

Her Revenge 121

Chapter 121

Alfred gently lifted her chin, leaning down until their eyes met. His gaze was filled with tenderness and concern. "The good. Your body hasn't fully recovered yet, and you're already exhausted." He worried about her health, and her youthful appearance only heightened his concern. "I don't want our first experience to be rushed. I want it to be a good one for you."

Lea's face was flushed, red as a ripe cherry, her breath catching in her throat from embarrassment. She leaned into his embrace, resting her forehead against his chest, listening to the steady beat of his heart. She murmured a soft "okay" nodding slightly, her voice barely audible.

Alfred was also struggling.

ing. With her obedient and deeply affectionate expression, the soft, delicate person in his arms felt like a fire burning him from within, making him restless. They stayed in that position, slowly calming down together.

Alfred glanced at her computer and asked, "Do you nu still need to look i ok up information?

"Yeah, this matter was too crucial" Lea was determined to finish it as soon as possible, even if it meant staying up all night or for several days and nights.

"Alright, I'll stay with you." he said, pulling away from her and sitting nearby. He skillfully took out his laptop to start working as well.

Lea paused momentarily, suddenly understanding why two seats were prepared. They got busy with their work, creating a warm and harmonious atmosphere.

Outside the window, the stars shifted in the sky as time seemed to flow around them. Four o'clock passed. Then five. Six o'clock approached

In the early light of Vaporleon City's summer morning, the soft glow from the horizon streamed through the windows, casting a gentle radiance over Lea. Lea clicked on the newly discovered data on one hand, stifling a yawn with her other hand.

"Take a nap," Alfred gently commanded, his touch tender as he stroked her head. He understood the importance of what she had to do but couldn't bear to see her so exhausted.

g his gaze with obedience, "Okay," she agreed softly

Lea nodded, meeting

Alfred had already lifted her, carrying her over to the opposite couch, where he laid her down gently. His tall frame curled on the couch while Lea nestled in his embrace. In the small space, the two of them were snugly close,

Lea woke up to find it was already noon, and Alfred was no longer on the couch

Chris brought her lunch and clothes, saying, "Mass Berry, Mr. Alfred just left. He asked you to eat first and wait for him."

Lea pondered for a moment and then nodded.

Less than half an hour after lunch, she received a call from Alfred. "Come down; I'm waiting for you in the parking garage."

Lea took the elevator down to the underground parking garage and saw a black SUV already pulled out with Alfred sitting inside, waiting for her. She opened the door and got into the passenger seat.

"Let's go see Frank," Alfred said, adjusting the steering wheel and driving forward

Lea smiled at him, feeling particularly content. Just as she had planned, he had already made arrangements. Their tacit understanding and mutual connection were evident.

military will report directly. You can do whatever you want." Alfred added.

"Regarding Frank's situation, the military

"Alfred, thank you, and please extend my gratitude to your military connections, Lea said. She had experienced two different lives; such care was immensely precious. Lea felt grateful that these people had put considerable effort behind the scenes. She knew that nobody should take such help for granted

Alfred gave a sly smile. It's their honor to be of assistance to you.

Lea's smile grew wider, a joy from feeling favored.

An hour and a half later, in the basement of an apartment in the suburbs of Vaporleon City, the door creaked open, releasing a waft of foul, decaying odor. Lea wrinkled her nose, stepped inside, and gently closed the door behind her.

The basement had only one vent, allowing a small amount of light to filter in. Though the light was dim, it was enough for Lea to see the scene inside. Frank was lying against the wall, with blood stains covering his chest and shoulders that were already dried up, and one of his legs was broken. Frank hadn't been physically tortured by Alfred but was denied medical treatment and food, a form of indirect torment. His wounds had become infected and were rotting, leaving him extremely weak, with a deathlike pallor on his face.

Upon noticing someone entering, Frank struggled to lift his eyelids. His eyes lit up once he recognized who it was, and he seemed instantly revitalized. "It's your Frank exclaimed. Those he had controlled were effortlessly slaughtered at his mercy to do with as he pleased. But Lea was different—not only had she escaped his grasp, but she had also managed to put him in this dire situation.

