

Healing 911

Chapter 911 The Right to be Proud

Although this island was built with too much girlish fantasy, it really hit the for women. Apart from the initial shock, everyone quickly got used to the various scenery in front of them. Even Aimee couldn't help but sigh that if they moved this set to Innisrial, it would definitely become a popular attraction without any need for promotion. Even without them, word of mouth alone could make it a hot spot. Aimee casually mentioned it and unexpectedly, everyone who came here on vacation thought her suggestion was great and started discussing how to plan and execute it when they returned home. Aimee was speechless because she only mentioned it casually. Tilly held Aimee's hand and said, "I suddenly feel like we should form an all-women group and not bring these men out anymore. What are we doing here? Relaxing or working? I feel like if we ignore them, they'll just go into meeting mode." Casey also said, "Forget about those few men; they're all a bunch of schemers anyway. Why is my husband getting involved?"

Matilda heard this and laughed directly, "Kelvin is just like Aimee; maybe even more scheming than those guys."

Aimee felt somewhat helpless as she looked at Matilda and said, "Don't malign me. I'm still a good doctor who saves lives with all my heart. I'm not doing anything shady anymore."

Matilda and Averil burst out laughing at her words while Aimee didn't feel burdened by what she had said but they did.

Although Aimee wasn't personally involved now, none of her subordinates were idle.

Matilda hooked Casey's shoulder saying, "It seems you don't know your husband well enough yet. Have him give you an account later on. Forget everything else. Just based on his few companies alone, he can sit back for ten lifetimes."

Casey... now felt that this world was magical indeed! Previously people always talked about how their family was already one of the top-tier families among wealthy households, even though generation after generation produced prodigal sons who squandered their wealth over hundreds of years. But now hearing Matilda talk about Aimee along with her husband... they were really hiding deep secrets! Casey said, "It's over now. None of Walter, Miles, and Patrick want to inherit the family property. I guess, the next generation of our family doesn't have this idea either. What should we do?"

Averil laughed, and said, "You didn't read the posts online? Some rich people pretend to be poor, just to educate their next generation to rely on their own efforts to get ahead, or you can try it too."

"That can't be done," Casey said immediately, "Perla is already such a pitiful child. I don't want her to suffer, and I'm going to let her rely on Ridge, Rosemary, and future siblings, so that when they have a grand future, they won't forget to take care of Perla."

Everyone laughed out loud, and it was only natural for Casey to say such a thing.

However, being born in the Hayden family, the kid had already won at the beginning, so she really didn't need to think so much.

Chapter 912 More than Evil

The group arrived at the island around noon, and due to a joke from Aimee, everyone who had planned to rest in the afternoon and then get active at night spent the whole afternoon researching feasibility instead.

It wasn't until it got dark that Casey was the first to say in exasperation, "Hey guys, we're here on vacation. Why are we still working?”

Kelvin patted Casey's head and said, "It's our fault. Are you hungry? I'll prepare dinner."

There were no stores on the island; everything had to be self-sufficient. Although they had sent some chefs over earlier, some people wanted to cook for themselves.

Casey had told Kelvin earlier that she wanted his red wine braised beef for dinner tonight. It was a complicated dish that required time and effort; Kelvin felt genuinely guilty for not starting it yet.

After discussing this topic all afternoon, they agreed not to talk about it again until they returned to Innisrial. They split into two groups: those with good cooking skills led by Aimee and Kelvin moved into the kitchen while others entertained themselves.

Although Casey was still craving Kelvin's red wine braised beef, she knew it would take a lot of effort if he started making it now. So Casey said, "Honey, why don't we skip dinner today?"

Kelvin began preparing quickly but asked, "Are you starving?"

"I'm okay," replied Casey.

"I'll make something else for you first as an appetizer so you can wait patiently for later when I finish making your beef." said Kelvin reassuringly.

"But I feel bad about making you work so hard," protested Casey.

"It's nothing difficult," replied Kelvin with a faint smile.

Just as Casey was about to say something more, Eden interrupted, "Come on, don't be so stingy! We want some too!"

At Eden's words, Casey gave him an angry look.

Eden and Casey watched as they were kicked out of the kitchen before long after their interference made things worse than ever, even though everyone worked quickly together.

Despite all this chaos caused by these two troublemakers, the meal didn't start until three hours later because there were many people involved.

Casey highly recommended Kelvin's red wine braised beef, and almost everyone praised him except himself.

However, everyone knew Kelvin's good cooking skills, and they will praise him spontaneously without being asked by Casey.

After drinking and eating, everyone went back to their rooms to rest.

Today they were exhausted by traveling, and brainstormed in the afternoon. Although there was no jet lag, they were indeed tired.

After Tilly and Ben returned to the room, Ben hugged Tilly, kissed her ear, and said softly, "I'm sorry baby. I really want to take you to relax."

Who would have thought that they would discuss business matters.

Tilly turned her head, looked at Ben, and said, "There's nothing to be sorry about. I'm not unhappy. It's the first time I've seen everyone working like this."

