

Healing 521

Chapter 521 Oppose him on purpose

Matilda rested for three days and finally recovered.

During the days, Miles did nothing but stayed by Matilda's side.

In fact, he didn't know exactly what was going on with Matilda's physique.

For ordinary people, after getting drunk, at most a day off would be fine. Matilda was tormented like she had a serious illness.

However, Miles was still very happy. In the past three days, he had spent almost 24 hours with Matilda. Although he will not do anything, just looking at her like this was enough to make him happy.

Aimee came over on the third day, checked Matilda, confirmed that all the data had returned to normal levels, and then said, "If you dare do this in the future, let's see if I will let you get away with it."

Matilda acted obediently in front of Aimee, immediately raised her hand and swore, "I promise I will never do it again."

Aimee glared at her and said, "I really don't believe what you said. You are a typical person who know you are wrong but dare to do it next time."

Matilda didn't refute at all, and just let Aimee scold her.

She knew very well that if she didn't let Aimee nag enough, she would definitely send herself out to carry out a mission.

She didn't want to be sent to the middle of nowhere, and she will be pitiful when the time came.

Aimee could naturally see what Matilda was up to, feeling angry and funny at the same time.

She even wanted to fight against Matilda a little bit, and send her out after she finished nagging.

She wanted her to learn a lesson from it.

However, Aimee did not do this in the end.

Even if she was still angry with Matilda, she had to show Miles respect.

After all, he was her husband's elder brother, so she still had to respect him.

However, what made Matilda suddenly feel a little depressed was that she had already thought of an important problem. In the future, Matilda would be her sister-in-law.

This girl usually didn't have any problems, but she can't guarantee when she will suddenly go crazy.

At that time, Aimee can't control her, but will be suppressed by Matilda as a sister-in-law. Just thinking about it gave Aimee a headache.

The only way she can think of now was to hope that Miles can be a little bit stronger, so as not to irritate Matilda.

Such a drinking, she should not do it again in the future.

Otherwise, Aimee would really feel overwhelmed.

When Aimee had finished talking, Matilda was relieved.

After sending Aimee away, Matilda leaned into Miles' arms and said, "It's strange. Can pregnancy really change a person so much? Aimee wasn't like this before."

In the past, she used simple methods and would not keep ranting about it.

Now, how can she feel that Aimee's methods were not as ruthless as before, but the current way didn't match Aimee no matter what.

Miles looked down at Matilda and asked, "She wasn't like this before, was she?"

Although Aimee was his sister-in-law, he really didn't have a special understanding of Aimee's behavior.

Matilda said, "Aimee used to be very straightforward to get rid of people."

Otherwise, how could she be so scary?

"Maybe," Miles said, "it will."

Nor did he understand how much pregnancy changed a person's character.

Matilda said, "However, Aimee like this is quite cute."

She was gentler than before. The most important thing was that Aimee will not punish her, so she was very cute for her.

Miles curled his lips and said, "Okay, the crisis is over. Don't worry anymore."

For the past three days, he had clearly felt Matilda's fear, and he was really worried about whether Aimee will punish her.

He also heard Matilda talk about being punished by Aimee before, but it was actually very unimaginable that it would be Aimee's doing.

However, he was really worried about it too.

Matilda said, "Why do I feel that you are happier than me?"

Miles touched his nose, but there was nothing to deny.

He said, "Of course I'm happy, but I'm also worried that if she sends you out. What will I do?"

Even with Miles' temper, he would definitely not be able to resist following with Matilda.

However, there were always some places where it was inconvenient for him to follow.

There were some things that they can't explain very clearly to each other, because they were very clear that their identities may not be that simple. In this way, many things will appear very complicated.

Miles will not ask or explore.

In the past three days, he was in a very tormented state.

Matilda said, "Don't worry about it now. We can be deeply attached to each other."

Miles was pleasantly surprised to hear Matilda say that.

Although they stayed together for the past three days, they were not very clingy and affectionate.

And, although Miles wanted to be intimate with her very much, he needed to take care of Matilda's emotions.

Miles was very surprised that Matilda could break through to the current state, and couldn't ask Matilda to make more concessions.

So, at this moment, when he heard Matilda say that, Miles was very satisfied.

Miles reached out, took Matilda into his arms, and stroked the top of her head, saying, "Thank you, Matilda."

Matilda didn't expect that she would say such a thing herself.

According to her character, she would never say those words.

But, unfortunately, she just blurted it out.

As a result, Matilda had been very embarrassed until now, and for a while, she didn't know how to face Miles.

Matilda raised her hand and grabbed Miles' clothes, but in fact she was somewhat uncomfortable with such intimacy.

However, she felt she was wrapped in a kind of sweetness.

She didn't even notice how happily she was smiling at the moment.

Ash came down from upstairs and saw them.

He stopped abruptly, took out his phone silently, and took a photo of the two of them.

He didn't make a sound, but turned and went back to his room.

He still thought he should move out.

Otherwise, it would not be appropriate to go on like this.

After returning to the room, Ash began to struggle whether to find another house, or to pick one from the houses he owned.

After thinking about it, he thought it would be too troublesome to find a new one.

He kind of wanted to move out right away.

It was just that his keys were all with Douglas, so he can take care of them regularly.

Ash didn't want to go back home, so he didn't go to get the keys until now.

However, now that it was indeed the case, he seemed to have to go and get one key.

Just thinking about it gave Ash a terrible headache.

He just refused Douglas' request, and he was going to get the key from him. Without even asking, he could already imagine how Douglas would deal with him.

Ash sighed, and even wanted to move to Mikayla instead of telling Aimee directly.

However, just thinking about it, Ash can already predict that if he really dared to say this to Aimee, he may really have his leg broken.

Ash even felt that he might have a serious illness. Otherwise, how could he have such outrageous thoughts?

After struggling for a moment, Ash still decided to go to Douglas.

So, he picked up his cell phone and made a call.

As Ash expected, Douglas had been making things difficult for him since he answered the phone.

No matter how much he called, Douglas wouldn't answer.

Ash called him the seventh before Douglas picked up the call slowly.

At this moment, Ash was already so angry that this bastard was trying to oppose him on purpose.

Chapter 522 Don't be a little bit concerned

Douglas' voice came over from the receiver in a low voice, and he said, "What!? Didn't you give up after calling three times before? Why did you call me five times today? What do you want from your brother?"

Ash was speechless.

Suddenly, he felt that it would be no trouble to find a new house now, and it was much easier than dealing with this bastard.

However, Ash kept his attitude very nice, and said very gently to Douglas, "Douglas, when will you be free? I'll come and get my key."

"Key? What key?" Douglas asked.

Ash was speechless again.

Douglas did it on purpose. He must have done it on purpose.

This bad guy won't feel comfortable if he didn't bully him for a day.

Ash still maintained a very obedient look, and said to Douglas, "Just give it to me, okay?"

