

Read Novel Her Billionaire Husband Chapter 1011

Her Billionaire Husband Chapter 1011-After taking a puff of his cigar, Zac subtly pouted his lips, blowing out a waft of fragrant smoke onto Dominik's dashing face. "I live solely for the benefits." He then smiled, lowering his gaze upon his chest. "I agreed to help not only for what you offered me, but most importantly, I have a thing for you." As Zac spoke, he leaned an inch closer toward Dominik. "Ever since the bonfire ceremony outside the palace, I've been watching you. I even see you in my dreams."

Indeed, Zac fell for Dominik the first time he saw him. Nonetheless, he never had a chance to make a move on him the entire time. But of course, as a certified hunter, he must not be hasty, and all this time waiting was solely for today.

Twisting his brows, Dominik sprung up from his seat. "I'm a man!"

"Am I blind? Do you think I can't see that?" Zac shrugged with his arms open wide. With the cigar in his hand, he brushed his puffy, short blonde hair, revealing a naughty grin on his pale, freckled face that was blessed with perfect features. "But that doesn't stop me from adoring you."

"What are you saying?"

"I want to f*ck you. I, Zac Francis, never get myself involved with business only to lose. Satisfy me, and I'll do everything to return the favor." After a moment of thought, he added, "Man-man or man-woman—it's all the same. Trust me. Even if you have ten wives, you'll eventually want to try to be pegged."

Dominik's face froze in frustration and anger. "You wish!" Finished, he raised his foot, about to walk away.

Seeing that, Zac was completely unaffected, calmly remaining seated on the couch as he slowly said, "Leave all you want, but I assure you that in five minutes, your mother and the entire hidden clan will know of your plan to seize the head's position. With that, I'll reveal your plan to Eleanor, and I'll switch to her side and ensure that she successfully ascends as the head. By then, will acquiring mining rights be a problem for me, hmm?" Zac asked Dominik the rhetorical question before answering it himself, "Of course not."

After taking a few steps away, Dominik stood still on the ground, his entire body frozen. He clenched his fists tightly, wanting to skin Zac alive, but dared not to do that. Indeed, he didn't have the courage to.

"So what do you want?!" Dominik burst in rage. All of a sudden, he felt absolutely regretful for not listening to Matthew's warning to keep his guard against the sly Zac, as Matthew had noted that Zac was not to be trusted. However, Zac was the only help he had to succeed as the head of the clan. Thus, he took the risk to work with Zac, only to now realize that Zac was the real hunter.

"It's simple. Sleep with me."

Those three words sounded so simple, yet it was as if they could take Dominik's life away. Although Dominik was intelligently cunning, having wanted to become the head of the clan for a long time, he was an experienced, cool-headed man. To others, he was a noble, precious prince, high and mighty. And now, in order to secure the position of the head of the clan, he would have to give up his pride and serve Zac, which was an absolute torment to him.

"Don't get upset, Dominik. Coercion has never been my style. If you're not willing to do it, you may leave freely, and I'll guarantee that I won't stop you," Zac said righteously, though his words were a complete threat to Dominik.

Standing still on the ground, Dominik clenched his fists so hard that cracks were heard. His veins popped out from anger as his eyes were filled with the redness of aggression.

Read Novel Her Billionaire Husband Chapter 1012

Her Billionaire Husband Chapter 1012-Want to Kill Him

Despite seeing his hostile expression, Zac merely feigned a faint smile. "You want to kill me? I highly advise against having such a thought. See that phone on the table?" As he spoke, he reached out to flip over the phone that was facing down, revealing its bright screen. Apparently, the screen displayed that the phone had been on a call for more than ten minutes—the same duration since Dominik came in.

"Should I die, your plans will be exposed to the world. By then, you'll be a betrayer, an abhorred usurper to the hidden clan that will be resented forever." Zac chortled as he spoke. "Oh, Dominik! You claim to be superior to everyone else, but all you value is your pride. I suppose you don't even dare to lay a finger on me, isn't that right?"

Undeniably, Zac was the slickest of all men, having secretly observed Dominik all this time and refraining from making a move on him, only to threaten him on the night before the ascension ceremony.

That was a fatal impact to Dominik as his decades of commitment and hard work, in addition to his long-built reputation, might be destroyed in one night, and there was no way he could face such a humiliating end.