She had been with Ben for so long, but she hadn't really seen Ben's work.

In the afternoon, when she saw a group of them discussing, the scene was really intense.

She hadn't thought about it before, when these people got together, they were evil than each other.

Chapter 913 I Want to Sleep Right Now

Ben was very puzzled. According to Tilly's personality, even if she was exhausted, she would still pester him to do things related to having a baby. However, when they returned to the room, she neither urged him to take a shower nor immediately started fooling around with him. This feeling made Ben not accustomed to it for a while.

As he unbuttoned the button, Ben slowed down, circled Tilly, and teased her without a trace.

However, Tilly seemed to completely ignore this.

This made Ben even more puzzled. What was going on? Could it be that he was no longer attractive to Tilly? Just thinking about it was enough to make Ben feel defeated.

He didn't beat around the bush with Tilly but leaned down directly, pressing his nose against Tilly's and softly saying, "Sweetheart, you're acting very strange today."

"Am I?" Tilly asked.

She blinked her eyes innocently.

Ben said, "Your ignoring me like this makes me start to doubt my charm."

Tilly lowered her eyelashes and looked towards Ben's chest. How to say? Ben's Adam's apple, clavicle, pectoral muscles, abdominal muscles...

Tilly couldn't help but swallow her saliva. However, she did feel a bit tired today, mainly because she didn't take a nap in the afternoon and now she was so sleepy that tears were coming out.

Aimee had said that overly tense nerves can cause stress and make it difficult to conceive normally. She didn't want to think about having a baby when she was already so tired, and it was not good for Ben either.

Therefore, even though Tilly was very tempted by Ben's body right now, she still said, "I'm tired and want to go to sleep today."

Ben thought that this reason was more perfunctory than Tilly's excuse of having period. Tilly's persistence in having a baby was so strong that even when she was exhausted and her eyelids were fighting each other, she still insisted on making it happen.

And besides, Tilly said it herself before she fell asleep that he could handle it on his own.

Ben lowered his head and kissed Tilly's lips, saying, "Baby, are you just being perfunctory?"

"No, I'm really tired," Tilly said.

However, the action of swallowing saliva betrayed her true thoughts.

Ben kissed her lips again. He didn't even have to tease her. When he just kissed her again and again, he would make her soft.

Tilly finally couldn't resist Ben, her head tilted and she reminded herself in her mind not to be attracted, not at all.

However, in the next second, Ben hugged her directly.

Tilly's body was more honest, already had the habit of movement.

Her hands and feet unconsciously wrapped themselves around Ben's body.

Stunned for a moment, Tilly subconsciously wanted to get off Ben's body.

However, Ben clasped her waist and said, "The bathroom or the bed, or, do you like the balcony?"

Tilly was speechless, because Ben hadn't been so blunt before.

Seeing that Tilly was silent, Ben said deliberately, "Although going to the balcony will be more exciting, my suggestion is not to. There are too many mosquitoes, and it's too hot."

Tilly looked at Ben, blinked and said, "Ben, I want to sleep."

Ben said, "Well, I'll let you sleep later."

"I want to sleep right now," Tilly said.

Ben said, "Okay."

Chapter 914 How can anyone be cruel to them?

Tilly and Ben had been discussing the topic of sleeping all night long, from how to sleep to whether their way of sleeping was the same or not. Tilly was at her wit's end.

Usually, she would be the one clinging onto Ben, but now that he was clinging onto her. She didn't know what to do with herself.

Finally satisfied, Ben held Tilly in his arms while she hummed and hawed with a layer of mist in her eyes. He gently stroked her back and asked what was wrong.

"What?" Tilly's brain wasn't functioning properly at this point as she looked at him strangely for a while before finally understanding what he meant.

"Nothing really. I'm just tired and want to sleep."

Ben looked down at Tilly skeptically; he half-believed what she said.

Feeling uneasy under his gaze, Tilly covered his eyes with her hand and said, "Hey! Don't look at me like that! I'm not lying!"

"I never said you were," replied Ben.

If it weren't for Tilly insisting on telling him this so adamantly, then maybe he wouldn't have thought too much about it. But now that he heard it from her own mouth like this, he knew there must be more going on than just being tired.

"However," continued Ben after a moment's pause. "You were pretty good earlier despite being so tired."

Tilly blushed furiously upon hearing this comment from him. How could someone be so shameless? She poked his arm with an annoyed expression, "Don't talk nonsense! It's not like I'm hiding anything from you!"

Ben lowered his head and kissed Tilly on the forehead affectionately; this girl really didn't understand subtlety or tactfulness very well yet. She had already given herself away without any prompting whatsoever – there was no need for him to pry further into things when they were already out in the open like this.

But still, he couldn't help but tease her sometimes just because it made him feel closer to her somehow. Tiredness soon overtook them both as they drifted off into peaceful slumber together.

The next day arrived without incident as everyone slept until afternoon came around once again.

Originally, at dinner last night, everyone had an appointment to go out to sea. Who would have thought that when they opened their eyes, the sun was already setting.

