Chapter 631 Walter's heart

All kinds of congratulatory voices rang out in the room. Several men held wine glasses and congratulated Miles one after another.

Miles was in an exceptionally good mood today, and he never refused anyone who came to drink with him, almost gulping down a whole bottle of wine.

Soon, his body began to shake. He drank a few large glasses of wine too quickly, so his face turned red soon.

Matilda turned her head and saw that Miles was already drunk.

Although she was very helpless, she just let him go.

This man, after getting the marriage certificate today, was so excited that he hugged, kissed and circled her like a child.

Matilda was influenced by him, and her mood was always very great.

Even, Miles took her to the bank mysteriously, and locked the certificates into a safe.

Matilda was very helpless, and asked him if he was afraid she was going back on her word.

Miles nodded seriously, saying that he was not afraid of anything, but he was really afraid of that day he would suddenly realize that what happened today was just a dream.

This made Matilda somewhat dumbfounded.

However, she just let him do it.

Finally, after having so many glasses of wine, Miles sat back in his chair.

Matilda took out a hangover pill from the bag, handed it to Miles' mouth, and said, "Take it first."

Miles' eyes fell on Matilda's fingertips. His eyes were already flooded with drunkenness, not clear at all.

His eyes moved away from the pill and landed on Matilda's face. After staring at her face for a while, he said, "Feed me."

Matilda didn't know when this man became so coquettish.

However, Matilda was very cooperative and fed the pill to Miles' mouth, telling him to open his mouth like coaxing a child.

Miles shook his head vigorously, then said to Matilda, "I want you to feed me with your mouth."

Miles looked at Matilda with burning eyes and made his appeal very clear.

He thought that his lovely wife was so smart that she must have understood what he said.

However, before Matilda could move, Miles frowned.

He looked at Matilda and said, "Baby, I want you to feed me with your mouth."

Saying that, Miles pouted his mouth.

This time, all the people in the room fell silent.

Ben and Eden had already picked up their mobile phones, and they just took a picture of Miles.

To be honest, they had known Miles' temper and personality well since they were young.

But even so, no one thought that after Miles got married, he would change dramatically.

It was simply... too disgusting!

Patrick and Walter wanted to blind themselves. The most abnormal man in the Hayden family was probably Walter.

Who would have thought that the person who changed now would be Miles.

Both Patrick and Walter suddenly had an urge not to recognize Miles as their brother.

Miles didn't know what the situation was now. He was still coquettish with Matilda, kept pouting and approaching Matilda, muttering, "Baby, don't you love me anymore? Why don't you feed me? I'm really sad when you look like this."

Matilda had been stared at by them and felt embarrassed to death.

This time was not the time to continue pampering Miles.

She directly pinched Miles' chin with one hand, stuffed the pill into his mouth with the other, then picked up the water glass on the side and poured it into Miles.

The movement was so fast and precise that Miles was completely caught off guard.

Some of the water spilled down his chin and landed on his shirt.

The water was ice cold, and after it landed on the shirt, it soaked into Miles' skin and made him shiver.

Because of this, he was stimulated a lot.

Miles coughed lightly, only then did he notice the silence in the room.

Ben and Eden put down their phones in a hurry, looking guilty.

He looked at Matilda strangely and asked, "Baby, what's wrong?"

Matilda only felt that she had lost her face now, so she naturally didn't want to pay attention to him.

She just gritted her teeth and said, "Miles, from now on, you are not allowed to drink."

It stood to reason that Matilda had never had a drink with Miles. In the past, Miles wouldn't do such a thing after drinking.

It was true that he drank a little too much today, but, was it possible that this person's personality will change after happy events happened?

Matilda couldn't figure it out.

Fortunately, Miles only made a fuss for a while.

After taking the hangover medicine, he became much more normal.

After the meal, everyone went to the next place.

Today was indeed the day when two happy events happened, and everyone was in a very good mood.

The party continued until midnight before ended.

Walter sent April back, but didn't intend to leave for a long time.

April was still living in Solomert Villa, and Walter also lived here for a while, but after April's body recovered, Denis will often come to see her, and sometimes stay here overnight.

As a result, Walter was too embarrassed to live here anymore.

Tonight, Walter was clingier than usual.

April could probably guess what Walter wanted to say to her and knew what he wanted.

So, instead of urging him to leave, she poured him a glass of honey water, and then sat obediently beside Walter.

Walter naturally liked her cute appearance very much.

He grabbed April's hand, put it on his lips and kissed it, saying, "April, I really didn't expect that I would be the last to get married in our family."

April blushed and could certainly imagine what he would say next.

Walter liked her even more.

He kissed April's fingers one by one.

This action made the atmosphere in the room instantly ambiguous.

April only felt that her breath began to heat up.

She was so shy that she wanted to take her hand out.

However, her hand was still firmly held in Walter's palm. He was preventing her from moving.

April whispered, "Walter, let me go."

Her tone was delicate and soft, like a cat, scratching Walter's heart.

Chapter 632 I just like touching your head

Walter gripped her fingers a little tighter. His voice was hoarse and overbearing.

He said, "I don't let go. I'll never let go in this life."

April's cheeks were obviously flushed, and she became even more shy because of Walter's words.

She bit her lip and said, "Walter, stop teasing me. Let me go quickly. My hand hurts from being pinched by you."

Originally, as long as April said that she was in pain or unwell, Walter would immediately go along with her.

But this time, no one knew what was wrong with Walter, as if he was against her.

After hearing what she said, he asked, "Really? Then I kiss it and it won't hurt anymore."

April blinked her eyes. It was the first time she saw Walter being such a rascal.

For a moment, she didn't know what to do.

April looked at Walter and thought again that in the room, Miles was drunk and was acting like a spoiled child to Matilda.

