Chapter 931 What happened today?

Averi was surprised to hear Beata's words. After all, in her mind, Beata was just a child. But it seemed that Beata's thoughts were more mature than many others.

Averi thought that River was thinking too much. With Beata being the way she was, there might be some unexpected things happening beyond their imagination.

Beata had not thought of anything before Averi and River started teasing her. However, she began to pay more attention to Yael after their comments.

Beata secretly glanced at Yael and had to admit that he was really handsome. Among the men she knew, besides her brother, he was the most handsome man she had ever seen.

However, when it came to appearance compared with the Hayden family brothers including Eden and others; his brother looked even more wild and masculine – a type of appearance that could not be described as pretty.

On the other hand, how would one describe Yael? He looked like someone who belonged in entertainment circles – a very popular male artist for sure!

But as soon as this idea popped into her head, Beata frowned slightly. She had never realized how strong her possessiveness could be until now; she didn't want anyone else coveting Yael!

As an author herself writing novels regularly, she naturally knew what this kind of thinking meant: She felt like going crazy! How could such an absurd possessive desire arise?

She wanted to hide Yael away from everyone's sight and keep him all for herself! This thought scared Beata out of her wits!

However soon enough though, she figured out what happened: It must have been because Averi kept talking about it in her ear just now, which gave her an illusion that Yael belonged only to herself...

Realizing this point quickly helped clear up any confusion or misunderstandings within herself regarding these thoughts, so they wouldn't lead down dangerous paths later on down life's journey...

What kind of joke was this? Such thoughts were very dangerous! She didn't want people to think she was some strange little girl.

Averi noticed that Beata hadn't spoken for a long time and looked at her strangely, asking, "What happened? Why did you suddenly become unhappy?"

After all, she was still just a little girl with emotions written plainly on display across every inch of facial expression possible...

Beata pouted saying, "Nothing really... Let's go shopping quickly instead! I suddenly remembered something I need but don't know if they still have it."

Averi didn't think too much, and walked in holding Beata's hand.

From the corner of her eye, Beata glanced in Yael's direction again, unexpectedly meeting Yael's gaze.

Beata's heart beat violently. Thump, thump... thump, thump...

She didn't even have time to see Yael's eyes clearly, but looked away in a panic, and walked inside holding Averi's hand.

Averi was still puzzled by her, and really didn't know what happened to the little girl.

However, soon, Beata told Averi with her own actions. She was now focused on shopping, and there was no way to disturb her with any other things.

The two walked up one level at a time. Beata just casually said that she had something she wanted to buy. In fact, she didn't have anything she wanted to buy. However, in order not to reveal her secrets in front of Averi, Beata still quickly picked a thing.

Averi looked at the thing Beata held in her hand, and still keenly noticed something was wrong.

Logically speaking, it was impossible for this kind of thing to be out of stock, but Beata was so anxious just now, because she really thought it would be out of stock.

From this point of view, Beata was indeed lying just now.

However, the more this happened, the more strange it became for Averi. What happened to this girl today?

Chapter 932 Yael's Transferred to Protect Her

The two of them walked to the men's section together. Beata urged Averi to buy clothes for River.

Although River's clothes were all custom-made, this wasn't the first time that Beata had encouraged Averi to buy clothes for him.

Averi also wanted to make up for her past mistakes and thought about buying two more sets of clothes for River. She still felt guilty about the ill-fitting clothes she had bought him before.

However, in order for the clothes to fit perfectly on River, they needed to be custom-made. The ones in this store always seemed a bit off.

Now that Averi was familiar with River's size, it made it even more difficult to pick out his clothing. Beata was also comparing different outfits and only looked at their appearance before shoving them into Averi's hands.

Seeing that Averi looked a bit worried, Beata asked curiously, "What's wrong? Don't you like them?"

Averi shook her head and said, "They're pretty nice actually."

It was just that the sleeves were too short by a fraction. Both of them noticed this issue with all of the outfits they picked out.

