Chapter 1001: Suggestion to Ayanduin and Gu Chen. [End Of Book Sixteen]

After both Sixth Realm cultivators heard about Spiritual cultivation and other information about higher-level Heavens, both Transcendent Cultivators became highly interested. Yasenias pushed at this time, throwing a simple sentence. "To be honest, we are just a few decades from leaving this Solar System and trying to reach for higher-level Heavens."

Ayanduin and Gu Chen paused and simultaneously looked at Yasenias. These two were several thousand years old, so they were naturally as cunning as an old fox. Yasenias's sentence came with a proposal and a question, which both of them understood.

Gu Chen smirked and spoke. "You really are a clever little one, aren't you? Tsk, tsk."

Ayanduin leaned to the side and answered. "Sure. I'll humor you. It's not like I can find a solution for this place. I've been studying the formation for years and never really managed to understand it. I've used Transcendent-Level treasures to recover formations and strengthen them, but all it did was delay the inevitable fate of this World. After more than ten thousand years, I give up."

Ayanduin then looked at Yasenias and raised his eyebrow. "Moreover, you have that thing on me, so I can't really say no to you."

Gu Chen looked between Yasenias and Ayanduin and asked the dragoness. "Right. You have managed to steal almost a third of his wealth. How did you do it? Moreover, it feels like you have him quite... leashed."

Ayanduin rolled his eyes. "Can you not phrase it like that?"

Gu Chen mocked. "Then, don't make it so obvious that they have something on you. Since the second you appeared here, everything has been suspicious. Why would you, who hasn't bothered about what I did for centuries, suddenly show up?"

Clicking his tongue, Ayanduin sighed. "Whatever, whatever. Young people can play however they want."

Yasenias laughed a bit and then looked at Gu Chen, her smirk hidden by the veil. "To answer your question. The simple response is that he underestimated me. I won't go into details for Ayanduin's safety and honor. Lord Gu, if you want to hear it, you'll have to pry it out of Lord Ayanduin's mouth."

Gu Chen sighed. "Sure. I guess I can try to do that. Either way, let's be honest, Yasenias. What is there for me if I follow you on this interstellar journey? I will probably be fighting off the sixth realm threats together with Ayanduin in our little travels. You can't expect me to agree to leave everything I've built here behind just because you mentioned those places that I can't confirm are real."

The dragoness nodded. "You are right on that, Lord Gu. While we have our ways to defend ourselves from sixth realm beings, sixth realm cultivators are a bit trickier because of their intelligence." The dragoness looked at the girls around Gu Chen and smiled enough to show even with her veil. "How about I make it possible for them to have your children?"

Thirty-eight pairs of eyes landed on Yasenia, all of them widening with surprise. Gu Chen frowned and crossed his arms, not being hasty to speak. This was a very important piece of information. After a little while, Gu Chen spoke. "Yasenia, I know you are confident in your words and that you wouldn't spout nonsense just to make me go with you. That's nonsense since you've proven to be very intelligent. Still, let me say this."

Yasenia looked at Lord Gu, her golden slit eyes gazing attentively at him. Gu Chen stated. "I've had people suggest this in the past, but nothing has worked. This is a very sensitive matter, so I've even reached the extremes of killing some of those liars." Lord Gu looked at Yasenia and spoke slowly. "I won't be merciful towards you, do you understand? That statement you just made is significant for me and my women. I will allow you to retract your word now if it is untrue. However, I will take it as a definitive truth if you insist again."

The dragoness spoke after Gu Chen's warning. "The problem with a Cultivator of your level is that your entire body has undergone a tremendous transformation during the sixth tribulation. You become a being that has a higher life rating, so to speak. Your strength has pushed all your bodily functions, including your reproductive organs, beyond mortal limits."

Yasenia was not shy and explained in more detail. "When you try to impregnate your wives, your sperm is just too strong and bursts your wives' eggs. Even if it doesn't, the energy it tries to give the egg is too much, killing it."

Gu Chen looked at Yasenia strangely. "You are quite different in this regard as well."

Yasenia blinked. "Hm? What do you mean?" Looking at the women by Gu Chen's side, she realized that almost all of them had rosy cheeks, feeling slightly embarrassed.

The dragoness smiled softly. "I see. Well, I am indeed a bit different from how women traditionally behave. Oh, and don't get me wrong, ladies. Feeling like you are is perfectly fine and feminine. It shows that you take this matter seriously and understand that it is a private matter."

The thirty-seven wives all coughed and tried to recompose themselves. Gu Chen chuckled softly and then looked at Yasenia. "So, taking what you said into account, what's the solution?"

Yasenia summarized them. "You have three of them, Lord Gu. The first one is the most dangerous one but also the most effective one." The dragoness stated. "You just push their cultivation to the sixth realm and then try again. Both of you being in the sixth realm will make it easier to conceive, compared to a sixth realm and fifth realm cultivator pairing."

Gu Chen rolled his eyes. "As if that's possible. Not everyone has the talent to reach the sixth realm. Using that method would force me to lose some of them."

The dragoness nodded. "That's why, while effective, it has too many 'What ifs' to be considered genuinely viable. We want all the madams to have a child, not only chosen ones. The second method is as ridiculous as the first. You cripple your cultivation, and during the crippling, when your cultivation slowly reduces, you can try and impregnate them."

Gu Chen deadpanned and looked at Yasenia with a twitching eyebrow. "Are you messing with me, Yasenia?"

Yasenia laughed faintly. "A little bit~."

Gu Chen sighed. "Okay, shoot the third. I hope this one is more genuine."

The dragoness nodded. "Don't worry, this one is an actual solution. The secret is alchemy. You see, I have a problem similar to yours. My own bloodline is extremely strong. Therefore, to impregnate me, the seed needs to be powerful. One of my wives is similar to me, and while I have managed to impregnate her, she has been unable to impregnate me."

Gu Chen blinked twice. "You actually have another woman like you in your harem? That's surprising. Aren't you concerned that she might try and steal your other lovers?"

Yasenia blinked a few times, confused. "Why would I be concerned? I trust my lovers with my everything. They are my treasures who I pamper and take care of, so I believe that they will never betray me in that way."

Everyone in the room looked at Yasenia with different reactions. Some were admiring, others were emotional, and some looked at Yasenia as if she were too naive. Gu Chen spoke with a sigh. "It is admirable. I honestly would be too worried to trust her completely. Too many years of knowing human nature is enough to doubt even those you consider the closest."

Yasenia hummed. "I can understand that. I am young, I have lived less than a century and have yet to experience many things. However, I am willing to place all my trust since it is the first time. If in the future I am wrong and my trust is betrayed..." Yasenia paused, looking toward the ceiling.

"Well, I honestly don't know. I have never placed myself in that position and never will. Only then will I know how I will react."

Seeing Yasenia's thoughtful expression, Kali extended her hand and surrounded Yasenia's, her body slowly releasing a gentle pulse of soothing life energy. "We won't betray you, Yasenia."

Yasenia looked at Kali and smiled softly. "I know, Honey." Then, she looked back at Gu Chen and laughed. "We digressed quite a lot from the subject. Let's return to how to fix these things."

Gu Chen nodded, and the dragoness explained. "If I wanted to, there exists something called a [Fertility Pill]. It is a pill that does, as the name says, manipulate fertility."

Gu Chen raised his eyebrow. "Manipulate? Not increase?"

The dragoness smiled and looked at Kali. The fox woman explained it in a bit more detail. "The [Fertility Pill] is ubiquitous among high-level cultivators, including sixth realm ones and even higher. As Cultivators increase in realm and strength, their fertility goes down. It never disappears, but it becomes exponentially harder to have children." Kali smiled. "What the pill does is manipulate the health of the reproductive cells, either giving them strength or weakening them. This is easy to control, as the pill just needs one ingredient change to go from boosting to weakening."

Gu Chen crossed his arms and asked. "Then, why are you still childless, Yasenia?"

Yasenia smiled. "I am young, Lord Gu. I would love to keep trying without any additional help. I don't want my lover to feel like she needs help to impregnate me. I want her to believe she can do it with her natural strength. So, I will keep trying with her until she is successful, regardless of how long it takes."

Gu Chen smiled. "Admirable. If it weren't because my strength is too different from my wives', I would probably think similarly. In short, this fertility pill can make my reproductive cells weaker, allowing them to... well, successfully complete the impregnation."

Yasenia nodded. "Indeed. While you have advanced to the sixth realm, crossing from mortal to immortal, you still have the ability to impregnate females in the same exact way. Your children will be strong from birth, and that might create some complications on the mother's side. Still, with this pill, you will be undeniably fertile between mortal women that are in the high-level Epoch Core or beyond."

Gu Chen paused. "Huh? High-level and above only?"

Kali explained. "Lord Gu, only beings who use solid-state energy are able to be receptive to you, even when you are weakened. How much of your physical strength must you hold back when interacting with them? Imagine that your reproductive cells need to do the same."

Gu Chen leaned back and sighed. He then looked left and right and spoke. "You've heard them, right? Many of you lack the cultivation realm to do this, even with this solution. So, I will ask you to train a bit harder, okay? I will make sure to support all of you and never give up as long as you don't give up."

The women nodded and answered loudly, their eyes burning with determination. "Yes, Lord Husband!"

They were given a chance. Nothing would come in their way from trying to take advantage of this heaven-sent opportunity.

Gu Chen looked at Yasenia and nodded. "Okay, Yasenia. You've convinced me as well. I am in."

Yasenia bowed to both sixth realm cultivators in an honest and respectful manner. "Junior will make sure that Senior Ayanduin and Senior Gu Chen receive the respect they deserve. As long as you don't betray me, I promise to try my best in that regard."

Chapter 1002: Tatyana's Return After Three Years.

Back in Distancia, everything was similar to how it had been when Yasenia left. The only thing different was that the children were much more grown, showing physical maturity due to their quick development. Of course, they were still around 16 years old, and none of them had started their breakthroughs or cultivated the Spiritual Path. However, they had managed to find their own preferred weapons and many more things.

Cecile was in a training room with all the children and Mirrory. Since Tatyana and Valeria had been gone, Mirrory took over their training. She took it seriously, and all the children learned many things under her tutelage.

Skye approached them. She had grown greatly during these years, revealing that she had grown well past Evelyn's size in all aspects. She was a head taller than Evelyn, with a voluptuous body and long dark blue hair, and her golden eyes shone with a mix of mischievousness and seductiveness.

Cecile looked at her and smiled. "What's wrong, Skye?"

Skye asked, holding a beautiful spear. "Mama Cecile, I don't understand. Why am I so good with the spear but not with other weapons?"

Cecile explained, her usual cold and elegant voice tinged with a shred of tenderness. "Well, some people are born with an affinity toward weapons. For example, I am good with swords, but that is nothing compared to how I manage with bows and other projectile weapons."

Skye nodded, understanding. "Right... But why does Mommy use so many weapons? When fighting with her phantom, she sometimes uses the sword, other times a halberd, other times daggers..."

While almost three years had passed since Yasenia left, the children didn't feel resentment. They had been taught since very little that cultivators had long lives and that being apart for many years was normal. Of course, that didn't take away from their loneliness, but since their family was so large, it was difficult to feel lonely for long.

Somehow, Yasenia's absence strengthened the ties between the children, as they all found support in each other to cope with the feeling that their Dragon Mother's absence caused.

While they talked, Mirrory blinked and looked skyward. "Oh? Why is she returning alone?"

Skye looked at Mirrory, and her heart sped up. She asked loudly. "W-Who is returning, Aunt Mirrory!?"

The rest of the children paused their training and looked over with widening eyes.

The ancient weapon smiled faintly and gently chopped Skye's head. "Don't be too excited. The one returning is Tatyana, not Yasenia."

While she would probably never admit it, Mirrory had become slightly fond of these children. They were all talented, well-behaved, obedient, and intelligent. They never really complained when training was too hard, only looking forward with determined eyes.

Of course, they were children, and they had their moments of laziness or depression. After all, growing up meant going through good and bad experiences. Still, they were receptive to teachings and asked questions while learning. Mirrory liked everything she saw in them, including their potential.

Her eyes went toward the side of the room, looking at Estrella. It could be said that of all the children, she was the most average in terms of talent. She could be called a martial genius, but she had almost nothing else going for her. 'Well, she has inherited Yasenia's talent in weapon aptitude. She can practically use any weapon with the same talent as long as she learns. She also absorbs martial arts like a sponge. Although, it seems that scythes are her preferred weapon, similar to Yasenia using the giant broadsword as her weapon of choice.'

Still, Mirrory couldn't help but feel that Estrella was not simple. 'Will she remain the same when she breaks through the first time? I feel like she won't.'