Seeing him stand still, Zac raised his eyebrows as he snubbed out his cigar in the ashtray. He then got up and walked toward Dominik before pinching his cheek with his fingers, his eyes ogling across his face. "Dominik, I have adored you for a very long time." He leaned in toward Dominik and gently pecked his lips before holding his hand and dragging him to the bedroom.

That night, Zac was deeply satisfied as his wish came true. As a master in bed, it didn't take him long to completely "conquer" Dominik. Though, perhaps it was thanks to true love that he turned from dominant to submissive, willingly "serving" Dominik.

Dominik, who initially felt humiliated, had his first taste of such bliss and eventually gave in to lust. As they fooled around in pleasure, satisfying each other, he would "give and take," drowned in total euphoria.

At the break of dawn, Dominik snuggled in Zac's arms. "I could never have imagined such elation in the world."

"Humans often associate relationships as a means to propagate their legacy, but I'd say what we possess is true love." Zac chuckled and added, "It's getting late. You should go and get ready. My sniper is right outside. Bring him into the palace with you, or he won't be able to get in with the tight security surrounding the palace."

"Okay." Dominik nodded. He then tidied himself before exiting the bedroom.

As soon as the door was shut, extreme hostility and murderous intent surged in his eyes. Reaching the living room, he glanced at Troy, who was standing by the door. "You're the sniper Zac mentioned?"

Troy subtly nodded. "Yes."

"Come with me." And so, Dominik left with him.

...

Hours before that, in the palace, Eleanor fell asleep in the side hall.

Worried that she might be insomniac from the nerves, Tanya went to her, only to find her in deep sleep. With that, she sighed and shook her head. "What an ambitious girl." She wanted to wake Eleanor up, but after thinking about it, since she had given Eleanor all the advice and instructions she needed to, she decided to let her rest.

Thus, Tanya left the side hall and returned to her own chamber. As she was getting ready to sleep, a servant knocked on the door to her room. "Queen Tanya, Prince Liam is here."

"Liam?" Despite being confused by Liam's visit, Tanya replied, "Let him in."

Seconds later, the door was opened, and Liam entered. "You're resting, Mother?" he asked.

"Yes, I was about to. Why are you here this late?" Tanya got up and poured him a cup of tea as she signaled him to take a seat on the couch.

Read Novel Her Billionaire Husband Chapter 1013

Her Billionaire Husband Chapter 1013-Ascension Ceremony Began

"The ascension ceremony is tomorrow. There's something I wish to discuss with you, Mother." Liam walked to the couch and sat down without crossing his legs as he always did. Instead, he looked at Tanya with a stern gaze. "The ceremony will not go well. Have you thought about how you are going to deal with that, Mother?"

"I am fully prepared for that." Tanya sat opposite him, revealing a tender smile. "You normally don't pay attention to such things. Why the sudden concern?"

"Nothing much. I'm just worried about Eleanor." Liam sighed. "I have four older sisters, but two of them unfortunately passed away. The youngest among them is mentally disabled, and you never dared to announce her identity to the world. I'm worried that if something happens to Eleanor, the hidden clan will have no successor..."

"Utter nonsense!" Tanya shot him a reprimanding stare.

"It's purely hypothetical!" Liam looked at his mother. "If—and I mean if—something were to happen to Eleanor, who would be the next head of the clan?"

"That..." His question left Tanya stunned. Her face grew taut as complication and weightiness arose in her deep eyes.

"It's Dominik, isn't it?" Upon her hesitation, he straightforwardly continued, "Although the position of the head of the clan is not typically passed down to a male heir, you'll allow only Dominik to succeed in the position if Eleanor gets in trouble. After all, you understood that the position can be seized, and it wouldn't be bad for a man to be your successor."

As if Liam's statement hit the bullseye, Tanya grew silent.

"I'm here today to give you something." Liam pulled out a thumb drive from his pocket and put it on the table. "You've been having a hard time looking for the cause of my sisters' deaths, right? It's all in here."

After placing it on the table, Liam remained quiet, getting up and ready to walk out of the room. Right as the door was shut, he added a piece of advice to Tanya. "Tomorrow, not only will we need to stay cautious against the Elrods, but the 'snake' among us as well."

With Liam gone, Tanya stared at the thumb drive on the table. She then picked it up and toyed with it with her fingers before eventually turning on her computer. Afterward, she inserted the thumb drive and opened the documents and video footage saved within. After she looked through the files, her face dramatically changed.