There was nothing they could do about it since River's arms were longer than most people's arms.

Thinking about this made Averi sigh; even if an outfit looked good but had shorter sleeves, it would look odd on him regardless.

Beata furrowed her small eyebrows and said, "Is my brother just too strange-looking? Why is he so different from others?"

Averi almost laughed at what she said and replied, "If your brother hears you say that, I wonder if he'll fix you."

Beata stuck out her tongue; when it came down to criticizing family members, she never really cared much about what others thought or how they'd react.

But instead of just joking around like usual after making fun of someone else's family members, Beata suddenly thought of something else and said, "I think Yael has a similar body type as my brother's. Why don't we have Yael try on some outfits so you can see how they fit?"

Averi was confused and shocked at the same time.

Looking at Beata with confusion written all over her face, Averi felt uncomfortable because there were so many things wrong with what she suggested!

However, seeing how pure and innocent Beata looked while suggesting such an idea made Averi feel guilty as well – as if thinking too much would be bullying poor little innocent-minded Beata!

But then again... the idea itself did make Averi think quite a lot!

Beata continued to stare at Averi, but she was uncertain herself.

Now she felt that there might be something wrong with her. Just to prove that she had nothing to do with Yael, she deliberately made such an appearance of "Look, it's because you are overthinking".

But, in fact, she felt very guilty in her heart.

Beata didn't even know what was wrong with her. There was nothing wrong with it, but now, it was as if there was really something.

Averi also wanted to take a closer look at what kind of idea Beata was planning.

She nodded and said, "Yes."

Beata smiled and said, "Then I'll call him over."

This was the first time that Averi had seen Yael so closely. In fact, if people didn't know his age, it was really hard to imagine that he was twelve years older than Beata.

Yael had a very beautiful boyish face, very delicate.

Averi rarely described a man as beautiful, but Yael was such a look.

Beata felt the same way. The last time she talked to Yael at close range was when she was very young. It must have been seven or eight years. She was almost kidnapped, but was rescued by Yael.

Yael was not in charge of her at that time, and since then, Yael had been transferred to protect her.

Chapter 933 Want to Give This Dress to Yael

As Beata thought about what had happened between her and Yael, she suddenly realized that River and Averi might have some basis for their suspicions. The connection between her and Yael was actually quite dramatic. If it were in a novel, it would be quite sweet. However, when it came to herself, Beata didn't know how to continue thinking about it.

She always remembered that she was underage. But in just three months' time, she would be of legal age. Her gaze unconsciously shifted towards Yael who happened to be looking at her too.

Beata didn't realize that her ears had turned slightly red at this moment but fortunately it wasn't very noticeable. If anyone asked, she could explain that the store was just too hot.

After explaining her intentions to Yael clearly, Beata clearly saw the surprise on his face. Her little eyebrows quickly furrowed as she deliberately said in a fierce tone, "You don't want to?"

Yael had never seen Beata look so fierce before and there was a hint of surprise in his eyes but he didn't say much and took the clothes from her before going inside to change.

Yael changed clothes quickly; Beata even felt like he only went inside for one second before coming out again, although of course that wasn't true – definitely not more than a minute though.

What Beata didn't know was that Yael's task was never going to let her leave his sight for more than one minute except when she went somewhere like the bathroom where female bodyguards followed along with her.

When Yael came out after changing clothes, both Averi and Beata were amazed by how good he looked. It once again proved that beautiful people can wear anything they wanted without feeling uncomfortable or awkward, especially since he usually wore black all the time which made him look even better!

However, Averi also drew a conclusion from this – this outfit did not suit River at all! Thinking about River made Averi feel uncomfortable despite having an unhappy conversation with him earlier today. Right now however, she still missed him somewhat.

Beata stared at Yael for half a day then poked Averi's arm saying, "Averi, do you think this outfit doesn't really suit my brother?"

"You noticed too," replied Averi.