Estrella approached with a faint and relaxed smile. She was also a tall woman, her body much more slender than Skye's, but she had generous curves nonetheless. Her fit, athletic build was matched by an elegant face with sharp but feminine angles. Her eyes, resembling Tatyana's in shape, commanded a certain level of respect.

"Aunt Mirrory, I couldn't hear because I was focused. What did you say?"

Her voice was somewhat deep but pleasant, like a cold mountain stream. Skye bumped into Estrella, pushing her a few steps. Estrella complained. "What are you doing, Little Sis?"

Skye grinned. "Big Sister Estrella! Mama Tatyana is returning!"

Estrella's eyes widened, and her calm and mature face lit up like that of a child. "R-Really!? That's great! I missed Mama so much!" Estrella started bouncing up and down in excitement, making the others laugh.

Their big sister Estrella was always calm and rational, with a slight bloodthirst when in battle. However, she always had a mature aura around her that only broke when either Yasenya or Tatyana were mentioned.

Dianna plopped on the ground, her large fox-dragon body making a thump. "Lucky..."

The other sisters approached and started petting her. Dawn spoke gently. "There, there. Mama Kali and Mommy will return soon."

Aurelia also soothed her. "Right, right. We can also ask Mama Tatyana about where they are and how they are doing."

Katarina plopped herself on top of Dianna, using her wings to hug her. "Big Sister Dianna, don't be sad!"

Dianna's three tails wagged while receiving her sister's pampering. "Hmhm~. Since all of you say so, staying depressed would be a waste!"

She stood up, her six wings and three tails flaring outward. "Let's go see Mama Taytana!"

With her exclamation, everyone moved toward the backyard. When they arrived, everyone was there. Angel, Evelyn, Andrea, Sierra, Zephyrith, Ebirah, Kaleina, Flame, the maids that remained in Distancia, and even a few leaders like Tengliu, Coraline, the Mermaid Queen, and others.

When Tatyana landed on top of her flying sword, she saw Estrella rushing over. "Mama!"

Tatyana laughed and opened her arms, allowing her to fall into her arms. "Oh dear, you've grown so tall! Even taller than me!"

Estrella hugged Tatyana tightly, her white tail wagging rapidly behind her as she buried her face in Tatyana's neck. "I missed you, Mama."

Feeling the wetness on her neck made Tatyana's heart feel slightly squeezed. She hugged Estrella back and gently patted her back. "Sorry, Little Light. Our journey extended a bit more than what we planned because of a few complications."

Estrella nodded a few times, and then she separated and sniffed once. Tatyana cleaned her tears and snot with her handkerchief and giggled. "My little darling is so beautiful~. You've grown well, love."

Estrella smiled and said, her voice still a bit creaky. "You have to see how big Luminaria got! Hahaha. We needed to expand the pond so it didn't feel too small for her!"

Tatyana grabbed Estrella's hand, guiding her toward the rest while she answered. "That big, huh? That's a bit outside my calculations! How is she, by the way?"

Estrella babbled. "Well, at first, she was normal. Later, I noticed that Lumi was super clever! Because of that, I asked Aunty Mirrory to check, and she discovered that Lumi was actually a sapient beast! So, I've been teaching her lots of things, even Beast Cultivation! She is a fast learner!"

Tatyana laughed and squeezed Estrella's hand once. "That's great, Estrella. Let's speak a bit about what happened to your Mommy before we continue, okay? I am sure everyone is eager to hear."

Once Tatyana looked toward the others, she smirked. "Not bad. Not bad. You've steadily advanced in cultivation during these last years."

Andrea shook her head. "To be honest, I've realized how much Yasenias Dual Cultivation technique has helped us. Now, I feel like I am advancing at a crawling speed."

Evelyn snorted. "Tell me about it. During the first six months, I was so upset at the fading effects that I couldn't focus, feeling that I was doing something wrong! Yaseenia better prepares herself because I'll milk her dry when she comes back!"

Skye looked at Evelyn with a pout. "Mama! Don't be a pervert in front of all the aunties and uncles!"

Evelyn looked up at her well-endowed daughter with a jealous look. "Why did you grow like this, eh? Do you want to make your mother bald from pulling my hair!? They are my head-sized!"

Skye looked down at her large breasts and then looked at Evelyn with a smug smirk. "Sadly, Mama, Mommys genes seem to be strong in me~. I would share if I could, but you can only look!" She puffed her bountiful chest and laughed loudly, making them jiggle. "Hahahaha! What a shame! What a shame!"

Evelyn's eyebrow twitched a few times, and she started pursuing her. "I am going to slap your butt red! Come here!"

Skye fled while laughing. "Follow me! Follow me and enjoy the body Mommy gave me as you pursue your dreams without success! Waaaahahahahaha!"

Evelyn screamed. "Don't flaunt your butt while I chase you, you stupid daughter!"

Tatyana looked at the two people running away with a somewhat speechless look. "What just happened?"

Estrella chuckled. "When Little Sister Skye developed, Mama Evelyn would always look somewhat resentful, and Little Sister caught on to it. Since then, Little Sister Skye and Mama Evelyn have been like this."

Tatyana rubbed her forehead. "Well, they are having fun, so whatever."

Angel was about to run forward at this time, but Aurelia held her back by the edge of her robe. "Don't run forward, Mama."

Angel looked up at Aurelia with large blinking eyes. "Daughter... I am an adult woman that can take care of myself, you know?"

"I do. But without Mommy around, you are like a child. You even hit your head against a door the other day. A fifth realm cultivator being so distracted to hit a door is probably a first in the story of the Universe. So, be careful, or you'll do many new 'firsts' not to be proud of."

Angel blinked a few times, somewhat unable to retort. So, listening to Aurelia, she stayed put and looked at Tatyana. "Hello, Mommy Tatyana!"

Tatyana's eyebrow spasmed. "Say, who is the mother, and who is the daughter?"

Aurelia, with Angel and Yasenia as parents, had the most voluminous body. Her curves, while not as prominent as Yasenia's level, were curvy enough to make almost any lustful person drool.

Unlike Yasenia, though, her face was that of an intellectual, with an intelligent vibe and a mature presence all around. She was also decently tall, almost a head taller than Angel. So, when they were side by side, distinguishing who was the mother and who was the daughter was actually complicated.

Tengliu at the side sighed. "I love this family."

Coraline chuckled. "They are all so adorable."

Tatyana looked around and smiled faintly. "It seems that Yasenia's absence didn't create any problems."

The Mermaid Queen crossed her arms. "As if. She had stomped the continent not long ago. No one dares disrespect the Celestial Dragon Queen."

Tatyana blinked a few times. "Celestial what?"

Andrea coughed. "It seems that this title has spread around without our knowledge. Now everyone calls her that way, so we can't really do much about it..."

The Death Empress looked skyward. "Ah... I see." Then, she shook her head and smiled. "Well, I am back. Let's go inside, and I'll tell you about what happened in our little journey..." Tatyana looked at Sierra and coughed. "Call Evelyn and Skye to come back." Then, she looked at Aurelia and spoke strangely. "You can also release your mother..."

Aurelia nodded. "Okay, Mama Tatyana."

Chapter 1003: Tatyana's Three Years.

After gathering to speak with Tatyana, the Death Empress explained everything she was part of during the journey. How they left the world, how they arrived at the first planet, and how they found out that Soluna could've helped all along.

She took a while to speak about Soluna's incident because she was also explaining space stuff to the children, who listened attentively and with interest in their eyes.

Tatyana noticed that Mirrory had frowned when she mentioned Soluna's matter. Still, she waited for the Ancient Mirror to come to a conclusion and ask her. In the meantime, she answered a few questions. Dawn asked. "Mama Tatyana, how big were those Space Beasts that Mama Kali didn't want to hunt?"

Tatyana hummed and commented. "Take the mountain our house is built in, and then imagine one thousand of them stacked and creating that giant creature! Even your Mommy Yasenya looked like a small little beast in comparison!"

The children exclaimed, surprised. "Wow!"

Curious, Skye asked. "Mama Tatyana. Who would win, Mommy or that giant beast?"

Tatyana pondered slowly. "Well, that would be a very close battle! Still, if Mommy uses everything she has, including her personal treasures, she would probably be able to win!"

"Wow!"

"Mommy is so strong!"

While the children discussed, Mirrory finally decided to speak up. "Tatyana. We have a bigger problem in our hands than I thought. There is something that is not making any sense."

Tatyana and everyone else looked at Mirrory's actually serious face and were startled. She had only been this serious very few times before, one of them being when they fought the [Abyss] creatures.

Tatyana pondered, and not finding anything wrong, she asked. "What does not make any sense? We made a mistake, it's not the first time we made a collective mistake, right?"

Mirrory looked at Tatyana with squinting eyes. "Are you telling me that in the weeks we spent researching all possible methods to heal Yasenya, including the use of the spirit race, we never thought of Soluna?"

Tatyana paused, looking at Mirrory for a few seconds as her red eyes swam with thoughts. The more she thought, the more confused she felt. "Right... That's strange." After a while, she asked, perplexed. "Are you suggesting there might be some kind of outside interference?"

Mirrory shook her head. "Suggesting? I am telling you. Tatyana, we even listed all the items in Yasenya's Dantian, Soluna included. We didn't miss her once or twice. It felt as if Soluna was completely out of our heads. We did not consider her for a single second that she might have a way to help Yasenya. Even if we thought so, we would've called her and asked in normal circumstances."

Tatyana rubbed her temples and sighed. "How?" She complained. "Even not taking myself into account, you are here. Unless someone above my cultivation level and Fate comprehension meddled with us, doing something like that would be impossible."

The girls looked at them, concerned, trying to think of something but naturally being unable to help. This was beyond their realm of understanding.

Mirrory commented. "I can detect many things, Tatyana, but I am not omniscient. Not even at my peak was I close to that power. Moreover, now I am sealed. This part of myself that I can summon and exert strength with is nothing but a dust mote compared to a mountain."

Tatyana nodded, leaning back, thoughtful. "Not good. Not good at all."

Listening to their conversation, Angel fiddled with her fingers and looked down, feeling guilty. 'If I were stronger, Mirrory might've been able to detect the problem...'

Easily seeing through Angel's emotions, both seniors spoke. Tatyana chuckled. "Little Angel, you'd need to be in at least the Transcendence Realm for Mirrory to have enough strength to try."

Mirrory patted her head. "If you really were able to be that strong at your current age, forget about high-level World juniors. You'd probably be one of the most talented beings in Heaven's history."

Andrea asked. "Can we do something about it?"

Tatyana shook her head. "Not much, to be honest. Perhaps I could create something if I were here with my main body. But as we are now, we can do pretty much nothing."

Evelyn asked. "Speaking of the main body; How is your breakthrough doing?"

Tatyana raised her eyebrow. "I've managed to condense energy faster than expected, so I am just five to ten years away from a breakthrough."

Mirrory clicked her tongue in praise. "Not bad, not bad. I am honestly impressed."

Tatyana chuckled. "Thanks~."

Mirrory then asked with a mischievous smile. "How is that [Love Law] doing? Any progress?"

Tatyana coughed. "I'll never develop that. No need to worry about it."

"Oh?" Mirrory asked, curious. "Why not? A Death and Fate Goddess that flaunts the [Love Law] would be such a beautiful thing, to be honest. It might even be a first! Personally, I have never seen something like it."

Tatyana changed the subject. "I got a few interesting things while returning here! A few gifts for almost all the little ones~."

Tatyana took out a sphere that was previously full of flames but now looked quite different. This sphere was one of the two that the Heaven's Calamity Overlord gave Tatyana. It was a treasure created from cosmic energy that helped absorb almost all kinds of Natural Treasures without extra complications.

Before, it was a burning sphere because it only had [Heaven-Born Flames] and [Lava Souls] inside. Tatyana chose to take a little trip around the different worlds before returning here, which was one of the two reasons that she was delayed by almost 2 years from her initial prediction.

The orb now had Glacial Souls, Gale Souls, Thunder Souls, Heaven-Born Flames, Heaven-Born Alloy, and even a Forest Soul that she was lucky to find.

In short, Tatyana literally emptied the worlds in the solar system from more than two dozen Natural Treasures. Such amounts might look insignificant, but they were not as few as they seemed.

A single Heaven-Born Flame was probably able to fuel all the ovens in the entire Astral Sky Sect for long enough that quantifying would be redundant, as the Astral Sky Sect perishing before it would be more likely.

Andrea and Evelyn both had a Natural Treasure already, but Cecile and Angel were lacking one. Tatyana looked at them and shook her head. "There are none for you. No Crystal Soul and no Luna Essence. Any other Natural Treasure related to your affinities would be nice, but I also don't have any."