In an instant, April seemed to understand something, looked at Walter, and asked, "Walter, are you acting like a baby with me now?"

Walter laughed softly when he heard the words. Leaning into April's ear, he said, "I thought you'd say that I'm in a drunken fit."

April heard the words, nodded in agreement, and said, "That's really quite similar. Walter, don't act like this."

She was not used to it.

Walter said, "Okay, I'm not doing this."

However, despite saying so, Walter still didn't let go of April's hand.

He raised a hand, dropped it on April's shoulder, and pulled her into his arms.

With this movement, April completely lay on Walter's chest.

April was naturally shy. Although she became a bit of thick-skinned after being with Walter recently, she still couldn't stand up to Walter's actions.

She just felt that her cheeks were about to be burned.

She looked so uncomfortable.

April wanted to struggle to get up, but was hugged even harder by Walter.

She almost fit snugly against Walter's body.

April whispered, "Walter, let me go first, okay?"

Walter didn't mean to spoil April at all today but he always obeyed her in the past.

Now, he was completely domineering.

However, April didn't hate it.

Walter said, "April, I'm really a little jealous of Miles today."

Before, he and Casey competed over who would get married first, but in fact they were joking with Casey.

After all, it was their precious sister who wanted to marry so wholeheartedly, so it was a little bit reluctant to see that as her brother.

Walter was actually very happy to see her being happy.

He even felt that it was a very good thing that Casey and Kelvin could have a happy marriage.

However, today, Miles just threw him such a bomb.

This made him feel happy for Miles, but also suddenly disliked himself.

How useless he was to be the last unmarried member of the Hayden family.

Although he didn't really want the marriage certificate, seeing them all getting married one by one and forming their own families, Walter was sincerely envious.

This envy swept through every cell in his body.

It even made him a little abnormal today.

April looked up from Walter's arms, looked at him, and asked, "So, are you proposing to me now?"

Walter laughed lowly, bowed his head and kissed April heavily on her face.

He said, "If I just propose and coax you to get the marriage certificate, I would be a very bad man."

His girl naturally had to have what other girls had.

What was more, his girl had suffered so much in the past, so she must have more things than other girls had.

April was very happy when she heard what Walter said and that he valued her so much.

On the other hand, she was also inexplicably disappointed.

In fact, she had already thought about it. If Walter really mentioned to her about getting married, she would not object.

Unexpectedly, Walter didn't mention it.

Walter was keenly aware of April's slight disappointment.

He patted April on the shoulder and told her to sit down.

April sat down obediently.

Walter adjusted his sitting position so that he and April were facing each other.

He looked into April's eyes. His gaze was like a torch, and he couldn't hide his affection.

April couldn't resist the way Walter looked at her like this.

He already had a pair of affectionate eyes, and when he looked at her like this, it seemed as if he could suck her soul away.

April even wondered if this man was playing tricks on her with his eyes.

She swallowed unconsciously, trying to look away, but Walter suddenly pinched her chin and she was unable to move.

He forced April to look at him, and his tone was more serious than ever.

Walter said, "Baby, you can do everything to me, and I will agree to you if you have countless demands, but don't just accommodate me in everything just to make me happy. You're my girl. Of course I have my way to pamper you."

April blinked her eyes and said with a smile, "But, I think it's good enough now. I don't have any more demands."

When April said this, her voice was extremely soft.

This made Walter feel more pity for his girl.

Walter was very clear that his girl, because she had experienced hardships that others had never experienced, will cherish the happiness that was captured by her.

However, for Walter, these were not enough.

He didn't want his girl to be cautious about so many things.

His girl should be freer. What he wanted to give her was certainly the best he can give.

April blushed a little from Walter's stare, lowered her eyes, and at the end, she seemed to muster up her courage again and said to Walter, "Walter, I like the current state very much, and I like you very much. I just want us to have a good time. Just let go of other things."

Hearing what April said, Walter loved her even more in his heart.

He raised his hand and rubbed April's head. His big palm landed on top of her head, and he said, "Okay, I'll listen to my baby."

April was rubbed on the head by him like a small animal, with a look of helplessness.

She raised her hand to hold Walter's wrist and said, "Walter, don't rub my head like this."

She frowned, and said aggrievedly, "This will make me think you are rubbing a dog's head."

Walter was struck dumb.

However, he just wanted to tease her.

Walter said, "But I just like touching your head."

April was speechless.

Chapter 633 Completely Owns This Girl

April felt that what Walter said sometimes made her very difficult to understand.

And what he was saying now was an example.

She could already imagine what kind of dog Walter regarded her as.

Walter saw that April's expression was a little tangled, so he stopped teasing her.

He reached over, carried up April, and put her on his lap.

This position made April lie closer to Walter's arms.

She was somewhat uncomfortable and shy, but she was not willing to come down.

April just blushed like this, crawling into Walter's arms and not daring to move.

However, even so, she was keenly aware of something.

In an instant, April's face became even redder.

She finally couldn't resist the changes in Walter's body, and twisted uncomfortably, trying to get off his lap.

However, Walter held her tighter.

He said hoarsely, "April, don't move."

Her movement like this could really kill him.

April bit her lips lightly, but really didn't dare to move anymore.

Walter squeezed April's hand and placed it over his heart.

He said, "April, I'm full of you here. You know that?"

How could April think about this kind of problem now?

All she wanted was to get off Walter's lap.

Being held by him like this, she really felt that she might die.

However, Walter seemed to be against Matilda, pinching her waist and lifting her up even more.

In this way, it will be more clear and perceptible.

April said, "Walter, if you don't want to go back today, you can stay. It's getting late. Let's go back to the room and rest."

As Walter heard April's words, the corners of his mouth curled up unconsciously.

