in ten minutes."

Harvey put his phone away before glancing around. He saw Mandy's figure disappearing from the public credit registry. She soon entered the office labeled "Sonny Lee" at the front door.

Harvey quickly followed Mandy, scared that she would get taken advantage of.

"I need your help with the procedures for the three hundred million dollars, Manager Lee."

Mandy took a deep breath and spoke respectfully to a short middle-aged man.

"My branch hasn't received any pay for the past two months because of this."

"The workers are getting emotional, and the production's on a standstill as well."

"The company will go bankrupt if you don't do anything about this." Mandy carefully passed over a cigarette, looking very sincere.

"This isn't your first time working with the ninth branch, Manager Lee."

"You should know the strength of my branch. After all, we're being supported by the Jean family, one of the top ten families of Country H."

"If you're willing to help, I'll make sure to repay the favor." Sonny smiled as he looked at Mandy.

"I told you already, CEO Zimmer."

"The ninth branch has no money on the ledger right now. There's no way for you to pass our risk assessment!"

"We can't possibly risk our business and go against our morals to help you."

"You won't get a single dime out of the bank!"

"That said, there is still a chance for you..." Sonny threw a contract on the table.

"Young Master Lowe from Heaven's Gate's branch will lend you the money."

"This is a loan for three hundred million. It'll be effective as soon as you sign here."

"You can take the money whenever you want."

"However, Young Master Lowe wants you to stay with him for a night."

'Young Master Lowe?!' Mandy's expression changed; she knew exactly what kind of person that man was. Her gaze became as cold as ice as soon as she heard the name.

"Do you know what you're saying?"

"Don't you think you're being extremely shameless, disgusting, and completely immoral right now?" Sonny shrugged.

"Of course I know what I said."

"I want you to serve Young Master Lowe."

"You should know that his position in Heaven's Gate is immensely powerful!"

"He bumped into you the last time he visited the city. It's your blessing for him to be interested in you!"

"If you say yes, not only will you be able to deal with your crisis, but I'll get a huge benefit out of it as well!"

"Let me tell you something, Mandy."

"You can't just give up all that money for the sake of your pride!"

"You're a divorced woman! Just sleep with him for a night and you'll get the money!"

"The offer's more valuable than gilded diamonds!"

Sonny grinned; not only did he keep forcing Mandy's hand, but his words were also getting a lot more heinous than before.

At the same time, he was impressed by Young Master Lowe's standards.

'As expected for him to be into such an outstanding woman'

Even he yearned to get intimate with Mandy. He was wondering if he'd have the chance to have a piece of her when Young Master Lowe was done with her.

Mandy's face darkened instantly.

"I will never accept this!" she hissed.

Sonny smiled.

"I know you won't agree to this right now, but that's fine."

"I'll give you another day."

"Think about this. Other than Young Master Lowe, who else in the city will give you this much money?"

"A single night for glory and riches for the rest of your life. Other people wouldn't even get a chance like this! Why are you still being so stubborn?"

Sonny flashed her a shameless leer.

"Have some thought about this, CEO Zimmer."

"You won't get another chance after this!"

Mandy's expression worsened.

"I'm telling you this one more time, Manager Lee!"

"No matter what you say, I will never accept this!" Sonny sighed.

"Why don't you get it, Mandy?"

"Just sleep with him for a while. You'll get so much out of this!"

"A lot of people have been dreaming about this opportunity, but they don't even have a chance to!"

"Why are you so stubborn?"

"Besides, you've already divorced. So what if you sleep with him for a while?"

"More importantly, you'll open more roads for yourself."

"After this, you'll be Young Master Lowe's woman. You'll be able to do whatever you want in the Golden Sands!"

"But if you don't accept the offer... Forget getting any money, it'll be hard for you to survive here!"

"Why would you go against money?"

Sonny was clearly an experienced man when it came to despicable offers. His words were filled with double meaning, constantly alternating between different tones.

Ordinary women would be immediately moved by his words, but... Mandy frowned darkly, and stood up.

"I do need a lot of money!"

"But! I will never sell my body and soul for such a thing!"

Naturally, Mandy had a bottom line.

"Fine! You don't have to accept the offer!"

"I won't even talk about the money!"

Sonny slammed the table furiously, a righteous look on his face.

"That said, you still owe the bank seventy million dollars!"

"According to the contract, you'll have to pay that money back next month."

"If the payment's overdue, we have the right to confiscate every single asset that belongs to the ninth branch."

"You won't have anything to fall back on when that happens!"