Cecile blinked. "Don't you have a Gale Soul? My attributes are Moon, Space, and Wind."

Tatyana humphed. "A Gale Soul would indeed benefit you, but you are a creature with an incredible affinity toward the Moon attribute. Giving you the Gale Soul before you capture one Luna Essence might even harm your growth!"

Cecile sighed and nodded. "Sure. I'll trust you."

Tatyana noticed Andrea looked at the orb with a pondering expression and asked with a smirk. "What's wrong? Do you want to feed your Natural Treasure the Heaven-Born Flames I've captured?"

Andrea was an honest and forward woman, so she looked at Tatyana and nodded. "I am indeed considering that. What do you think? It should help me increase my overall strength, right?"

Tatyana pondered and then looked at Mirrory. The Ancient Mirror answered in her stead. "You would definitely benefit from it. Even taming the Lava Soul would be good for you. However, I recommend that you keep the one you have without modifications. It might've become very compatible with you, so now taking a stronger treasure might create an imbalance that can harm you."

Andrea sighed and nodded. "Understood."

Tatyana looked at Andrea's frowning face and laughed. "Don't worry, Andrea. I am sure that Yasenía will return with something for you. Your road won't be cut off, as long as you continue pushing forward."

Andrea blinked and looked at Tatyana with a raised eyebrow. "Is that coming from the Fate Expert or from Tatyana?"

Tatyana snorted. "Tsk, ts. So ungrateful~." She smirked. "However, I don't need to do Fate reading on you to know some things. Experience could be considered a way of prediction through experience."

Angel looked at the orb and asked, curious. "So, what are those Natural Treasures for?"

Tatyana commented, looking at the children. "Well, of course, it will be for the little ones."

The children's eyes widened, and Tatyana added before they could start shouting which one each of them wanted. "However! These will not be easy to earn. Natural Treasures are scarce and rare. Not all of you will get one, so I do not want to give them away unjustly just because you are her children. While we will give you treasures, how many you get will depend on your hard work and also your talent." Tatyana said seriously. "You might get none, so don't take them for granted!"

The children nodded seriously. This was not a first, as they all had scores and other measuring systems to gain non-essential treasures. It was something Yasenía and the rest created in preparation for future generations of the Dravory Clan. As it grew, you couldn't really pamper everyone in the same manner.

With that said, Tatyana moved on to explain the second matter she did while she was away. "Anyway, the second thing I did was use the remains of a dead planet to create something like a spatial sect outside of Distancia's Heaven."

After dropping that bomb, everyone in the room looked at her with bewildered faces, not really understanding what she just said. Tatyana laughed softly and said. "As an empire or sect becomes multi-planetary, they start creating areas outside the planet. The reason is that teleporting formations are much easier to create outside the local Heaven watch. Of course, they also become dangerous because of the omnipresence of the [Abyss]."

Andrea rubbed her forehead and asked. "So, you've created a massive thing that can be considered a Moon that's currently orbiting the planet and will probably be the place that we will live in the near future?"

Tatyana nodded once. "Perfectly understood! As expected from you, Andrea."

The children blinked a few times, not really understanding. So, Evelyn explained it in simple words. "Tatyana created a Moon where we might live in the future." Pointing upward, she continued. "Outside of our world. In space."

They were baffled, understanding but failing to comprehend. Tatyana looked around and smiled widely. "Anyway, enough about me! How have all of you been during the last three years?"

Tengliu, wearing a beautiful but somewhat skimpy dress, asked. "Lady Tatyana, may I ask something?"

Tatyana nodded. "Go ahead. Also, it seems that you've almost made a full recovery."

Tengliu laughed faintly, her aura much more laid back and easy-going than before. "I am indeed almost recovered. These years have been great, as I've made many introspections." Tengliu cleared her throat. "Will we be able to live in that space sect you've talked about?"

Tatyana nodded. "There will be a teleporter from here to there. That place is more of a... docking station. And also a place to receive people who might be unable to enter Distancia due to their high cultivation levels."

Tengliu and the other leaders understood and started contemplating the future implications.

Chapter 1004: Leaving the [Forgotten Star Area]

Back in the [Forgotten Star Area], Yasenias walked down the inn she had been staying in for more than two years with the entire group. Once she appeared in the main hall, everyone looked over. Many already knew her since the maids were very eye-catching, not to mention Yasenias, Valeria, or Kali.

Once she approached the inn's reception post, the man there smiled and welcomed her. "Lady Yasenias, Lady Kali, Lady Valeria, good morning. What might I help you with?"

Kali spoke calmly with a smile. "Hello, we are going to leave today, so we are here to inform Lady He of our departure."

The receptionist's eyes widened, and he stuttered. "D-Did anyone offend you, Lady Kali? We will make sure that never happens again if you tell us who."

Kali laughed softly and said gently. "No one offended me, don't worry. Our business in this city is done, so we are leaving. The inn has been nothing but welcoming. We are also going to make sure to leave a small extra for your caring service."

Kali placed five Sunderials on the table and smiled. "These are for you, sir."

The man looked at the insane amount of money on the table and froze. Those five coins were enough to buy him, literally! What was he supposed to do with all of it!? His brain just froze, unable to comprehend it.

Lady He appeared through a door at the side, her elegant gait and formal smile shining through her beauty. She laughed. "Lady Kali, I would prefer if you didn't try to bribe my people."

Kali raised her eyebrow and smiled. "Bribe? Not at all. I just wanted to give a tip for their great service."

Lady He rolled her eyes. "A tip that will make my people run is not appreciated! With that money, he won't have to work again in his life." Lady He placed her hand on his shoulder and sighed. "He is a really good worker. I really don't want to lose my people."

Kali got thoughtful and said, "Okay. Let's do this then. I'll give you a pill jar that will aid all of them cultivation-wise. It increases strength and vitality as well as purifying the bodies of low-level cultivators."

Lady He blinked and asked, her long eyelashes fluttering coyly. "Is there something like that for me?"

Kali waved her hand, throwing two pill jars to her. "There is. That second one is for higher level cultivators. It does something similar. I hope you like them."

Lady He looked at the second jar with a big smile. "Of course! This is a very generous gift. What quality are they?"

Kali smirked. "Peak-level Heaven-Ranked with 98% purity. Not half-bad, to be honest."

Lady He whistled. "That's impressive! I don't think that the top Alchemist in this city can compare. Perhaps those in Medical City could, though. Either way, their prices are ridiculous, so this is a gift I deeply appreciate. Thanks a lot."

Kali nodded. "No problem."

Lady He looked at Yasenia and extended her hand, asking for a handshake. "We have another way of expressing gratitude around here. It was a pleasure to have you here."

Yasenia snorted a laugh. "I've seen you cupping your fist to other guests, though~? Tsk, tsk. Taking advantage at the end of our meeting."

Yasenia extended her hand, firmly gripping Lady He's hand. Lady He laughed. "Well, I need to make an impression; perhaps it will benefit me in the future."

The dragoness raised her beautiful, straight eyebrow. "Clever. Don't worry, though. I took you into account. Not only you, this whole place, to be honest. While the number of Demonic Cultivators is much higher than average, the morals of people are not that skewed inside this dome area. I guess the fear of the strong is a good way to keep everyone's attitudes obedient."

Lady He laughed. "That's because you haven't been in those cities dominated by the Sixth Realm Demonic Cultivators. They are quite... A sight."

Yasenia hummed. "I can guess."

She stopped the handshake and commented. "Lady He, remember to give one of those pills to Guard An. Although she left after we settled down, her guidance all those years ago saved us a lot of time and trouble."

Lady He nodded. "I'll make sure of it. Speaking of which, she has been promoted a few times since then. It seems that meeting you was a stroke of luck."

Yasenia sighed. "Let's hope that it doesn't end in disaster. Some interested people might poke their noses too deep after I am gone."

Lady He tilted her head, and Yasenia revealed. "It's not like we've been incident-free during these years. There have been a few cases of greed and attempts at kidnapping from a few groups. Most of those groups have ceased to exist, but even then... Well, it is something I'll have to live with, I guess."

The dragoness flapped her wings once in exasperation. Lady He looked at them and asked. "I heard you didn't have them out when you arrived. Will you hide them away when you return?"

Yasenia extended her wings, curving them forward, and looked at them thoughtfully. "To be honest, while my tail is quite special and easy to remember, I think it goes unnoticed more than them."

Lady He looked at the extended gorgeous and large dragon wings and sighed at their beauty. "They are gorgeous, Yasenia. I really mean it, from the bottom of my heart."

Yasenia smiled and said honestly. "Thank you. I appreciate honest compliments without hidden intentions." Then, she folded her wings onto her back again and spoke. "Lady He, we will be on our way. It has been a comfortable stay."

Lady He cupped her fists. "Thank you for choosing our [Seven Star Inn]! We'll be awaiting your return."

Yasenia cupped her fists back and turned around. "We are leaving."

The entire group followed her lead and exited the place in an orderly fashion. Seeing the gorgeous people leaving, the guests sighed, disappointed. Some of them have been here for the last few years, and seeing that group of goddesses in the morning had become healing in a sense. Knowing they would be gone made many of them feel a bit empty.

Lady He looked around and smiled faintly. She clapped once and spoke after she got everyone's attention. "I understand how some of you might be feeling, but Lady Yasenia is a being that's bound to soar to Heaven. She is like a meteor shower, brief but ethereally beautiful. Let's say goodbye to her with grace."

"Yes, Ma'am!"

Once outside, Yasenia and the others mounted their flying swords and soared to the sky, approaching the city's entrance. When she was about to leave, several shadows left the buildings and surrounded her. There were around 200 people, all armed and of high-cultivation level.

Yasenia sighed and stopped, looking around. The leader of those people stepped forward and smirked. "Where are you going, Yasenia Dravory?"

Yasenia shook her head. "None of your business. Now, if you have no real business with me, scram. I am going to leave this place, so I recommend not messing with me the day I leave; I'll be ruthless."

The man laughed. "And what can you do? We have 200 peak-level Epoch Cores here. Your group barely has 40 people, and some of you are not in this realm. You are going to follow me and listen to what I have to say, even if you don't want to."

Yasenia's calm face slowly cooled down, and her voice sounded cold enough to give chills to those listening. "Listen. I've been away from my family for too long. I am not rushing out of this city because I want to respect the laws implemented by the [Four City Kings]. So, I REALLY don't have any patience now. Move or die. Last chance."

The man shook his head and sighed. "Since you are so stubborn and still really think that you can beat us... capture her."

Yasenia's golden eyes were flooded with a bloody red color, and she growled. "Death it is, then. [Celestial Pearl]."

When her most powerful buff activated together with all her enhancing auras, the world around Yasenia appeared to have imploded.

BOOM!

The aura shockwave was strong enough that even some maids got moved back. Her presence, amplified by her Level 9 intents and other skills, became as vast as the sky and as profound as the ocean.

Then, Yasenia grabbed [Draconic Heart] and the [Celestial Energy Star] in her Dantian spun quickly, pouring large amounts of [Celestial Energy] into her meridians. Then, she swung her sword. "Disappear. [Empyrean Galaxy Domain], [Celestial Collapse]."

The man's face changed, and he shouted. "QUICKLY! DEFEND!"

His heart almost jumped out of his chest the second Yasenia's aura exploded outward. In terms of presence, Yasenia's current aura was far higher than any common peak-level Epoch Core. With the [Celestial Pearl] activated, she was in a stretch between the Transcendence Realm and the peak of the Fifth Realm strength-wise.

A wave of pure Celestial Energy mixed with all her enhancement auras rushed forward and slammed onto them with the weight of a star. The two dozen peak-level Epoch Cores that tried to block her attack had their defenses broken and were actually pushed back several hundred of meters, leaving an open path. However, unlike what people spectating from below expected, Yasenia didn't rush through the gap.

Instead, she used [Pegasus Gallop] and rushed into the bunch of peak-level Epoch Cores with a terrifying aura full of killing intent and ruthlessness.

Kali and the rest naturally followed, and then a slaughter began. While the 200 peak-level Epoch Core experts were much stronger than them in raw strength, the battle maids had battle formations with incredible individual strength. Valeria was also supporting all of them, so not to mention dying, them getting injured was a challenge.

Then, they had an enraged dragon woman in their ranks going on an absolute rampage.

The poor bastards couldn't even last 20 minutes before they were completely annihilated. Using the inherent qualities of [Empyrean Galaxy Domain], escaping the space Yasenia dominated was very difficult unless you did it at first. After a while, Yasenia would gain some authority over the place and could literally lock people away from leaving.

The leader of the group was facing Yasenia's absolutely relentless attack, his face pale. "D-Do you know who I work for!? You are committing a terrible mistake!"