He naturally knew that what April meant was that they went back to their respective rooms to rest.

However, today, he may have been really stimulated. Perhaps, those desires that had been restrained and suppressed for a long time finally burst out, making him just want to have something with April.

So, Walter directly supported April to stand up, and said, "Okay, let's go back to the room."

April was dumbfounded.

No, what was going on?

Why did she feel that something was wrong?

It wasn't supposed to be like this. Things weren't supposed to develop like this!

April was picked up by Walter in a strange posture and supported by him. And he walked upstairs.

She wanted to struggle, but she heard Walter say, "Be good. Don't move around."

He drank. While he wasn't drunk, it wasn't safe either.

Especially in dangerous places like stairs.

April originally kicked twice and twisted her body.

However, after hearing Walter's words, she finally became obedient and stopped moving.

After reaching the second floor, Walter did not intend to let April go.

He didn't go into the room directly, but just hugged April and stood in the corridor, seeming to ask April's opinion very kindly.

"Which room do you want to go to, baby?" Walter asked.

April's face was already red, and she just felt that her whole body was going to burn.

Which room to go to?

She just wanted to go to her room.

One person!

Seeing that April didn't answer, Walter gave a low laugh and said, "It seems that my baby hasn't been able to make a decision yet. That's okay, cause I'll help my baby make a decision."

With that said, Walter raised his feet, hugged April, and walked directly towards the room where he slept.

April hadn't answered yet and really wanted to go back to her room.

April felt that her heart, which was finally healed by Aimee, almost stopped beating at this moment.

She had never been so uncomfortable.

This feeling seemed to swallow her up.

April bit her lip tightly and felt bad.

Walter kicked open the door, didn't give April a chance to refuse, but just supported her and pressed her against the wall.

April landed between Walter and the wall in an extremely awkward and twisted position.

Walter didn't bow his head to kiss her hastily, but just looked at her with the moonlight.

April's face was already crimson, and even her breathing became difficult.

She grasped Walter's collar tightly, not daring to look at him at all.

In fact, she didn't reject sex.

Her heart had already been placed in his hands.

And she will silently accept all.

For what Walter thought, April did not reject, nor will she refuse.

It was just that she was really too shy.

She couldn't describe her mood, as if her heart would jump out at any moment.

This feeling devoured her entire senses and made her feel extremely nervous.

However, Walter came to tease her again and again.

He looked at her with burning eyes, and asked in a hoarse voice, "Baby, will you give yourself to me?"

April just wanted to cover his mouth.

Can he not ask so straightforwardly?

How did this make her answer?

April felt like she was on fire.

However, Walter had to ask her this question again and again.

His head moved closer to her. His warm breath fell on her face, and his voice was even more hoarse and deep, with an unbearably sexiness, which was terribly seductive.

April couldn't resist Walter like this and her whole body almost softened.

Her face was blushing, and her voice was subconsciously soft.

"Walter, don't ask me." April said.

What she said attacked Walter's heart fiercely, so that he couldn't control himself. It was impossible to give April any chance to escape, and he directly and ruthlessly kissed her.

April was startled by Walter's sudden movement, exclaimed, and subconsciously wrapped her arms around Walter's neck.

However, this gave Walter more specific instructions.

His girl was responding to him in her own way.

How could Walter have considered more? Those thoughts of taking it slower in the past and letting his girl take the initiative were all left behind at this moment.

At this moment, Walter just wanted to turn into a wolf and own this girl completely.

Chapter 636 Come to See You

April stayed in the room and didn't get out of the quilt right away.

She was almost ashamed to death.

She had sex with Walter the night before, but was caught by her father early the next morning.

Which girl was experiencing worse than her?

April didn't want to do anything, but just wanted to lie in the quilt like this.

However, she was reluctant to let Walter face her father alone.

After experiencing a huge psychological turmoil, April finally got out of the quilt.

There were no clothes for her in this room.

The clothes she was wearing last night were ruined by Walter.

Helpless, she had no choice but to find Walter's clothes and put them on. Then, she opened the door and poked her head out to make sure that there was no one in the corridor before running back to her room.

April let out a long breath, and her chest was heaving up and down.

She had never had such a moment in her life. It was almost fatal.

Getting clothes out of the closet, April went into the bathroom to wash herself.

Only then did she see her body clearly.

April bit her lip, and vowed that she would never have sex with Walter like this again.

Look at what he did to her!

Her body really looked like a piece of meat that had been gnawed.

After quickly tidying herself up, April took out another piece of clothing.

Originally, in summer, she just took a skirt casually, but in the end, she had to wrap herself up in long clothes, trousers, and a high collar.

April looked at herself in the mirror, almost feeling disgusted.

The more she tried to hide, the more she was exposed, right?

However, there was no time to complain any more.

April opened the door and came downstairs.

There was a sense of heroism from her.

Walking down the stairs, April heard the conversation between Walter and Denis.

Denis said, "Kid, are you threatening me?"

Walter said, "Uncle, I'm just telling you what I think. I'm serious about April. I want her to be my wife. In order to achieve this goal, I can do anything."

Denis said, "Just telling me what you're thinking? You're clearly telling me that if I don't agree, you will take my daughter to elope."

Walter said, "So, Uncle, in order to save both of us some trouble, I suggest you agree to my plea."

Both Denis and April were speechless.

And April was dumbfounded.

She had always known that Walter's temperament was a little radical.

He didn't seem to care about many things and many people.

However, how could she have imagined that Walter would discuss their future with her father like this.

Moreover, why did he mention elopement?

When did she say that she was going to elope with him?

April was almost astonished by the current development.

She didn't need to see her father's expression, but she could already imagine how angry he was at the moment.

But Walter was able to continue to add fuel to the fire at this time.

