Chapter 691 Molly gives Anthony proper burial after death

Anthony still remembered when she left that day, Mavis smiled and wished him, "I also wish you a successful blind date."

...

Anthony stared at the screen of his mobile phone in a trance. Thinking about it now, Mavis' sudden resignation might have something to do with going home on a blind date.

He quickly restrained his thoughts, tapped the screen and replied to the director.

[Don't need to do that. When she settles her salary, she will pay as much compensation as she should according to the normal resignation procedures.]

Director: [Mr. Anthony, she submitted her resignation letter, and her resignation statement included personal reasons. In this case, financial compensation should not be given.]

Anthony: [I said, settle as normal.]

A few simple words can make the director clearly feel his displeasure and majesty.

The director replied in seconds, [Okay.]

Deleting the chat box, Anthony was about to put down his phone when another text message popped up.

It was from an unfamiliar number.

[Mr. Callahan, I'm Nevaeh. Are you free at noon today? I want to invite you to dinner. Yesterday, because of my mood, my tone may have been a bit aggressive and my attitude towards you was a little unfriendly. I want to apologize to you in person. Is that okay?]

Seeing the word "Nevaeh", Anthony frowned almost immediately, and the disgust in his eyes could hardly be hidden.

He tapped the screen. Out of courtesy, he had to reply, [No time.]

Nevaeh: [cry.jpg]

Nevaeh: [Mr. Callahan, you're a gentleman. Please don't reject me. It's just a light meal.]

[After I went back yesterday, my dad gave me a hard time. I apologize to you for my ignorance before. Would you give me a chance to explain it in person?]

[My family is very strict in manner. If I don't see you, my dad will beat me to death!]

The phone rang non-stop, and Anthony frowned as he read, getting a little annoyed by the noise.

Anthony only learned this morning that Mavis had resigned from the aquarium three days ago. He didn't expect to see her here, let alone work as a waiter at the Yana Hotel.

Mavis grabbed the apron nervously with both hands, maintaining a posture of lowering her head, "This matter... It's a long story and a bit complicated."

Nevaeh, who was next to her, quickly realized that the three people knew each other, but she refused to accept, "Molly, this woman looks about my age, maybe even a year or two older than me. But you actually call me auntie?"

Although this waitress was beautiful, she was too ordinary no matter how people looked at it, and was completely incomparable with the daughter of the Stone family.

Molly hummed, "I don't value the face most but heart. Mavis has a good heart and is a little fairy. And Mavis looks better than you."

Nevaeh scowled, "You mean, she has a good heart, but I have a bad heart?"

Molly raised a small eyebrow.

"I didn't say that. If you insist, auntie, I can't help it."

Nevaeh was speechless. She was the daughter of the Stone family but not as good-looking as a mere waitress. Molly were blind, right?

But she already knew Moll 's identity, she didn't retort but chose to remain silent.

Molly jumped from Anthony's arms, ran to Mavis, and took Mavis's hand, "I went to the aquarium this morning, but I didn't see you. My godfather said you are going back to your hometown, and you probably won't come back again. But I meet you here."

Over the past few years, Mavis had taken great care of Molly's little dolphin in the aquarium.

And Anthony told Molly that Mavis saved her from falling into the water when she was more than one year old, so Molly had always regarded Mavis as an elder sister and a big friend all these years.

Mavis bent over and touched Molly's little head, and liked her too.

Molly: "Why do you work as a waitress here? Are you lack of money? My daddy, mommy and godfather are very rich. Mavis, you can play with me."

"This..." Mavis smiled awkwardly.

Mavis was startled and shook her head hastily, "No, no."

Molly covered her mouth and smiled, "If it's not true, why are you blushing? Are you shy?"

Molly exposed it, and Mavis lowered her head and stopped talking.

Seeing her reaction, anyone with a discerning ability could guess whether she was interested in Anthony.

Not to mention Anthony himself.

After thinking about it, Anthony turned his head and asked Molly who was in the seat next to him, "Momo, do you like Mavis?"

Molly nodded and said, "I like her. She's very good to me. If you let Mavis be my future godmother, I agree."

"Godmother?" Mavis didn't expect it to be that far, and was suddenly mentioned by Molly. She was inexplicably nervous, and her eyes kept blinking.