Yasenia moved into close quarters and threw a punch to his gut.

BANG!

Her fist sunk into the peak-level Epoch Core's body as if his incredibly reinforced muscles were made of gelatin. His body shot skyward with a tremendous explosive sound. Yasenia used her terrifying speed to actually overcome the flying person and gathered the entire strength of her body toward her leg as she completed a spinning kick. "[Grand Cosmos Martial Art, First Form: Stellar Burst]."

When the leg hit the man, time seemed as if it had stopped. The man's body started cracking as the terrifying energy was transferred into him, and then, together with a massive burst of blood, he shot downward like a meteor.

BOOM!

Yasenia stood in the middle of the sky, looking at everyone from above as her dragon wings flapped. "There are more groups that want to stop me, right? Come out; I am not done yet."

Everyone on the ground that was going to participate almost pissed their pants. No one chose to stop Yasenia, and after she snorted with disdain, she left with the maids.

Lady He, looking from a distance, had her mouth wide open. 'What in Heaven's name? She was this strong all along!?'

Chapter 1005: Confrontation. Intervention. Return.

After Yasenia's group's strength demonstration, everyone intending to intervene at first was discouraged. After all, the dragoness, buffed by the [Celestial Pearl] and all her other buffs, was incredibly powerful. Not to mention, after her strange breakthrough a few days ago, her soul was much more stable and under control, allowing her to use her energy more efficiently and have a more powerful presence.

Yasenia stood in the middle of the sky, looking at everyone from above as her dragon wings flapped. "There are more groups that want to stop me, right? Come out; I am not done yet."

Nobody tried to stop her at first, so she snorted with disdain and turned around to leave. However, a man's voice arrived. "I am here to stop you now. What do you think, Yasenia Dravory? Will you listen to me?"

Looking up, Yaseenia's group noticed a man in ordinary robes looking down on them. He was very calm even when he was alone. Yaseenia squinted; she could easily feel it in her bones who this person was. "Are you one of the [Four City Kings]? What do you want from me?"

The man was of some advanced age but not too old. He had brown hair with a few white strands and somewhat rugged skin. He looked like a fifty- to sixty-year-old man who had kept himself healthy. He answered. "Well, I want your secrets. It is clear that you are not from our world, so I want to know who you are, where you come from, and also what kind of cultivation you practice. I was going to act a bit later, but who knew that you would suddenly leave? Thankfully, I left a spy around you."

Yaseenia frowned and looked at her maids. The maids looked at that man confusedly; they were very sure that they had cleaned the place of all spies. The man smiled. "Oh, it is normal that you didn't catch him. He is a mortal, after all. A bit special since he had a way to communicate with me in a direct manner."

Doriel clicked her tongue, easily guessing after that information. "It is the receptionist."

The middle-aged man laughed. "Great job. That's right. Who would usually doubt someone like that, right?"

Yaseenia looked at the man and sighed. "I really don't recommend you do whatever you are trying to do. It will not end nicely for you."

The man snorted. "A little mortal looking up to a God and babbling useless threats. Just give me what I want, and I will only kill your maids. After all, you killed so many of my people. If I don't eliminate a few from your side, I won't rest satisfied."

Valeria stepped forward and smiled at him. "Bullying juniors is not something I recommend doing, sir. If you mess with my little ones, I'll need to get involved deeply, and things will end quite badly."

The Undying Monarch looked at Valeria and snorted. "And who are you to speak like that to me?"

Valeria continued smiling; however, her smile didn't reach her eyes. "Who am I? Well, I am someone you can't afford to offend." Then, she waved her hand and unleashed her aura at full strength.

The world felt like it froze as Valeria's presence magnified several times in everyone's eyes. While her physical size remained the same, her presence literally inundated everything and everyone in the city. It felt like her hand was holding the sky as she looked down on them from beyond.

Valeria's lips, still arched, moved to utter a few words. "If you still dare to continue and stop us after feeling this, I have nothing else to say other than you are a very unintelligent animal."

With Yaseenia's presence feeling like the firmament and Valeria's appearing like life itself, one would be able to instantly tell that they were not common people that could be bullied by anyone.

However, the one in the sky was an Undying Monarch. Someone above all mortal cultivators. So, while people looking at the altercation felt that messing with them was a bad idea, they were equally confident that being disrespectful toward one of the [Four City Kings] was just as bad.

The man squinted, looking at Valeria and Yasenia deeply. He had honestly never felt such a large presence from any mortal cultivator. It was to the point that even he felt somewhat pressured by their combined auras.

For mortals to make an Undying Monarch feel pressured was something completely new for him, who has been at the top all his life and unchallenged for so long. After thinking for a while, he decided to ask. "If I were to use force, what are your honest chances of winning, if you gave it a percentage?"

Valeria snorted. "One hundred percent. The question is not if we would win but how much we'd sacrifice in doing so. Would we need to sacrifice one city, half the [Forgotten Star Area], or perhaps the entire World? Regardless, we will remain victorious in the end, and you will be dead or, worse, incapacitated."

As the man was thinking, two other presences approached at incredible speeds. Their auras were not inferior even when compared to this man.

Once they appeared, it was revealed to be a handsome, tall, and muscular man accompanied by a slim and elegant younger-looking man. The first one spoke. "Hey, old man. Bullying juniors? I don't really like how that looks."

The Undying Monarch squinted. "Gu Chen, Ayanduin, why are you messing with my business? This has nothing to do with you."

Ayanduin smiled. "You see... That's incorrect. This has a lot to do with us! First of all, Yasenia is my customer."

Gu Chen smiled. "Second of all, Yasenia is friends with my wives. So, we recommend that you let her leave in peace before things get out of control. What do you say, Old Man Yan?"

Old Man Yan paused for a few seconds, looking between all of them. After a while, he looked at Yasenia and spoke. "This won't be the last time we meet, Yasenia."

The dragoness snorted. "I hope not. Instead of asking for things like a normal person and trading, you act like a tyrant and try to steal things from me. If you really think I'll overlook something like this, you are mistaken."

Gu Chen coughed. "Hey there, leave the Old Man some face. He is an Undying Monarch at the end of the day."

Yasenia looked at him and said. "I told you this in the past, but respect is something you must earn, not something that comes with age. If not, all people in this city would need to walk on their knees when talking to Valeria!"

Valeria's eyebrow twitched.

Kali coughed and patted her back twice. "Fighting the truth is not something we should do."

In the end, Old Man Yan disappeared from the sky, returning to his mansion. Yasenia waved her hand, speaking aloud. "Since you are here, I'll use the ship now so that no more complications happen. Am I allowed?"

Gu Chen sighed. "Sure, sure. Just leave. Don't forget to come back, yes?"

Yasenia nodded, and after the giant flying ship appeared, she boarded it with the rest of her maids. Gu Chen looked at the giant ship and blinked twice. "That thing looks valuable..."

Ayanduin muttered. "That warship is probably more valuable than everything you have on your person right now."

Gu Chen clicked his tongue. "Rich little dragon, and she is still greedy enough to rob you."

Ayanduin shrugged. "A dragon's greed is endless. The actual demise of many of them."

"I guess."

The warship's formation lit up, and in the next second, it zoomed into the distance with ridiculous speed. Gu Chen exclaimed. "Woah! I don't think I would be able to catch up to that."

Ayanduin patted his shoulder. "It is still not going at its full speed. Of course, you wouldn't."

Meanwhile, on the ship, Yasenia released all her auras and flopped backward, landing in a comfortable armchair that gently cushioned her fall. "Ugh... We managed to evade all big troubles and were about to leave unharmed, and the moment we were about to leave the place, that man appeared... That freaking greedy Yan or whatever his name was is going to pay!"

Kali chuckled. "Didn't you kill quite a lot of his top people? I think that's a big punishment."

Yasenia looked at Kali and blinked a few times. "I guess... But I feel... unsatisfied."

Kali sat on Yasenia's lap and hummed. "Well, well. It seems that my dear dragoness is craving battle. Was the combat not long enough? Were you too restricted? Tell me~."

Yasenia hugged Kali's waist, squeezing the fox into her soft and tender embrace. "I guess I want to fight, yeah. It has been a while since I let go in a fight or a war... Do you think I should start a pointless war against someone that pisses me off when we return to Distancia?"

Kali's lips twitched. 'A bored dragon is truly a problem, eh?' Kali coughed. "How about using that energy to continue raising our children?"

Yasenia looked at Kali and nodded. "That's something you shouldn't take for granted! I wonder how many more years they will need to become a bit more independent. Do you think that ten is enough?"

Kali rubbed her chin. "In ten years, they will be around... twenty-five years old? That's too high, no? I think they can start being independent at twenty or so. Look at Kaleina. She was already out there doing things with Flame before we left."

Yasenia nodded. "You are right."

Kali smiled and scratched Yasenia's chin where she liked it. The dragoness immediately started purring with her typical deep and predatory growl. "Is my precious dragoness upset that their time to become adults is arriving?"

Yasenia purred her answer. "Grrnooo~."

Kali laughed, her fox tails wagging in amusement at her lover's cuteness. "Are you sure, dear?"

"Yesss."

"Then~?" Kali smirked. "What is it~?"

Yasenia licked Kali's cheek and spoke. "Well... when they mature, we will probably start planning to leave... Who knows how long it will take to see them again?"

Kali blinked and stopped her caressing. She sighed and leaned on Yasenia again. "I guess you are right. We can't stop for them. Once they are strong enough, we will leave Distancia, right? How will you explain it to them?"

Yasenia blinked. "Explain? What's there to explain?"

Kali frowned. "Isn't it bad if we leave without an explanation?"

Yasenia laughed. "They don't need an explanation but motivation."

Kali looked at Yasenia and asked. "Do you have something planned?"

"Of course." Yasenia kissed Kali's lips and spoke. "We'll tell them to catch up to us if they can. That we'll leave hints of our presence wherever we go so that they can follow in our footsteps if they want. Or that they can walk on their own. Of course, Distancia is my nest, so that place will always be a place to return."

Kali asked. "What happens when we soar to higher heavens?"

Yasenia hummed. "Then, we'll create a nest there, and in the next, and in the next..." Yasenia smiled faintly. "Their cultivation journey is theirs, Kali. We'll help set them on an easier path with resources and other items. However, they should tread their own paths."

Kali stated as a matter of factly. "Some will die."

Yasenia nodded. "Yes. Even if we try our best to prevent anything from happening, that is bound to happen sooner or later. I don't even know if I will survive all the way...." Yasenia then stated, her voice chilly. "Still, if that ever happens, we'll take revenge. We'll slaughter everything related to those who touch our children."

Then, she sighed. "However, we are not strong enough to watch over them constantly, Kali. They are dragons, and they need to learn how to survive."

Kali sighed, leaning on Yasenia. "A cruel world."

"Cruel but beautiful," Yasenia added. "That's why I could meet all of you and have those little brats."

Kali chuckled, burying her face in Yasenia's neck. "I guess."

Chapter 1006: Yasenia's New Discovery.

The warship was quick to travel through the vastness of space. Yasenia didn't bother to cultivate; instead, she focused on observing the vast darkness of space. When one was in a world where the atmosphere reflected light, seeing stars was easy. Here, without air to reflect those lights, everything was dark except one location: the Sun. Yasenia smiled faintly. "Quite ironic."

Doriel, standing by her side, asked. "What's ironic, Young Miss?"

Yasenia hummed. "When we are in a world, the sky is full of lights, making you think that everywhere outside would look like that. However, instead, what do we have?"

Doriel looked outside and answered. "Darkness, Young Miss."

Yasenia nodded. "Darkness... Looking up from the bottom of a pond makes everything outside the pond look desirable. But, once outside, what awaits you is a bigger pond with a bigger sky that you admire."

Doriel answered. "Cultivation is considered an endless path. There is always someone stronger, something stronger, or even a whole new place where your strength becomes average."

Yasenia agreed. "Right. That's why I was thinking, what if understanding my ninth level of the Celestial Intent is not about understanding the cosmos but... the lack of it?"

Doriel tilted her head. "Lack of... cosmos? Aren't we inside the cosmos, Young Miss?"

Yasenia hummed. "Yes. Everything is the cosmos. But..." Yasenia extended her hand, trying to feel the energy of the cosmos. "... Why is it so hard to perceive? Even with my affinity, I can only see something when I activate my skills."

Yasenia activated [Celestial Intent Level 8], and her aura shifted, mixing with the surroundings and making her presence more difficult to perceive. At the same time, Yasenia's eyes captured the hidden beauty of the Universe. The black sky was suddenly alight with countless stars. Her vision, now able to capture a much wider range of light, was able to observe the true beauty of the seemingly empty cosmos.