Walter said, "Uncle, when I say this, it may be a little too much, and it'll make you a little sad, but what I want to let you know is that April loves me very much."

April was struck dumb.

Although this was true, did he really need to be so proud of it?

Denis was at a loss for words.

He really wanted to grab his slippers and throw them in the face of this shameless little bastard.

Walter continued, "Uncle, from all aspects, it proves that April and I are a perfect match. We're the most suitable for each other and love each other the most. Giving her to me is a choice you can rest assured of."

Denis didn't look good.

He really had never seen such a brazen person.

Back then, when he went to April's mother's house to bring up proposal of marriage, he pretended to be obsequious, and his father-in-law and mother-in-law ordered him to do anything while he didn't dare say anything unnecessary.

But, this little bastard didn't have the slightest sense of being a son-in-law, yet he even threatened his father-in-law.

Can this be tolerated?

Denis simply wanted to know why Walter can be so rampant.

April finally couldn't listen anymore, and was really afraid that these two men would fight if they disagreed.

She walked down the stairs quickly, and called obediently, "Dad."

As Denis saw his precious daughter, he was still half angry.

However, after seeing what April was wearing, he felt like he had a heart attack.

Denis even doubted that his precious daughter's heart disease was healed, and it all transferred to his heart?

Otherwise, why would his heart be so uncomfortable?

The throbbing pain made him feel unwell.

However, before Denis could say anything, he saw that little bastard Walter stood up in front of him. Walter put his arms around April's waist, and pulled her into his arms.

He said, "Didn't I tell you to rest a little longer? Why are you coming down now?"

April's face turned red by Walter's action.

She had never been this close to Walter in front of her father.

She was ashamed.

However, Walter just behaved like a normal person, and hugged her in an natural way.

April was on the verge of tears, holding Walter's wrist with her hands and trying to break free from his arms.

Walter was very cooperative at the moment, and when April pushed, he actually let her go.

April immediately ran to the separate small sofa, adjusted her breathing, then looked at Denis, and asked sweetly, "Dad, you came to see me today. What's wrong?"

Although Denis was half pissed off by the little bastard Walter, when he heard his daughter sweetly calling him, his anger instantly disappeared.

He said, "Nothing else, but I need to go to the capital in the afternoon. I'll stay there for a week so I just come to see you."

Chapter 637 Change the title

When April heard what Denis said, her eyes turned red.

The meaning of going to the capital was needless to say, because April already understood it very well.

Her voice became a little hoarse, and she opened her mouth to cry, "Dad..."

Denis' eyes were also red in an instant. He hugged April into his arms, patted her on the back, and said, "Don't worry, April. Dad will be fine."

But having said that, Denis' expression was obviously still a bit heavy.

April put her arms around Denis' waist, leaned her face on his shoulder, but couldn't say anything.

Denis patted April's back lightly to comfort her.

However, even so, it was still difficult to ease April's emotions.

Finally, it was almost time for Denis to go to the airport, so he said to April, "Okay, April, I'm coming back to bring you something delicious."

April laughed when she heard the words, and said softly, "Dad, you still think of me as a child."

"In my heart, you are just a child." Denis said.

The next second, Denis looked at Walter, but he couldn't help feeling. "My daughter has grown up. She is a big girl, and she is going to get married."

"Dad..." April let out another soft voice. Her face flushed, but her eyes turned towards Walter unconsciously.

Walter looked at April tenderly, then looked at Denis and said, "Uncle, don't worry. I'll take good care of April."

Denis really wanted to blurt it out that he was worried because he was taking care of her.

However, things had developed to this extent. Even if he was reluctant, he had to accept the fact.

Sighing lightly, Denis said earnestly, "I'll have a good talk with you about the two of you when I come back from the capital."

Walter nodded and said, "Uncle, just give April to me."

Denis was speechless.

This little bastard made use of every bit of time.

He was very angry, but what can he do?

He could only take his unhappiness and set foot on the plane to the capital.

April sent Denis away, feeling depressed instantly.

Walter rubbed her head and said, "Good girl, it'll be fine."

“But, they really can do anything.” April said.

As Denis’ daughter, even though she had been protected so well, she was still persecuted repeatedly. She really dared not think about what her father, who was in the dark whirlpool, was facing.

Walter said, “That’s fine. Bring some things to the bright side and break them down with precision. It doesn’t have to be our dad who is uncomfortable.”

Walter’s words did give her a little comfort.

But, our dad?

Did he call it too easily?

April said, “Aren’t you a little too fast?”

Walter looked at April’s blushing face, smiled lowly, and said, “Why? You don’t like it?”

Well, anyway, sooner or later he will change his title, and it was okay to change now.

Walter knew she had compromised.

He clasped April’s shoulders, pulled her into his arms, and said, “Then do you want to change it yourself?”

Chapter 638 I have no experience at all

April withdrew from Walter’s arms and said, “I’m a little hungry. I’m going to see if there’s anything I can eat.”

After speaking, April ran towards the kitchen.

Walter looked at April from behind, and thought she was so cute by her appearance.

He really wanted to pamper his girl in the palm of his hand all the time.

After April entered the kitchen, she looked through and decided that it would be better to make some noodles first.

After all, she can cook it quickly and it was also better for her stomach.

Although she can eat normal food now, she still didn’t dare to be too presumptuous.

She didn’t want to burden anyone.

Walter came over, put his arms around her waist from behind, and asked, “What are you going to do?”

“Is the noodles good? Or do you want to eat something else?” April asked.

Walter said, “Noodles are fine. I’m not picky.”

April nodded, patted his hand, and said, “You go out first. I’m going to get busy.”

It would be troublesome to let him make trouble here.

Walter gave a low laugh, tilted his head and kissed April's cheek, saying, "Okay, I won't trouble you."