However, they can't go to sea, but they can have fun at the seaside.

Matilda and the others directly organized beach volleyball.

At first, they were grouped by family, but then somehow, it became a group of men and a group of women.

Casey came over and pulled Aimee over, looking like a poor little girl and whispering in Aimee's ears all the time that she must teach these men a lesson.

Thus, the beach volleyball directly rose to a war between men and women.

Casey didn't mind watching the show and had been cheering for Aimee and the others, making the atmosphere lively.

Eden patted Casey on the head, and said, "It's too much. Look at those on the opposite side. How can there be any one who will be cruel to them?"

Chapter 915 See What the Girl Wants

Eden was right to criticize. The men and women were fighting separately, with one team of wives and one team of husbands. The husbands' team was so bad that they might as well have been thrown into the ocean.

Not only did this leave the spectators speechless, but even Aimee and her friends were also at a loss for words.

Matilda put her hands on her hips and looked over at the men across from them. "Do you look down on us? Are we really that terrible in your eyes?" she asked.

"No, no," Miles quickly replied.

"Then play seriously. Your style is too boring," Matilda said.

Some of the men had intended to go easy on their wives after all; how could they really hurt them? However, this kind of playing style not only didn't do any good but also earned them disdain from their wives instead.

Patrick patted Miles's shoulder and said, "If you let up against Matilda, you're insulting her skills."

Miles glared at Patrick; what did he mean by saying that now? Hadn't he gone easy on Aimee before?

The two brothers didn't need to speak explicitly; just a glance was enough for each other to understand what they were thinking.

Patrick felt helpless too; he had wanted to go easy on Aimee as well but... her skills made it impossible... He raised his head and met Aimee's meaningful yet challenging gaze before chuckling lowly. "Let's try again."

This time around, they had better take it seriously or risk being beaten until crying like babies later – which would be entirely their fault anyway since most men thought alike in such situations!

However soon enough, reality hit hard when they got mercilessly beaten by their wives who showed them firsthand what happened when someone overthought things!

In the end Patrick's team lost – not because they went easy but because their opponents proved themselves superior in every way possible!

Casey and Tilly from the cheerleading squad couldn't contain their excitement anymore as soon as it ended! They rushed over to congratulate Aimee and her teammates, showering them with compliments!

Eden looked helplessly towards Patrick's direction while muttering under his breath, "These sisters-in-law are so brutal!"

He would not dare to make sarcastic remarks at this time, and if he did, he would laugh at them and lose all the face of men.

Patrick arched an eyebrow towards Eden before replying wryly, "You're just realizing this now?"

Eden laughed unkindly. In fact, he wanted to say that because they were so gentle now, they had forgotten what they were like in the beginning.

After the beach volleyball ended, immediately after sunset, everyone set up a barbecue on the beach.

The noise continued until midnight before everyone returned to their rooms.

But the situation after returning to the room was exactly the same as yesterday.

Tilly went straight into the bathroom, took a quick shower, and then got under the covers, not intending to wait for Ben at all.

Ben felt a little helpless, but he didn't think much about it, and then went to take a shower.

When he came out after washing, he found that Tilly had already fallen asleep on the bed, and she really didn't wait for him.

After wiping his hair, Ben lifted the quilt and lay down, bowed his head and kissed Tilly's cheek, only to find that Tilly wasn't asleep at all.

His eyes narrowed slightly. Ben still wanted to trick after all and see what the girl wanted to do.

Chapter 916 You Really don't Think so

Tilly was startled by Ben's sudden action, and she couldn't even breathe properly. She tensed up, afraid that she might reveal her true feelings if she let her guard down.

She believed Aimee's words and tried to forget about her desire to have a child and relax with Ben completely. Maybe then, they could unexpectedly have a child.

Today was the day Tilly had finally convinced herself not to bother Ben with thoughts of having a child. But now, it seemed like she wasn't the only one thinking about it.

Ben kissed Tilly on the earlobe gently, repeatedly but not forcefully. Sometimes Tilly even felt like it wasn't real at all. However, this kind of teasing made her feel uncomfortable and restless.

She was almost turned on by Ben's touch.

Tilly knew that Ben deliberately wanted to tease her and ignite something inside of her; he was simply too good for her in this game.

However, Tilly still held back from responding; she didn't give him any chance to win easily.

Ben showed great patience today as he only kissed lightly on Tilly's earlobe without going too far beyond that limit.

Finally unable to resist his teasing anymore, Tilly moaned softly in response which caused Ben to chuckle lightly in amusement at how easy it was for him to get under his girlfriend's skin

Tilly grumbled unhappily while looking at him, "What are you doing?"

Her voice sounded petulant as if complaining against an unfair treatment from someone who had taken advantage of her repeatedly without any remorse or consideration whatsoever!

Ben sucked on Tilly's lips deeply before replying, "I thought you didn't like me anymore."

Tilly rolled eyes incredulously before retorting, "Are you trying to mock me? I can't believe you would say such silly things."

She really couldn't afford to take the blame.

Ben said, "You're not as passionate to me as you used to be."

