

Her Billionaire 645

Chapter 645 You're Nothing Without Him

Veronica watched as Conrad led Elizabeth into the house. Sadness and sorrow welled up within her. I can't even take care of her without you, Matt.

"Madam Elizabeth is doing worse now, madam." Yura sighed. "I'm sorry you had to go through this."

"I'm fine as long as she's happy." Veronica shook her head and heaved a silent sigh. "With her condition not getting any better, her happiness takes precedence."

They entered the living room. Conrad kept talking to Elizabeth patiently until she was asleep. A moment later, he came back out and looked at Veronica coldly. "It's been a while. How are you doing?"

chin added to his allure. He had looks, but that was all. He was simply a good-looking warm water. "I'm fine." She took a sip of the water. "What about you? Are you haunted by nightmares man crossed his legs arrogantly and to speak with him any longer, she left the living snow. She and Matthew strolled the path and had a little banter. Eventually, they fell it had just happened the day before. A while you'll give me everything he has, and I'll on the snow and snapped coldly, "I didn't take you as a beggar, Uncle Conrad. Trying to beg me for something you can't get your hands on?" Veronica didn't even deign

"You ruined me,