His girl was too shy.

April's face was flushed, and she waited until Walter left the kitchen before starting to make the noodles.

Twenty minutes later, April brought out two steaming bowls of noodles out.

Walter had already changed his clothes, and it was rare to see him in a very formal suit.

He was on the phone, and said to the person on the other end of the phone, "Go and watch closely. Send more people, and don't make any trouble."

April looked at Walter suspiciously, wondering how he suddenly became so serious.

She didn't go over, but obediently sat by the edge of the dining table, waiting for Walter to come over to eat noodles together.

Walter naturally saw it, curled the corner of his mouth, and hung up the phone.

He strode over, reached out, squeezed April's chin, and kissed her.

Walter said, "Next time, don't wait for me like this."

April responded, but thought in her heart that no matter how long it was, she would still wait for Walter.

The two sat opposite each other and finished eating the noodles quietly.

Walter took the bowls to the kitchen to clean them.

April didn't want him to enter the kitchen, but Walter insisted.

She stood beside him, watching him wash the dishes.

This feeling was actually very fresh, a feeling that April had never had before.

Suddenly, she felt a little moved, walked over and put her arms around Walter's waist, and put her face on his back.

This was the most daring move April had taken the initiative to do since she was with Walter.

Walter was also somewhat surprised.

He took out a tissue to wipe his hands clean, and looked down at the hands around his waist.

Her hands were fair and soft.

Walter wrapped her hands with his big palms, turned around, pulled her into his arms, and said, "I'm going out for a while to deal with some things. You can wait for me obediently at home, okay?"

April nodded.

When Walter met her such a soft appearance, he lost the ability to resist at all.

He lowered his head, kissed the corner of April's mouth, and said, "I really want to take you wherever I go."

April's face turned even redder. She raised her hand and pushed Walter's waist, saying, "Hurry up and go."

Walter knew she was not a clingy person, and if teased too much, she would be shy.

He gave a low laugh and said, "Okay, then I'll go. Be good."

April sent Walter to the car and watched him leave before returning to the house.

From last night to this morning, too many things happened, too fast, which made her a little overwhelmed.

She didn't even know how it happened to be in this state.

It was just that April didn't regret it, nor did she reject it.

She felt very happy.

Back in the room, April saw the mess in the room, and the suppressed shyness came up again, making her breath hot unconsciously.

April couldn't stand it anymore, so she started to sort it out.

She didn't even know where Walter got so much energy and was able to do it for so long.

By the time April finished cleaning, it was already afternoon.

During this period, Walter called her and asked her to eat lunch and not to skip it just because they just ate breakfast.

April obediently agreed, but she really didn't have much appetite to eat.

It was two o'clock in the afternoon, and it was the first time April had done so many things.

She had a sense of fullness that she had never felt before.

When she was in poor health, no one would ask her to do these things at all. All the things were properly arranged.

April suddenly felt that she wanted to marry him and have a family with him.

Just thinking about it, April already had expectations.

Just as he was thinking, the phone rang.

When April saw that the caller was Tilly, the corners of her mouth immediately curled up.

Tilly asked her what she was doing and if she wanted to go shopping together.

April immediately became interested and quickly said, "I'll change and come right away."

Shopping, for her, really happened a long time ago.

Tilly told her not to worry and would come to pick her up later so that she could take her time.

April was a little excited, and immediately went back to the room to take a shower and change clothes.

Today, she specially wore a makeup for herself, which was very delicate and elaborate.

Of course, it was not obtrusive. On the contrary, it was very suitable for going shopping with her friend.

Tilly arrived an hour later.

As soon as she saw April dressing herself up with such care, she said, "I can see that I am the most important person to you."

Based on the relationship between them, it was actually rare for them to dress up for each other.

Tilly was a little moved.

April smiled and said, "Let's go. Where shall we go shopping?"

"Just go to Starlight Thoroughfare. There are more brands." Tilly said.

April nodded, and didn't think much of it.

Tilly was driving Ben's car today, the same car they had when they first met.

Ben was actually very worried about her driving this car. After all, the car body was relatively heavy, which was very challenging for girls.

However, Tilly insisted that Ben had no choice but to let her go.

Tilly said to April flatteringly, "Ben is afraid that I won't know how to drive this car. Is this possible? I'm excellent at it."

April was amused by her haughty words, and her mood improved accordingly.

Denis went to the capital, and she couldn't help him anything. The only thing she could do was to keep herself from worrying him and distracting her.

April actually did it on purpose to find so many things to do for herself.

She couldn't stop herself. Otherwise, she would keep worrying about what was going on, whether her father was doing well, and how the situation in the capital was. She was really worried.

There was a certain distance between Solomert Villa and Starlight Thoroughfare, but fortunately, it was not the time of the traffic jam, and it only took about forty minutes for the two of them to arrive.

After getting out of the car, Tilly said mysteriously, "Actually, I want to buy some gifts for the elders."

When April heard this, she immediately understood.

She looked at Tilly in surprise and asked, "Mr. Lee is going to take you to meet his parents, isn't he?"

Tilly nodded with a grin and said, "April, I'm a little nervous."

She had never experienced anything like this in her life.

Although, as Ben said, his family members were very easy to get along with, and they already knew her very well, Tilly was still worried what if Ben said this to make her happy?

What if, after seeing her, they didn't like her?

April said, "You are nice so you don't need to worry about this at all."

Who wouldn't like a sweet girl like Tilly?

Tilly said, "But I'm just worried. You know my family background."

Tilly was sad for a moment.

She wanted to convince herself not to care about these things.

But how could she really not care?

April said, "I know your family background, but I'm your good friend."

If their family background was really to be involved, then the two of them should be natural rivals.