Douglas was even more confused when he heard that Ash begged himself so humbly. "Why haven't you been home for so long? But you need the key when you get home. What do you want to do?"

Ash was about to say that he should go back to live, and it was not good to live outside all the time, when he heard Douglas say, "Ash, let me tell you, that girl hasn't taken the college examination yet, so don't make trouble for me."

Douglas didn't think there was any problems with being in a relationship with a girl who was much younger than him. And Ash was not much older than that girl, but, he was still quite worried. If something happened to the girl, how would her parents will think of it? However, as his brother, he will definitely teach him a lesson if it really happened.

Ash was speechless after hearing this.

He said, "Douglas, what kind of person I am in your heart? Can you be more reliable? Am I such a jerk?"

Between the two brothers, it was Douglas who looked more like a jerk.

Douglas guessed what he was thinking without asking, and immediately became unhappy.

Hey, this little bastard actually dared to slander him like this.

Douglas said, "It's okay to get the key. Come here."

Ash subconsciously wanted to refuse, because he really didn't want to go there.

However, there was no way, in that he was manipulated by him now.

Ash said, "Let me tell you first, I will leave after I take it, and you don't want me to do things for you."

Douglas was speechless and wanted to beat him now.

After hanging up the phone, Ash scratched his head. It was really annoying.

How can he win the fight with his bastard brother?

After thinking about it, Ash felt that if necessary, he might need to ask Aimee to help him.

After all, he went through a lot of hardships in order to learn from Aimee.

His family respected her very much.

If Aimee spoke for him, they wouldn't make things difficult for him.

With that in mind, Ash was about to do it.

So Ash called Aimee.

Aimee just went to April's place, and when she received the call from Ash, she frowned subconsciously.

Since Ash returned to Innisrial, there were only two possibilities that he would call her.

One was, something happened to Matilda, and the other was, something happened to Mikayla.

Matilda had just been checked, and there was no possibility that something will happen again.

Moreover, Miles was by Matilda's side. Even if something went wrong, Miles will call her.

So, it was most likely that something happened to Mikayla.

Aimee made a prediction, but didn't expect that after answering the phone, she heard he say, "Aimee, please do me a favor."

Aimee didn't respond right away.

Inexplicably, she didn't really want to agree, and always felt that it was not something good.

Sure enough, in the next second, Aimee heard Ash say, "Aimee, I need to go home for something. Can you come with me?"

Aimee was quite speechless. Did he still think he was a minor?

Aimee said, "That's your home. Why don't you dare to go back?"

"It's not that I don't dare," Ash said, "Aimee, you know how unreliable my brother is, and he just wants to bully me, his lovely brother. You know that I really have no interest in my family business. If I don't contribute to scientific research with such a high IQ, would it be a big loss? In order to serve the country better in the future, shouldn't I be allowed to stick to my research?"

Aimee didn't speak but just wanted to hang up the phone.

Ash spoke impassionedly about his great ideals and ambitions for a long time, but he didn't hear Aimee's answer.

He suddenly became nervous, and quickly asked, "Aimee, tell me something. What do you think?"

Aimee said, "Since you are so worried, then don't go back home."

That was so typical. The way she handled things was different from others.

Ash knew that. Based on Aimee's temperament, if this happened to her, she would definitely decide to buy a new house without any hesitation.

However, Ash still found it bothersome.

He didn't like to buy houses that had already been renovated, and he always thought that the house he lived should be designed by himself, completely according to his preferences.

In this way, even if he bought a house now, he will be able to move in at least one or two years later.

Therefore, it was better to live in the original one.

Ash said, "Aimee, Kelvin and Matilda, they have their relationships. It's not convenient for me to live with them."

Aimee understood his thoughts instantly.

She gave a low laugh and said, "I think you are thinking too much. Do you think Kelvin is going back to live now?"

Ash didn't say a word.

The implication was that it won't be long before Matilda will move out too.

At that time, he will live alone in the villa, and maybe he will find it boring.

However, despite what he said, Aimee still said, "Okay, okay, I will go with you. Don't worry. This country will not lose a talent like you."

Ash finally felt relieved when he heard Aimee's words.

After he complimented her, he happily hung up the phone.

Aimee shook her head helplessly. She had a premonition that Ash should have someone he liked, so he wanted to move out so urgently.

Suddenly, Aimee had some emotions.

Time really flew. In a blink of an eye, it had been so long since the three of them came back.

Moreover, they were in love with some people.

It was just that Aimee still didn't know what Ash's idea was.

What was even more unknown was that Ash's target was her sister.

When Aimee found out about this, she would be dumbfounded.

She didn't even know how to describe her mood.

There was an inexplicable feeling of raising a wolf at home.

After hanging up the phone, Aimee went to April's room.

April had woken up, but her body was still very weak.

However, all kinds of data indicators were improving, which made Aimee finally settle down.

At the same time, it also made Kelvin a little easier.

After checking April, Aimee said, "After that, I will send people to take care of her in turn, so you don't have to work so hard."

"It's not that hard. Her condition is quite stable," Kelvin said.

"I don't care about whether you feel it hard or not, but Casey is about to be anxious. If I don't let you go back, she might try to strangle me," Aimee said.

Kelvin laughed lowly when he heard this, and said, "Casey won't be like this. The last person she will be unhappy with is you."

Casey defended for Aimee more than anyone else.

Aimee said, "You really think so? If that's the case, I won't call anyone over. Just stay here."

As soon as she said so, Aimee saw Kelvin's face change. Obviously, he didn't expect Aimee to say that.

Aimee chuckled and said, "Look, what are you pretending? Don't I know you well yet? You wish you could fly to Casey's side now."

Kelvin said, "After all, I've only had such a girlfriend at such an age, so I have to pay attention to it."

Chapter 523 We are getting married soon

Aimee was quite surprised when she heard Kelvin's words.

In her opinion, Kelvin would not say those words.

In fact, he kept all his emotions inside him.

However, now, he actually said this so bluntly. To Aimee, it must be said that it was very shocking.

Because of this, Aimee was even more moved.

She said, "Okay, I'll watch here. Go back quickly, and give Casey a surprise."

Kelvin was not restrained and left the villa directly.

Right now, Casey was in school.

Since getting acquainted with Jemima, and Kelvin had been too busy recently, Casey often spent time in school with Jemima.

Both of them were about to graduate, and they didn't have any classes. They spent most of their time in the school library, sorting out papers and doing graduation projects.

However, Casey was in a really bad mood and couldn't get involved at all.

Jemima was flipping through the materials when she heard Casey's seventeenth sigh.

She finally couldn't help it, looked up at Casey, and said with some helplessness, "Casey, if you don't want to be with me so much, you don't have to come to school every day."

Originally, Jemima didn't come to school either. Although she also had to write a thesis, she mostly wanted to paint.

She was not used to the school's studio, and she was not comfortable with those painting tools.

Jemima came to school every day because she wanted to spend more time with Casey.