Hours later, under the clear, sunny day at the hidden clan's territory, the ascension ceremony commenced, and it was held in an arena not far away from the palace. The elders got to their respective seats, with guards all over the arena, while Dominik was in charge of the arena's security and ensuring that Eleanor successfully became the head of the clan.

Donning a traditional gown of the hidden clan, Tanya got to her seat, which was the primary seat near the podium.

Meanwhile, as Eleanor was getting ready to enter the arena, Liam suddenly came over and grabbed her hand. "Eleanor, spare me a minute." He then dragged her to the dressing room and handed her an item from his bag. "Put this on. It might save your life."

"What is this?"

"A bulletproof vest." Liam took out the bulletproof vest. "I had someone tailor it for you a month ago. The material is very light, so it won't be visible. Hurry, put this on."

"Thank you, Liam." Comforted, Eleanor revealed a smile on her elegantly dolled-up face and accepted the vest. "Okay, give me the room for a second. I'll put it on right away."

"Be quick," Liam reminded before exiting the dressing room and waiting outside.

A couple of minutes later, Eleanor came out, to which he asked, "How is it? Comfortable?"

"Yes, it is. As you said, it's very light."

Read Novel Her Billionaire Husband Chapter 1014

Her Billionaire Husband Chapter 1014-New Head of the Clan

Eleanor smiled and had a short chat with Liam. "Then, I'll head off to the arena first. Don't want to keep Mother waiting."

Then, she left.

Subsequently, everyone entered and took their seats one by one as the host began his speech, after which Tanya took over.

She announced that the ascension ceremony had officially started and that Eleanor would be succeeding her.

However, at this moment, a few elders among the attendees about two rows below the platform suddenly stood up.

“The successor should be Veronica, not Eleanor.”

“Yeah, it should be Veronica.”

“Veronica is the rightful head of the clan.”

“Kill Eleanor.”

The murmurs of protest started to grow among the attendees.

At this time, there was a loud noise followed by rounds of gunshots outside the arena, causing a commotion.

Just as everyone stood up to check out the source of the noise, the eight entrances of the arena were forcibly breached by people under Crayson’s leadership.

The guards rushed forward to defend the place, resulting in a chaotic scene.

Someone on the rostrum suddenly yelled, “Ahh! Princess Eleanor has been shot! Somebody help!”

“Hurry up and protect the princess!”

“Protect the queen!”

“Capture the insurgents!”

“Doctor! Quickly, call a doctor!”

The place was already in chaos when more and more people suddenly arrived at the scene, making it a complete mess.

When Liam heard that Eleanor was shot, he became tense and immediately rushed to the changing room to open the door to where Eleanor was.

This was the reason why he gave her the vest in the first place.

The vest was still in the changing room, meaning that Eleanor never wore it.

To be precise, she intentionally chose not to wear it.

Outside, Eleanor’s men confronted those whom Crayson led.

The two sides exchanged fire, which gave rise to a chaotic confrontation.

Dominik's people tried to block the so-called outsiders to buy time until he heard a voice on the earpiece that he wore. "Your Highness, Princess Eleanor is no longer breathing."

"Are you sure?" Dominik found it hard to believe.

"C*cksure. The head of the clan has always been guarding Princess Eleanor. The doctor checked her pulse and found that she has lost her pulse. The two bullets went through her heart, killing her instantly!"

The other party said with absolute certainty.

Dominik sneered. "Awesome. That's excellent news."

With the expression of a champion, he waved his hand. "Everyone, follow me inside!"

The moment he gave his order, everyone entered the arena together to fight with Crayson's men while Zac's subordinates arrived to provide support for Dominik.

Meanwhile, over at the other side, Matthew had everyone gathered at Hayley's villa.

As most of the people had been transferred to the palace by Crayson, the huge villa lacked strict surveillance and manpower, which made it easy for Matthew to sneak inside. Then, he subdued Hayley, Lamia, and the rest of the people while successfully saving Veronica.

Veronica looked at Hayley, whose limbs were bound, and asked, "How about my adoptive parents? Where are they?"

Hayley shook her head. "Beats me."

She was calm and did not intend to tell Veronica the truth. What was even more surprising was her question. "Your memories aren't sealed?"

Veronica's lips curved upward into a smile. "Sorry to have disappointed you."