Anthony was looking up at her.

Mavis had been seen at the aquarium from time to time over the years, but Anthony had never taken a close look at her face.

After taking a serious look at this moment, he realized that although this girl was not stunningly beautiful at first glance, she was very attractive.

It seemed to be getting better and better.

She had blonde hair. And she was fair-skinned, tall, and wearing a waitress black apron will not make people look down on her.

Her cheeks were flushed from shyness, and her fingertips touched the blond hair around her ears from time to time, which was a bit sexy on closer inspection.

Anthony narrowed his eyes slightly, looked at Mavis, and then glanced at Molly, secretly having an idea.

"Miss Mavis, although I don't know if the man you've been looking for all these years is me, but I know I've seen you in Teflayria, right?"

Mavis didn't speak.

He continued, "I've been on a blind date lately, and you know that too."

Mavis lowered her head lower, "Yes, I know."

"I wonder if you're interested in me?"

"Hey, they have been gone for a few minutes. Are you so reluctant to part?"

Nevaeh walked to Mavis's side, held her hands arrogantly, restrained her displeasure, and smiled at her.

Mavis regained her senses and turned her head to meet Nevaeh's eyes.

After all, the working day as a waitress was not over yet, so she bowed politely to Nevaeh, "Is there any need for you?"

"I can't talk to you if I don't need anything? You kidnapped my engagement partner. Are you still reasonable?"

Mavis argued, "I remember Mr. Anthony said just now that he and you were only on a blind date, and you haven't developed to the point of engagement. Besides, in the room just now, you saw that it was Mr. Anthony who was going to pull me away. I was not me kidnapping him."

Nevaeh stared at her coldly for a long time, and didn't answer.

Mavis: "You don't have anything in need, then I'll go to work first."

After insisting on the last day, she planned to resign after a while.

After all, she had only worked for three days, and if the restaurant wasn't going to pay her, she didn't want it anyway.

It was the best news that she could date Anthony tomorrow.

She turned her head and wanted to leave, but just two steps away, Nevaeh stopped her and asked gently, "Looking at your appearance, you are not from Crana, but you came here to work from another country?"

"This is my personal business, not yours."

"It has nothing to do with me, but I just ask you kindly." Nevaeh approached her and continued to whisper, "You can come out to be a waitress. It seems that your financial situation is not very good. I just heard that you are going to date Anthony. He is the man in power from a big family. Do you know the rules for dating him?"

"What rules?"

Mavis really didn't understand. Could it be that in Crana's upper class and wealthy families, even dating was required?

'I have more experiences than you', Nevaeh patted Mavis's shoulder earnestly.

Molly imitated him and spoke in a low voice, "Let's accompany Spencer together. You always escape like this. It's not a good way. We should apologize when we should. We should admit our mistakes when we should. One day, he will be touched by you and will forgive you!"

Anthony's face paled a little bit and he rubbed the back of her small head, "This is not something that can be solved by an apology. Let me think of other ways."

Molly pursed her lips and said, "Do you want to escape?"

Anthony stopped talking.

He just... didn't figure out how to deal with the Spencer the kid.

Every time he saw Spencer in his bed, which looked so cute and sickly, he felt like he was terribly sinful and powerless.

This will frustrate him.

"Anthony." Molly grabbed his arm and swayed it back and forth, "Go in with me. Sometimes when Daddy makes mistakes, Mommy doesn't want to pay attention to him."

"Daddy will keep pestering her. In order to please Mommy, he will do everything, and almost make a scene."

Molly covered her mouth and snickered, and said slyly, "Why don't you buy a durian? If my brother doesn't want to forgive you, you will kneel on the durian shells. My brother will be very moved!"

Anthony was speechless.

There was no reason in this world for a godfather to kneel to his godson.

Even if this relationship was put aside, there was no reason for the elders to kneel to the younger.

But compared to this, he was more curious about Molly's thoughts, "How could you think of kneeling on durian shells to admit my mistake? Your father... Did he do it?"

Molly shook her head honestly, "I don't know. When Mommy fixes Daddy, the door is closed. I have never seen it before. The sound insulation of their door is very good. I was close to the corner but I didn't hear any sound."

Anthony couldn't help but scowl a little.