Doriel blinked twice, trying to capture Yasenia's presence but finding it somewhat slippery, even when she was standing by her side. 'Incredible. If Young Miss jumped ship and wanted to disappear... I don't think we would be able to find her. Her connection with the cosmos is increasing at a staggering pace.'

Yasenia looked around, her eyes observing everything around her. "Hm... strange... What's that?"

Doriel looked in the direction Yasenia was looking at, seeing nothing. The dragoness commented. "It is like... A big, multicolored cloud."

Doriel tilted her head. "I heard that big clouds in space are usually places where spatial life is plenty. However, they were never described as multicolored. Most cultures call them Nebulas. Some nebulae are like forests."

Yasenia nodded. "I feel that I heard that not long ago..." The dragoness rubbed her chin and asked. "Will we go there next?"

Doriel pondered. "It's probably too dangerous, Young Miss. The number of Star Beasts in a Nebula is incredibly high."

Yasenia tilted her head. "I see. Navigating those places should be interesting, right?"

Doriel smiled faintly. "From what I heard, only Transcendent Realm people dare do that. Well, we have this warship, so it's not an impossible thing."

Alaia scoffed. "But unless it is necessary, we should avoid those areas!"

Yasenia laughed faintly. "Okay, okay. How much time until we arrive home?"

Alaia commented, looking at the solar system's map. "Around ten more minutes at most. Does Young Miss want to do something before we arrive?"

Yasenia tilted her head. "How about we take a big asteroid and plant it in the Sect? Who knows, a disciple in the future might learn something from the cosmic energy that they have."

Alaia laughed. "Sure. We can do that."

The warship slowed down, and then, Alaia drove it toward a place with a lot of asteroids that were orbiting the Solar System.

Yasenia looked at them and commented. "They are quite large, aren't they?"

Doriel hummed. "They are not much bigger than a mountain... Well, except that one over there."

Everyone followed Doriel's gaze and saw a massive piece of rock spinning very slowly. Yasenia smirked. "Let's get that one."

Kali asked, speechless. "Why do you want such a big piece of rock? That's taller than our mountain!"

Yasenia shrugged. "Why not? We can place it outside the sect and let the sect disciples explore it. Who knows if someone will find an opportunity in it? We can even create a few entrance tests for the sect that involve it."

Kali sighed. "Sure, sure."

Yasenia laughed and took out her sword, mounting it and flying toward the giant asteroid. When she landed on it, she was surprised that it wasn't as solid as she expected. 'Huh?'

Looking down, she saw her feet sink into the gravel-like surface. "Hm..." Yasenia asked toward the warship. "Will this thing even maintain its structure back in Distancia? I feel that it will crumble down like a sand structure."

Kali asked, curious. "Is it that brittle?"

Yasenia kicked the surface lightly, sending a big cloud of pure gravel upward. "See?"

"Hoo?" Kali smiled. "That's quite interesting. What quality do you think the material it is made of is?"

Yasenia used her spiritual sense and shook her head. "Around... Magic-Ranked? Not much better, to be honest."

Kali hummed. "That's quite useless... Should we find a better one, Yasenia?"

Yasenia shook her head. "No, Magic-Ranked is perfect. It will not make other sects covet this big piece of rock. After all, who would want to fight us for a chunk of Magic-Ranked material?"

The dragoness's energy surged toward the spatial ring, and an invisible aura spread from it, covering the entire thing. Yasenia poured quite a lot of energy into it since this was a mountain-sized item. Then, after it surrounded it, the asteroid disappeared from sight.

Yasenia flapped her wings twice out of reflex, thinking she would fall, but instead, she flew upward. Yasenia blinked. "Ah... Right. No gravity around these places."

The maids laughed, seeing their Young Miss shot upward involuntarily. Kali sighed. "Go catch your Young Miss. She is so dorky sometimes."

Alaia laughed. "Understood, Madam."

The warship moved through space and caught up to Yasenias. The dragoness had her legs and arms crossed, flying upward in a strange position. Kali asked with a sigh-like smile. "What are you doing, love?"

Yasenias blinked. "Why did I shoot upward?"

Kali blinked. "There is no gravity. Isn't it normal to fly upward?"

Yasenias tilted her head. "Don't I fly because I move air? There is no air to move here, and the cosmic energy is also very difficult to interact with to flow through my wings, no?"

Kali shrugged. "It seems that it is not. Have you even tried flying before? You just moved with your sword or the warship through space."

Yasenias looked at Kali and commented. "I want to try flying... Can I? My wings... scales... skin? Everything seems to be able to 'swim' through this nothingness."

Kali laughed. "Why are you asking? Go ahead."

Yasenias rolled her eyes. "The last time I went on a little trip without asking, I had trouble sitting down for a few days."

Yasenias nodded, and her energy started flowing around her. They all expected to see the usual giant dragon appearing, but they were confused when Yasenias took her time transforming.

Kali asked, confused. "Is everything okay, love?"

Yasenias answered. "I think... I can breakthrough to the ninth level..."

Kali blinked. "Huh? How?"

Yasenias muttered. "During this transformation... I am not only using my energy. I can feel myself absorbing the cosmic energy..."

Valeria's eyebrow raised. "You are actually mixing your body with the cosmic energy? That's something only Star Beasts can do."

Yasenias muttered. "Say, Valeria. What if I wasn't a beast all along but a Star Beast?"

Valeria paused and got thoughtful. "The only difference between Star Beasts and other beasts is the way they interact with cosmic energy. As I explained before, Star Beasts have trouble living in worlds because the energy there is too different. It's like a fish going out of the water." Valeria commented. "You've had no trouble breathing 'Outside the water.' So, I doubt that you are one."

Yasenias was puzzled, still feeling how the cosmic energy was trying to mix with her transformation process. "But, the cosmic energy is truly mixing with me, Valeria. This didn't happen the other time I transformed. What's different- Ah." Yasenias looked into herself. "My soul is different."

Instead of the large and uncontrolled mess that it was before, Yaseenia's soul was now compact and with a clear shape. "Is my soul able to absorb and digest cosmic energy?"

Valeria frowned and then said. "That... If that's the truth, then you might have an affinity for cosmic energy. Some beasts are born with that. However, it takes centuries, even millennia, to master using cosmic energy. They don't just... I don't know, instinctually merge with it like you are doing. How do you feel when you allow the cosmic energy in?"

Yaseenia's body, very slowly transforming into the dragon form with each second that passed, had already become a ten-meter-long dragon. And, for now, Yaseenia was not feeling any kind of discomfort. "I feel comfortable. Valeria, I might not be able to stop later, so do I or do I not continue with this?"

Everyone focused on the tall woman. Valeria pondered for a few seconds, observing Yaseenia's body as deeply as she could. After a while, she sighed. "I don't know. Follow your instincts, Yaseenia. You are a new species, and we know little about you. Just allow your body to guide you."

Yaseenia nodded and closed her eyes, focusing on the Cosmic Energy in the surroundings. The composition was very different from Celestial Energy, even when they were both similar to a degree.

Both energies originated in the cosmos and were part of what people called "space." However, Celestial Energy was unique and only able to be used by people who had understood the Celestial Path to a profound degree. Yaseenia, being the bearer of Celestial Energy itself, had a natural advantage in comprehending it.

Meanwhile, Cosmic Energy was something like the "atmosphere" of the void. A raw energy that almost no one could use because it was too homogeneous. If someone absorbed it, trying to purify, for example, fire energy from the cosmic energy was almost impossible. The body didn't like a fuel that it couldn't decompose or digest.

Even then, Yaseenia had shown a terrifying pace at which she got accustomed to it. Therefore, Valeria was quite sure that, while Yaseenia wasn't a real Star Beast, she could be considered an amphibian. A beast that could digest both normal air and cosmic air.

As Yaseenia absorbed the Cosmic Energy, her dragon form changed slightly. The change was not in shape, but in size.

As the dragoness grew in size, quickly overtaking the Warship, the maids and the others had their eyes slowly growing wider. Before, Yaseenia's total length was approaching three kilometers. However, her current size when the transformation ended was well past that.

Kali looked at the gargantuan dragon with her mouth agape. "What in Heaven's name...? She has reached thirty kilometers in length... Isn't she larger than Lord Boreas, the Ice Phoenix Patriarch?"

Valeria commented. "Star Beasts are so large in the first place because they don't really have size constraints in space. Another reason was speculated to be that the Cosmic Energy allowed for rapid growth. After all, while it is toxic for normal cultivators, the amount of energy in Cosmic Energy is actually very high."

Kali pointed at Yaseenia, who was slowly opening her eyes. "But this is ridiculous! Her size has literally multiplied by TEN!"

Yasenia looked around after her transformation, and she was astounded. "What... Why does space suddenly look so... full of things?"

Chapter 1007: Full Understanding Of The Celestial Intent.

The dragoness opened her eyes and looked around. She could see so many things that were invisible to her before. The most glaring among those was the energy that objects and other bodies radiated. This allowed the powerful Stars and other celestial objects to make their presence known in the void of the cosmos, literally lighting up the vast cosmos.

Naturally, the biggest source of that radiation came from behind her, and turning around, she identified the source as the Sun of this solar system. Alaia had to move the warship when Yasenia turned to not be hit by her.

'Wow... the Sun's amount of energy is... incredible. Such raw and pure energy, spreading through everything and dominating space with its unequal presence.'

The second strongest radiation source was much closer. And even if it was incomparable to the Sun, it was large enough to be detectable from where she was. 'Distancia Continent... Is this how Star Beasts guide themselves through the cosmos? That's interesting...' She pondered and slowly turned around. 'If that source is Distancia, the other one that I can sense should be.... Hm. As expected. The [Forgotten Star Area].'

While she was pondering about these thoughts, she heard someone speak to her through both spiritual sense and voice. "Yasenia! Can you hear me?"

Looking down at them, the dragoness was confused. 'I can hear her voice? How? Can I now perceive the vibrations of the cosmos as well?'

"Love, please answer me!"

Kali's shout snapped her out of her thoughts, and the dragoness smiled. "Huh? Why are you so small? Did you shrink, Honey?"

Kali asked with a deadpan. "Really? WE have shrunk!? That's your conclusion!?"

Yasenia laughed. "I am messing with you, honey. It is of course I who has become larger~." The dragoness used a hand to easily surround the ship and laughed. "I have grown quite a bit."

Kali sighed, looking at the massive golden claws that surrounded them. Honestly, if Yasenia weren't her lover, this situation would look like a Dragon God looking down on a bunch of little mortals. Kali asked, worried. "Is this your default size now? Can you change it? You are gargantuan! Big enough to coil around our mountain back at home!"

Yasenia smiled and lifted the warship to her eye level, turning her face so that her large golden eye was looking straight at them. "Don't worry, Honey. While it would be nice, this is not my standard size. I can feel my own body consuming the Cosmic Energy around me to keep my size. The second I stop absorbing it, I'll probably shrink."

Kali sighed in relief and nodded a few times. "Okay. That's good! That's a big relief!"

Yasenia snorted. "Why are you so happy about that, eh?"

Kali rolled her eyes. "How else will you fit with us otherwise? I want to be cuddled by you, not... I don't know, 'housed' by your massive body! Even your eye is almost as big as this warship!"

Yasenia burst into laughter. "Housed... Hahaha. That was a good one, Honey. Still~, I didn't know my honey would look down on me if I became larger~."

Eira, the swordswoman, blinked. "Hm? I am human-sized. I can't become that big."

Selena chuckled. "The Ice Phoenix matriarch, not you. You two share names."

Eira spoke indifferently. "Oh."

Meanwhile, Yasenia bragged. "Isn't that awesome? I am bigger than peak-level Mythical Realm beasts!"

Kali's eyebrows twitched. "Say, how do you think that I would look if I transformed and stood by your side?"

Yasenia blinked. "Adorable? I could probably tickle your fluffy belly with my claw."

Kali imagined the situation, and she would be lying if she didn't want to try that. However, she cleared her throat and thoughts, and she commented. "That's not the point! If you grow too big... Sigh." Suddenly, Kali had a flashback to Tatyana's and Tian Long's conversation about him becoming so massive, and her eyes flashed with an idea. "So, you want to be like your Uncle Tian Long? Having females run from you because you are too big?"

Yasenia's massive eye blinked twice, and she quickly changed her mind. "Being this big has no advantages either way. Who would want to be so big, right? Being big is bad. It makes a human appear as dangerous as a parasite! Bad, very bad!"

Kali laughed, and Valeria interfered. "Don't be so quick to judge, Yasenia. Your size has many advantages."

Yasenia asked. "Does it?"

Valeria nodded. "Of course. First of all, you absorb energy faster. In that shape, you can probably cultivate the fastest."