"Frank Conor, have a couple of days of calm helped you clear your head?" Lea asked “How are you still able to move? Why don’t those drugs affect you? It has never happened before, why now? Frank was desperate for answers. He tried to get up, but his body barely lifted before collapsing back down with a thud. Yet, despite the pain, he continued questioning. “What makes you different from everyone else?”

Lea’s expression darkened. Of course, she was different, she was unique. “Why? Do you think that after your cruel treatment, I wouldn’t fight back That my body couldn’t resist the effects of your drugs? Ridiculous” Lea said.

Frank paused, acknowledging the logic in her words, yet he couldn’t shake off his doubts, scrutinizing her intently. “It’s a pary. If only your head and heart could be transplanted, the birth of a Floater would be possible.”

Lea laughed mockingly, thinking that after two days in confinement, he hadn’t repented at all. “To be fair, you have exceptional talent in organ transplantation and neural reconstruction. Your research in these fields is far ahead of the curve. But for the floater, your idea of using this concept to achieve tremendous results and capture global attention is pure fantasy! Do you think the public is that naive?”

“Shut up!” he exclaimed in frustration. “You know nothing. I will succeed. The Floater can be created. If cloning is possible, why not this?”

“The fact that you’re so angry and frustrated only shows that deep down you know the truth, she replied. If Frank genuinely had confidence, he wouldn’t be shouting hysterically like this,

After being exposed by Lea, Frank found himself unable to argue back, his mind spinning in turmoil, his wounded and weakened body trembling with pain. “No, it will succeed, given time, it will succeed Frank refused to accept defeat.

“Given time!” Lea took a few steps closer, scrutinizing him anew with a gaze sharp as blades. “With the rapid advancements in modern medical technology. Fraley Medical boasts AI Medical, gaining immense popularity and inflating stock prices. Gradually, your skills in organ transplantation and neural reconstruction will be introduced. In a decade or a few, even if the Floater fails, you will have been revered and standing stop the entire medical community.”

Fraley Medical has been embroiled in organ trafficking scandals in the preexistence. Still, thanks to the combined efforts of Matilda and Nixon, leveraging their online influence and control over public opinion, they managed to suppress them. If she lives long enough, she should be able to witness what she’s talking about.

“Unfortunately for you, you’ve crossed paths with me” Lea’s gue shifted, darkening, exuding an aura of destruction. Til expose all your secrets”

Frank's eyes widened, glaring at her as he roared in fury. That's scientific research! It's for the benefit of all humanity. Sacrifices are inevitable in research. So what if it gets exposed""

Lea scoffed. "You label that as research? It's simply murder! The military has already closed off the underground storage unit, your residence, and your properties in rural and suburban areas. Even your Floater project stands as evidence against you. Every piece of evidence points to you being a serial killer. The police investigation is nearing completion. Families of the victims are becoming informed, and they will press charges against you. With countless lives lost and your history of illegal organ transplants, even if you perished repeatedly, it wouldn't suffice to settle your debt!"

Confronted with such a murderous villain, she longed to inflict upon him a gruesome demise and serve justice. However, she was restrained by the necessity to abide by the law.

Frank's eyes widened once more, filled with madness. His already distorted demeanor made his expression savage, now even more unhinged. "No. no.. you cannot ruin all that I have accomplished, the revolutionary medical research of a brilliant mind. It is a crime

Lea's gaze dripped with contempt and apathy. "You? Worthy? Frank Conor, your pursuit of medical success is merely a thirst for recognition to assert your dominance and to satisfy your vanity. Your enjoyment of slaughter, devoid of empathy, paints you as a serial killer. Your true nature, veiled in darkness, finds its sole sanctuary in hell"

"Come in." Lea said. Craig Allen, stationed outside the door, pushed it open and entered.

"Miss Lea, what are your orders?" Craig asked.

"Inform the police and the military that the serial killer has been apprehended. Tell them to come and take him away" With that, Lea turned and left.