As he said, his voice was still full of grievances. It was not that Tilly had never seen Ben like this before, but it was just very strange. Ben actually rarely used such methods to deal with her, because he also knew very well that such methods would make her feel particularly guilty. So, if it wasn't true that he was offended and really unhappy, he would never use this method on Tilly.

Today, however, Ben used this, which was too strange.

Ben said, "Do you still like me?"

He asked very seriously, which made Tilly's heart soften all of a sudden.

She immediately put her arms around Ben's neck and said, "I like you, the person I like the most is you."

Ben laughed lowly, but he was thinking that his baby was really easy to coax.

"Then why didn't you wait for me to sleep today?" Ben said.

He still had an aggrieved tone, which made Tilly feel very distressed, as if she really did something wrong.

"I'm just a little bit tired," Tilly said.

After finishing speaking, although Tilly clearly knew that Ben already knew that she was pretending to be asleep, she still said, "Isn't it that I woke up as soon as you touched me?"

Ben smiled and said, "Well, that's nice."

Seeing that Ben's mood seemed to improve a little bit, Tilly said, "Then let's go to sleep."

As she spoke, she burrowed into Ben's arms, finding a particularly comfortable position.

Ben said, "Sure enough, you still don't like me."

Tilly froze for a moment, and really didn't know how to explain it, because she really didn't.

She raised her face, looked at Ben, and said, "Don't be a bully."

He kept saying that she didn't like him anymore. She was really hurt, okay?

Ben said, "That means you don't want to have any babies for me, do you?"

Tilly was speechless.

She just knew that if she was a little abnormal, Ben would really catch it very keenly.

Frowning, Tilly wasn't going to expose what Aimee had said to her.

She said, "I just suddenly felt that we have done too much, so we have never had children."

Ben was almost laughed at by Tilly.

In this case, it would be better to say that his quality was not high.

As if a knife had been stabbed in his heart, Ben said, "Why do you think this way so suddenly? You never thought this way before."

Tilly grunted and said, "It's just a sudden inspiration."

Ben said, "You asked Aimee."

His tone was very certain, and he hit the nail on the head.

Tilly was speechless.

Well, now she had no choice but to admit it even if she didn't want to.

Tilly said, "Don't say it like that. You make it sound like I'm a bad person who betrayed Aimee."

Ben chuckled softly. It must have been something Aimee said.

So there was no need to guess why Aimee would go and talk to Tilly about this.

Aimee wouldn't have come herself to say these things to Tilly. The only possibility was that Tilly went and asked Aimee herself.

As for why Tilly would ask Aimee, the answer was even simpler.

Ben couldn't help feeling helpless. It turned out that his girl suspected there might be something wrong with their bodies.

Ben said, "If you're worried, I can go get checked."

As soon as Tilly heard this, she sat up from the bed and looked at Ben saying, "Ben, I don't mean that way. You don't have to think too much."

Ben said, "It's my fault for not being careful enough and making you worry for so long."

Tilly shook her head saying, "I really didn't mean it that way. You really don't have to think too much about it."

Ben touched Tilly's head and said, "Good girl. Let's go get checked so we can rest assured when we return home."

Looking at Ben's expression, Tilly could tell he wasn't angry at all. Tilly snuggled back into Ben's arms again, saying, "I think maybe it's my problem after all."

Ben lowered his eyes looking at her furry little head and replied, "Maybe our child just hasn't come yet. There are no problems. We shouldn't scare ourselves unnecessarily."

"I really feel this way, because I think you're amazing," said Tilly. How could she not know if Ben had any problems? This statement undoubtedly made him happy. No man dislikes hearing such words especially coming from their loved ones' mouths.

Ben replied, "Don't worry. Maybe we're just under too much pressure."

“Aimee also thinks so,” said Tilly looking up at Ben. “In the end, it’s still my problem.”

It was because of her constant anxiety which caused such a situation. If not for this reason, the issue wouldn’t exist in the first place. In short, it was still her problem.

Ben said, “Then let’s calm down our emotions. Don’t overthink things anymore.”

Tilly nodded saying, “From today onwards, I won’t bother you anymore.”

Ben was at a loss for words.

Doing it with the task of having a baby, and doing it just because the two of them wanted each other were essentially two different things.

Now, Tilly actually exploited his benefit.

Ben was really helpless. For a while, he didn’t even know whether he should talk to Aimee or not.

How did Aimee know that one of her own suggestions made Ben hold grudge.

Chapter 917 How should I Face others in the Future?

Tilly was always the type to make a big deal out of nothing, but now that she said she wouldn’t bother Ben, she really wasn’t bothering him anymore.

For three days straight, Tilly had been having a great time and when she returned to the room, she would take a shower and go straight to bed without any intention of getting close to Ben.

If it weren’t for knowing that Tilly’s period wasn’t at this time, Ben would have thought it was his monthly celibate day.

Since they got together, there hadn’t been a single day where something didn’t happen except when Tilly couldn’t. There were only differences between once or several times every day. It wasn’t like there was ever an occasion where Ben could become like this.

