

Chapter 17

I left sin at the waterfall where he followed me to, I got back and tried to sleep but the image of the man in my dreams kept visualising in my head keeping me awake all night.

Sin eventually came back, walking to our camp setting looking at me the whole time, but I pretend like I didn't see him.

Eventually the sun rose and the day clear and I still didn't get any sleep.

"Wake up sleepy heads!" Sin yelled getting everyone to wake up, "he have to keep moving" he said.

They groggily stood up as we made our way to the nearest stream to freshen up while Lukas and Henry went hunting for breakfast.

We took a little while to roast the deer they caught, surviving in the wild means we have to adapt to nature as quickly as possible.

After our little meal we continued our journey, walking through fallen branches and leaves crackling as we walked passed, the sound of birds above gave us a glimpse of nature and the beauty side of it.

Not knowing where we were actually headed made our journey alot more complicated and difficult to accomplish.

"Where are we right now?" Lukas questioned sin with intent.

Sin turning backwards to glance at Lukas for a few seconds before turning back sparked a blend of displeasure and disdain causing the atmosphere around to become tensed.

Sin stretched his hands back without looking back and snarled "Here, you can see for yourself".

Rissa walking beside me whispered "what's that all about" she said with concern laced through her face, I shrugged raising my hands to the air.

"I asked where we are, I didn't ask for the map" lukas pouted causing sin to halt, he growled, his eyes red as his wolf took over grabbing lukas by the shirt.

"Who the fuck do you think you are?" Sin snarled in his alpha voice.

Adonis, Henry, and Nico from behind us ran past us to separate them before it escalated.

Adonis grabbing hold of sin "calm down sin" he said patting his back gently, Lukas eyes glowed bright blue as he growled, his fangs elongated, pushing Henry and nico to the side, he picked up a tree branch to hit sin, but before he could rissa held the stick and yelled "stop!" Her voice echoed through the forest as birds flew from the branches they perched on.

"Just stop" her voice trembling "it's the fucking forest that's coming between you two, I've felt a strong presence ever since we arrived" she said calming the tension between sin and lukas.

Sin's heavy breathing slows down as he tries to calm his wolf "stay out my way" he scowled at Lukas before moving forward.

Lukas panting heavily, drops the stick on his right arm and rubs his palms together getting the dirt out as he adjusts his clothes before moving along.

I widened my eye with a shark of the head before walking.

We continued walking in the forest, for over 30 mins, sweat dripping from everyone's face as sin's comes to a halt, raising his hand up signaling we should stop.

"What's the matter?" Adonis asked sin,

"Shhh, listen" he said, we stopped and focused, with our enhanced hearing ability we could hear a loud noise from a mile away coming towards us.

"What do we do now?" Henry asked, "we move with caution, something could be heading towards us" sin said firmly.

We took a few steps forward, and the thumping sound got even closer putting us on a high alert.

I took out my sword from my pack, even though I finally met my wolf, my skills with a sword were as deadly as my wolf.

Standing in a combat position, moving slowly, sin paved way through a bush and we could see a big monster running at us in full motion.

"Run!" sin yelled as we spread apart running in different directions, I ran back from where I came from, glancing back with the sword on my hand I see a giant black monster with red eyes, a lot of hair, sharp claws and teeth pacing at me.

I throw my sword at it which it dodges still running angrily at me, I instantly shift to my wolf running faster but it proved faster as it caught up to me in a matter of seconds.

I got to the end of a cliff and stopped, turning to see the monster running at me with full speed, the adrenaline raising in my body as my heart pounded in my chest.

I stretch forth my hands out of pure instincts and yell out the words "muate uante" and the monster stopped in its tracks, turned and ran away like it was scared.

I shift back, panting for air and holding my chest at the edge of a cliff as everyone ran towards me to holding me.

"How on earth did you do that?" Sin said with his eyes widened.

"I have no clue" I replied

"Your wolf is freaking white?" Adonis said as his mouth hanged open, so did rissa and nico.

"When were you going to tell me about this? Rissa said still in total shock.

"Are you alright?" Henry asked giving me a hand as I rest on my knees.

"It's gone now we have to move before it comes back." Lukas groaned.

As we were about to move a spirit appeared before us, it was the spirit of the woman we seeked.