"You'd be sold to all sorts of casino-palaces!"

"Compared to that, a night with Young Master Lowe is far better."

"He's the young master who's most likely to climb the ranks of Heaven's Gate, after all!"

"You're the luckiest woman alive to have his eyes on you!"

"Why are you still pretending at this point?"

Sonny grinned lecherously and tried to pinch Mandy's face.

"F*ck you!"

Mandy immediately splashed the cup of coffee on the table on Sonny's face, stopping him from touching her. He screamed in pain after getting completely scorched.

"You b*tch! How dare you do this to me?!"

"I'll f*cking kill you!"

Sonny was enraged; furious, he kicked Mandy in the stomach.

Mandy couldn't react to the situation quickly enough. She felt a sharp pain before falling to the ground.

Safe to say, Sonny had no shame at all. He would act as he pleased, even to a woman like Mandy.

Bam! Almost at the same time, the tempered glass door was kicked down.

Harvey was seen storming in with an expression as cold as ice.

Slap! He immediately slapped Sonny to the ground.

Bam! Right after, he sent Sonny flying with a single kick.

Sonny crashed right into a tempered glass before coughing out blood, injured all over.

It was an extremely miserable sight.

Mandy froze, and hurriedly held Harvey back.

"Calm down, Harvey! We're in the Golden Sands. The Robbins family owns the Golden Sands Bank. We can't be reckless here..."

Chapter 4209 novel Harvey York's Rise to Power

While Mandy was shrieking in fear, Sonny stood up and gritted his teeth. He wiped the blood off his mouth, and pointed furiously at Harvey.

"Who the f*ck are you, you b*stard?!"

"What do you think you're doing?"

"How dare you hit me!"

However, Harvey walked up and beat Sonny to the ground again.

"You're asking me that when you're doing this to my wife?"

"Look at yourself in the damn mirror!"

"Your wife?"

Sonny froze before exclaiming, "You're the useless live-in son-in-law?"

"How dare you?!"

"I'll f*cking kill you!"

Despite Sonny's screams, Harvey swung his palm forward again.

Slap! "You can insult me all you want, but if you even lay a finger on my woman..."

"I'll kill you!"

Sonny covered his face, and fell sitting on the ground. His entire body was trembling in pain, and his face was completely swollen.

"Stop hitting him, Harvey!"

Mandy quickly dragged Harvey back, anxious.

"He'll really die!"

She had butterflies in her stomach, but she was also very worried about Harvey.

In a place with rich history like Golden Sands, none of the Hermit Families were easy targets to deal with.

The Mysterious Robbins family were tycoons of the financial world, too.

"How dare you hit me, you b*stard?!" Sonny spat.

"You're dead! I'll f*cking kill you!"

Even so, he could only point at Harvey's face as he was too frightened to step any closer.

"I'll call the cops! You'll be behind bars for the rest of your life!"

"You'll pay for your crimes!"

"Mandy will pay a huge price as well!"

"She'll be completely blacklisted from the financial world!"

"The ninth branch owes us seventy million dollars as well! It'll be due next month!" "Without any loans, not only will she go bankrupt, but she'll have to pay up with her body!"

"If you want her to be alright, you'll have to kneel in front of me right now!"

"After that, get your wife to stay with Young Master Lowe for three days and with me for a whole month!"

Sonny was screaming on the top of his lungs, sounding utterly unhinged.

"If not, you'll both die horrible deaths soon enough!"

Slap! Harvey swung the back of his palm across Sonny's face.

Sonny stumbled back a few steps after getting hit; his entire face was purple, and blood smeared the corners of his lips.

"Blacklist her?"

"From the financial world?"

"Just you?" Harvey laughed coldly.

"Try it, then."

"I'll call you Daddy if you can even do that."

"Fine! Just you wait!" Sonny snarled.

"I'll be damned if I don't take you out right now!"

Sonny quickly dialed a number on his phone.

Soon after, a woman with short hair and in uniform walked in with a few other people.

A nametag labeled "Vice President, Chloe Anderson" could be seen on her chest. Her exquisite face, layered with thick makeup, bore a furious expression.

"What's going on here?"

"What's with all the commotion in such a high-class building like this?" Sonny quickly covered his face and put on a humble expression.

'Vice President! Mandy wasn't able to get any loans out of the bank, so she brought her live-in husband here to cause trouble."

"Look! He got my face like this when I explained the situation to him."

"I told them the bank would blacklist them because of this, but..."

"They threatened to kill me if I tried!"