Peeling durian by hands?

Anthony was startled.

The durian was full of spikes, and it was almost impossible to peel it off by hands without the help of tools.

There was no smile on Molly's face. She originally thought that her brother would just bully her godfather a little.

Who would have known that her brother made such a ruthless request.

She weakly tugged at Spencer's sleeve, "Spencer, durian is difficult to peel, right? If he peels it with his hands, it will bleed a lot, right?"

Spencer frowned. A hint of irritability flashed on his little face, "If you can't fulfill my request, you can leave immediately, and don't bother me again in the future."

"No, since I promised you, I will definitely finish it."

A warm smile appeared on Anthony's face.

Spencer glanced at the gentle smile on his face, snorted, had his little hands crossed, and turned his head to look out the window, "Then peel it off."

Anthony took the durian out of the bag and observed it for a while, wondering where to start.

Spencer, who had an inhuman expression, had a hard-hearted look.

He shook his head and laughed. Spencer was so much like Malcolm.

At such a young age, he can come up with such ruthless tricks.

If Molly was like a glutinous rice ball filled with bean paste, then Spencer was a whole bowl of black sesame paste.

It was as expected of a Malcolm's gene.

He sighed inwardly and began to try to peel the durian.

There were too many thorns, the durian shell was hard, and the strength of the fingers had no place to exert.

Molly watched nervously and helped him observe the durian.

"Is it difficult to peel? Or forget it. I don't want to eat durian. I will think of another way next time to make Spencer forgive you."

In the hallway, Anthony tore off the disposable gloves and observed the injury on his hand. He was about to go downstairs when he met Lyra who was coming back from the bathroom. Lyra had finished the video conference. In order not to bring the bacteria on the mouse to the baby, she washed her hands and disinfected before returning to the ward. When she met Anthony head-on, she almost immediately saw the blood on Anthony's hand. And when Anthony wanted to hide his hand behind him, it was too late.

"You are hurt?"

Anthony smiled lightly and replied, "Nothing serious. I fell on the way here."

Lyra was keenly aware of the unusual, "With your skills, even if you got slippery, you won't be injured like this. Won't you say there are nails on the ground when your hand hits the ground when you fall?"

"You know me well." He laughed.

"Laboratory security measures and cleanliness are super-class. There are no sharp objects like nails on the ground. You don't usually lie to me like this. What's going on?"

Anthony smiled, "I can't hide anything from you."

After a few minutes.

The door of the ward was opened slowly.

Spencer, who was frantically eating durian, threw the small half of the durian flesh in his hand into the trash in one second, and wiped off the traces on the corner of his mouth.

It was Lyra who was coming in.

Although Spencer moved quickly, he still couldn't hide it from Lyra.

"Mommy, have you finished the meeting? Actually, there's no need to hurry. The work is very important. I am used to the infusion. I can do it alone."

Lyra didn't speak, and walked over to his bed with a calm expression.

Her eyes inadvertently landed on the corner of his small mouth, and there were residues of durian flesh on it. And the stench of durian wafted throughout the room.

He obviously liked eating durian so much. Why did he throw away the half of the unfinished piece when he saw her coming in?

Chapter 698 The innocent who enters the den

Mavis went to the counter and browsed through all these items.

The prices of cheapest watches ranged from a few thousand to ten thousand.

There were hundreds of thousands, or even millions.

She quietly turned on her mobile phone and used search engine to check some relevant information about Anthony.

He was a rich and handsome entrepreneur and she did searched his related news.

Mavis found the official website of the Callahan Group and the official picture of the CEO, and paid close attention to the watch on Anthony's wrist.

It seemed to be a diamond strap. Although the pointer was not clear, it should also be of precious material and valuable.

She was afraid it was a watch costed a million dollar.

If she bought a watch of several thousand dollars, did it seem too casual and too cheap?

But she didn't even dare to think about those famous and expensive watches.

She quickly gave up her desire to buy a watch.

Next, wallet, perfume...

After shopping for more than half an hour, Mavis finally selected a men's eau de toilette from the luxury brand JG, which was priced at 59,999.99 at the counter.

Mavis counted it seriously.

It was not ridiculously expensive like a watch. Anthony didn't appear to be wearing perfume when they met at noon today.