Beata said, "Although if my brother hears this kind of words, he will definitely think that his sister is too much, I think this is a fact. Clothes have their own owners, and Yael is obviously more suitable for this kind of clothes.”

Averi nodded and said, “I still don’t want to buy these for your brother. He is still suitable for customization.”

Beata sighed, and suddenly couldn’t help complaining, “My brother is really difficult to deal with.”

Averi laughed, raised her hand and flicked on Beata’s head, saying, “If your brother hear this, see if he can deal with you.”

Beata raised her chin, looked at Averi innocently, and said, “I have you here, so you will protect me, right?”

Averi was speechless.

She was afraid that she will be in trouble for herself.

The two of them set their eyes on Yael again.

There was no way Averi would buy this dress for Yael, and Beata knew that of course.

Otherwise, as long as her brother’s jealousy came up, none of them can stop.

However, all she can think about now was that this clothes belonged to Yael. If she missed it, she will not be reconciled.

Beata was very guilty in her heart, but in the end, she still surrendered to her own preferences.

She directly asked the clerk to pay the bill and gave the clothes to Yael.

Chapter 934 The Most Difficult to Understand in this World

“No need.” Yael stopped Beata in her tracks and said firmly.

Yael’s refusal was so decisive that Beata felt embarrassed and truly unhappy. She frowned at Yael and said with some anger, “I want to buy it, so you have to let me buy it.”

This was the first time Beata had spoken in such a petulant way.

Yael and Averi were both very aware of how gentle Beata’s nature was. Although she had been spoiled growing up, she never acted like a spoiled brat. So this sudden outburst caught them off guard.

Especially Averi, who could clearly sense that Beata was genuinely upset now. But she suddenly felt powerless about what to say or do next.

This feeling wasn’t good at all – at least not from Averi’s perspective.

Although Yael had been protecting Beata all along, they hadn’t spent much time together up close.

While Yael understood Beata well enough, the reverse wasn’t true.

In an unequal relationship like this one where understanding was lacking on one side, it was difficult for the other party to act out their emotions like this. So when Beata expressed herself so directly and stubbornly like this now, it really surprised everyone involved.

Yael hesitated for a moment before saying, “Thank you Miss.”

Beata instantly perked up when she heard Yael address her properly again but then became even more unhappy afterwards because of it too.

She couldn’t explain why exactly but something about being called “Miss” made her feel uncomfortable inside; yet despite feeling bad about it, she still tried hard not to show any signs of distress or discomfort on her face.

Otherwise things would just become too strange between them, which would be embarrassing for everyone involved, since she cared quite a bit about saving face in most situations.

However unbeknownst to her though, Yael still managed to pick up on these subtle changes in mood regardless of how well hidden they might have seemed.

As a bodyguard, Yael can even be said to know Beata better than River. A slight expression on her face can let Yael know whether Beata was happy or unhappy.

Originally, this wasn't a problem. As a little girl, it was very normal to have mood swings, but Yael could clearly feel that Beata's unhappiness was related to him.

This made Yael feel a little helpless.

He wouldn't be unhappy because of it, but it will annoy him, or cause him a problem. Compared with this, what Yael cared more about was that Beata's unhappiness was because of him. It was rare that he didn't know how to solve it. And he didn't even know what he did wrong to make Beata so unhappy.

Observing Beata without a trace, Yael thought for a long time, but he still couldn't figure out the answer to this question.

For Yael, girls may really be the most difficult to understand in this world.

Chapter 935 Still Pretty Similar

Handing the clothes to Yael, Beata said, "You're going to wear them. Don't hide them or throw them away. I'll check."

Yael took the clothes and felt an indescribable emotion in his heart.

He couldn't describe this feeling. It wasn't the first time a girl had bought him something, but it was the first time he couldn't handle it.

In order not to make Beata unhappy, Yael nodded and said, "Okay."

With just one word, Yael could clearly feel that Beata was really happy.

Somehow his anxious mood was also calmed down by this.