As it turned out, Casey didn't really want to be with her. It seemed like that.

Casey held her chin, looked towards Jemima, and said in a low voice, "Don't talk nonsense. I never think so."

"But you've been sighing all the time, and this is the seventeenth," Jemima said.

Jemima's temperament was not that cheerful. Many times, she was somewhat autistic.

Girls with such a personality, in fact, were very sensitive and suspicious in many cases, and will associate all bad things with themselves.

Jemima looked like this kind of person.

Casey sighed so much, so Jemima naturally thought that it was because of her fault that made Casey so unhappy.

Casey said, "I think this has nothing to do with you. In fact, you still won't believe it in your heart, but I still want to say it really has nothing to do with you."

"I really like being with you. I also like to come to school with you. But, you know I'm in a relationship. I haven't seen my boyfriend for a long time. We two are obviously in the same city, but there is a feeling of a long-distance relationship. I feel very unhappy now. I just miss him."

"You probably can't understand now, and you can't empathize with me. When you fall in love too, you will know my current mood, and it is really easy to understand."

Jemima listened to what Casey said. As Casey said, she couldn't empathize, and she couldn't quite understand why Casey was so unhappy because she couldn't see her boyfriend.

Jemima was still very happy after confirming that it was not because of her.

"Where did your boyfriend go?" she asked.

It was not for the sake of gossip. It was very strange. How can they not see each other even though they were in the same city?

Jemima can't help but think more negatively.

However, she didn't tell Casey about that.

Casey said, "He's working. Recently, he has a relatively important job, which keeps him busy."

Specifically, Casey didn't tell Jemima the truth either.

It was not that she didn't trust her, but she didn't think it was necessary.

Moreover, the two of them really hadn't reached the level when they can say that.

Jemima nodded, and didn't ask any more questions.

A lot of things should stop at where they should.

Asking for detail would make both of them embarrassed.

Casey let out another long sigh. What she should do? She really missed her boyfriend.

However, the next second, Casey's arm was nudged.

Jemima tugged at her sleeve, motioning her to look up.

Casey raised her head suspiciously, and saw a handsome boy standing in front of her.

She had a little impression on him. His name was Diego Barnes, a freshman in the Department of Mathematics.

When he entered school, there was a sensation, because there had never been this type of boy in the entire mathematics department.

Judging from his appearance, he looked like a sports student. He was very sunny and tough. He smiled like a sun. The kind that can make people feel better. He had a buzz cut. Without any confidence, people dared not have this kind of hairstyle.

What made him particularly contrasting was that one of his small canine teeth was so cute that he seemed to look several years younger in an instant.

Countless seniors had selected him as the new and most handsome guy.

It can be said that as soon as Diego entered the school, he caused quite a stir.

Casey, who had never been in school much, was no stranger to this boy.

This boy appeared in front of her now, but it made Casey have some doubts.

Looking at Diego strangely, she inexplicably had a premonition.

Sure enough, in the next second, her idea was verified.

Diego said, "Hi, I'm Diego, a freshman in the Department of Mathematics. Can I have your Instagram?"

If people had a good impression on other people and planned to pursue, or their friends had a good impression on someone, they would ask her or him for their Instagram accounts.

Otherwise, who would rush to ask someone for this in such a rampage ?

However, if this kind of thing happened to a girl who was single and longed to fall in love, it may be a very exciting thing.

For Casey, she really felt it a little helpless.

Casey said, "I'm sorry. I'm about to graduate. I can't help you much in school, so I won't give you that."

Diego didn't feel annoyed when he was rejected. Instead, he just continued to say, "I'll graduate too, so let's think of it as me planning for graduation. You can tell me you some experience at that time. "

Casey was helpless. Did the boys these days have so many tricks?

She looked at Diego and said, "I see. You're so motivated."

Diego smiled and said, "So, please help me, a motivated guy."

Casey also smiled, and said, "But I can't. I'm not self-motivated. I just want to be lazy. After I graduate, I want to go home and do nothing. If you want to ask me for help after graduation, I can't give you any advice."

Diego didn't expect Casey to say that.

He was a little astonished. Even when he planned to pursue Casey, and many people told him that Casey was inaccessible, he still wanted to give it a try, refusing to give up until he had experienced a failure.

And he learned that she was not that like as other people described.

She was excellent in all aspects, and many of her works had won various awards.

She said that she would stay at home and not work after graduation , but Diego didn't believe it at all.

However, even if he didn't want to admit it, Diego still had to accept the reality.

He was rejected by Casey, moreover, rejected thoroughly.

Diego felt lost for a moment, but in the next second, he returned to his sunny appearance.

He said, "Since you don't like this roundabout way, then let me be straightforward. I like you very much. Please give me a chance to pursue you."

Casey never expected that he would be so brave.

Generally speaking, after she rejected him obviously, he should give up.

However, he was running in the opposite direction.

Casey became a little depressed, because she was not a person who enjoyed being pursued.

She said, "I'm sorry. I already have a boyfriend, and we are getting married soon. Thank you. I think you should give up."

Chapter 524 Is there such a friend?

Casey's words made Diego unable to react for a long time.

He obviously did some research to make sure that no one in the school pursued Casey, and he never saw her have intimate contact with any boys.

Now she was telling him that she was going to get married?

Diego instinctively didn't believe it, thinking that Casey was lying to him.

However, before Diego could speak, his sight was attracted by a figure.

That figure had already walked to Casey's side. His hand had already landed on Casey's shoulder, and his gaze was gentle and tender, full of emotion.

Diego had never seen this man in school, and from his aura, he can be sure that this man was definitely not from this school.

So, for a long time, he never got any information about Casey's relationship, because her boyfriend was working right now.

Diego had an indescribable feeling.

It was not a feeling of anger, but a sense of powerlessness.

He can't change the age gap.

If Casey used age as the excuse to reject him, there was really no way for him to change.

After all, it was impossible for him to go back and let his mother give birth to him a few years earlier.

This feeling of being oppressed by force majeure made Diego feel bad.

What made him even worse was that when Casey turned her head and saw clearly who was coming, her eyes lit up at that moment.

That kind of love that couldn't be hidden, that kind of surprise that was about to overflow, almost made Diego feel like he was going to have a heart attack.

Just now, when Casey looked at him, she had an indifferent and cold gaze, but now, the enthusiasm in her eyes was fully blooming.

Diego had to admit that he was pretty jealous.

He was jealous enough to want to snatch her over.

However, the idea was only for a moment, and Diego gave it up.

Because he knew he couldn't do it.

With such strong feelings, after the man appeared, the two people's eyes were focused together, not giving anyone a little space. All these were enough for Diego to understand that he could do nothing.

Diego didn't fight for anything more for himself, and didn't say anything more.

He just walked away silently.

And what he didn't know was that after a moment of excitement, Casey became unhappy in an instant.

How embarrassing it was?

Who can come and save her?

She didn't even know how long Kelvin had been watching before coming over.

