

Her Mates Her Protectors Chapter 15

Alpha Joel couldn't stop staring at London and Lermox as he guided them around a separate quarter where they would be temporarily residing.

"This is the sitting room, this house has about three bedrooms; guess that should be enough for your temporary stay? Alpha Joel told them.

"Should be. We'll manage it, but I want to know why your living condition is poor, other packs are more civilized than this What happened? Is your pack not registered?" Lennox turned to Alpha Joel and raised the question.

"Our pack is registered, but I heard from my father that our pack had a fallout with the other packs because our pack protected the Lycans during the last war"

"Protected the Lycans London frowned at the news,

"Yes, your Highness, that's what everyone thinks, but that's not all to the story. Our pack never protected the Lycans; a young she-wolf who fell in love with a Lycan protected and hid him in her parent's house during the war. When the rest of the pack got to know about this, it was already too late. The Lycan had already died from the injuries he sustained while fighting. This caused the other packs to hate us"

They distanced themselves from us since then. We had no choice; we had to respect their wish even if it wasn't our fault." Alpha Joel completed the story.

It's your fault. Could have done the same in their shoe; how did a Lycan get into the pack unnoticed? The Lycans are our sworn enemies; you should be more careful in the future," London advised

"Yes, your Highness, you are right. This is why we've taken extra measures in guarding the pack's borders and all its entrances. In Starlight Pack, there are no strangers; we are all familiar with each other; whenever we see a strange face, we are quick to investigate them," Alpha Joel explained.

"Good. We would like to see the pack members tomorrow morning. Can you make it happen?" Lennox inquired

"Tomorrow morning?"

"Yes. Can you make it happen?"

"Yes, of course. I will make an announcement," Alpha Joel agreed

“Yes, tell them that we are here to see them. After we meet with the pack members, we’ll send words to the Alpha of other packs. We have to leave the past behind us,” London told him.

“No, do not tell them about us. Tell them that an important guest is around. Do not reveal our identity to them,” Lennox chipped in again.

“Huh? Why?” London turned his attention to Lennox.

“Just do as I said.”

“Yes, your Highness, I’ll take my leave now, but I’ll be back by morning to escort you to the pack house,” Alpha Joel bowed deeply again before drawing back.

“Why did you say that? Why did you ask him not to reveal our identity?” London turned to Lennox the moment Alpha Joel stepped out of the house,

“Chesney. If she learns of our arrival, then she might try to escape: she’s hiding from us. She won’t be happy when she learns that we are here,” Lennox explained

“Oh, that’s true. I didn’t think of that. But why is she hiding from us? Why is she so angry? I still can’t understand. I don’t know what we did wrong” London’s face suddenly turned sad as he said.

“We’ll have to ask her when we find her. But I think that she might have misunderstood us or our actions. We must find her and explain things to her. We must find her. Lennox stated, his mood darkening

“What should we do tonight? Should we patrol the pack for any possible sign of her? What do you think?” London suggested.

“You think we should search for her?”

“Yes, let’s move around and see the pack and its people for ourselves. We might also run into Chesney”

“Okay, let’s do that”

The minute Alpha Joel arrived at the pack house, some of the pack members who lived in the pack rushed to welcome him.

“Alpha Joel, you are welcome. Did you meet the person you went to see? One of the elders questioned him.”

“Yes, I was able to meet him”

“Who is the man you went to meet, Alpha! Do we have to prepare ourselves?”

“Yes, you have to. There were two of them. Not one. They also want to meet the rest of you,” Alpha Joel announced.

Really? Are they important people?” Lady Rose gasped and quizzed.

“Yes, they are. You should get ready to meet them tomorrow morning: please spread the word; Alpha Joel informed.

He looked around the crowd, and when he couldn't find Chesney, he turned his attention to Lady Rose. “I can't find Chesney: do you know where she is?”

“Luna Chesney? Luna Chesney is in her room. She's been in her room for hours now; you should check up on her,” Lady Kose told him.

Thank you,

Rose, I'll go to her now.” He turned towards the path that led to her room. stopped him.

“Alpha Joel, what about the party? We were unable to complete the setup due to your sudden request to halt all activities. How are you planning to celebrate Luna Chesney's birthday?”

“Yes, I asked you to put everything on hold because of our sudden visitors. It's not too late, we should be able to celebrate her when our guest leaves the pack.”

“Oh, that's true,” Lady Rose shook her head, a huge smile on her round face.