"No! No, you can't Frank suddenly hinged forward, grasping her leg. "Lea Berry, you can't do this. You can't destroy my achievements in organ transplantation and neural reconstruction! You even said I'm gifted. You can't erase my achievements. L. Frank Conor, am a successful doctor. I am successful and outstanding Frank, in a state of panic and fear, pleaded desperately Craig was taken aback, watching the scene with astonishment. He had been stationed outside and hadn't heard much of what was said inside. Frank the deranged killer, with his twisted personality and abnormal brain functions, had a nervous system that differed from ordinary people, allowing him to endure extreme pain and fear. That's why they had been unable to interrogate or coerce him. Graig wondered what Lea had said that had utterly shattered him, reducing him to pleading.

"You don't want to be remembered as a deranged killer, shocking the world. You want people to recognize your virtues and acknowledge your medical achievements, and that's not impossible" Lea crouched down, her gaze piercing into his eyes. It all depends on what terms you're willing to offer"

Frank trembled as he looked at Lea. She wore a simple white sundress, radiating youthful innocence and beauty. Yet, deep down, she possessed a decisive and ruthless nature, always capable of seizing control in an instant.

“Lea Berry, what do you want to gain from me? Frank was not foolish, now calmed down and discerned her intentions.

“I can arrange for Riverview Hospital to purchase your research achievements in organ transplantation and neural restructuring. We’ll ensure widespread publicity through news, television, the Internet, and traditional and modern media platforms. It will trend globally, ensuring everyone knows, Lea said.

200

Upon hearing Lea’s words, Frank’s eyes gradually lit up with excitement, his gaze filled with anticipation, and a smile spread across his face. He could already envision himself being the center of attention online, admired, appreciated, and remembered by people everywhere.

Lea grabbed his collar, staring him down. “I want you to turn yourself in. Confess to all the illegal organ transplant surgeries you’ve conducted under Fraley Medical over the years to the police.”

Ten days later, Jeffrey’s funeral was over, Christian managed to find time to visit Ewan in the hospital.

Despite his anger and disappointment, Ewan was still his only son—additionally, the guilt of having neglected him since childhood weighed heavily on him. While Christian appeared distant on the surface, deep down, he still cared greatly about Ewan. During this time, Matilda was constantly by his side, handling the funeral arrangements, caring for his health, and assisting with the company’s affairs. Lea accompanied them to visit this “father” of her.

After reaching an agreement with Frank, who also provided numerous clues, she handed them over to Quicksilver and the hacker accompanying Chris for investigation. Meanwhile, she strategically appeared before Christian and Matilda, masking her actions behind a facade.

Shannon Yancey also participated in the efforts. Whatever Lea wanted to accomplish, Shannon spared no effort to assist. Chris ensured that she was paid according to the standards of their technical staff.

As for Helen, Lea learned from Matilda’s report to Christian that she had gone abroad for a brand endorsement shoot. She would return a week later, just in time for her interview at Conrad University.

Bang! Christian angrily kicked open the door.

“Whoever dares... Ewan’s grumbling voice trailed off as he caught sight of the person at the door, swallowing his words abruptly.

“You’re not dead yet?” Christian entered with a dark expression, scolding angrily. Why don’t you just go and get yourself to death?”

Ewan’s face flushed with embarrassment, and he lowered his head, burying his phone under the covers, not daring to make a sound. He was terrified of his father. During his childhood, the role of a father figure was almost absent, and his understanding of him came mainly from these around him. They told him that Christian was someone who wouldn’t bat an eye at killing on the battlefield. As Ewan grew older, his shortcomings only widened the gap between them. Their relationship was taut

Lea was speechless. It was the first time she had seen Christian scolded someone like this. He certainly lived up to bring Ewan’s biological father.

Victor, the secretary, looked sympathetically at Ewan lying on the bed, hoping that his physical and mental strength would grow stronger and that he wouldn’t be further affected by Christian’s words...

“Dad, don’t be angry. Ewan is unwell. Matilda comforted Christian, immediately stepping forward to help ridy up the bed.