No man will feel goofy when he saw his girlfriend being confessed.

Although Kelvin didn't do anything and didn't say anything at the moment, Casey still had a strong feeling that she might be fixed by Kelvin.

Just thinking about it made Casey want to find a place to hide herself.

She missed her boyfriend so much, but meeting him was such a situation.

God, who can come and save her?

When Kelvin watched Casey's expression change, he found it both angry and funny.

He was indeed angry and very jealous.

But after seeing Casey's expression, he couldn't get angry.

The girl showed all her emotions on her face, including the cowardice towards him at the moment.

Kelvin raised his hand and rubbed Casey's head, saying, "How much longer will it take?"

As Casey heard this, she remembered that she was in the library with Jemima.

She immediately turned her head to look at Jemima, only to see that she had already packed her things, blinking at her, as if she could go.

Casey asked, "You don't want to continue reading?"

"I also have this book at home, so I don't need to read it here." Jemima said.

Casey was speechless.

So, why did the two of them rush to the library early in the morning and then spend most of the day here?

Casey said, "Let's go then."

"Okay." Jemima nodded.

Casey packed her things quickly and stood up.

She was holding Jemima's hand tightly at the moment, as if she didn't know Kelvin well.

Kelvin didn't care at all. Instead, he looked at Casey's back, and wanted to see how long this girl can insist.

When the three of them left the library, Jemima took her hand away from Casey's.

Jemima said, "I'm leaving first. If you have time, come to me again."

After speaking, Jemima didn't care about Casey's embarrassing expression, but strode away.

What kind of confusing behavior was this? She treated her like this as a friend?

Can't she empathize with her?

She didn't know if she was scared now?

Casey compressed her mouth, aggrieved, thinking that if she accompanied Jemima to the library again, she would be an idiot.

After Jemima walked away, Casey turned to look at Kelvin with a sullen face, and asked in a low voice, "Kelvin, how did you get into our library?"

The library of this school was quite strictly managed, and it was not easy for outsiders to come in.

Kelvin said, "It is not difficult to get an electronic ID card."

He just relied on his own strength and bullied honest people like her?

Casey snorted softly and said, "Then why didn't you tell me before you came?"

If she had known that Kelvin would be free today, she wouldn't have come to the library.

Kelvin would not be allowed to see that scene.

Casey just thought Kelvin was to blame for all of this.

Kelvin laughed angrily at her words.

He raised his hand and flicked Casey's head, saying, "I wanted to give you a surprise, but I didn't expect you to give me one."

Chapter 525 Are you going home today?

As Casey heard this, she instantly wilted, as if she had been bullied.

Kelvin wasn't really angry. He just wanted to joke with her, and seeing her so cute made him feel happy inexplicably.

Casey sniffed and said, "It can't be my fault. I don't even know who he is."

Strictly speaking, Casey did not know Diego.

She didn't mess with someone either. If he wanted to blame her, he can only blame her for being too beautiful and outstanding. She was just so fascinating.

Kelvin gave a muffled laugh and said, "Okay, I know it wasn't on purpose, but my baby is so cute."

When Casey heard him say that, her expression froze in an instant.

She nodded hastily, and said, "I'm really happy if you think so."

Kelvin suppressed a smile, but his face became serious again, and he said, "But what to do? I'm still a little jealous."

He was not a generous person, and didn't care about many things. It was just that he never cared about trivial things.

Kelvin had always been very fussy about what he cared about.

For Casey, he can actually be described as stingy.

With Kelvin's words, Casey's mood brightened instantly.

She raised her feet and leaned towards Kelvin. Putting her arms around his waist, she pressed her face tightly against his chest, and her tone was a little coquettish.

"Kelvin, you like me so much." Casey rubbed against his chest, holding her hands tightly, looking overjoyed.

She said softly, "I like you too. We're a perfect couple."

In jealous feeling in Kelvin's heart was quenched in an instant.

He even felt he was indeed stingy himself. What was he fussing about with a kid?

Could it be that he was worried that his girl would be snatched away?

His big hand landed on Casey's back, and Kelvin stroked her back.

Casey hadn't hugged Kelvin for a long time, and she was greedy for the smell of him in an instant. She sniffed and the smell reassured her.

This familiar feeling made Casey so greedy.

She really wanted to tell Kelvin that she never wanted to be separated from him for so long, that she really missed him.

However, Casey was not a willful girl. She also knew that in the world of adults, of course, there was more than just love. Every adult needed to be responsible for his or her own life.

Even though Kelvin was already a very successful man now, he should still manage his life well.

Therefore, as a woman who will accompany Kelvin for the rest of her life in the future, Casey thought that she should not hold his back. She wanted Kelvin to go about his own business without any worries.

Although, sometimes, she really wanted to be clingy with Kelvin...

After hugging him for a while, Casey raised her head from Kelvin's arms.

She looked at Kelvin and asked, "Kelvin, are you going home today?"

Her voice sounded aggrieved, pitiful, and cautious.

Chapter 526 She can't be so obvious

When Kelvin heard Casey's tone, his heart ached.

During this period of time, he had indeed neglected Casey a lot, making her become so cautious even when she could be self-willed towards him.

Kelvin took Casey into his arms, kissed her forehead lightly, and said, "Go home, and I'll go home every day from now on."

As Casey heard this, she immediately looked at Kelvin with bright eyes, "Really? Don't you lie to me?"

"Really," Kelvin said.

Casey immediately became happy, couldn't control herself for a moment, got up, and jumped on top of Kelvin.

She hung her hands and feet on Kelvin's body, looking happy.

Kelvin supported her, and was very grateful for her happy appearance.

He said, "Come on, let's go home now."

Casey nodded vigorously, then seemed to think of something, and said, "Let's go to the grocery store first. I want to eat the food you cook."

She had thought about it for a long time, and in her opinion, Kelvin's cooking was the best.

Kelvin heard this and said, "Let's go. I'll cook whatever you want to eat."

Casey nodded, and then obediently jumped off Kelvin's body, but was still clingy to Kelvin's side, holding Kelvin's arm with both hands, like kitten.

Kelvin curled his lips, and really liked the way she clung to him.

After the two got into the car, Casey chattered about what happened during this time.

She texted Kelvin every day, telling him what she had done everyday and what interesting things had happened.

However, seeing Kelvin now, Casey couldn't help sharing those with him again.

Kelvin loved to hear her talk about them, as if they were together every day.

In fact, he felt a little bit guilty to some extent. He had only been with Casey not long ago, and then separated from her in different places like a long-distance relationship.

When April's body recovered completely, Kelvin decided that he must take a long vacation and stay with Casey for 24 hours until she thought he was annoying.

The two went directly to the grocery store inside La Grande Maison. After the ingredients were selected, they didn't need to carry them up. There would be staff who sorted them out, packed them, and delivered them to their home.

Casey took Kelvin's hand and picked what she wanted from the shelves.