Because of this situation, Ben really didn’t know whether to laugh or cry.

Finally on the fourth day as soon as Tilly stepped into the bathroom, Ben followed in behind her. These past few days seemed like they were trying to avoid what happened and even took separate showers.

Ben could even say he had never felt so wronged before.

Tilly didn’t know what was going through Ben’s mind and when she saw him follow her in with a puzzled expression on her face asking, “Do you want to wash first?”

Ben gave Tilly an intense look that clearly showed he was very dissatisfied with her question. His gaze filled with danger as he reached out his long arm hooking around Tilly’s waist and pulling her into his arms directly. That caused her chest collide against his hard chest, making it hurt slightly upon impact. Although Tilly found it strange how odd Ben acted earlier, animal instincts alone told her that right now he was dangerous and extremely unhappy about something. Tilly felt lost for words momentarily, not knowing what else should be done next. Originally, their plan being on the island together would be not creating life until after returning back home in Innisrial where they both get checked then start planning again. But, under these circumstances right now, Tilly knew one thing for sure -Ben was truly unhappy about something .

Immediately, Tilly raised up both hands hugging onto Ben’s waist saying, “Ben, do you miss it?”

Although Ben felt quite unhappy indeed, upon hearing them, it seemed like all air had been let out of him. He directly grabbed onto Tilly’s waist letting it stick closer together than ever before.

Now, Tilly didn’t need any answer because by feeling how close they were, she already knew everything. It was something she was most familiar with, yet it did not belong to her.

However, it always managed to hide inside her body. Tilly’s face instantly turned red and she uncontrollably licked the corner of her mouth. She said, “Ben, I’ve missed it.”

As she spoke, Tilly's hand had already started moving, as if in a hurry, to grab Ben's clothes. Ben curled his lips slightly. The girl was obedient and didn't need him to coax her. She took the initiative to do it herself.

He put his arm around Tilly's waist, lifted her up, placed her on the glass table, and whispered, "Bath first or bath second?"

Tilly was no longer interested in taking a bath at the moment. Her hands were still moving and she quickly took off Ben's clothes.

Her appearance really pleased Ben and made him very happy. Ben chuckled and said, "Don't worry. Let's take it slow."

Tilly didn't want to take things slow with him at all; she knew Ben too well. When he said these words, it meant that she was finished.

On that night, Tilly didn't know how many times Ben had done her. She only felt like she was in and out of consciousness and vaguely sensed the break of dawn.

However, soon she felt the darkness again.

Tilly had no idea at what point she was truly falling asleep. She only knew that when she opened her eyes again, she was really close to starving to death.

She can't even lift her arms, or rather, she can't even lift her fingers. Tilly didn't want to speak at all because she knew how terrible her voice sounded right now.

Even she didn't have the idea of turning her head, and she simply didn't want to look at the person next to her.

If Tilly hadn't felt the warmth next to her, she wouldn't even have known if there was anyone beside her.

"Awake?" Ben asked.

Tilly wanted to lift her gaze towards Ben, but in fact, she couldn't do it at all. She murmured with her lips, but no sound came out.

Ben said, "Are you hungry? What would you like to eat?"

Tilly was now so hungry that she could eat a whole cow, but what she can eat right now, she knew very well, was something that can be easily poured into her mouth.

Tilly said, "Porridge is fine."

Ben turned over and got out of bed, but instead of leaving the room, he brought a bowl over directly.

Tilly was lifted up by Ben, her eyelids were so heavy that she couldn't lift them up at all.

Ben said, "Try it, the current temperature should be just right."

Tilly nodded, not wanting to talk at all.

Ben scooped up a spoonful and wanted to feed it to Tilly, but Tilly didn't have any idea about this way of eating, and it wasn't enjoyable at all.

She raised her eyelids to look at Ben, and Ben immediately understood what Tilly meant, and said, "You want to eat by yourself. I'll carry the bowl, okay?"

Tilly nodded, bringing her mouth to the edge of the bowl.

It was really poured in mouthful by mouthful, without stopping at all.

Ben was really worried, and he didn't know if Tilly would feel uncomfortable with this way of eating.

However, seeing how anxious she was to eat, one could tell that she was really hungry.

It was also fault. Knowing that although Tilly had improved a lot now and she was still coquettish, he can't help "torturing" her at all.

Yesterday, Tilly was really "bullied".

After Tilly finished a bowl of porridge, Ben said, "It's my fault. I won't be like this from now on." People say that absence makes the heart grow fonder. Although this was not absence, it was another kind of it.

Tilly raised her moist eyes to look at Ben, and finally asked, "What's the date today?"

"Twenty-fourth," Ben said.

Tilly was struck dumb.

She knew that she had indeed seen day and night, not just once.

What did this mean? It meant that the two of them stayed in the room for two days.

Tilly felt like she had totally lost her face.

It would be okay to go to other places and live in a hotel with only the two of them, but now this was an island, and the entire island was full of familiar people.

Tilly took a look at Ben, and said, "How am I supposed to face them in the future?"