Kali gave Valeria a side-eye, but she didn't interrupt. If there were actual benefits for being this large, then she would naturally want to listen to them. Valeria explained. "Second of all, you are now in harmony with the cosmos, thanks to the cosmic energy that has allowed you to somehow create this mass out of nowhere..."

Yasenia asked. "Out of nowhere?"

Valeria shrugged. "I mean, you would shrink if you stopped absorbing it, no? That makes your current form unstable. You have an affinity toward the cosmos, and thanks to that affinity, you are using a source of energy to... well, create mass from pure energy."

The dragoness became thoughtful. "I see."

Valeria smiled. "One last and very important obvious benefit is your strength. You should be quite a lot stronger than usual. How about you try shooting a [Sun Dragon Breath]?"

Yasenia hummed. "Sure, I'll give it a try."

Then, the dragoness turned her head toward where she thought it would hit nothing, and her body started moving energy from her Dantian toward her body. The literal rivers of energy traversed her enormous meridians and gathered toward her lungs, accumulating a massive amount of Sun energy.

The pressure her body produced during this process was high enough that it created a small gravitational pull, making all the people on the ship look shocked.

Then, Yaseña opened her massive maw, and her enchanting voice resonated with the cosmos around her. "[Sun Dragon Breath]."

WHOOM!

A silent explosion occurred as a mini sun was born for a second. Then, a beam larger than the asteroid Yaseña had kept in her ring shot forward, illuminating the dark cosmos with its bright glare.

Kali and the maids looked at that beam with widened eyes. Selena even commented. "To be completely honest, I wouldn't be comfortable defending against that,"

Valeria smiled deeply and muttered to herself. "Truly a being made to conquer the cosmos."

After Yaseña stopped firing, she looked at the beam shooting into the distance with large, blinking eyes. Seeing the golden beam shrinking in size but not truly dissipating, she couldn't help but wonder if that would land somewhere it shouldn't.

Still, the dragoness didn't focus on that for long. After all, when she was preparing the dragon breath attack, she could feel all kinds of energies inside of herself that gave her a deeper understanding of her own energy. 'My own energy is the last thing I needed to understand. Nothing about voids, nothing about the cosmos. The purest form of Celestial Energy is inside of me. That blue star with the black halo, that's what I needed to understand.'

And when she thought of that, her conscience sank into her Dantian and saw the [Celestial Energy Star] spinning quite gently. It was telling her that she could look as much as she pleased. Very different from the first time she confronted it. At first, before she understood the Celestial Intent, the star was like a wild animal that wouldn't allow her to touch her.

After so many years, it felt like she was about to tame it. Of course, she had no delusion that this was the truth. Someone at her cultivation level couldn't really uncover the mysteries of the [Celestial Energy Star]. Still, when she tried to control the star, it did not resist like before; it allowed its aura and energy to spread and mix with her liquid energy, purifying it more into a form of lower-quality Celestial Energy.

When that finished, Yaseña felt her aura go under a metamorphosis. Kali, Valeria, and the maids could sense how a new layer of mystery was added to Yaseña's powerful and deep aura. It felt like a cosmic veil had suddenly covered her, making her presence more empyrean and ethereal.

Her enormous dragon body now didn't just look, but it felt as if it was a patch of the night sky that had taken a dragon shape. Yaseña opened her eyes, her irises flashing with deep blue light for a second, and then they returned to their usual golden color.

Valeria smiled. "She did it. [Celestial Intent Level 9]."

Yasenia looked down and smiled. "Indeed. I did it."

Kali clapped and laughed. "Congratulations, love! You are awesome!"

Yasenia chuckled. "While we are around 10 minutes away in the ship, can I try flying towards Distancia with you by my side? I want to feel the cosmos under my wings."

The maids nodded, and Alaia threw something. "Young Miss, your presence is increasingly similar to the space around you. Hold that so we can identify you easily and follow along."

Yasenia extended her giant claw and allowed the little item to lodge between the scales of her hand. After all, it was just too small for Yasenia to be able to hold it.

After that, the dragoness looked toward Distancia and began moving slowly. Alaia was about to tell her directions, but seeing her Young Miss move with confidence toward the planet, she didn't interrupt.

The warship was effortlessly able to keep up with Yasenia's current speed, so they flew by Yasenia's head. The dragoness's massive wings, spanning as much distance as her length, moved the energies of the cosmos, creating invisible whirls. Her speed, which was moderate at first, quickly increased.

Of course, because of the frictionless nature of the void, Yasenia's acceleration wasn't noticeable unless occasional asteroids appeared.

Alaia warned. "Young Miss, asteroid in front."

"I see it." Yasenia answered faintly, and her right wing flapped, moving her body in a spiral that allowed her to dodge the asteroid perfectly.

After doing the roll, she stabilized and squinted. "I am going to start using my movement skills. Be attentive, Alaia."

Alaia frowned. "Young Miss, you might crash against the asteroids."

Yasenia smiled confidently. "I feel that they are not going to do anything to me. Don't worry."

Her energy surged, and her wings extended fully. Fourteen stars appeared around her, and then, Yasenia shot forward. "[Pegasus Gallop]."

Alaia accelerated at the same time, easily keeping up. However, Yasenia's draconic lips arched. "I've always had this strange thought. It is called a gallop, right? Not a jump... So... Haha~."

Kali looked at Yasenia and asked, a bit unsure. "Love, are you sure the asteroids won't hurt you?"

"Yes. Now, let's gallop."

Then, instead of leaving her four dragon limbs hanging as she flew, they started moving and stepping on "nothing."

"[Heavenly Constellation Steps, First Sky: Pegasus Gallop]."

BOOM!

Yasenia's body streaked forward and constantly accelerated. Alaia spoke loudly. "Asteroid in three! Two!"

Yasenia bent her head and placed her horns forward. "BREAK!"

BANG!

The asteroid blew up into thousands of pieces as Yasenia zoomed through it, not leaving even a scratch on her head. Seeing that she was okay, the maids didn't stop her, and Yasenia accelerated fast enough that she would arrive at Distancia in a day at most.

Chapter 1008: Arriving at Distancia. Yasenia's Challenge.

Kaleina was walking down the back garden, looking at the sky with a nostalgic face. "I miss Mommy..." For her, Yasenia was a role model to follow. So, she always tried to be strong. However, she was not even thirty years old. For a dragon, that was a very low age.

Naturally, Kaleina was not a child in terms of mentality in the grand majority of things. Dragons matured quickly in many regards. However, when becoming independent from their family, some dragons could even take centuries.

As long as their dragon parents loved them, dragons would very rarely leave the nest to develop. There were many cases where some Dragons lived a lifetime with their parents, even after finding a mate.

Kaleina kicked a rock lightly, making it bounce on the grass.

"Big Sister!"

The dragoness switched her emotions quickly and looked back with a smile. "Dianna, how are you doing?"

Dianna approached with bouncy and haughty steps. "Big Sister! I've had a breakthrough!"

Kaleina blinked and asked. "Really? Why do I still feel that you are in the same realm?"

Dianna shook her head. "Not a Cultivation breakthrough! I had a breakthrough in what I want as a weapon!"

Kaleina laughed. "How did you have this breakthrough? Did you watch someone and feel that they were very cool!"

Dianna's eyes glittered. "YES!"

Kaleina walked forward, caressing the head of the horse-sized fox dragon. "Who did you see?"

Dianna spoke. "Mommy!"

Kaleina blinked twice and asked quickly. "Is she back!?"

Dianna coughed. "No, no. I meant Little Mommy."

Kaleina's excitement disappeared. "Oh... the illusion in the Grand Cosmos Array, right?"

"Mhm! When I was fighting the twenty-one-year-old Yasenia, she suddenly changed her battle style a little bit! Her sword moved extremely easily, as if there was a flow within her movements. She was so cool that I got defeated while being dazed!"

Kaleina laughed. "That's probably the time when Mommy unlocked a hint toward her [Sword Intent]."

Confused, the fox dragon asked. "Sword Intent? Don't we unlock those at the fourth realm?"

Poking her nose, the dragoness answered. "Mommy did so in the second realm. However, it was more of a nascent form that affected her. Even then, it is very impressive, even in Auntie Mirrory's eyes."

"Sword Intent at the second realm... Wow! Mommy is so cool!"

Kaleina laughed and asked. "So, is that why you want to be a swordswoman?"

Dianna nodded. "Yes. I want to combine Mama Kali's affinities with Mommy's strengths. I feel that a sword is the best type of weapon for that."

Kaleina shrugged. "Up to you, Little Sis. If you feel like it, go for it."

"Hehe, thanks!" Dianna smiled, and Kaleina looked upward again.

"Hm..." Seeing her big sister look at the sky, she asked. "Are you waiting for Mommy?"

"Yes." Kaleina smiled. "I somehow felt that she might be back soon. So, I am here."

"Heh." Dianna sat by her side and smiled. "You said so a month ago, too!"

"Hey. Can't I be hopeful?" Kaleina pinched Dianna's cheek, making the young beast laugh.

Kaleina looked upward and suddenly blinked. "Huh? What's that?"

Dianna looked up as well and tilted her head. "What are you looking at, Big Sis? I can't see anything."

Kaleina heard steps behind her and saw Tatyana, Cecile, and all the others walking with the children and maids. Seeing them approach, Kaleina's eyes widened. "I-Is Mommy arriving!?"

Flame approached with a smile and grabbed her hand. "Auntie Cecile says that she is here."

"Really!?" Kaleina and Dianna almost jumped up in joy, and they looked upward with the rest. It was the morning, and the Sun was barely out. However, they suddenly saw a new star appearing in the bluish sky. It was nothing but a white dot at first. However, that white dot kept becoming brighter by the second.

As the white star grew in brightness, everyone down in Distancia was silent. Waiting in anticipation.

Time passed, one minute, five minutes, and eventually, that star was no longer brightly illuminated. Cecile smiled and said. "Well, she is back."

In the atmosphere, thousands of kilometers into the sky, a massive explosion occurred when Yasenia crossed the Heaven Layer protecting the World. Like a meteor, with a glowing red aura around her, Yasenia crossed the atmosphere boundary and extended her wings to start decelerating.

The sky rumbled with the sound of her body breaking through the air. Looking skyward, it felt like a massive meteor was approaching. Evelyn blinked and asked. "Um, did she become a bit bigger?"

Tatyana laughed, somewhat incredulous. "A bit? Haha... It is more than a bit..."

Yasenia's enormous body finally stopped a few kilometers above the sect, and not only they but everyone in the sect was looking skyward with a baffled face.

There, hanging in the sky as if defying gravity, a massive thirty-kilometer-long dragon was blotting the sky. Her wings were like two massive night blue sheets that covered the sky and transformed it into a night sky glittering with white stars.

Everyone was only confused for a second because the particular Sun and Moon on each wing of that dragon was well known worldwide. No one wouldn't be able to tell that the gargantuan dragon was Yasenia Dravory, the Sect Master of the Astral Sky Sect.

The children had their jaws wide open, looking up at their mother's familiar but somewhat unfamiliar form. The enormous dragon landed on the outskirts of the mountain ring around the sect, creating an earthquake with her weight. Then, Yasenia easily moved her neck to coil around the mountain and look at her little darlings. She only needed to stretch her neck to reach the height at which her mansion was located.

Yasenia smiled, looking down, and then spoke softly, her ethereal and deep voice echoing in the surroundings. "I am back, my babies and darlings~."

Everyone in the house was looking up at the gigantic but beautiful dragon, and they just couldn't speak. The children were just too awe-struck to say anything, while Yasenia's lovers were too confused to say anything.

Yasenia blinked twice and asked. "What's wrong?"

As if something snapped, Evelyn blurted. "You have the gall to ask what's wrong!? That is my question! Why in Heaven's name are you bigger than the mountain we live on!?"

Yasenia laughed softly, her facial features looking attractive even in her dragon form. "Well, I ate something quite nice, and I ended up this big~. How is it? Nice?"

"WOAAAH!!!" Skye shouted, opening her arms. "SOO BIGGGG! HOW DID MOMMY BECOME SO BIGGGG!?"

All the dragon human children had their tails wagging fast enough to create a breeze behind them while their eyes roamed their mother's powerful-looking body.

Yasenia laughed. "Do you like Mommy being this big, babies?"

Everyone in the sect could listen to what Yasenia was saying. After all, due to her size, her voice traveled far and wide like a wave. Listening to her question, everyone felt their hearts burn with pure envy. The things people would give to have Yasenia as their parent could not be explained.

Estrella asked, her eyes glittering like the rest. "Has Mommy become stronger? You somehow feel much stronger!"

The dragoness raised her eyebrow. "Oh? My baby can tell that Mommy has become stronger! Well~, you are right. Mommy is now much stronger!"