Well then, well then. Just make a little girl happy. If this can make her happy, what was wrong with it?

Yael didn't return to his original position afterwards but instead followed Beata and Averi as requested by Beata.

Actually, Beata was guilty because she always felt that if she let Yael go, Averi would bring up the matter about him again.

Beata now felt that maybe there wasn't anything between her and Yael originally, but being mentioned so many times had made it into an issue now.

It was like teasing someone into making something happen in a way.

She really wasn't ready for how to deal with this matter yet nor did she know how to solve it either.

So in order not to be asked any questions about it anymore, Beata can only sacrifice Yael.

However, her approach was too obvious. Not only was everything seen through at once, but now there was no way not to think more about it.

Averi actually regretted bringing up this matter with Beata right now because things were fine before but now...

With Yael following beside them, there were places where they can't easily go shopping anymore.

The time pointed towards dinner. Suddenly, good-hearted Beata thought of her brother and still hadn't figured out what happened between River and Averi, causing River to upset her for no reason at all.

Looking at Averi who seemed okay right now, Beata asked, "Averi, do you want to go see my brother?"

"What?" Averi looked suspiciously at Beata, wondering why she suddenly asked such a question.

Beata said, "My brother seems very busy today so he probably hasn't eaten yet. Do you want to give him some food?"

Averi really didn't think about it that way at first, but now that Beata brought up like this, Averi was quite moved.

She would not think that the unhappiness with River today was all River's fault. On the contrary, she herself had a big problem, and Averi was very clear about this.

It was precisely because of this that Averi really wanted to go there after Beata made this suggestion. Seeing Averi who was obviously moved, Beata said with a smile, "Let's go, let's go there together. I'll accompany you there."

Averi said, "Let's see what we can buy first."

Beata said, "I want to eat hairy crabs from the Harlequin Cuisine, and my brother must also want to eat them."

Averi didn't hold back, and laughed out loud.

Even the corners of Yael's lips curled up unconsciously, which was really cute for Beata.

Beata frowned, looked at the two with dissatisfaction, and said, "What I said is the truth. My brother and I have pretty similar tastes."

Averi nodded and said, "Yes, yes, you're right."

She almost died laughing. How could this little girl be so cute?

Chapter 936 Come and Help Me Take a Look

Originally, Averi drove with Beata, but now Beata had called Yael over and made him the driver. Averi was happy to relax in the back seat with Beata and discuss what else they can buy besides the crabs at the Harlequin Cuisine. Beata rattled off a list of things she wanted to eat, all of which were clearly not River's favorites, especially sweets. But that didn't stop her from wanting them herself.

The car pulled into the Harlequin Cuisine parking lot and Averi said, "To save time, you go buy desserts; I'll go to the Harlequin Cuisine." Beata nodded in agreement.

Yael naturally followed Beata; she was his top priority even though Averi was River's wife and he had been assigned to protect her as well. Of course, River also arranged for people to protect Averi so Yael can follow along with Beata without any burden.

When they were together before with Averi around, there was no strange feeling between them, but now it was just her and Yael walking side by side, which made things feel weird for some reason.

Especially since Yael had always been protecting her from behind the scenes, although she knew there were people like him around her all the time, she never felt uncomfortable before this moment.

Now that Yael walked so close beside her, it felt strange somehow, even though it was what she asked for. However, she tried hard not to show this strange feeling on her face but cannot notice how red her ears had become because of it.

In fact, Yael wasn't walking very close beside her at all – he was actually two steps behind on an angle where he can see how red Beata's ears had become more than anyone else could, including when she was inside the clothing store just now!

This deepened his gaze considerably as he realized something might be happening here beyond just protection duties or friendship alone...

Of course he didn't want to think too much about it since that would only lead down a dangerous path if taken too far!

They entered a dessert shop which wasn't really his type of place, especially this one decorated entirely in pink girly style from signboard outside right through every inch inside.

Beata was so harmonious standing inside, but when he walked in, it made him feel uncomfortable.