"Why would I be? You have been long worthless to me. The new head of the clan can only be Randy."

Randy Elrod. That would be Randy Larson then.

Due to Tiffany's death, Veronica refused to be constrained by Crayson and Hayley.

After discussing with several elders, Hayley felt that she shouldn't be obsessed with Veronica if she wanted to fight for the position of the head of the clan.

She was better off leaving the position for Randy instead. After all, he was her loyal son.

Read Novel Her Billionaire Husband Chapter 1015

Her Billionaire Husband Chapter 1015-“Since you intend to make Randy the head of the clan, why aren’t you letting me go?” A puzzled Veronica questioned.

Hayley merely smiled before she answered, “Of course, it’s to use you as a ‘bait.’”

At that, there was another round of fierce fighting outside the villa. It was a dense sound, so it wasn’t difficult for one to imagine how chaotic it was outside.

Veronica and Matthew exchanged a glance and simultaneously turned to look at the area outside the villa.

“Whether it is Zac or Tanya that you offended, they wouldn’t want to see you guys live. The reason why you are here is only to ensure Randy’s safety. Only you can assure Randy’s life and his successful inheritance as the head of the clan.”

Now that she was faced with a situation, Hayley remained calm.

On the other hand, Veronica fumed. “If they manage to break in, you won’t live to see another day either!”

“My life is not worth anything and I’ve never cared about it.” Even though Hayley was kidnapped, she was as calm and noble as ever. It was as if she was not in danger.

Matthew yanked Veronica’s hand. “Let’s go.”

“But my parents are still missing.” Veronica never gave a damn about Hayley’s life, but she was concerned about her own parents.

“She’s not scared of death. Do you think she’ll tell you where your parents are?” Matthew reminded Veronica.

He was aware that she was overly worried, which was why she lost her reticence.

Veronica suddenly realized something and glanced at Hayley before she left with Matthew.

Zac’s men were outside, fighting with Matthew’s subordinates. It was at this moment when Skyler brought his reinforcements to surround them.

However, those who eliminated Zac’s men were actually sent by Tenye.

Another fight ensued and with a never-ending sound.

...

The whole day of intense fighting had caused everyone in the clan to be frightened. It was originally supposed to be a joyous day, but everyone was so scared that they hid at home instead.

The gunshots only subsided in the middle of the night.

At One Piece Restaurant.

A seriously injured Matthew was on the bed while Veronica sat by his bedside. Skyler, who sustained light injuries, on the other hand, was taking Matthew's pulse.

"Don't be worried, Roni. His injury isn't fatal. He'll be alright once he makes a full recovery," Skyler comforted Veronica.

Shirley was seated next to Veronica and comforted her too. "Since Sky has said that President Kings will be okay, he will be alright."

Matthew, who was lying on the bed, held Veronica's hand. "Silly girl, I'm alright. We should be happy that we can head home in a few days."

Veronica nodded.

At this moment, the door opened to reveal someone entering.

Dean looked at the group of people and said, "Boss, we have company."

The group of them turned their heads, only to notice that it was Troy standing behind Dean.

The moment Skyler saw Troy, he abruptly stood up and rushed over. "You f*cking traitor—"

Skyler was about to lay a blow on Troy when Matthew interrupted, "He did not betray us."

"What?!"

Skyler was taken aback and looked at Matthew in confusion, after which he gazed at Troy in puzzlement.

Troy met Skyler's gaze and approached Matthew. "President Kings, I heard that you are hurt."

As Matthew supported the bed with both hands, Veronica took note of this and immediately helped him to sit up before she shoved the pillow behind his back.

He replied, "It's nothing serious. How's the situation at your end?"

"Crayson, Tanya, Randy, Eleanor, and Zac are all dead." Troy summarized the day's events for the group. "Eleanor died due to her gunshot wounds whereas Tanya brought her men to fight with Crayson. Both died at the hands of the other. Dominik wanted to avenge his mother's death, so he brought his people to kill Randy."

Read Novel Her Billionaire Husband Chapter 1016

Her Billionaire Husband Chapter 1016-"Dominik has successfully inherited the position of the head of the clan and bribed me to eliminate Zac. So, I followed Boss' order, got rid of Zac, and did Dominik a favor."

Matthew was originally worried about letting Zac remain in the clan, but he never expected that Zac would have a change of heart when it came to Dominik.