She felt as if she was alive again. When Kelvin didn't come home, she was very depressed, that was, when she was so hungry that she would go to find something to eat randomly. She never had a proper meal.

Now that Kelvin was back, Casey naturally wanted to eat anything she wanted to eat.

Casey took a box of oxtail bones and said, "Kelvin, can you make this? I saw some gourmets eat it, and it looks delicious."

Kelvin took a look at the box of oxtail bones and found that the quality was very good.

However, he really hadn't done it.

Seeing Casey looking at himself expectantly, he said, "I can try it."

Casey cheered up immediately, took two more boxes and stuffed them into the shopping cart.

Casey said, "Our main course today is oxtail bone."

Kelvin nodded, asked Casey what flavor she wanted, went to buy side dishes and other things, and then turned to the snack area.

Casey picked out a few bags of snacks, and some ice cream she liked, and put them in the shopping cart under Kelvin's helpless eyes.

Kelvin said, "I can buy them all for you, but you can only eat one at most per day."

Casey pursed her lips, thinking that if she obediently agreed now, Kelvin couldn't control how much she ate.

However, her eyes betrayed her in an instant.

Kelvin raised his hand and pinched her cheek gently, saying, "When the time comes, your stomach will hurt. Let's see how I will deal with you."

Casey was speechless.

Was this what a boyfriend should say?

Casey became unhappy in an instant, squeezed Kelvin's hand, and said, "Aren't you afraid that you'll lose me if you bully me like this?"

Could such a lovely girlfriend of his be bullied like this?

Kelvin laughed and said, "Anyway, my girlfriend is almost gone."

Casey was perplexed and shocked at the same time.

What kind of confusing speech was this? What did it mean by that?

She was still here. Hey, was it really appropriate to say that?

Where was he going to get her?

Casey immediately became upset, glared at Kelvin, and said, "Clarify to me. What do you mean?"

Kelvin saw that her eye sockets were red, and she really felt wronged, so he found it both funny and dumbfounded in an instant.

She was usually very smart, but why did she become such an idiot at this time?

He said, "It means that the girlfriend is about to become a wife."

Her rage was inexplicably extinguished.

This unsteady feeling made Casey not know what to do for a while.

She looked at Kelvin for a while, and then said, "Kelvin, you are so good at this."

He was indeed good at saying love words.

Originally, she was about to be pissed off, but after being told by Kelvin, she felt so sweet in an instant.

Kelvin said, "You were so angry. I thought you were going to be my girlfriend for the rest of your life."

Casey shook her head immediately and said, "No, I don't want it."

She immediately hugged Kelvin's arm, shook it, and said, "Kelvin, do you want to tell me when are you going to propose me?"

Kelvin said, "No hurry."

Casey felt that Kelvin seemed to be teasing her, making her happy and unhappy.

She flattened her mouth and said, "I think you're very dishonest now. Are you bullying me on purpose?"

Kelvin said, "I always have to get your grandpa's permission first."

Otherwise, if he “abducted” his granddaughter without saying a word in advance, and get married, not to mention whether he would let them divorce, or even if he would not, he would have to beat Kelvin into a disabled person.

As Casey heard this, she immediately became amused.

This was really the case, because they always had to let grandpa know first.

She giggled and said deliberately, “Kelvin, you have a lot to do. In my grandpa’s heart, I’m a very important person. If you don’t make him satisfied, it’s very difficult to make me marry you.”

Kelvin felt helpless when he saw her expression of seeing the fun.

Somehow, he had the feeling that maybe it wouldn’t be so difficult for him to get permission from the Haydens, and that it was Casey who might be the biggest obstacle to his marriage.

Just thinking about it, Kelvin heard a familiar voice.

“Don’t listen to her. Hurry up, visit and ask to marry Casey. Our family will happily send her out.” Miles said.

Kelvin and Casey looked in the direction of the sound in unison, and saw Miles holding Matilda with one hand and pushing the cart with the other, walking towards them.

Miles and Matilda had listened to their conversation.

When Casey saw Miles, she felt somewhat guilty.

But soon, she frowned, had her hands on her hips and stared at Miles, saying, “Miles, what do you mean by that? Do you think your lovely sister is redundant?”

Miles raised his eyebrows lightly, and said, “I thought, you should be impatient to get married.”

Casey was speechless.

What should she do? She seemed unable to refute this.

She just wanted to marry Kelvin.

However, in front of Miles, she couldn’t be so obvious.

Chapter 527 Don’t be dramatic

Casey’s mind was running fast, and soon, she thought of something.

She looked at Miles and Matilda’s clasped hands, and said, “Miles, are you in such a hurry to see me marry because Patrick is already married? And if I marry, grandpa will be able to focus on you, so that you can get married? If you want to marry Matilda, you don’t have to make such a detour.”

Miles didn’t reply right away.

“What should I do? I really want to beat my sister up. What should I do?” Miles thought.

Was there any way to make him resist the urge to fix this girl?

Seeing his downcast face, Casey immediately said, "Miles, don't lose your temper with me. I'm not a good-tempered kid. If you treat me like this, I will tell grandpa."

Miles said, "Are you a primary school student? Go and complain to grandpa?"

"Then I talk to Aimee. Aren't you afraid I'll go to Aimee to speak ill of you, so that you can't marry Matilda?" Casey said.

Matilda was almost left speechless by the siblings. She was still here, but the two of them were discussing this kind of thing in front of her. Was it really okay?

Was there anyone who can care about her feelings?

Miles got a headache and can only look at Kelvin. His eyes signaled him to take care of his girlfriend. Otherwise, whether he can marry was another matter.

Kelvin was also having a headache.

He changed the subject and said, "Are you guys planning to cook too? Do you want to cook together?"

"Just got some snacks," Miles said. "I don't have a kitchen there."

Kelvin felt it was quite speechless.

He said, "Casey wants to eat oxtail bones. Do you want some?"

As Matilda heard this, she became interested and immediately agreed, "Okay, okay, let's go."

The four of them took some other things, and went home after paying the bill.

Casey held Kelvin in one arm and Matilda in the other, turned her head and asked Matilda, "Matilda, why did you get captured by Miles?"

Although it was not kind to think so, Casey still wanted to see Miles had a long way to go after his girlfriend.

Kelvin was also puzzled by this question.

He didn't even know how it all happened.

If he hadn't met the two of them in the store today, he wouldn't even have known that these two were already together.

Matilda said, "Miles is pitiful so I just give him a chance."

Casey giggled and said, "Matilda, you are really kind. Our family will thank you."

Miles glared at Casey through Matilda, and thought Casey became more and more infuriating now.

And he can see the situation clearly now.

He was the one at the bottom of that food chain.

It seemed that he had to change his strategy.

Originally, Miles thought that everything would be fine if things were taken slowly. He didn't ask too much, put too much pressure on Matilda, and they will develop naturally.

However, now Miles realized a problem.