This kind of uneasiness made Yael's aura around him a little bit colder.

Beata didn't pay attention at first, and went straight to line up, thinking about what she wanted to eat. However, it didn't take long for Beata to notice the whispers in the store.

She swept across a group of girls in small groups without any trace, their eyes were all focused on the same place, and they were all discussing the same person.

Yael.

Beata suddenly felt an unpleasant feeling welling up.

This feeling was like when she thought that Yael's appearance was suitable for becoming a big star in the entertainment industry, but her desire for dominance surged up again, making her very uncomfortable.

Beata rolled her eyes and didn't want Yael to be discussed like a monkey in a zoo.

Since she was the one who let him in this store, she had to protect him herself.

The Knights were all so defensive.

So, Beata straightened her expression, and called out delicately, "Yael, come and help me take a look."

Chapter 937 As Long as You don't Cry when You have a Toothache

As soon as the sound came out, even Beata herself couldn't help but shiver. She couldn't understand why she made such a sound, it was simply...

Yael was also stunned, and never expected Beata to call him like that.

Usually, she called him Yael. Of course, even this title only appeared once every few years.

Now being called "Yael" in such a coquettish way by Beata really caught Yael off guard.

Seeing that Yael didn't respond for a while, Beata pouted and walked out of the group directly towards Yael.

She reached out and took hold of his arm saying, "Why are you ignoring me? I listened to you and stopped eating sweets."

As she spoke, Beata leaned against Yael's body with her sweet and coquettish demeanor. It was like an image of a girlfriend who was acting spoiled.

This caused the girls around them to turn red with envy like hungry wolves. Especially two girls who were itching to come forward and ask for Yael's phone number were almost jealous enough to die.

Beata didn't mind those resentful glances directed at her; she only cared about one thing – keeping other people away from Yael. Even if he wasn't really hers right now, but since he was here in front of her eyes, no one else could have him either!

Moreover, what bothered Beata more was that it was because she had called him out from hiding that he got disturbed by these people. Her heart still felt guilty about it so no matter what, she had to solve this problem herself.

Yale was surprised by what Beata did but soon found himself smiling uncontrollably too.

He wasn't completely clueless when it came down to flirting so he knew exactly what kind of situation they were in right now- acting! So naturally Yale went along with whatever plan or act they had going on between them.

Reaching up his hand gently and rubbing against Beata's head, he said with his tender voice which sounded carrying indulgence, "How about we try each flavor together?"

These words alone made Beata's face tingle all over.

At this moment, Beata suddenly realized how unrealistic some parts of her novel actually were compared real life experiences – nothing beat reality!

However, Beata remained clear headed, knowing full well that both her and Yale were just playing their roles- after all if they were going through with something, then they might as well do it properly!

Holding onto Yale's arm tightly while grinning widely, she showed off her charming yet mischievous smile, which shook Yale's heart.

Beata said, "I know you dote on me the most. I like you the most."

After finishing speaking, Beata embraced Yael's arm, and walked to the back of the line together, muttering in her small mouth, "For the sake of being so kind to me, I will reluctantly lose half of it." Yael lowered his eyes, and by chance, Beata also looked at him, obviously with a pure and harmless expression, but her eyes were shining brightly.

Sure enough, in the next second, Beata said, "Well, can I eat two bites of each piece?"

Look how clever she was! There was no smarter girl than her was.

Yael was really amused by Beata.

He was usually used to having an expressionless face. Coupled with his high concentration of attention, his aura around him was particularly cold.

However, at this moment, Beata laughed, and that smile really made Beata feel dazzling.

But, before Beata had time to look at Yael's smile carefully, she heard him say, "As long as you don't cry when your tooth hurts."

Chapter 938 Really Happy that is Visible to the Naked Eye

At this moment, Beata felt like her heart wasn't even hers anymore. She didn't know how to describe the feeling she had right now. It was too mystical.