Dominik valued his dignity so much that he would not allow it to be tainted by anything or anyone.

From the moment Zac laid a hand on Dominik, that was the beginning of Zac's end.

"So, you are a spy."

Skyler was taken aback and glared at Matthew. "Matt, you are not being fair," he said before giving Troy another kick. "You're not any better either. Heck, you never treated me like your bro."

"Blaming me, huh?" Troy blankly looked at Skyler. "It's all thanks to Boss. You should deal with him."

Everyone laughed because they saw how Troy washed his hands off the matter.

Veronica, who was sitting alone in a corner, looked lonely as she said nothing. Then, she rose to her feet and left the room.

Although Crayson's death was within her expectations, she still couldn't accept the fact when she heard about it.

Everyone watched as she left in sadness. While Shirley thought about following Veronica, Matthew stopped her with a look. "Let her calm down."

No matter what, Crayson was like Veronica's father figure. They had been together for more than twenty years, but after all that had happened in the hidden clan over the past two months, Veronica found it difficult to accept reality.

After that, Skyler asked about what happened at the ascension ceremony.

The gang of men chatted for a long time before they returned to their rooms.

Before Troy left, he went to Matthew. "That's right. Dominik should be coming over to visit you tonight."

Matthew nodded. "Okay."

Two hours later, Dominik showed up at One Piece Restaurant and was now with Matthew in the living room.

Matthew had asked everyone to leave the room, so there was only him and Dominik.

"Congratulations, My Lord." Matthew had substituted the alcohol with tea and toasted Dominik.

Dominik hesitated when he saw Matthew's actions.

Matthew could see Dominik's hesitation and took the cup from Dominik to drink its contents. "Don't worry, I won't poison you. You don't have to worry since Troy is my man. If Roni had wanted the position of the head of the clan, you'd be a dead man by now."

Such words caught Dominik by surprise, then he nodded after he realized something. "Hehe, you're right. I'm being too cautious."

Then, he poured another cup of tea for himself and took the initiative to toast Matthew. "I owe you a huge 'thanks' for today. However, I'm curious about something. Why did you send someone to help me in the end?"

"It's obviously to prove that Roni's not interested in being the head of the clan."

Matthew took the fork and said while eating, "The person I sent over today helped you to earn that position, which is enough to explain everything. Troy mentioned that my people were the ones who saved your life. They tried their hardest to defend for more than an hour before your men finally showed up."

Thanks to the geography of the hidden clan and the palace being at the mountaintop, the journey there was congested. So, it was difficult to seek help from anyone outside the mountain.

"That's correct. I never expected that Crayson would communicate with the outsiders in an attempt to stop me. Heck, he even ruined the signal so that I'd lose contact with the outsiders. If it hadn't been for your people coming in time, the consequences would have been disastrous."

The moment Dominik thought about what could have happened, he was terrified.

An indifferent Matthew commented, "Crayson is your enemy, so that makes him the enemy of mine and Roni's. His death will put a stop to everything and return peace to me and Roni. Come to think of it, I have to thank you."

While they were at Hayley's villa earlier, they ran into Zac and Tanya's men as well as Skyler bringing them to safety. It was only because of this that all of them were able to escape unscathed. After that, Matthew instructed Lazlo to bring reinforcements to support Dominik at the palace.

Then, he returned to One Piece Restaurant due to the injuries he sustained.

After Matthew and the others received the news that Crayson and Randy had passed away, there was also subsequent news that Hayley took her own life.

Hayley and Crayson had been in cahoots with each other and finally met their ends in such a manner. She lost the belief that she always had, which resulted in her loss of courage to live.

Read Novel Her Billionaire Husband Chapter 1017

Her Billionaire Husband Chapter 1017-Such an ending was embarrassing.

"I know that you are interested in the mines of the hidden clan. We can cooperate, but I have a condition." Dominik looked at Matthew and solemnly expressed.

The man sitting opposite him gave a small smile as he sipped on his tea. Then, he confidently replied, "I know what you want to say, but I'm sorry I can't agree to it."

Matthew took the teapot and poured another cup of tea for Dominik and himself. After that, he slowly explained, "Ten lifetimes won't be enough for me to spend the wealth in Bloomstead. So, our cooperation is optional, but there can only be one buddy."

He raised his eyes to say loudly, "Troy will always be my buddy until death. He has sacrificed so much for me that I can't gamble with his life for the sake of business."