Regardless of whether Aimee would do anything, Casey, a troublemaker, threatened him with Matilda every now and then. Just thinking about it was enough to make him feel dizzy.

Therefore, among other things, it was really very important to get married with her as soon as possible.

After coming up with this idea, Miles began to think silently in his heart.

How to do this very naturally was also a matter of learning.

He couldn't tell Matilda directly that they went to get the certificate.

When the four of them returned home, Matilda and Casey, of course, did nothing, and it was impossible for them to help in the kitchen.

Matilda thought about it, and called Aimee. The ox tail bones were still the best made by Aimee, and she really wanted to eat the food cooked by Aimee.

However, the feedback from Aimee was that she was busy, and she will cook it for her after she finishes her work.

Matilda can only hang up the phone. She hadn't eaten Aimee's dishes for a long time, which was a terrible punishment for her.

Casey listened to Matilda and Aimee talking on the phone the whole time, and after Matilda hung up the phone, she said, "Matilda, don't think about it for now. Patrick is very strict with Aimee now, and he can't even let her go. Let alone in the kitchen."

It was because she liked the dishes made by Aimee that she went back to Hayden's Mansion from time to time, but unexpectedly, she was disgusted by Patrick every time.

Matilda heard the words, calculated the time, and said, "I guess, I won't be able to eat until next year."

"Whoa, I really want to eat the dishes made by Aimee too." Casey said.

However, her boyfriend's cooking was also delicious, so she was not as sad as Matilda.

But Matilda...

Casey thought of something, couldn't hold back, and laughed unceremoniously.

She said, "Matilda, Miles can't even peel a piece of garlic. You have to cook yourself when you want to eat something."

When Matilda heard this, she became even more sad.

The reason why she came back with Miles today was she thought that Miles would cook for her himself.

Who would have thought that this guy told her, after they arrived, that he didn't even have a kitchen at home, so they just bought some snacks and then would order takeaway.

Matilda probably won't forget the critical blow Miles gave her for a long time to come.

What she thought was that they would have a warm kitchen story, cook together, and have a sweet time together.

Who would have thought that this guy would never give her this chance.

What can she do? She had already followed him here, so she can only compromise.

They were kinda lucky because they even met Casey and Kelvin, and could sponge food from them.

However, Matilda suddenly looked at the kitchen suspiciously, and asked Casey, "Miles can't cook, but what is he doing in the kitchen?"

"I don't know." Casey was also puzzled, looking towards the kitchen in a strange way, unable to imagine what Miles could do in the kitchen.

The two girls looked at each other, and in the next second, they stood up from the sofa in unison and walked towards the kitchen.

As a result, the two of them saw that Miles was standing leaning against the wall with his arms folded, showing no sign of wanting to help.

Even, when he saw how Kelvin was handling the ingredients, he showed an unbelievable expression.

Matilda was speechless.

She walked over, stood beside Miles, and asked, "What are you dramatic for?"

"Learning," Miles said, with a hint of bravado.

Kelvin almost rolled his eyes when he heard that.

Since he followed him in just now, although Kelvin didn't think about asking him to help, Kelvin was really speechless for him being stuck here like a wooden stake.

However, now, he was able to say such that without shame.

Kelvin was about to lose his grip on the knife in his hand.

Casey was also very speechless, and said unceremoniously, "Miles, your house doesn't even have a kitchen. What are you learning?"

Miles really wanted to beat up her sister.

If he really did, Walter and Patrick shouldn't be unhappy but applaud for him, right?

Miles curled his fingers and said, "I'll send someone over to make a kitchen tomorrow."

Did he have a serious illness?

Matilda suddenly became interested, and said, "Why don't you cook a dish to see if you have talent, and then we can decide whether to make a kitchen or not?"

She thought, if Miles didn't have this talent, and if he really didn't like cooking, there was no need to change anything.

She also didn't really want to cook. They can eat out all the time, and they won't starve to death anyway.

When Miles heard this, he looked at Matilda, seemed to be worried about something, and asked, "Are you serious?"

Chapter 528 Pamper

Matilda nodded and said, "I am serious. You don't want to?"

It was not that he didn't want to, but there was an inexplicable feeling of uneasiness.

He thought that Matilda might still not know him well, and that was why she proposed this.

On the contrary, Casey immediately became nervous after hearing Matilda's proposal.

She almost jumped at it to make Matilda quickly dismiss the idea.

Unexpectedly, the next second, Casey heard Miles say, "Okay, then I'll make one."

God, who gave Miles such confidence that he actually thought that he could cook?

Just thinking about it gave Casey a headache.

Matilda looked at the ingredients that Kelvin had processed, and asked Kelvin, "Which one is easier to cook?"

He can only fry eggs and cook instant noodles, so he really didn't understand these things very well.

Kelvin said, "One of the most traditional home-cooked dishes in our country is smashed potato."

Miles looked at Kelvin speechlessly, and inexplicably felt that he was being discriminated against.

Kelvin watched him look at himself, and said, "This is a dish that can cause a heated debate. Don't think it's very simple."

Matilda heard the words and said, "Since this is mentioned, let's make it clear whether you are cheese lovers or not, garlic lovers or not."

Casey immediately raised her hand and said, "I want cheese but no garlic. I hate garlic!"

Matilda nodded and said, "I want cheese too. Onions are fine, but garlic is not."

Both men were speechless.

Kelvin was speechless because he himself was acceptable for all the ingredients, and no matter what he cooked, he can make it delicious.

And Miles was speechless because he didn't even know that they could still fight for this kind of thing.

When it came to food, he always thought it was fine as long as it tasted good. As for how to make it, he didn't know, and didn't want to know.

He didn't want to know anything about kitchen.

However, in the past, he could think this way because, when he was alone, he would be fine if he didn't eat something that didn't taste good.

And now, he was with Matilda. Obviously, Matilda would compliment a man who could cook.

Miles naturally hoped that he would be perfect here with Matilda.

Therefore, even if there was something insurmountable in his heart, Miles was willing to try for Matilda.

He looked at Matilda and asked, "Then can you do it?"

Since he promised to make it for Matilda to eat, then he will not go back on his word.

Matilda shook her head and said, "You've got me. I really can't do it."

Miles ignored Casey and looked towards Kelvin, "Please teach me how to cook."

He didn't even ask Casey. Was he looking down on her?

She knew how to make smashed potato, okay?

Casey said, "Miles, let me teach you."

Miles looked at Casey with distaste for a long time before saying, "No."

The disgust in his eyes was about to overflow.

Casey was furious.

She also had a little bit of talent, okay? How can Miles despise her like this?

Kelvin said, "Then wait for me to stew the oxtail bones first. Now, you can try washing the potatoes."

What did he mean? He thought he was so stupid that he can't even wash the potatoes?

Soon, Miles washed them, and Kelvin said again, "Then the next step is to beat an egg."

Holding the egg, Miles had an inexplicable feeling.