If she bought one for him, it was just right.

Mavis took a few glances at the perfume, and after being scorned by the shopping guide several times, she tried the top notes, middle notes, and back notes of the fragrance.

It was elegant, fragrant and noble.

When she was appreciating this perfume, the shopping guide said euphemistically, "Miss, if you don't buy it, don't try it again. This is the main hit this season. Only the last bottle is left in stock. After the last bottle is sold out, I'm afraid the next purchase will be in a few months."

Mavis became more and more determined to buy this perfume, "Then please keep the last bottle for me. I will definitely come and buy it tonight. Even if I don't come tonight, I will definitely come and buy it tomorrow morning at the latest!"

The sound of water in the bathroom stopped.

Anthony came out of the bathroom in a baggy dark gray bathrobe, half-raised his strong arms, and wiped his wet short hair with a towel.

Those delicate azure blue eyes looked lazy. With a high nose and noble facial features like an exotic prince, he was charming to the extreme when he smiled.

The water droplets that were still on the body were making him even more abstinent.

Every time after he took a shower, he wore a bathrobe that was tightly wrapped, and never used a towel to cover his waist.

It was not because of his bad figure, but because of the beatings and tortures he had suffered, leaving scars on his body that can never be removed.

He hated his ugly body and didn't even want to look at it. When he looked in the mirror, he must be wearing his clothes and only look at his face.

Ring ring -

It was a text message.

Anthony inadvertently lowered his eyes and glanced at it. He didn't care much at first, but a few special words caught his attention.

It was from an unknown number, but the text message mentioned Mavis.

Anthony picked up his phone and took a look.

[I heard that you and Mavis are going on a date tomorrow, but do you really know that woman? She doesn't deserve it at all. Come to Club Enchant on Central Street. I'll let you see with your own eyes how cheap she is behind your back...]

Anthony frowned. His expression was solemn.

The tone of the text message...

The only person who knew that he took Mavis away at the restaurant during the day was Nevaeh.

Club Enchant was where the people of upper class hang out, so why did Mavis go there?

Realizing that the matter here was not simple, Anthony's blue eyes were cold and gloomy. He turned around and entered the changing room, and quickly changed into his clothes for going out.

He left home and drove to the club

As soon as he arrived at the door of the club, he saw a slender figure standing under the neon sign at the door.

It was Nevaeh.

Chapter 700 If you bully her, I will bully you

Originally, he just thought that this woman was very simple, even a little silly, and he could talk about the conditions in the future with her and deal with her as a marriage partner.

He didn't expect her to be so brave, and she could be confrontational in that kind of environment. It was him who underestimated her.

With gloomy blue eyes, he turned and left the monitoring room. Nevaeh got up and stopped in front of him again.

"You don't like her, so why care about her so much? This is her choice, and you should respect her."

"Get out."

Nevaeh was stunned. For the past few days, although Anthony's attitude was indifferent, he had not been rude yet. Was he really angry?

As she was thinking, Anthony suddenly grabbed her neck and squeezed tightly.

Nevaeh blushed because of that, tried to break his hand, but her strength was not worth mentioning in front of Anthony.

"Kill...kill me, do you dare?"

She was the daughter of Stone Group. This was the monitoring room of Club Enchant, and there was staff. She was sure that Anthony will not dare.

Anthony couldn't really do anything to her in public, but that didn't stop him from squeezing his fingers around Nevaeh's neck.

He grabbed at Nevaeh's neck. Looking sullen, he whispered in her ear,

"Don't mess with me. My patience is limited."

"Someone once praised me as a pervert, lunatic, beast, scum..."

"After all, I'm crazy. I'm not a human being. If you want to see it, I'll make it for you."

The light words were filled with coldness, and his sinister eyes couldn't help but make others question the truth of these words. Just by looking at him a few times, she would be frightened with chills.

He coldly loosened the shackles on Nevaeh, and Nevaeh fell to the ground in fright, losing her strength and not recovering for a while.

This man was so scary, so scary...

On the surveillance screen, Mavis scratched while pinching the broken bottle, and had already scratched two or three men who were trying to get close. The scene was getting more and more out of control.

Anthony opened the door and left the surveillance room, heading to the private room displayed on the surveillance camera.

It was 0555 VIP private room.