Then, Matthew played with the teacup before he continued, "Actually, you shouldn't have said those words today. It's still the same thing. If I cared about the mines and Roni cared about the head of the clan, then the big winner would have been Roni, not you. You care too much about people's opinions and your so-called dignity."

"As for the matter between you and Zac, it has already ended with Zac's death. The entire hidden clan will never know about this matter, except for me and Troy. This also includes Roni."

As soon as Dominik came over, Matthew had already known what the men wanted.

After all, what happened between Dominik and Zec was a shameful event for Dominik. The more people knew about it, the more shame he felt.

Unfortunately for him, the person who was aware of Dominik and Zec's matter was Troy and Troy was the one who ended Zec's life.

If he could eliminate Troy, there would be one less 'witness' in this world. At the same time, he could pin the blame on Troy for everything.

After all, it was Dominik who bribed Troy to do the deed. If he killed Troy, Dominik could easily announce to the public that Troy accidentally murdered Zec. And since he had gotten rid of Troy, he would be considered as having avenged Zec's death.

Dominik was contemplating in silence.

"Very few people are aware of Zec's death. I do have an idea to help you absolve responsibility."

"What idea?" Dominik's eyes brightened, looking eager.

"Roni is excellent at dressing someone up. So, we can look for someone who looks similar to Zec and dress him up as Zec. Then, send him on his way to Castron and let him drown on his journey. This matter would not involve your hidden clan then. The important point is that Anthene, Hendrey, and Xavier all have a close relationship with Zec. If our plan fails, they would expose the matter. So, we can't keep any one of Zec's cronies alive!"

At that, Matthew explained, "Don't worry too much. Those involved will keep this a secret. I mean, Zac's death benefits both of us. The reason why I'm willing to help out is because I don't want you to hurt Troy anymore. He's my man, so he should be able to leave the hidden clan in one piece!"

Dominik thought that he was intelligent enough, but for some reason, he felt that Matthew's sharp eyes, wisdom, and generosity left him greatly impressed.

Troy was merely an unimportant ally but was rejected by Matthew when he tried to make an immeasurable offer.

All of a sudden, Dominik's admiration for Matthew grew ever so slightly.

Of course, he was also willing to believe what Matthew had said earlier.

Zac and Matthew had a grudge against each other, so now that Zac was dead, Matthew would not be able to get away scot-free if he were to reveal Zac's cause of death to those in Castron, as Troy was the murderer.

The two of them were akin to being on the same boat, and the only thing they could do was huddle for warmth.

“Deal!” Dominik raised his cup and clinked it with Matthew’s as both of them smiled.

Now that Zac was dead, Dominik was naturally relieved.

Read Novel Her Billionaire Husband Chapter 1018

Her Billionaire Husband Chapter 1018-If Zac didn’t meet his death, he would definitely make a huge fuss about that night or threaten Dominik in the future, judging from Zac’s personality.

As the head of the clan, if it was exposed that he had done something as disgraceful as that, his position would definitely be challenged.

Even if he could secure his position now, there would come a day when Zac would threaten and exploit him.

So, the best way to prevent any further problems from occurring was to nip it in the bud.

“When are you leaving?” Dominik asked again.

After thinking for a while, Matthew answered, “The hidden clan seems to have taken Roni’s adoptive parents away, so once we have found them, we’ll head back to Bloomstead.”

“Okay, I’ll help to search for them.” Dominik gave it a thought, but he couldn’t help asking, “Would it be easy for Veronica to look for someone to disguise himself as Zac?”

“When I met you for the first time, you didn’t even recognize me. Are you saying that you don’t believe me and Roni?” Matthew retorted with a question.

Dominik was taken aback for a moment and thought, When I first met Matthew, he was using Iron Man’s identity. At that, he couldn’t help but laugh.

So, the two of them talked for a long time that night.

Dominik wanted to celebrate with alcohol, but he was once again rejected by Matthew.

As soon as Dominik left One Piece Restaurant, he immediately ordered the arrest and imprisonment of Antheena, Xavier, and Hendrey.

The next day, Matthew and the others were resting in One Piece Restaurant.

Veronica went to the hospital to visit Mateo, but there was no sign of him at the hospital.

After asking around, the doctor handed her a letter. "Mateo asked me to pass this to you."