However, the fact now was that the two of them were such good friends, like twins.

So, in this world, many things cannot be generalized.

Tilly tilted her head and thought for a while. It was really like this.

She thought about it with a smile and said, "April, you're really good at comforting me."

April curled her lips and said, "I just said what I really mean."

Tilly's mood was soothed by April, but the next second, she started to worry again.

April felt a little helpless towards Tilly like this.

Tilly said. "But April, I'm really scared. What kind of gifts do you think I should buy?"

April also didn't have a clue, "I don't have the slightest bit of experience in this regard."

Chapter 639 I am very anxious now

Tilly burst out laughing when she heard April say that.

Oh, she asked the wrong person.

But...

Tilly thought of something and was suddenly happy again.

She patted April on the shoulder and said, "Well, you don't need to worry about this."

April looked at Tilly suspiciously, not understanding how she came to this conclusion.

Tilly said, "Ben said, now, among the four siblings in the Hayden family, three have obtained marriage certificates, and your boyfriend is the only one who's left. And he's the eldest. I'm afraid that when he brings you back, and their grandpa hears that you're gonna marry, he will send you to the registry enthusiastically."

Originally, when Tilly said such things to her, she would definitely think that she was infuriating and said such words on purpose to tease her.

However, after experiencing last night, April felt that the basis for this statement was very reasonable.

She didn't refute Tilly's words, but instead had an unnatural blush on her face.

Tilly was taken aback by her sudden blush.

She raised her hand and touched April's face, saying amusedly, "No way, April, you're blushing, so what should you do if he really proposes to you?"

April really felt that she can't fully explain it herself.

She couldn't tell Tilly that she blushed suddenly because she was thinking of something else.

In an instant, April felt a little dizzy.

She didn't know how much she'd been bullied by Walter.

April raised her hand to touch her cheek. It was so hot that she almost thought she had a fever.

She said quickly, "Okay, don't talk about me anymore. Think about it quickly what gifts do you want to buy?"

What she said made Tilly collapse in an instant.

She said, having a headache, "Ben won't tell me what his parents like. What should I do?"

April said, "Go and see first. And ask other people's opinions."

Tilly nodded in agreement. Apart from that, there was probably no other way.

She suddenly thought of something and said, "By the way, Aimee is going to give birth. Let's go buy some gifts for the baby first."

April really felt helpless for this girl.

She knew she was nervous, and that was why she wanted to find something else to distract her so much.

However, what she did was too unreliable.

When April was brought close to a maternity and baby store, she instantly thought that those little clothes and shoes were so cute.

She just can't put them down.

It was also the first time for Tilly to visit a store like this, and she was extremely excited.

She picked up a pair of small shoes and said excitedly to April, "God, April, look at this. It's too cute, woo woo woo. I want to have a baby."

When April heard this, she burst into laughter and said, "You should be soon."

Tilly blinked her eyes, and for a moment, she really didn't know how to answer this question.

She and Ben hadn't reached that point yet, but she was gonna meet his parents.

However, she always felt that Ben treated her like a child. Many times, when he met her, it made her feel even more that she was being raised by Ben as his daughter.

She herself felt sweet, but she also felt that things like having children were really far away from her.

However, Tilly thought about it seriously and she was very willing to give birth to a baby with Ben.

Thinking of this, Tilly laughed, looked at April, and said, "April, I just realized that I love Ben even more than I thought."

It was said that if a woman actively wanted to give birth to a baby with a man, then it meant that she really loved him badly.

April frowned and said, "Tilly, that's great. We both found happiness."

The two of them seemed to have grown up in wealthy families, had no worries about food and clothing, and enjoyed a growing environment that no one else had.

However, they had their own misfortunes.

Just like her physical condition.

Although she couldn't say that with such a body, it didn't make any difference whether she was born in a poor or rich family, her body was unfortunate and will not end well.

However, April also knew very well that if she hadn't been born in the Hill family and was so well protected by Denis, then she might not have survived today.

Not to mention, now that she met Aimee and was healed by her.

And Tilly, what she undertook was more complicated than her.

The two of them were able to become such good friends because they felt a little bit of sympathy for each other.

However, now that both of them can have their happiness, April felt that it was really thanks to God's love.

Tilly laughed when she sensed April's emotion, and said, "We are fairies, and fairies are born to be happy."

April smiled slightly. Sometimes, she really envied Tilly who said everything in such an optimistic and joking tone.

In this respect, April thought that Tilly was happier than her.

The two did not continue this topic, but re-studied the clothes and shoes in the store.

Tilly touched a piece of clothing and couldn't put it down.

However, Tilly soon became distressed.

She said, "But April, do you know if Aimee is having a boy or a girl?"

April shook her head and also had no idea about this question.

The information she got from Walter was that the Haydens didn't care whether it was a boy or a daughter at all. As long as the baby was safe and healthy, that was enough.

Aimee didn't test the gender, but wanted to save this until the moment of birth to reveal it, and it would be a big surprise by then.

Tilly said, "What to do? There is a little difference between boys and girls."

Though she herself thought that girls' things were cuter.

April said, "Or, we'll buy them all."

Anyway, even if they bought too many, it didn't matter. Aimee and Patrick may have a second child soon. Even if they didn't, there were Casey and Matilda, so they were always available.

Tilly seemed to have thought of this too, tilted her head to look at April, and said with a wicked look on her face, "April, what are you thinking about?"

April's ears turned red, and she immediately pushed Tilly's head to stop her staring at her.

She was almost ashamed to be stared at like this.

Tilly knew that April was thin-skinned, so she stopped teasing her.

She happily started shopping for gifts for Aimee, and bought almost everything that could be used.

April was so dumbfounded by her that she had to say, "What should I do with you like this?"