Even though she knew very clearly that she and Yael were just acting, her heart still raced uncontrollably. Thump, thump, thump...

Beata even wanted to cover her mouth tightly so as not to get too excited.

But she couldn't control it. How could she? This man was just too good at what he did.

They hadn't rehearsed any lines together but why did everything he said pierce straight into her heart? Luckily, Beata still had some awareness as an actress. She deliberately let out a soft hum from her nose that sounded both coquettish and annoyed before saying, "Anyway, you'll be with me."

After speaking, Beata shyly lowered her head and couldn't bear to look at Yael anymore.

Therefore, she didn't see the gaze Yael cast on her, which made all the girls present feel like they were silently squealing like prairie dogs in their hearts.

How could someone be so doting? That sickeningly sweet look in his eyes; when would it ever be their turn?

As expected of handsome guys! They really did have girlfriends!

Being their boyfriend was truly something divine for them!

Whoever said love shouldn't be based on looks was shallow-minded because love was definitely one of those things where looks mattered most in this world.

At this moment, almost all the girls present seemed to come up with a conclusion: when looking for a boyfriend, they should always go for someone who was good-looking!

But then again they were back to square one – handsome guys already had girlfriends...

Waaahhh... When will sweet love ever come their way?

Finally it was time for Beata and Yael's turn in line. Beata released Yael's arm and leaned over the counter while ordering each item one by one until after eight kinds of desserts later. She suddenly stopped herself midway through ordering, realizing that half of what she wanted had already been ordered Yael's lips unconsciously curved upwards; he himself hadn't realized how happy he felt about how obediently well-behaved Beata was being or how much weight there actually held behind every word spoken by such an angelic voice.

When it came time to pay, Yael asked, "Are you sure you don't want anything else? Don't you like chocolate?"

Beata looked up at him with a small wrinkle between her nose before saying, "But chocolate tastes best with oatmeal!"

She really had a hard time making a choice just now. The ones she ordered now were all what she wanted to eat, but the chocolate one had to be paired with oatmeal, so it occupied two shares. She felt at a loss.

So, after making this trade-off, Beata felt that only two of them could be sacrificed.

Even, she did like chocolate the most.

Yael knew in his heart that he and Beata were acting, and Beata helped him like this, so naturally he couldn't make Beata suffer. Knowing what she liked, he asked her to sacrifice something, which was because he was too ignorant.

So, Yael said, "If you like it, I'll buy it."

After the words fell, Yael could clearly see that Beata's eyes lit up.

She cried out happily, "You are so kind to me. I like you the most."

After finishing speaking, Beata told the clerk to pack the chocolate and oatmeal, and then sneaked a glance at Yael, like a kitten who wanted to do bad things.

Yael didn't stop it, and Beata kept ordering.

In the end, she ordered all she wanted, and she was really happy with the naked eye.

Chapter 939 Averi Suffers a Great Grievance Today

Averi had been waiting at the Harlequin Cuisine for quite some time when Beata and Yael finally arrived. She had no idea what had happened between the two of them during that time, but it was clear to her that Beata was genuinely happy. Averi couldn't help but glance over at Yael and noticed that he too seemed very pleased.

Averi's mind was filled with questions, but she knew she wouldn't get any answers even if she asked.

Beata walked over and took Averi's hand, saying, "We've been waiting a while; there are just too many people in line."

There weren't too many people actually, but it was the girls who bought something and then didn't leave afterward that really annoyed Beata. However, thinking back on everything that happened at the dessert shop earlier made her happier than not.

Averi said, "Okay let's go." She was worried about traffic since they hadn't told River they were coming and didn't know if he'd already eaten.

Beata saw how anxious Averi looked and chuckled before saying, "Averi, do you miss my brother?"

Averi replied with a sigh as she thought to herself, "This girl never stops teasing me."

She playfully tapped Beata on the head before warning her, "If you keep talking nonsense, I'll have your brother deal with you."

Beata laughed mischievously before retorting, "I'm not afraid of him!"