The last time he did this seemed to be in kindergarten, when the teacher asked them to beat eggs and mix them with flour.

At that time, Miles hated this kind of thing.

He can't even forget the sticky feeling when it fell on his hand after crushing the egg.

But at this moment, he wanted to experience that feeling again, and it made him feel bad in an instant.

Kelvin watched Miles holding the egg without moving for a long time, and asked suspiciously, "Can you?"

If he admitted that he can't, will it appear that he was too lame?

He took a deep breath and said, "Yes."

However, just after saying this, when Miles started cracking the egg, everyone was dumbfounded.

Casey couldn't help it first, and said directly, "Miles, are you clumsy with your hands?"

Miles raised his eyes, glared at Casey, and wanted to say, if she didn't speak, no one would treat her as a mute.

However, he was so poor at this that he didn't even have the qualifications to rebuke his sister.

Casey held back for a long time, but still didn't succeed, and laughed out loud.

Miles wanted to beat her up more.

Kelvin was also very speechless. If he hadn't seen it with his own eyes, it would be hard for him to believe that someone would really beat the egg shell in half and put it in a bowl, and it was broken.

He didn't hold back, but asked again, "You just said you can."

Miles was extremely speechless.

Wasn't this something that everyone should know how to do it?

It was just that his hands were not very good to use.

Matilda couldn't help laughing, took the bowl from Miles and said, "I'll pick it out for you."

Kelvin and Casey were two bad guys, laughing at Miles. She can't do it, but had to coax Miles, and can't discourage his enthusiasm.

Matilda carefully picked out the eggshell, and said, "Okay, let's move on to the next step."

Miles felt a little helpless, because Matilda was like coaxing a child.

However, he still bought it.

Casey moved to Kelvin's side, looking cute and asked, "Can I do something for you?"

Kelvin smiled, "You really want to help me?"

Casey nodded and said, "I'm your gentle and lovely girlfriend."

Kelvin curled the corner of his mouth and said, "You are the best."

Instantly, Casey felt sweet. With her eyes glued to Kelvin's face all the time, she looked like a crazy fan.

Miles finally finished cracking the eggs, and when he looked up, he saw Casey staring at Kelvin with a fangirling look on her face.

Miles was speechless. Was his younger sister a little too extroverted? She can't help but wish she could grow on her boyfriend's body. When it came time to propose marriage, wouldn't it be that the conditions had not been discussed yet, so she will directly ask him to marry her?

Matilda followed Miles' line of sight, smiled, and said, "Can't you bear it?"

Miles said, "It's good to have someone to take care of her."

Matilda curled her lips and said, "You can rest assured that Kelvin will pamper her."

Miles felt a little helpless when he heard the words, and said, "I actually hope that he won't pamper her so much. If he really does so, what should I do?"

"You think too much. None of your three elder brothers pamper her, so why are you afraid? Casey is not that kind of girl at all." Matilda said.

Miles curled his lips, thinking about it. If Casey was really spoiled and arrogant, she might have caused some trouble long ago.

Being able to grow into such a cute look now was naturally inseparable from the education at home.

Matilda patted Miles on the shoulder and said, "Okay, don't think so much. As long as Casey is happy, you can rest assured, right?"

Miles nodded, but still couldn't help but sigh with emotion. He didn't expect that his sister, who seemed to be following him behind yesterday and called him brother, now had her boyfriend, and soon, she may enter her new chapter of life.

He had to feel that time really flew.

Chapter 529 A mess

After Kelvin stewed the oxtail bones, he prepared the other ingredients, and temporarily withdrew from the kitchen.

Oxtail bones would take a long time to cook. If other dishes were made first, they will not taste good after a while.

The four of them came out of the kitchen, and there was nothing else to do for a while, so Casey went to get the playing cards and said, "Let's play cards."

There were four people, a team of two.

Casey thought for a while, sat down opposite Kelvin, and said, "Losers have to do the dishes."

She and Kelvin exchanged a look, ready to win.

Matilda also sat face to face with Miles and exchanged glances, ready to defeat Casey and Kelvin.

The two sides were eager to fight.

Casey rolled up her sleeves and said, "First, don't get angry if you lose."

Miles raised his eyebrows and said, "Talk to yourself about this. Do you think any of us will lose to you?"

Casey was speechless. Was he still her brother? Was it really okay to be sarcastic to his sister like this?

Moreover, what did these words mean? Did she, a kid, seem to be so unreasonable?

With a soft snort, Casey said, "Anyway, it's not that I'm afraid of washing dishes, but Miles, don't deny it after you lose."

Miles snorted lightly and said, "If I don't kick your ass, you won't know how smug you're."

Casey stuck out her tongue and said, "Anyway, my boyfriend will protect me."

Miles was speechless that she had a double standard.

In the first round, Miles used a posture to give Casey a blow, and he really defeated Casey.

It was the first time Casey had seen Miles be so merciless.

She was his sister!

Casey thought, at the beginning, that she was going to be treated like a favorite by them. Even if everyone deliberately said they wanted to bully her, they didn't mean it.

Miles was the first to punch her hard.

After she was beaten so badly by Miles, Casey's fighting power was aroused.

Can she admit defeat like this?

She can't!

Casey said, "Miles, don't be too complacent. I'm very good at it!"

Miles looked at Casey and found it funny, as if he was watching her making a fuss. Anyway, no matter how noisy she was, he would have to deal with her in the end.

Thinking about it this way, Miles became even more unscrupulous. If people didn't know that this was just the four of them playing casually, seeing Miles' posture, people would probably think that Miles and Casey had deep hatred. Otherwise, how could they be so ruthless?

Even Matilda couldn't stand it anymore. She glanced at Miles and asked him to calm down a little. He was making people think that the two of them bullied a little girl so much because they didn't want to wash the dishes.

Fortunately, Miles was really teasing Casey, and after he bluffed Casey, he became much gentler.

However, Casey was already dazed by him. Afterwards, even though Miles had put away his aggressive playing style, Casey was still hurry-scurry.

It ended with the defeat of Casey and Kelvin.

Casey was lying on the table, looking like she was being bullied miserably.

Kelvin touched her head and said, "Good girl, I will avenge you later."

Casey reached out to Kelvin and said, "My heart is hurt, woo woo woo."

Kelvin pulled her up and said, "Go, let's stay away from the battlefield."

Casey nodded and followed Kelvin to the kitchen.

Matilda looked at Miles helplessly, and said, "Look at you! Why are you bullying her?"

“I thought Kelvin was going to make a move,” Miles said.

The reason for being so ruthless was naturally adequate.

Miles wanted to get to know Kelvin’s bottom line and see what he would do.

Matilda said, “You may be wrong. Kelvin is not that kind of person.”

Miles reached out and held Matilda’s shoulders, pulling her into his arms.

Miles said, “So you’re not worried that I’ll be jealous?”

Matilda was startled, then looked at Miles, and said, “Do you want to be jealous about that?”

Miles smiled and said, “I shouldn’t?”