Ewan was admitted to an executive suite ward with distinct kitchen, living room, and bedroom sections. All were equipped with hospital staff and amenities. Additionally, servants from the Berry family were also arranged. But still, the ward was in a mess. The bed was untidied, and even his patient gown was wrinkled. His hair was unkempt, and he exuded an air of irritability. His mental state was also visibly poor.

“How did you let yourself get like this? Where are the servante? Why didn’t you ask them to tidy up? Matilda asked as she reached out to straighten the pillows.

“Don’t touch my stuff Ewan grabbed her hand abruptly, gritting his teeth. Despite suppressing his irritability in front of Christian, it returned.

Matilda lowered her voice and spoke gently. “Do you have to anger Dad right now! Jeffrey’s passing has hit him hard, and with his health not being great, his mood is even worse.”

Angering Christian would only bring suffering upon himself in the coil. He understood the unspoken implications behind her words.

Chapter 123

He gritted his teeth and slowly released his grip. Matilla continued tidying up the bed and called for the doctors and nurses.

The doctor who arrived was Lorrard. He reported Ewan’s condition to Christian. “Mr. Berry’s condition has been relatively stable recently. As long as he cooperates with the treatment, it should remain stable. There’s no immediate need for a kidney transplant; we can wait for a suitable donor.

Matilda glanced at him a few times, her gaze cold and sharp. Lorrard had once been one of the top doctors at Fraley Hospital. They had met several times and collaborated on a few surgeries. He was supposed to have vanished from the medical field, yet here he was, now the director of this hospital. Riverview SmanMed had repeatedly sabotaged Fraley, both openly and covertly, causing them significant losses. Once she dealt with Lea and the Berry family, she would also find a way to eliminate them.

Christian felt a wave of relief wash over him after hearing the news, Helen had already undergone kidney compatibility testing with Ewan but was not a match. As for Lea—With so many people nationwide waiting for kidney transplants, finding a suitable match for him was not an easy task and would take time.

to work, then hand in your

However, outwardly, Christian still maintained a stern expression. “If there’s nothing else, go back. If you don’t want to resignation.”

Lorrain immediately interjected, “Mr. Berry’s condition hasn’t completely stabilized yet. He needs to remain hospitalized for treatment.

Lea stated that Ewan couldn’t be discharged yet, at least not for another two weeks. She couldn’t afford to let him out and disrupt her plans. While Matilda was indeed part of her agenda, she needed first to take control of Fraley Hospital to defeat her truly.

Christian still didn’t show any signs of softening. “On the seventh of next month, on Lea’s nineteenth birthday, I’ll transfer 5% of the shares to her. If you’re still around by then, you can bear witness”

With several changes in share ownership, Lea held 5% of the shares. Adding these five percentage points, she held a higher percentage than Matilda’s 91. It enabled her to enter the board of directors and participate in the company’s decision-making. It wasn’t just a simple transfer of shares, it granted Lea equal authority within the company.

Ewan’s a i’s eyes widened suddenly, filled with resentment and frustration, yet he felt powerless to change the situation. However, compared to Matilda’s betrayal where she cuckolded him and raised another man’s child, these feelings were quickly pushed aside. “I understand, Ewan replied, his tone defeated Matilda’s eyes narrowed as she shot him a glare. Agreeing to this was akin to helping someone who was beyond redemption. If he were more capable, these shares should rightfully be in his possession.

Lea glanced at Matilda and then turned to Ewan, saying. The medical standards here are excellent. Dad will be discharged in good health in time for my birthday.”

Dressed in a white dress, Lea smiled innocently, her youthfulness and beauty making it hard not to be charmed. Ewan muttered, “Okay” and nodded in agreement.

Matilda’s lips twitched in a sneer, her gaze turning cold and fierce. She thought, Want shares of the Berry Group? Dream on I would make you spit out every shur you owned and kick you out. A birthday celebration 1 would ensure it was a grand and unforgettable event”

After issuing his orders. Christian stormed out of the ward, his expression furious, and Victor followed closely behind. Meanwhile, Lea stayed behind under the pretext of caring for him and followed Lorrard to fetch some medication. The couple remained alone in the ward, and the nurses avoided disturbing them.