“Please keep everything safe until it's time.”

“Yes, I will, Alpha.”

Alpha Joel turned and left for Chesney's room; he knocked on her door the minute he reached, and she opened the door a few seconds later.

Alpha Joel, you are back, Chesney smiled and opened the door wider to let him in.

"Yes," Alpha Joel returned her smile as he stepped into the room his eyes swept around the room and finally settled on Wyall, who was sitting on the bed.

"Come on, Wyatt, greet the Alpha, Chesney immediately said to her son.

"Hello, Alpha, welcome back." Wyatt got down from the bed and approached Alpha Joel.

Alpha Joel smiled and lifted him into his arms.

"How're you doing, boy?" Alpha Joel softly asked.

I'm doing great.

"Did you play a lot today?"

"No, I read a lot today. Sometimes reading is just better." Wyatt's response had Chesney and Alpha Joel laughing.

"Good. You're a smart boy. I trust that you'll be a great leader tomorrow." Joel ruffled his hair before dropping him to his feet.

"Please have your seat, Alpha. Wyatt, go tell Lady Maria to prepare the Alpha's dinner, Chesney ordered her son.

"Okay, mom, I'll be back." Wyant ran out of the room, and Chesney closed the door.

"You have something to tell me," Chesney came to stand before Alpha Joel as soon as she closed the door. "What is it? Tell

"How do you know I have something to say?" Alpha Joel asked, seeming genuinely surprised.

She chuckled and lowered her gaze. "I've been with you for more than three years; I know how you look when you have something to say. You have something to tell me, but you don't know how to go about it. Tell me, I'm listening. Chesney encouraged

"No matter what it is, I won't judge you or feel bad about it, so feel free to say it

"Hm," Alpha Joel took his gaze down, then brought it up again, "Actually. I have a question for you"

"What is it? Ask me," she urged.

"About Wyatt's father, you said that he is dead. Are you sure that he is truly dead?"

His sudden question made Chesney's heart pick a different pace. I know my question is weird, and I shouldn't be asking, but I need to be sure about something. I saw something today, something very shocking."

"What did you see?"

"I saw someone that looks like Wyatt. Or rather, I saw a carbon copy of Wyatt I couldn't believe it at first, and I concluded that my eyes must be deceiving me, but the patrol guards saw it too."

"Who did you see, Alpha Joel? Can you tell me this person's identity? Chesney moved closer to him and inquired

"I saw... I saw..." Alpha exhaled in and out. Reluctant to break his promise to the twins.

"Alpha Joel, did you see the twins?" When she saw his hesitation, Chesney had to ask. The minute she asked him this question, Alpha Joel's eyes widened; he drew closer to her and held her by her arm

"Chesney"

"Yes?"

"How do you know them? How do you know the twins?"

"I met the twins a long time ago in my old pack. I've seen them before, Chesney narrated.

in.

“Gosh, for a moment... For a moment, I thought Wyatt belonged to one of them. I’m glad he’s not. I’m really glad. I don’t know what I could have done... Anyway, I’m glad Alpha Joel smiled, and Chesney chuckled.

“But... I have a favor I need to ask you, Alpha.”

“Right, what is it? Tell me,” Alpha Joel returned his full attention to her again.

“I can’t let the twins see me or Wyatt. You said they are Wyatt’s carbon copy, is that right?”

“Yes.”

“I can’t let them see Wyatt. It might put us in a tight spot.

What?!

“Please. I know my request is difficult, but it’s necessary. I can’t let them see my son. I don’t know their temperament; they might take him from me if they see him. I don’t want that.”

I don’t want that either,” Alpha Joel shook his head in agreement

“I can also leave the pack; I can leave the pack tonight and go somewhere else until they leave Just for safety measures.” “No, you can’t leave the pack tonight. You might run into them if you leave.”

“Are you sure that it won’t put you in a difficult situation? Leaving the pack entirely is the best option. You might get punished if they discover this”

“How will they discover it? Luckily for us, you are not a registered member of the pack; they won’t discover this. You’ll be escorted to the underground basement around 4:00 am tomorrow; make preparations. Provisions will also be made for you and Wyatt “Okay, thank you, Alpha.

“You are welcome; I need to leave now. I need to announce this to the pack members, I’m sure they’ll be shocked when they see the twins. I’ll ask them not to act surprised: I’ll also ask them not to mention you. I’ll explain things to them”

“Thank you so much.”

“Goodnight Chesney.”