Chapter 918 I can't Get Up

Ben chuckled when he heard Tilly's hopeless words and said, "What's the rush? We're all in the same boat. Everyone came here with their families for vacation, not to go on an adventure. It's normal for everyone to stay in their rooms."

It wasn't just him and Tilly; everyone else was doing the same thing, so there was nothing to be embarrassed about.

Tilly sniffled and said, "Well, it's already happened."

She couldn't just disappear into thin air now.

Ben replied, "That's how you should think about it."

After finishing a bowl of porridge, Tilly regained some strength.

She looked at Ben and said, "Ben, I'm still hungry."

"What do you want to eat?" Ben asked.

He only brought one bowl of porridge because Tilly hadn't eaten anything in a long time. Eating something too filling right away would be bad for her stomach.

Tilly said, "I want a big bone."

She felt like a little puppy with an insatiable appetite who wanted something substantial to eat.

"Okay," Ben agreed. "Let me help you freshen up first before we go eat. Is that alright?"

Tilly nodded her head; otherwise she wouldn't have been able to leave the room anyway.

After tidying up their appearance, they went outside of the room together hand-in-hand. Then they noticed that it was already past noon but surprisingly there wasn't anyone outside yet.

Tilly thought maybe everyone had gone out on a boat ride or something but after asking Ben, she learned that everyone else was still inside their rooms.

This made her curious if they were all really here just trying to make babies or what? But then again if that were true, where were Eden and Minnie?

Minnie had already been pregnant for over eight months now, so surely Eden wouldn't have left her alone like this?

Seeing Tilly's confusion written all over her face, Ben explained, "They went back earlier because Eden is worried."

Minnie was almost nine months pregnant now, so Eden was understandably anxious about anything going wrong during delivery.

If Minnie hadn't insisted on coming along this time around, then he probably wouldn't have come either.

Despite telling herself not to think too much about it or put any pressure on Ben regarding having children together these past few days, she couldn't help but wonder if all their efforts would pay off soon enough.

However, she didn't want him feeling burdened by any expectations from her side either, so she tried hard not show any signs of excitement even though deep down inside she felt envious towards Minnie's situation as well as hopeful for herself too.

But since promising herself not dwell on such thoughts anymore once decided earlier today -she'd stick with that decision- no matter what happened next between them two.

Ben didn't give Tilly a big bone to eat directly, but made her a bowl of tube bone noodles.

Tilly looked at the bowl and couldn't see much meat on the bones, feeling speechless. "Is this how you treat me? So stingy," she said.

Ben replied, "Let's wait for a couple of days; otherwise, your stomach might not feel well."

Tilly pouted and said, "I could have waited without being hungry for so long."

Ben felt genuinely sorry and touched Tilly's head. He apologized by saying, "It's my fault baby. I'm sorry." But Tilly slurped up some noodles and responded by saying that she wasn't forced to do anything.

Ben laughed it off and said that they were in sync with each other. He knew how passionate Tilly would respond to him.

He loved his baby girl so much that he couldn't imagine life without her. After finishing their meal together, Ben held hands with Tilly as they walked along the beach.

Suddenly bursting into laughter while walking hand in hand with Ben, Tilly exclaimed, "Don't we look like an old married couple now?"

Chuckling softly, Ben rubbed his forehead against hers affectionately before replying, "Even when we are old married couple, you will always be my little girl."

Tilly's heart melted at these words which were both soft yet sweetly romantic. She hooked her arm around Ben's neck, telling him, "And you will always be my boy."

As they gazed lovingly into each other's eyes, the air was filled with an unspoken passion between them.

Ben admitted, "I never thought I'd grow old alongside someone else before."

Curious, Tilly asked, "And now?"

"Now, I want to grow old together with you until our hair turns grey." replied Ben tenderly

Tilly was moved beyond words, and then suddenly broke out laughing again. "What if one of us goes bald first?" she joked, making light of their conversation about growing older together

After all, hair loss was becoming more common among people of all ages nowadays!

Although both of them belonged to the type with thick hair, who can say for sure about this kind of thing?

It never occurred to Ben that Tilly would change the topic like this.

He looked at Tilly with helplessness and amusement, and raised his hand to pinch the ball on top of her head.

As far as the current feel was concerned, Tilly was unlikely to be bald.

Ben said, "My hair quality should be okay, and my family doesn't have any middle-aged balding genes, and I'm not very good at doing things that damage my hair, so this problem shouldn't exist."

Listening to Ben's serious words, Tilly laughed so hard that she couldn't straighten up.

She squeezed Ben's hand and said, "Then the two of us must be able to grow old with grey hair, right?"

Ben nodded seriously and said, "Of course."

The more serious he was, the more Tilly laughed.

After laughing, Tilly squatted directly on the ground, clutching her stomach, her cheeks hurt from laughing, and her stomach hurt from laughing too. Then, she knelt directly on the ground, unable to squat properly.

Ben was speechless.

He really cared about the matter of getting old together.