When she received the letter, she returned to her car and opened the letter, which read:

'Dear Roni,

By the time you read this letter, I would have already left. I never approved of Grandpa and the others regaining the position of the head of the clan because I was worried that it could cause more deaths. However, I can't persuade everyone to have a change of thought alone. Grandpa eventually persuaded me to become part of the plan.

What happened yesterday left me in deep, excruciating pain. I'm also deeply blaming myself for it.

I feel sorry for Grandpa because he's my relative. I feel sorry for Madam Hayley because she treats me like family.

As for you, Roni, I feel sorry for you because I love you.

Both Grandpa and Madam Hayley met their end while you will return to Bloomstead. The day you return will be the day when our future is uncertain.

I don't hate the fact that you are ruthless to Grandpa or the fact that you made use of me because I know that you are also a victim.

After this, I hope you and Matthew can have a happy ever after. It's obvious that he loves you with all his heart and soul. He's also a rare one. By being with him, you'll be the happiest you'll ever be.

Your adoptive parents were never here. Grandpa had originally arranged for me to send someone to bring them over to the hidden clan. I couldn't stomach the idea, so I lied that they were in Castron. Grandpa was forever talking about the idea of being the head of the clan, so he had no time to pay them a visit and never knew that I was lying.

That's the only thing I can do for you. You don't have to thank me because I know what I have done is not enough.

As for me, I plan to head to the countryside and teach the kids how to read, how to learn, and how to feel the beauty that the world has to offer. Who knows? Maybe I can redeem myself only through this method.

After all, my capabilities are limited to the countryside, so that's something.

Finally, I hope that you can bury Grandpa with Madam Hayley. They were never born to be mean; it's just that their environments shaped them to be who they eventually were.

Roni, you must love yourself for the rest of your life. I'll take the brooch that you gifted me and live a good life while completing my life's mission.'

Read Novel Her Billionaire Husband Chapter 1019

Her Billionaire Husband Chapter 1019- I'm Leaving

After reading Mateo's letter, Veronica felt that her nose was sour while the sharp pain in her heart was threatening to suffocate her.

As she looked at the neat handwriting, she could envision the Mateo Elrod that was full of vigor in her mind.

He was originally a cheerful child and could have lived a relaxed life, but Crayson had burdened him so much that his shoulders could not sustain the weight.

It caused Mateo to remember that kind of 'pain' for the rest of his life, which resulted in his sunny disposition being overtaken by darkness.

It was also on this day that 'Zac' led his people to the harbor and boarded the ship that was prepared by Dominik to leave the hidden clan.

Once they left, Veronica personally buried Crayson, Randy, and Hayley in the same cemetery as Tiffany.

Matthew was still injured, so he was recuperating at One Piece Restaurant.

She was the only one who went to settle their funeral rites.

As she looked at the pictures on their tombstones, she sighed deeply before she said, "May your souls rest in peace."

She stood in front of Crayson's tombstone and looked at the picture of someone with gray temples and a white beard.

Eventually, her vision was blurred as tears swam in her eyes.

Her mind replayed the scenes of her and Crayson together—be it the moments of happiness, childish play, or the time when she was lectured and punished.

No matter which scene it was, it all left Veronica heartbroken.

He regarded her like his own daughter while she thought of him as her elder.

Even though they were not blood relatives, he was like one to her.

Such an ending was not what anyone expected.

“You are too stubborn and too childish. You will even use any methods possible to achieve your goals. If it hadn’t been for this, we would have been like how we were back then. I’d grab your beard and call you names like old geezer and such, while you’d chase me and threaten to give me a good spanking. I’d have served you until your old age and in return, you’ll be able to witness me having a career and my own family. But...”

She refused to continue further as she collapsed onto her knees and bowed.

“Thank you for your guidance. If we say adieu today, I won’t have any chance to visit you anymore. If there is an afterlife, we better not meet each other again.”

She rose to her feet and went to Hayley’s tombstone where she kneeled and bowed.

“Thank you for your kindness.”

At that, she got up and glanced at the tombstones that belonged to Randy and Tiffany. Her heart grew heavy, but she turned and left without saying anything to them.

Two days later, Matthew, Veronica, and the others prepared to leave the hidden clan.

However, on the day before they left, they accompanied a mysterious woman in red to the research center located in the west zone where they stayed for a full five hours before leaving.