Tilly said, "Then you can buy one too."

Although this suggestion really made her feel very speechless, right now, it seemed that she could only do so.

So, April went to another store and bought some.

Carrying big and small bags in their hands, the two first went to the parking lot and delivered all the things there, and then returned to the mall to buy gifts for Ben's parents.

Tilly picked things, looked around, and suddenly said with an open mind, "April, tell me, should I give them a grandson or granddaughter?"

When April heard Tilly's words, she almost lost her footing and tripped herself to the ground.

She stabilized herself, looked at Tilly and asked tentatively, "Tilly, you're not serious, are you?"

Tilly said, "Think about it. Ben is already very old. His parents must worry about his marriage, and I'm a living Bodhisattva who saves the old man."

April was speechless.

Tilly didn't hear April's voice for a long time, so she looked at her suspiciously and asked, "April, do you think my proposal is not good?"

She thought it was good. Ben's parents should be very anxious to see their future grandchildren.

April said, "I see you. You're just infuriating."

Old man? She was probably vexatious.

Tilly pursed her mouth and muttered dissatisfiedly, "Is it really bad? I think of it seriously."

April said, "I'll leave it to you to discuss this with Mr. Lee. Now, the most important thing is to buy gifts."

Tilly followed April listlessly, feeling very sorry for her rejected proposal.

April was dumbfounded by her appearance.

Fortunately, she was more reliable than Tilly. At least, she can bring back Tilly's stray thoughts.

The two finally bought the gifts when night fell.

Coincidentally, Walter and Ben called them. As soon as they heard that they had bought gifts for Aimee, they immediately decided to go directly to the Hayden family.

At this moment, April tensed up instantly.

How did this suddenly turn into her going to see their grandpa?

Tilly said with a smile. "I'm right. Your boyfriend is very anxious now."

April was so blushed by her words. Fortunately, with previous experience, the two went to buy new gifts quickly, and then went to the parking lot to wait for their respective boyfriends to come over.

Chapter 640 It's two

Ben happened to be with Walter today. Knowing that his girlfriend was with Walter's girlfriend, he was naturally relieved.

So, after deciding to go to the Hayden family, Ben directly asked his assistant to drive the car back, and got into Walter's car himself.

The two arrived at Starlight Thoroughfare, picked up their respective girlfriends, and set off for the Hayden family.

Tilly sat in the co-pilot's seat, chattering to Ben about what happened today.

When she was talking about how cute those little babies' clothes and shoes were, Tilly's eyes were shining brightly.

With one hand on the steering wheel, Ben moved Tilly's hand over to his lips and kissed it.

He said, "Baby, you like children very much."

Originally, when talking to April that she wanted to have a baby with Ben, Tilly thought it was very normal, and there was nothing wrong at all.

But now, when Ben asked this question, Tilly inexplicably felt very shy.

She didn't even know how to describe her mood.

Obviously, it would be very pleasant to discuss this issue with Ben, but now it made her feel a little ashamed.

At the red light ahead, Ben stopped the car, turned his head to look at Tilly seriously and said, "Baby, tell me, do you like children very much?"

Tilly bit her lip and said, "It's... just okay ..."

Tilly really wanted to slap her mouth. Why was she so nervous?

However, Tilly did not lie that she was just okay with children.

When she saw the beautiful ones, she will look at them more. They were cute and soft , and she will coax them.

But it would be extremely difficult for Tilly to take care of a child by herself, or raise a child.

She didn't even dare to think about it.

However, when Ben asked this, it made her unconsciously think about something else.

Tilly licked her lips and said, "I just think that children's clothes and shoes are so cute. I never had such cute clothes and shoes when I was a child."

Ben was amused by her words, reached out and touched her head, saying, "Why are you so cute, my little baby."

Tilly's face became hot, and she raised her eyes to look at Ben and said delicately, "Don't call me that."

Ben said, "Then what do I call you? Aren't you my little baby?"

Tilly thought about it seriously. Well, she really was.

A car was honking behind, and Ben sat back and started the car again.

Tilly said softly like a gnat, "Ben, I will love our baby."

Ben's hand on the steering wheel tightened, and he didn't speak for a while.

He naturally understood what a girl meant when she said this.

She was already ready to give herself completely to him.

If it wasn't for the inability to park on this road, Ben would really pull over and stop, and then, he would hold the girl into his arms and kiss her hard.

How could his girl be so cute?

As Tilly finished speaking, she didn't look at Ben.

Her face was flushed, and even her breathing seemed to be steaming.

This made her unconsciously want to escape.

She lowered the car window to let the outside air in.

However, the temperature outside was too high, which made Tilly feel even hotter.

Ben just watched her like this, and didn't say a word.

He just licked the corner of his mouth lightly, and recorded the throbbing at the moment.

When the car can be pulled over, he will push the girl into his arms and kiss her regardless.

Ben did.

He stopped some distance away.

Tilly looked at him suspiciously and asked, "What's wrong? Isn't it here yet?"

Ben turned his head to look at Tilly, smiled lowly, and said, "Now you know the way."

Tilly pouted. She was bad at identifying the direction, but she still had an impression of what Hayden's Mansion looked like, okay? This was obviously not the Hayden's Mansion.

Ben said, "There is no rush to go in. I want to do something else first."

Tilly looked at Ben even more suspiciously, not understanding what he meant.

However, in the next second, Ben automatically gave her the answer to this question.

He reached out, grabbed the back of Tilly's head, pulled her over, and kissed her lips hard.

Tilly was startled by Ben's action. She blinked her eyes and wanted to say something, but her mouth was tightly blocked by Ben.

Ben's kiss this time was so hard that Tilly even wondered if her mouth would swell from the kiss.

She didn't know how long it took before Ben let her go.