Finally, Tilly laughed enough, held out her hand to Ben, and said, "Pull me up. I can't get up."

Chapter 919 Help His Wife to See

Ben pulled Tilly up directly, but of course, given Tilly's current state, she couldn't stand steady at all.

He just grabbed Tilly in his arms and let her hang from his body.

In fact, Tilly was not exerting any effort at all and was completely relying on Ben to carry her.

Ben said, "Baby, do you think this is funny?"

Tilly nodded and said, "Isn't it funny?"

Ben knew she was laughing at the fact that neither of them would become bald, but he couldn't resist teasing her. He said, "Is it funny to you that we'll grow old together?"

Tilly's smiling face froze for a second. She blinked her eyes and looked at Ben, saying, "I'm not laughing at this, Ben. Are you upset?"

Ben's lips curled up, not sure if he was infected by Tilly's laughter or if it was transferred to him, but now he can't stop laughing.

Tilly was speechless now.

In one second, she understood what Ben was laughing at. She was really annoyed. How could this scoundrel bully her like this?

Ben could not stop laughing, but he still held Tilly firmly to his body.

However, this also meant that Tilly received a stronger resonance.

She couldn't hold it any longer and reached out to twist Ben's waist as her face finally showed embarrassment.

She didn't have much strength, but the point she hit was Ben's vital spot.

Ben tightened the straps on Tilly even more, in order to prevent her hands from moving.

Tilly said, "Why are you so mean? You always bully me."

Ben said, "Baby, I really love you so much."

Tilly's heart instantly melted at the confession. Who wouldn't like to hear such words of love? Who wouldn't want to hear a declaration from their beloved?

Tilly had been very sensitive lately, her eyes felt sore and hot. When Ben said this sentence, he also quickly suppressed his smile within a second, without any intention of teasing Tilly further.

Tilly looked at Ben, his eyes filled with seriousness. Tilly never doubted Ben's love for her, but when she saw how serious he was, she couldn't help but think to herself, "Oh my goodness, is the universe really being this kind to me? How could it have brought such a wonderful person like Ben into my life?"

How lucky she was to fall in love with this man.

Finally unable to resist, Tilly lowered her head and gave Ben a kiss on the lips. They kissed under the sun, listening to the sound of the waves. And then, a whistle.

Wait!

The sound of a whistle!

Tilly and Ben quickly let go of each other and looked in the direction of the sound together. Soon enough, they saw a group of people standing not far away.

It was obvious that Walter was responsible for the whistle. Tilly immediately thought about how she and Ben had been fooling around in their room for two days straight, and her face turned red with embarrassment.

She wanted nothing more than to bury her head in Ben's shoulder, pretending to be deaf and blind so she wouldn't have to hear or see anything. But despite feeling shy, Tilly still jumped off Ben's body.

"Kissing under the sun? You're something else," Walter approached them with his friends already by his side. He naturally teased Ben with this comment.

Ben glared at him and said, "As if you don't do it too."

Walter knew exactly how he treated April who wasn't any better than Tilly when it came to being thin-skinned. When Walter "bullied" April, he didn't hold back at all either.

He clicked his tongue twice but didn't expose them because he knew that somehow Ben had managed to make everyone believe that every couple was fooling around inside their rooms – although it might not necessarily be untrue since they were all adults who knew what they were doing anyway.

But only couples like Ben and Tilly could play around like this; everyone else couldn't keep up with them when it came down to having fun – maybe because they were young after all?

Even Ash and Mikayla weren't as playful as these two; one could only say that Ben and Tilly really knew how to enjoy themselves.

Walter didn't expose them not because he suddenly became kind-hearted, but mainly because his wife told him repeatedly not speak too fast or scare off Tilly. Otherwise, she wouldn't talk to him anymore.

Walter cared deeply about April's feeling while disregarding others' opinions entirely.

Tilly had no idea that she was protected by April just now; otherwise if she heard what Walter said about teasing her boyfriend earlier, then surely she would have died right there on spot out of sheer embarrassment alone!

Fortunately though besides making fun of kissing under hot sun, nothing more happened afterwards, so everyone went back talking casually among themselves.

Suddenly, Walter's phone rang loudly, interrupting their conversation.

He took it out and saw that it was from Miles.

Walter raised his eyebrows and answered, "Why? I told you to come out just now and you didn't come out, but now you want to come out again?"

Miles said, "Did you see Ben and Tilly? If so, come back together. Eden called back. His wife is about to give birth and has already gone to the hospital."

For a while, he didn't know what to say.

What Eden said was so accurate.

"Okay, we'll be right back," Walter said.

After he hung up the phone and repeated Miles' words, everyone reacted in unison that the premonition must be too accurate.

Everyone didn't delay any longer, and the trip to the island ended here. They simply cleaned up and took a private plane back to Innisrial.

Everyone came out of the airport and went straight to the hospital without stopping.

As a result, they didn't know until arrived at the hospital that Minnie had been in the delivery room for ten hours, but she hadn't come out yet.

Eden yelled anxiously outside. Unknowingly, people thought he was having a baby.