When they were about to board the ship, Dominik brought a group of people with him to personally bid Matthew and the others goodbye.

As soon as Dominik looked at Matthew, the two of them walked away from the group as they avoided the crowd on purpose.

“What’s up?” Matthew asked.

Dominik glanced at Veronica, who was not far away.

“Did you and Veronica visit the research center in the west zone yesterday?”

Matthew originally thought that nobody knew about it, but he never expected that Dominik would be made aware.

“I’m impressed that you found out so quickly.”

“Mother always thought that I was oblivious to the research center in the west zone, but I already knew about it about ten years ago. The secret passage under the research center leads to a secret room where there are venomous insects. I went to take a look, but the insects are all dead. What happened?" Dominik queried.

Matthew took out a cigarette and offered it to Dominik.

Then, he sighed and elaborated, "Roni had her memories partially sealed by Crayson. There are little venomous insects inside her body, so to prevent them from affecting her in the future, I went to the secret room and used the queen to lure the little ones out."

Read Novel Her Billionaire Husband Chapter 1020

Her Billionaire Husband Chapter 1020-Such a method would lead to the little venomous insects' death. So, it was only natural for Dominik to have realized it.

With a heavy expression, he flicked the cigarette and said, "Keeping the venomous insects would only harm more people."

That was the reason why he disposed of all the venomous insects when he left the secret room.

"The only ones who can control the venomous insects would be those from the Elrods. People from Crayson's family are either arrested or dead, so I suppose there aren't many people left who could help you?"

Dominik narrowed his eyes slightly with a tad bit of inquiry.

"Smart."

Matthew raised his head to look at Dominik before they broke into smiles.

After that, Dominik produced a card and handed it to Matthew.

"There is a total of 150 million inside. The account was opened in my name, so you should give it to her. Tell her that her big brother repents for his sins."

"No problem."

Matthew took the card.

"I'm sorry about the venomous insects."

The venomous insects were unique to the hidden clan and Matthew couldn't bear to see them being used to harm people either, but it was utterly selfish of him to deal with the insects in such a manner.

Dominik shook his head.

“Only the head of the Elrods are able to control the venomous insects.Crayson, Hayley, and several elders of the hidden clan are all dead, so there’s no one who can control the insects.Whether we keep the insects or not makes no difference.You don’t have to apologize.”

Matthew grunted as he nodded.

Then, he patted Dominik’s shoulder.

“I believe that you’ll be able to bring the hidden clan to greater heights.If we are meant to meet again, we definitely will.”

The two of them exchanged a few more words before Matthew returned to Veronica’s side.

Before they boarded the ship, Veronica approached Dominik.

“I need your help with something.”

“Please speak up if you have something to say.”

Dominik grinned at Veronica politely.

“I really hope you can let Destiny go as well as Xavier, Antheena, Hendrey, and especially, Mateo.Please don’t find fault with Mateo anymore.” She sighed.

“He has a good heart and is different from those Elrods.”

“You two have a tacit understanding, huh.”

Dominik glanced at Matthew before he turned to Veronica.

“Matthew has already spoken to me just now.As for Xavier and the others, I’ll let them leave the hidden clan in a week’s time.”

In order not to expose Zac’s matter, he couldn’t allow them to return to Castron for the time being.

Veronica glanced at Matthew with affection before turning back to Dominik.

“Thank you.I suppose it’s farewell.Until we meet—no, let’s not meet each other again.”

“Haha, sure,” came Dominik’s reply.

Then, he beckoned to the person behind him who immediately stepped forward to hand a carved box made out of mahogany to Veronica.

“Open this box when you have left.”

“Why the secrecy?”

Veronica laughed.

Dominik raised an eyebrow in a non committal manner.

“By the way, there’s something you should know,” he said as he suddenly remembered something.

He fished an item out of his pocket and placed it in his palm while looking at her.

Veronica stared at the item in his hand. It was a jade pendant—a round one at that—with decorations engraved inside.

The jade looked brand new, but there were bits of bloodstains on it.

Veronica’s nose turned sour at that as her eyes reddened.

“W-Why is this with you?”

She could not be any more familiar with the jade pendant.

When she was a young girl, she would play with the jade pendant hanging around Crayson’s neck every time he carried her.

After being with him for so long, she was so familiar with the jade pendant that she could almost draw it with her eyes closed.

She even knew that there was a slight scratch on the pendant.