Everyone in the sect almost spat blood. There was a rumor going around that three years ago, the Sect Master was already at the level of other world leaders. Now that she said she was much stronger, they just didn't want to imagine how powerful she was.

Of course, there was a swell of pride together with that helplessness. Yasenias was, at the end of the day, their Sect Master.

Seeing their Sect Master literally coiled around a freaking mountain and making it look small was just mind-blowing.

Tatyana finally spoke. "Okay... How did you change so much?" She was looking at the dragon up and down with wonderment in her eyes. "And I am not speaking about your body, Yasenias. What did you eat to change your soul so drastically?"

Angel frowned. "Huh? Her soul changed?"

Tatyana smiled. "Not in the replace sense. It's more like a transformation or upgrade. Don't worry; she is as much herself as she was before she left."

Angel nodded and looked upward with an adorable smile. "That's good!"

Yasenias giggled. "Very cute~. Don't worry, I am still me. Nothing has changed."

Andrea crossed her arms and smiled. "You are running ahead again, eh? Really, there is no catching up to you..."

Yasenias looked at Andrea and smirked. "Don't worry, Darling. I have something for you that you will love."

As Yasenias said that, the sky suddenly started to darken.

RUMBLE!

The dragoness frowned as the Heavenly Pressure fell on her, and she lifted her head skyward. "Why are you gathering, Heavens? I didn't do anything wrong, did I?"

Tatyana looked skyward and sighed. "As expected..."

Yasenias separated from the mountain, taking several steps and creating a tremor with each of them. If she was going to be struck by Heaven, she didn't want to be near her children.

Kali and the others approved above the mansion and dismounted the ship. Dianna saw Kali and jumped toward her. "Mama!"

Kali caught the horse-sized girl and laughed. "I am back, love."

Kali looked toward Yasenias, and Dianna asked. "What is happening, Mama? Is Mommy breaking through?"

Kali shook her head. "No. She isn't... Tatyana! Mirrory! What's wrong!?"

Mirrory appeared and looked upward. "It seems that Distancia's Heaven is not too fond of your lover."

Kali snorted. "I can see that. Why is it like that?"

Cecile and the others couldn't help but raise an eyebrow at Kali's authoritative tone.

Mirrory smirked. "It seems that it wasn't the dragon who was the only one to grow during these years." Then, she spoke seriously. "Yasenia's presence has become somewhat of a threat to the World. Therefore, Distancia is basically trying to boot her out of the World."

Cecile frowned. "Wait. Do you mean that Yasenia's overall strength has crossed the level of destroying continents?"

Mirrory squinted. "If the current Yasenia uses her entire strength and buffs it with Celestial Energy and the Celestial Pearl, she can probably break open a continent. Of course, not in a single blow, but it would honestly not take too long. Distancia's Heaven doesn't have enough spatial integrity to keep up with Yasenia's power. If the dragoness begins attacking left and right, she will probably end up creating a path to the [Abyss] and can involuntarily call over a few of those little buggers."

The girls were stunned and looked at the enormous dragon looking skyward in a defiant manner with a complicated look. Her strides were too wide. Year after year, the difficulty in keeping up was increasing.

Tatyana sighed and shouted. "Yasenia!"

The dragoness looked over and asked. "What is going on?"

Tatyana said. "You've become too strong. You can't stay on the planet's surface anymore."

Yasenia was baffled. "Ha? What do you mean?"

Tatyana shook her head, seeing the panic in Yasenia's eyes. "You can't be here. You need to go up to space. I have created-"

"I REFUSE!"

Yasenia's voice boomed outward, flattening several kilometers of forest around her. The dragoness spoke wrathfully, looking skyward. "YOU WANT TO KEEP ME AWAY FROM MY CHILDREN!? LET ME SEE YOUR WORST, HEAVEN!"

Answering her battle declaration, the sky shook with the loudest sound most creatures had ever heard.

RUUMBLE!!!

Chapter 1009: Yasenia vs Distancia's Heaven.

In the Astral Sky Sect, everyone with enough strength quickly flew upward above the mountains, intending to look at what was happening. The maids and highest-level elders of the sect saw that and frowned, wanting to intervene so that people didn't disrespect Yasenia. However, Tatyana's voice spread around the entire sect. "Don't stop them. We have nothing to hide. Whether Sect Master fails or succeeds, our sect's future will not be affected. We are the Astral Sky Sect, and we are proud to be under Lady Yasenia Dravory's leadership, regardless of her successes or failures. As a sect, we will respect the creator and first ancestor of our family and sect!"

Hearing Tatyana's strong announcement, everyone who flew up now had another kind of expression. They went from feeling curiosity to having a serious face.

Once they were at the top, everyone could easily see the massive Empyrean Dragon looking up at a gigantic Heavenly Tribulation. The sky was completely black, and the gathered clouds could be spotted from several hundreds of kilometers away. Even those in the Astral Sky City could see them.

It was at this moment that Yasenia's voice boomed outward, flattening several kilometers of forest around her. The dragoness spoke wrathfully, looking skyward. "YOU WANT TO KEEP ME AWAY FROM MY CHILDREN!? LET ME SEE YOUR WORST, HEAVEN!"

The shockwave from her roar was strong enough to push some people who were flying on their swords back. Seeing the openly defiant figure of their Sect Master when facing the all-powerful Heaven came as nothing but a shock for many.

The Heavenly Tribulation gathered an enormous bolt of tribulation lightning in the clouds that shook the sky, and then it threw it at Yasenia. Unlike a breakthrough tribulation, Heaven wouldn't warn of how many bolts or how strong they would be.

RUMBLE!

Seeing the lightning bolt that could literally flatten several mountains, everyone's faces became pale. Yasenia pushed against the ground, going onto her hind legs, and her energy flowed out, filling her entire body with her deep energy reserves.

When the massive dragon stood and clenched her fist, the aura around her exploded outward like a volcano erupting. Then, she punched upward. "[Nascent Star Burst]!"

A blinding white glow surrounded her fist, and the world around her exploded when she completed the motion.

BOOOM!

The space cracked for several kilometers, creating black lines that stretched around the impact point, and a gale razed everything down.

The formations on both Astral Sky City and Astral Sky Sect activated, protecting everyone.

Yasenia took two steps back, falling back down again. Then, instead of waiting for Heaven to attack again, she counterattacked. "Since you've brought war to me, don't blame me for retaliating! [War Intent Level 9], [Monarch Intent Level 9], [Celestial Intent Level 9]!"

Her auras merged together with finesse, increasing her strength several-fold as everything around her fell under her deep influence. "[Empyrean Galaxy Domain!]"

Between the black tribulation clouds and Yasenia, the phantom black night sky appeared together with the massive Sun, Moon, and spiral galaxy made out of thousands of stars.

Then, the dragoness activated [Celestial Cosmos Dress], and a blue transparent cloth surrounded her draconic body with cosmic imagery that gave her dragon form a regal look.

RUMBLE!

While Yasenia deployed her auras, the Heavenly Tribulation started raining down tens of Tribulation Lightning Bolts from the sky, each with more than enough strength to shatter mountains. However, the dragoness used her [Empyrean Galaxy Domain] to fight it back while she activated three more skills.

The first skill was [Celestial Assimilation]. With it, her energy intake increased exponentially, creating a literal energy vortex around herself.

Then, with that skill activated, Yasenia activated [Celestial Cosmos Body Reinforcement]. The energy gathering around her seeped into her scales, muscles, bones, and organs, multiplying her physical strength.

Finally, with those activated, the dragoness stomped the ground, creating tremors, and roared. "[INTERNAL CELESTIAL COSMOS IGNITION]!"

With her roar and skill activation, it felt like the world around Yasenia had collapsed.

BOOOOOOOM!

Her presence, stronger than ever, managed to bend the space around her own body. Everyone looking was horrified at Yasenia's strength, even the girls.

The children asked, baffled by seeing this figure of their mother for the first time. "I-Is that Mommy's true strength?"

Angel looked at Aurelia's awed face and giggled. "Yes. Your Mommy is very strong, isn't she?"

The Heavenly Tribulation's constant assault finally managed to pierce through Yasenia's [Empyrean Galaxy Domain], destroying both the massive Sun and Moon that were holding it off.

Then, the lighting bolts rushed at Yasenia. The dragoness opened her mouth. "Disappear! [Celestial Dragon Breath]!"

ROAAR!!

WHOOOM!

A beam blasted skyward, destroying everything in its way, including space. The galactic-blue-colored dragon breath was highly destructive.

Once it breached through the lightning bolts and attacked the sky, instead of piercing through, it actually exploded against the thick Tribulation Cloud Blanket.

BOOM!

RUMBLE!

The Heaven was clearly angered at Yasenia's attack. However, the dragoness was unsure if her attack had hurt it in the slightest. Yasenia flapped her gigantic wings and jumped, flying skyward.

Seeing the mountain-dwarfing dragon fly upward was a sight many here would probably never forget.

"Soluna! Draheart!"

The Empyrean Spirit appeared and landed on Yaseenia's head. Meanwhile, Draheart manifested and quickly melded with Yaseenia's body, armoring up her limbs, neck, and back. As a weapon, it also enhanced Yaseenia's arms.

The Heavenly Tribulation's lightning bolts started colliding with each other within the clouds before Yaseenia arrived, eventually creating one hundred Heavenly Tribulation Soldiers who raised their swords skyward and looked at Yaseenia.

Their size was not as large as the dragoness, but they were still around five hundred meters tall. Usually, they would've scaled up to her size, but that only occurred when fighting the breakthrough tribulation. In this one, Heaven was trying to kill Yaseenia, not test her.

ROAR!

The dragoness roared as the one hundred soldiers came at her. Then, she clawed forward, using [Sun Dragon Claw] and [Moon Dragon Claw] interchangeably.

The sky was instantly lit up with the rumbling and explosions of the battle. The one hundred Tribulation Soldiers battling the enormous dragon looked like a scene of legend.

Yaseenia and Soluna released a barrage of attacks against them, blasting them off, flying with each blow. Size-wise, it looked like finger-sized people fighting with a normal-sized human.

When one of them was hit squarely by the dragoness's tail strike toward the Astral Sky Sect, and once it collided against the barrier, the people realized the sheer size of the tiny-looking beings. Five hundred meters tall was tall enough to dwarf some small mountains, casting a bright glare on those spectating.

Yaseenia punched, kicked, used her body, and beamed them with her dragon breaths. Her attacks remained fluid and constant as she threw the Heavenly Tribulation Soldiers flying one after another.

"BEGONE! [COSMIC STAR NOVA]!"

BOOOM!

A white sphere of destruction exploded outward, blasting off all the Tribulation Soldiers. The dragoness looked skyward again and noticed that Heaven had not been sitting still all this time. Similar to her at first, it had been buying time.

Once she looked up, she noticed a beast-shaped Heavenly Lightning Bolt that was not smaller than herself. The enormous eastern dragon made out of pure lighting looked down at Yaseenia and roared with a thunderous sound.

Yaseenia roared back and flew at the descending dragon.

Both gargantuan beasts collided and opened up the sky.

BOOOM!

Yaseenia's enormous body flew down in the collision, smashing into the ground like a meteor. However, the dragoness was quick to get on her four legs and welcome the Eastern Dragon rushing at her. "ROAR!"

She used [Heavenly Constellation Steps: Pegasus Gallop], tackling the Eastern Dragon into the ground. Using her powerful body, she lunged forward while applying the second sky onto herself. [Ursa's Grasp] descended, further increasing her physical resilience and strength.

Then, they clashed again.

A claw strike landed on the Tribulation Dragon's face, smashing it into the ground again. While it was down, Yasenia felt danger from her side and quickly lowered one of her wings.

BOOM!

The long tail of the Tribulation Dragon smashed her side, moving her several steps to the right. Taking the chance, the Tribulation Dragon escaped Yasenia's grasp and opened its mouth, gathering energy.

Yasenia reacted quickly and followed through, releasing [Sun Dragon Breath].

WHOOM!

BOOM!

Both breaths collided, creating another explosion that rocked the earth. "Come here!"

Yasenia burst through the cloud, grabbing the Tribulation Dragon's face and biting its neck. "ROAR!"

The Tribulation Dragon coiled around Yasenia's waist, and while trying to claw her with its front legs, its body burst with powerful lightning bolts.

"ROAR!!!"

Yasenia's body tensed in pain as the Tribulation Lightning charred her scales. Her golden eyes flashed with ruthlessness and she headbutted the dragon with her horns.

BANG!

The Tribulation Dragon's head got blown back, simultaneously stopping the release of electricity that was charring Yasenia. Then, the dragoness took the chance to pierce into its body with her claws and lift it upward.