On their way to River's company building, Yael drove while Beata and Averi sat in the backseat. Although nothing about what happened at the dessert shop came up in conversation this time around, all of those details from earlier had already been reported back to River by now.

He felt conflicted as he sat in his office chair considering whether or not it was because he mentioned something to his sister beforehand which caused her to bring everything out into the open like this.

He couldn't help feeling satisfied with Yael though; otherwise he wouldn't have entrusted him with protecting his sister all these years.

But still... the feeling of satisfaction towards someone versus catching them were two completely different things in River's eyes – right now Yael seemed more like a thief than anyone else!

River wanted nothing more than to call him up right then, so they could have a good talk about everything!

However, given River's understanding of Beata, he was very clear that if he really did this, then Beata would be so angry that she would jump up and down to ask for an explanation.

He still can't do anything to hurt Beata, even if it was just to make her unhappy.

After being depressed in the office for a long time, River received the news that Averi came over.

Of course, Beata came here together.

Thinking of Averi, River felt even more guilty.

Although what he said before was his original intention, for a woman, it would actually make the other party uncomfortable.

If Beata was the girl River didn't want to hurt, someone who hoped to protect her when she grew up, then Averi was the one he didn't want her to suffer any grievance.

However, it was obvious that Averi had been greatly wronged today.

Chapter 940 Is that what it really means?

The office door opened, and Averi and Beata walked in. Although Averi had been thinking about River for a long time, she couldn't suppress the bitterness in her heart when she saw him again.

She didn't know how to describe her feelings at the moment. It was like she was back to their previous conversation. They both knew that no one was wrong, but they still got hurt because of their different positions.

Averi didn't know how to relieve her emotions, so she lowered her eyelashes and didn't even look at River.

River also felt uncomfortable inside. He stood up from behind his desk and walked over to hold Averi's hand.

Beata watched the atmosphere between them wasn't right. She didn't know whether to mediate or find an excuse to leave them alone.

Just then, Beata heard River say, "Beata, you go back first. Averi and I won't be coming home tonight."

Beata was speechless and confused at the same time.

Was he kidding? Was he really her brother!

Didn't he see that Averi and herself were carrying bags of food? Even if they came here just for dinner with him! Now they were not allowed to eat?

Beata glared at River angrily and said, "Hmph! As a delivery girl without triple pay, I won't do it!"

River immediately picked up his phone and transferred three times Beata's monthly allowance as pocket money into her account.

Beata was struck dumb.

Well... who can resist the power of money?

Immediately after receiving the transfer notification on her phone, she smiled happily towards River while winking playfully with both eyes saying, "So you guys aren't going home tonight huh? Well then have a pleasant evening!"

After speaking, she ran away quickly like there was someone chasing after her, leaving with the desserts. River was speechless; indeed things that could be solved by money were so simple!

Averi also felt speechless looking at River as she said, "But Beate hasn't eaten yet."

"Isn't Yael here?" replied River naturally.

Averi was speechless again.

She looked at River suspiciously, and said, "What do you mean? Beata and Yael, are they really?"

"I don't know yet, but, in the dessert shop, Beata was holding Yael's arm." River said.

Averi could clearly hear River gnashing his teeth when he said that.

For a moment, Averi couldn't hold back and laughed out loud.

She said, "Look at you. I really want to feel that you are angry."

River said, "Beata isn't an adult yet."

Averi said, "Beata told me that at her current age, in puppy love, it is twilight love, and it is not considered puppy love at all."

River was really about to be rendered speechless by Beata's nonsense.

He squeezed Averi's hand and said, "Then you think they're all right?"

"I don't know about this. I can't tell if there will be anything in the future, but looking at it now, there should be nothing." Averi said.

River naturally trusted Averi, and knew very well that even if Yael was given much courage, he might not dare to do anything under his nose.

Averi said, "We should not think about it. They haven't do nothing at all, and we are talking nonsense.

Talking and talking, and it really turned out to be the real."