His forehead was still pressed against hers, and his eyes were dark.

Tilly noticed the look in his eyes, and panicked instantly.

She pushed Ben's chest and said, "Don't make trouble with me. April and they should have already arrived."

Ben didn't move, but still looked at Tilly with deep eyes.

Tilly blinked and suddenly panicked.

What if Ben really wanted to keep messing with her like this?

Fortunately, although Ben was a little bit bad, he was not really that bad.

He wiped the corner of Tilly's mouth with his fingers, and said, "When we go back, make it up to me."

Tilly instantly became a little puzzled. Make it up for him?

Was it the kind of make-up she thought it was?

But, she obviously didn't do anything. Why did he ask her to make it up to him?

Tilly felt a little aggrieved.

She flattened her mouth and muttered dissatisfiedly, "Ben, how can you bully me so much?"

Ben smiled and said, "I love you. That's why I bully you."

With a soft snort, Tilly said, "Hurry up and drive. It's too bad for the two of us to be late."

Ben knew she was just shy, so he stopped teasing her.

He pinched Tilly's face and said, "Why? They haven't arrived yet."

Tilly looked at Ben suspiciously, not knowing how he could speak with such certainty.

Ben looked in the rearview mirror and said, "You can see for yourself."

Tilly turned around and Walter's car was not far from them.

So, when they were kissing here, were they all seen by them?

This made Tilly even more ashamed.

For a moment, she didn't know how to face this.

Ben knew what Tilly was thinking and laughed.

"What are you thinking? Do you think they are watching a movie?" Ben was helpless. How could his girl be so naive?

Then, he was afraid they were also in a movie.

Tilly quickly understood the meaning of Ben's words, and opened her mouth unconsciously. Finally, she looked at Ben and said, "Ben, I found out that you're really bad sometimes."

Ben didn't care a bit about Tilly's disgust.

He curled up the corners of his mouth and rubbed Tilly's head again before starting the car.

The car was driving into the Hayden's Mansion slowly.

Ben parked the car just as Walter's car drove in.

Ben said unceremoniously, "Your skills are not good now. You started before me and arrived later than me."

Walter opened the door and got out of the car. Glancing at Ben, he said, "What do you know? I'm driving safely."

As Ben heard this, he burst out laughing.

This kind of words can only be said by Walter because he was merely brazen.

It was needless to ask to know how safe his driving was.

Especially, after April heard what Walter said, her face was so red.

April really wanted to get away from Walter.

She felt that if she stayed with him like this again, she would really be infected by this man's shamelessness.

She didn't want to become like him.

However, although April was very resistant to being in the same boat with Walter, she couldn't really let him face the banter from Ben alone.

She bit the bullet and stood obediently beside Walter, but she was already burning herself with shame in her heart.

Along the way, April didn't even want to recall how this guy, Walter drove safely.

However, Walter actually held her over and said, "April, why don't you tell them how safe I am in driving?"

April didn't know what to say.

Looking at April's expression, Tilly can already guess what April had been through.

She even felt a little like giving Walter a thumbs up.

How amazing was this man, that he can even make things difficult for his girlfriend?

This was simply an incredible thing.

However, thinking about how Ben "bullied" her, Tilly became lifeless again.

She wasn't much better than April.

Both of them were poor.

The four of them took their things out of the car before walking inside.

Aimee was working in the study at the moment, completely unaware that they suddenly came to the house.

Today, Patrick went to the company, and even Camdyn went to play chess with his old comrades, and he hadn't come back yet.

After the four of them entered the house, it was the servant who ran upstairs and called Aimee to come down. Only then did Aimee know that they had come in such a mighty way.

Aimee didn't care about how she looked anymore, but just came out of the study and went downstairs.

When she saw the baby products in the living room, she was completely dumbfounded.

Aimee asked: "Why are you...?"

Smiling, Tilly ran over to hold Aimee's arm, and said, "April and I were shopping today and saw how cute these things were, so we couldn't hold back and bought them for you."

Aimee thanked Tilly and April, and said in shock, "You are exaggerating too much?"

Aimee really felt that the two of them must have emptied the entire store.

No, these were obviously from two brands, so it meant that these were two stores.

She had never gone shopping with the two of them before, so she naturally didn't know that these two girls would be so powerful in shopping.

For a moment, Aimee was a little scared.

Tilly said, "Aimee, come and take a look. It's really cute, but April and I don't know whether you are pregnant with a boy or a girl, so we bought things for for baby girl and boy. Look, isn't it very cute?"

Tilly can't put it down, because she really liked these little clothes and shoes.

She really kind of wanted to go back and have a baby right now if she can.

Her excited expression was naturally observed by Ben.

Ben's eyes were full of tenderness. At this moment, he seemed to have no desire to do anything. He really wanted to marry this girl and then have a child with her.

However, Tilly, who was so delicate, probably can't bear the pain, so it was better that they had only one child.

He himself naturally hoped that they can have one baby boy and one baby girl, but this kind of thing cannot be forced.

For Ben, the most important thing was naturally Tilly.

Even if she didn't want to have a baby, he will listen to her in everything.

Tilly didn't know what Ben was thinking, in that she was full of Aimee now.

To be precise, it was the baby in Aimee's belly.

Aimee said, "I really don't know if it's a boy or a girl, but what is certain now is that there are two."

As soon as she said so, there was a few seconds of silence, followed by Tilly's scream.

"Ahhhhh! Really? Really?" Tilly hugged Aimee's arm, barely jumping up and down.

It was Ben who grabbed her in time, put her in his arms, and said, "You're frightening the babies."

Tilly immediately covered her mouth, looking obedient.

She blinked her eyes, covered her mouth and asked tentatively, "Aimee, can I touch it?"