Once she lifted it above herself, Yasenia roared as she pulled opposite sides. "ROAAAR!!!"

The Tribulation Dragon roared in pain and thrashed around, trying to escape Yasenia's attempt to split it in half.

Soluna, on Yasenia's head, shook her head to clear her mind from the headbutt. Then, she looked upward and placed her hands together. "[Sun Beam]!"

BOOM!

She hit right in the middle where Yasenia was pulling and continued the beam attack. With that help, Yasenia released a roar-like scream and used all of her physical strength. "RRAAAH!!!"

RUMBLE!

The Tribulation Dragon was ripped apart in two halves, releasing a powerful burst of Tribulation Lightning with its death.

The dragoness fell down on her four limbs again, panting heavily, and her body filled with charring marks.

She looked upward again, her eyes defiant. However, she was stunned to find three more of those Tribulation Dragons on the clouds. Yasenia's eyes widened. "Huh?"

Tatyana suddenly appeared by Yasenia's side and smiled. "Love. That was a great battle. I am sure that you still can continue fighting, right?"

The dragoness looked at Tatyana and gritted her fangs. "I can."

Tatyana nodded and smiled. "However, love. You are not yet strong enough to challenge Heaven. At least, not when they are fighting with everything they have."

Yasenia looked skyward again and saw that Distancia's Heaven was actually waiting, not sending those three Tribulation Dragons down. Tatyana looked upward and smiled. "Distancia's Heaven knows that if it fights you, it will need a lot of energy. Therefore, they are giving you a chance right now. To leave."

Yasenia bit down hard, her aura turbulent. She asked through her gritted teeth. "I lost?"

Tatyana chuckled. "You did. You lost."

Yasenia lifted a claw, wanting to slam it downward. However, this was Astral Sky Sect's terrain. Her hit might damage things more than they already were. Instead, she placed it back down and looked at Tatyana. "Now what? Do I leave this world?"

Tatyana asked, her face serious. "What if you have to leave? What does that change?"

Yasenia complained with a whine. "I will only be able to see my darlings and babies from a distance..." Yasenia sighed and looked skyward. "Okay. You win, I'll leave."

The Tribulation Cloud didn't disappear. However, Yasenia could feel its aggressiveness dropping down. Soluna patted Yasenia's head and smiled. "Don't be sad, Yasenia. I can be outside your dantian more often if you feel lonely~."

Yasenia smiled weakly. "Thanks, Soluna." She then looked back toward her children and smiled widely. "Babies, Mommy will always be watching, okay?"

Estrella asked, her eyes widened. "M-Mommy, did you lose?"

Yasenia laughed softly. "Mommy lost. It seems that I am still not strong enough to beat the Heavens. However, that doesn't mean anything. I will just become stronger until I can, that's all."

She extended her wings and began flapping them, her body slowly lifting off. "Remember to work hard, okay babies?" Then, she said to the girls. "See you later, dears."

The girls smiled, looking at the dragoness with adoring eyes. Then, Yasenia flew up, and Tatyana followed behind.

Chapter 1010: Being Too Big Has Its Problems.

Seeing the massive dragon flying back to the sky, the children felt a painful pang in their hearts, not wanting to let her go. Skye shouted, a bit anxious. "Mommy!"

Tatyana smiled and spoke to them while she stood on Yasenia's head. "Don't worry, you will be able to see her soon."

Without further delay, fearing for Heaven retaliating, Yasenia flew upward and charged through the Tribulation Clouds. The Tribulation Lightning rolling in the clouds assaulted her body, giving her painful burns. Soluna pouted. "Why are they attacking? Didn't Yasenia admit defeat?"

Tatyana smiled. "Petty, truly. Can't even let her pass through without attacking."

Yasenia ignored everything without a single twitch on her face and passed through, elevating above them and reaching space once more. Her gigantic body was marred with burn marks and bleeding in some areas, but she didn't bother.

Soluna could see that with her spiritual sense. "You need a bit of healing, Yasenia. You are bleeding, right?"

Tatyana smiled and caressed Yasenia's head. Even with their size difference, her hand was easily noticeable. "Don't be so sulky, okay? I built something because I was expecting something like this would happen."

Yasenia chuckled, her voice calmer than Tatyana expected. "I am not sulking, don't worry. Also, what thing did you prepare?"

"Ho?" Tatyana didn't feel that Yasenia was lying and was somewhat surprised. "You are not as upset as I thought you'd be. Don't you fear being separated from your children?"

Yasenia chuckled. "It's not my first defeat. I am not upset about it." Then, she added. "Also, I have not lost yet; as long as I don't give up, I have not lost. While I am frustrated that I could not win, I accept that today, I was not strong enough to follow through. But eventually, it will be my victory. And I will constantly try to make that true."

Tatyana's lips arched, feeling glad that her daughter had such a way of looking at life. "If I were half as wise as you are at your age, my life would've been so much easier."

Yasenia answered softly. "Everything I know is something you taught in the past. Who I am today is in a large part thanks to you." The dragoness's tone became sweet and happy. "Thank you, Mom."

Tatyana paused, feeling her heart bubble with happiness, and she continued caressing Yasenia's head. "No problem, Little Treasure."

Yasenia stopped flying upward once she crossed the barrier of the world. Then, she turned around, looking at the massive world below her. Her vision was filled with the massive world's surface. It expanded wide enough that she needed to twist her head to look toward the edge she could see. "... It is really big."

Soluna nodded, floating around Yasenia's head. "Big! Very big!"

Yasenia felt so small and insignificant at the sight of the world that stretched everywhere she looked. She couldn't help but be doubtful. "Do I really have enough strength to damage... this?"

Tatyana explained softly. "Life is both resilient and fragile, love. Erasing life completely off the surface of a planet is difficult. However, destabilizing the current environment and creating a large extinction event is comparatively much easier. You are in that category. If you go on a rampage and start unleashing attacks worldwide, the current balance will eventually collapse. Of course, you can't really heavily damage this world with a single attack. The limit of strength that the Heaven takes into account consists of cultivation level and destructive power."

Yasenia blinked and asked with a laugh. "Then, can't I act like an orbital dragon? I can rain attacks from here and target certain sects, no?"

Tatyana burst into laughter. "That's an option. But if you do that, don't expect Heaven to be okay by having you so close to Distanica World. Even when staying here you would be met with attacks."

Yasenia tilted her head. "Here? Aren't we, like... what, 500,000 kilometers away from the world?"

Tatyana commented. "The attack range of Heaven varies a lot with their realm. However, Distancia's Heaven should be able to attack things that are 100,000,000 kilometers around the world."

Soluna giggled. "That's so far! No wonder you lost, Yasenia!"

Yasenia snorted and flicked Soluna with her claw. "I said I didn't lose! Losing only happens when you give up!"

Soluna flew away. "Wahhh! I am spinninnngg!"

Tatyana snorted a laugh. "Just don't be too stubborn to admit defeat from time to time, eh? You know that latching onto things is sometimes worse than losing them."

Yasenia nodded. "Don't worry. As I said, I have lost plenty of times before... I am not afraid of admitting defeat." The dragoness changed the subject. "So, what were you going to show me?"

Tatyana looked around and commented. "We will need to wait a little bit. Four hours? Somewhere around there."

Yasenia blinked. "Four hours? Sure, sure. Do I need to do anything in the meantime?"

Tatyana shook her head and floated down, stopping at Yasenia's eye level. "No need to. Let me teach you something in the meantime."

Yasenia blinked her massive eye and her pupils shrank to focus on the small human-sized woman. "What are you going to teach me?"

"Defense against small people."

Yasenia blinked twice, showing confusion. "What do you mean?"

Soluna returned and nodded twice. "Right, right! You can't bully people because of size!"

Yasenia giggled and gently flicked her away.

"Wahhhh! I am flying off againnnn!!!"

Tatyana laughed and said. "I am referring to people my size. Look, love, what if I do this?"

Yasenia saw Tatyana use her movement technique, quickly moving through space and entering her nose. "H-Hey! What are you doing there?"

Tatyana asked, standing on the walls of Yasenia's nose. "What would you do if I went deeper inside of you and tried to damage you from the inside?"

Yasenia commented, her voice strained. "I feel itchy when you walk, so don't stimulate too much if you don't want to be covered in boogers because of my sneeze, okay? Ugh... That's a sentence I never thought I would say"

Tatyana laughed. "Okay, okay."

Soluna shouted. "I am baaaack! Hm? Where is Tatyana?"

Yasenia sighed through her mouth. "She is inside my nose."

Soluna burst into laughter. "That sounds so fun! I also want to go in!"

She quickly flew, and Yasenia just sighed again. Of course, through her mouth to avoid blowing Tatyana out.

Soluna quickly found Tatyana and smiled. "Oh! Hello, Tatyana! What are you doing here?"

Tatyana smiled back and explained. "I am going to teach Yasenia how to protect against attacks from the inside. After all, imagine all the damage you could do if you start digging here and there or going further inside."

Soluna's eyes widened. "Ohhh! That's actually so dangerous! Yasenia, you need to listen well."

Yasenia smiled. "Okay, okay. Now, tell me how it goes."

Tatyana nodded and spoke to Yasenia. "Little Treasure, when you have people trying to enter your body through your nose, you have a few options. The first option is to release a dragon breath through your nose. If the people you were fighting were around your level in strength, eating a concentrated dragon breath would certainly kill them or at least shoot them out of your nose or mouth."

Yasenia agreed. "I see. So, there is no trick or technique for expelling people?"

Tatyana smiled. "The second way to blast people inside of you is using your soul. Any attack like a [Sun Dragon Roar] or something that increases the energy production inside of you will heavily damage them. After all, when your energy goes through the meridians and such, concentrated and isolated, you can control it. Similar to the stomach acid. However, once that goes outside its intended container, it becomes lethal."

Yasenia blinked. "So, when someone tries to go inside my body, I just increase my aura as much as I can and use my wide area skills like [Cosmic Sun Nova], [Sun Dragon Roar], or even my Assimilation skills to flood my insides with energies."

Tatyana nodded. "Yeah. You are vulnerable if someone manages to get inside of you. However, they are more vulnerable than you are."

Yasenia hummed. "I see."

Tatyana smiled. "To be honest, there are some techniques to defend against that. However, they are somewhat useless. I will teach you two, though. The first one is a defensive skill called [Dragon Veil]. It creates an invisible veil around your body, orifices, and such that blocks those trying to enter inside you. This skill was created after a few dragons got killed because cultivators sneaked around and entered through their orifices, killing them from the inside."

Tatyana flew out of the nose and landed on Yasenia's forehead. "Here, learn it."

Tapping her forehead, she used the mind-teaching skill, passing down the skill directly into Yasenia's brain. Soluna landed by Tatyana's side and asked. "What's the second skill?"

Tatyana waved her hand, invoking a scroll. Soluna blinked. "Huh? A Cultivation Skill Scroll? Where did you get it from?"

"I wrote it myself. Any other person attempting to use this would be nothing but suicide. However, for you, this skill is actually quite valuable. It is called [Spiritual Yin and Yang Flow]."

Yasenia used her spiritual sense to see the summary of the description, but she was baffled. "A skill that allows my body to change my Yang and Yin energies with each other? No wonder you said it was suicide for other people. Destabilizing the Yin and Yang balance inside a person is very dangerous."

After being with her for so many years, Soluna knew quite a lot about Yasenia. Therefore, she exclaimed. "Oh! But with Yasenia's [Celestial Yin and Yang Body] being able to balance them, even if you destabilize them for a second, your body will turn everything back to normal without breaking a sweat!"

Tatyana smiled. "Using this skill can change your body into a temporary extreme Yang constitution or extreme Yin constitution. Those inside of you will either burn or freeze to death. However, be careful with it. This skill has great potential, but it all depends on how you use it."

Yasenia nodded, understanding where Tatyana was going with her warning. She smiled and nudged her with her head. "Thanks."

Tatyana smiled and looked toward the distance. "Now, let's wait for a bit. It is almost here."

Yasenia didn't move much, reading the skill in the meantime to start studying it. After around three hours, Tatyana patted Yasenia twice, garnering her attention. "It is here, Little Treasure."

Yasenia looked over and saw a massive gray and white palace floating toward her. "Huh? What's that?"

Tatyana laughed, looking at it. "Well, that is the [Spatial Astral Sky Sect]. It is where we will live from now on. I still need a few more touches in the teleportation formation to make it safe. But other than that, it is perfectly functional. The problem is that, well, we will have to defend it manually from space hazards, as Distanica's Heaven will probably just stand by even if a massive Star Beast comes to nom us."

Yasenia laughed. "I see. Well, there are pros and cons to everything. At least I can see my babies there."

Tatyana smiled. "Let's go."