He naturally knew that Matilda and Kelvin had nothing to do with each other, and it was impossible for them to have any emotional connection. However, as a man, he managed to court Matilda, so he couldn’t help but become narrow-minded.

If he was so generous to the woman he cared about that he didn’t get jealous, did that mean that he didn’t actually love Matilda that much?

Matilda was quite new to this feeling.

After all, this was the first man who told himself so bluntly that he was jealous.

Matilda approached Miles and said, “Miles, do you love me very much?”

Miles raised his eyebrows, took Matilda over, and said, “What do you think?”

If he didn’t love her, how can he care so much?

Matilda giggled, and after laughing, the eyes she looked at Miles became full of tenderness.

She said, “Since you love me so much, then love me well.”

She will repay him with the same affection.

Listening to Matilda’s words, Miles understood what she meant. The corners of his mouth curled up, and he said, “Okay.”

In the kitchen.

Casey hung on Kelvin’s body, looking like a poor little girl.

“Kelvin, why is Miles so bad? He bullies me. What good will it do him to bully me? This bad guy, woo woo.” Casey was so depressed. Her face was full of grievances, all against Miles.

Kelvin said, “Maybe, Miles has his own plan.”

“What’s the plan?” Casey asked suspiciously.

Now she didn’t think that Miles can have any good thoughts or good plans. She just thought that Miles was a super villain.

Kelvin didn't answer. There were some things that only men understood.

He could feel that Miles wanted to test him, but he didn't accept it.

This made Miles very depressed.

However, Kelvin really didn't like such a way. He preferred to protect Casey in his own way, instead of just doing something that seemed to protect her in such a small matter.

Of course, there was no need to explain this to Casey.

Kelvin patted Casey's arm and let her get off him.

He said, "Okay, I'm going to put the oil. Be careful."

Casey still wanted to stay by Kelvin's side and refused to leave, so she said delicately, "Kelvin, teach me."

Kelvin had no choice but to let her wait first, and went to the room to get her a long sleeve, so that even if the oil splashed, it wouldn't burn her.

Casey put on the clothes sweetly, feeling very happy.

Kelvin was indeed the one who loved her the most.

However, Casey soon realized a problem that she should not force anything that didn't exist in her life.

She may really have no talent in cooking, so she really didn't need to come to the kitchen to try frantically.

Otherwise, it can be very frustrating when it came to her confidence.

Equally frustrated, of course, was her dear Miles.

Miles still remembered to make smashed potato.

In order not to disturb Kelvin, Miles came after all the dishes were cooked.

He didn't care about his face so much, and wasn't that arrogant, so he let Kelvin teach him.

Who would have thought that the smashed potato he made would be a mess.

Chapter 530 He would rather be a lone traveler

After all the dishes were ready, it happened it got dark outside.

Matilda was already hungry, so she and Casey sat down by the table early.

In order to save face for Miles, they didn't start in advance, but waited for him to finish the smashed potato and serve them before starting eating together.

However, when Miles brought a plate of dark things with a dark face, both of them had regrets.

The two of them probably may be too positive. Otherwise, how could they think that what they were waiting for will be a very delicious dish.

Casey couldn't hold back, and laughed outright.

In fact, growing up, Casey had a hard time finding anything to mock Miles about except cooking.

However, this plate of smashed potato really made Casey feel a kind of pleasure. It turned out that geniuses also had things they didn't know.

The three men in the Hayden family were really...

Only in terms of cooking, they seemed like wastes.

After Casey laughed enough, she took out her mobile phone, and took random pictures of the smashed potato.

She smiled and said, "Miles, this is your first dish. It's worth commemorating."

After finishing speaking, she posted them in a chat group and mentioned all the members.

However, before Casey had time to read the replies in the group, she was severely warned by Miles.

Casey shrank her neck and snorted. He was such a cheapskate and lost his temper. Why was he so mean?

She ducked to Kelvin's side, as if she had a backer.

Kelvin actually got a very headache at the moment.

He didn't even know how "talented" Miles was to be able to do such a horrible thing under his guidance.

Kelvin didn't even want to see that thing again, which was the Waterloo of his teaching career.

Matilda looked at the reactions of the three of them, and finally softened his heart a little. He picked up the spoon and prepared to be the first one to try this plate of smashed potato.

Anyway, the ingredients were normal. At most they were not tasty, but they will never make people die.

Matilda thought so, and started to act.

Miles stopped it and said, "Don't eat it. You really can't eat it."

However, Matilda had already put the smashed potato in her mouth.

In the next second, Matilda's expression twisted.

She looked at Miles speechlessly. It was hard to imagine that a human could really make food like this.

She winked at him with difficulty and said, "Miles, you really don't go into the kitchen again."

Was there anything more shocking to him than his girlfriend saying such words in person?

No.

Miles squeezed the space between his eyebrows and said, "I tried my best."

"It's okay. We don't have to have a kitchen in the future." Matilda said.

They would hire a cook to cook for them.

Or, they can eat out, which was better than being in such a danger.

“Alternatively, I could sign up for a class,” Miles said.

He was really motivated to win, which made him really want to overcome this difficult problem.

Matilda did not discourage him, but said, “I will accompany you.”

The four finally began to have a formal meal, but no one ate the smashed potato.

After they were full, only the smashed potato on the table was intact and untouched.

Kelvin and Casey lost the card game and automatically took over the job of doing the dishes.

Matilda was a little embarrassed. She couldn't just bully her like this, so she also went to help.

After packing up, Matilda and Miles left.

Casey jumped onto Kelvin's body again, clinging to him and refusing to get off.

Kelvin held her up and asked with evil intentions, “What do you want to do?”

Casey didn't know how she went wrong through such a sentence. Her face turned red suddenly, and immediately, her legs wrapped around Kelvin's waist.

She buried her face in Kelvin's neck and whispered, “Kelvin, I miss you.”

Kelvin carried her up and walked to the bedroom. Before Casey had time to react, Kelvin led her into that world again.

The girl was wronged, and it was somewhat difficult to coax.

He had no other way for the time being, so he made such a bad move.

Fortunately, this method was quite effective. At least, she can fall asleep.

Kelvin didn't feel sleepy at all.

After having sex with Casey, he took her into his arms again.

He just looked at her sleeping face for the whole night.

This night, Kelvin's heart was not at peace.

It was difficult for him to describe his mood, which was a very complicated one.

He never thought before that one day he would put a girl in such an important position in his heart.

His world had never been peaceful. Even, many times, for Kelvin, he would rather be a lone traveler.

In this way, the danger was his alone.

All of his emotions did not need others to bear with him.

However, now that Casey broke into his world like this, he had to re-examine such a relationship.

He had to admit that there were moments when his heart was complicated.

Of course, more was the throbbing brought by this girl.

He loved this girl very much.

Bowing down to kiss on Casey's forehead softly, Kelvin said in a deep voice, "I love you, baby."
