

Her Billionaire 741

Chapter 741 Poison

Randy got on Veronica's nerves, but Mateo's reply almost made her laugh. He has humor and a sharp tongue. "Why you little..." Randy had no good comebacks.

Hayley thought this was going too far. She chided, "Apologize to your sister, Randy." "I told you, she's not my sister. I'm never going to apologize to her." He hmped and left.

"Where are you going, Randy?" a worried Lamia shouted. She then said to Hayley, "I'm going after him, Aunt Hayley," she said in Trilas.

Veronica's eyes glinted. She was interested in this woman named Lamia. After they were gone, Hayley turned back to Veronica. "I'm sorry. It's my fault. I spoiled the boy."

knew Veronica wouldn't accept it, but at least she wouldn't mock her. Or so she change a thing." Veronica sat down on the coffee up and took a sip. Then, she looked at everyone. Their eyes were set on her, but their gazes didn't unsettle her. Coldly, she said, "I have a lot to to master the hidden clan's language and know them better as soon as possible, but she didn't want to see Hayley. She might look elegant, gentle, and approachable, but Veronica just couldn't find it in herself to sympathize with her. For some reason, she disliked a shock for Hayley, been years since she last saw you. She wishes grew up together with the Larsons. Why didn't you take Tiffany back along with him? Now that she knows who she is,