According to Mariam, Eden had originally entered the delivery room, but was kicked out because he was too noisy inside.

Everyone was speechless. Sure enough, one cannot expect too much from this guy.

Eden was nervous at first, but when he saw Aimee and Kelvin, it was as if he saw saviors. He held their hands and said, "Aimee, Kelvin, my wife will be fine."

Neither Aimee nor Kelvin were obstetric doctors. Although they had no choice but to deliver the baby when Casey was born, for professionals, the doctor who helped Minnie deliver the baby was much more reliable than the two of them.

Aimee said, "Don't worry, Dr. Lyons is the best obstetrician in the country."

Although Eden knew this, he was still flustered.

Now he can't wait to let Aimee and Kelvin go in and watch his wife.

Chapter 920 It is Hard to Control My Emotions

They didn't know if it was fate or not, but after more than ten minutes, a deafening cry came from the delivery room.

Soon, a nurse came out and said to Eden, "Mr. McCoy, congratulations! Mother and son are safe."

It was a boy weighing night pounds four ounces.

Eden's tears fell immediately.

He covered his face with his hand and tried to hold back at first. He felt embarrassed crying like this in front of Patrick and Kelvin who didn't cry at all when their babies were born.

However, the more he held back, the less control he had over himself.

Eventually Eden couldn't care about his own dignity anymore. All he knew was that inside that room was his wife who had just given birth to a son for him.

While feeling heartbroken for his wife Minnie's pain during childbirth, Eden couldn't help but complain, "This little bastard! What did he eat to become so big? He doesn't even know how much pain his Mommy went through!"

When Minnie saw Eden crying like this after she came out of the delivery room weak from giving birth herself already; her emotions were indescribable. Although she never experienced love from her family before marrying Eden, being loved by him made it clear that she was loved now.

Because of this realization, even though she really had no strength left in her body right now, she still wanted to see Eden with her own eyes and tell him they have a child together before passing out completely exhausted.

Eden held Minnie's hand while looking at her pale face. He opened his mouth wanting to say something comforting but tears flowed down first instead.

Minnie didn't cry during childbirth but now tears rolled down one by one on both sides of her cheeks as well.

She wanted to hold onto Eden's hand telling him not to cry because both she and their child were fine; however words wouldn't come out of her mouth either way.

The doctor suggested letting Minnie rest first so they could end this tearful situation between them all together later on when everyone calmed down again.

Feeling somewhat embarrassed about crying in front of others earlier on himself too, Eden closed the door behind them, saying he would stay with Minnie while asking everyone else go next door where their baby boy lay waiting for them all excitedly!

The little guy looked very cute including large eyes, which indicated that he will be quite handsome when grew up someday soon enough!

The name was given by Eden. It was Brandon McCoy, and the pet name was Bran. He hoped that the little one would be prepared for everything in life.

Of course, this name became a huge psychological shadow in Brandon's heart for a long time.

Some self-righteous children used their most innocent appearance to say the most vicious words in the world.

Fortunately, with proper guidance from those around him and a group of people who protected him, Brandon did not suffer too much trauma to his young mind.

But these were all stories for later.

A group of people returned from the island trip and confirmed that mother and son were safe before heading home separately.

Tilly and Ben had originally planned to have a check-up since they were already at the hospital.

However, after asking them some basic questions about their health status, the doctor told them to come back another day for further examination. So they went home to rest first.

When Tilly got home, she thought about it for a while before deciding to test herself first. She was already used to doing so regularly anyway; even if there wasn't anything wrong with her, she wouldn't be worried either way.

With this decision made up in her mind, Tilly went into the bathroom with two pregnancy tests just in case...

After Ben came back, he went straight into his study room where he received an important work call.

When he came out again later on, he saw that Tilly was still inside the bathroom with its door tightly shut. So, he knew what she must be doing inside but didn't rush her or disturb her by knocking on it right away. Instead, he was waiting patiently outside until she finished up on her own time...

Tilly thought Ben was still inside his study room, so as not to disturb him while working, she stayed inside without coming out immediately after finishing up testing herself like usual.

Her hands trembled constantly as excitement overwhelmed her entire body.

She didn't know how else to describe this feeling except as something that could take away everything from her at any moment...

Finally ten minutes passed when Ben raised his hand and knocked gently on the bathroom door.

Tilly jumped at first but then slowly opened it after hesitating briefly...

When she saw Ben standing there and looking at her quietly, all of sudden any urge or impulse within vanished without explanation...

It felt like something had blocked off Tilly's throat entirely, preventing any sound from escaping no matter how hard she tried. Her eyes filled up quickly with tears which streamed down uncontrollably once they started falling.

Ben noticed what happened almost instantly though there was brief moment where confusion clouded over his thoughts before clarity returned just as quickly.

Without saying a word, Ben hugged Tilly directly.

At this moment, Tilly finally couldn't hold back, and burst into tears.

Ben patted Tilly on the back, listening to her cry, his eyes moist too.

He even forgot when was the last time he shed tears, but at this moment, it was difficult to control his emotions.