“Get out!” With no one else around, Ewan directly berated Matilda. “Stop pretending to be the perfect wife here, It’s disgusting!”

Matilda was pouring water for him when her hand tightened around the cup, her fingertips turning pale. She gritted her teeth and endured it. After all, she wouldn’t have to endure much longer.

Matilda turned around and handed him the water. “You’re the patient now, I won’t argue with you. If there’s anything, we can talk about it when you’re discharged”

Ewan glared at her, his eyes red with anger, giving his gaze a frightening edge. After he was discharged, it would be time to settle things with her once and for all

After a long while, Ewan didn’t take the cup Matilda placed it on the bedside table and left the ward. He stared at the door, waiting for her to be gone entirely. He then picked up his phone and dialed a number. His tone filled with frustration. “When will my reconls be ready?”

“Mr. Berry, we have indeed uncovered many crucial pieces of information, but there’s one critical matter that still needs further investigation, and it’s crucial for you. Please wait a bit longer. I’ll be in Vaporleon City in the next few days to personally deliver it to you, ensuring your satisfaction”

“Hurry up” He urged again before hanging up the phone.

Sunding on the glass corridor of the righth floor of the hospital’s main building, Lea looked down below. It was the early midsummer evening, and the setting sun added endless splendor to the city.

A burgundy Bentley slowly pulled out of the parking lot. Matilda didn’t accompany Christian this time, opting for a solo trip. Watching the car disappear onto the highway, Lea headed towards the information technology offer at the end of the corridor.

divided i

The office, roughly 2000 square feet, was divided into four spaces: an open workspace and three private offices. Over a dozen technical staff members were diligently working, the sound of keyboards, clicking in unison filling the air. They were deeply focused and exhibited remarkably high efficiency in their tasks.

Shannon sat at the outermost seat at the long desk closest to the entrance, still wearing her Vaporleon High School uniform. While everyone else had shed their uniforms after the SAT exam, she continued to wear hers. It was her best attire, as she struggled with poverty and owed a significant amount of debt. Fortunately, Chris had recently advanced some of her wages, helping her repay her debts. However, Shannon still owed the hospital tens of thousands of dollars in medical fees, and she and her mother, Donna, needed to make ends meet.

Even though the hospital hadn’t billed Shannon for Donna’s medical expenses, she still had to pay. With her new job and the relatively high salary it provided. Shannon could gradually repay these debts.

Across from her sat two other technicians doing the same job as her. The rest of the team was engaged in hospital related tasks, primarily focusing on further developing the hospital's intelligent systems. Another team of three was dedicated to developing the hospital's security systems.

Lea entered and sat beside Shannon's workstation, where the computer screen displayed the upcoming tasks. Chris pushed the door open with a squeak, and she exited the office, holding her phone. "Miss Berry, everything's ready. Mr. Alfred just called, and they're ready on their end, too. Once you give the word, their message will be out, Chris informed.

"Okay, Lea responded, swiveling her chair to face the window. The sun had already descended halfway, painting the sky with eerie clouds tinted with the hues of the setting sun.

Shannon enlarged the window on her computer screen, her pupils dilating as she examined the contents. She then reported to Lea, "Matilda's car has entered the underground parking garage of Fraley Hospital headquarters. Should we continue to track her?"

The entrance to the underground parking garage was surrounded by numerous surveillance devices, making it easy to monitor externally, However, internally, the security system was high, posing a challenge. They've examined the building system inside and even had someone disguised to survey it. Still, Matilda's private elevator shafts are all blind spots, making it even more challenging to investigate.

"No need." Lea said.

At this time, Matilda's visit to Fraley Hospital wasn't related to work matters but rather a private rendezvous with her lover. Since Jeffrey's death, she had been busy with funeral arrangements, trying to improve her image in front of Christian and avoiding suspicion by refraining from seeing Nixon. However, now that she had sorted things out with the Berry family, she had important matters to discuss with him, hence the visit. These details were ones Lea preferred not to dwell on and deemed unnecessary.

She said to Chris. "Just wait a little longer. There was a hint of mischief in her eyes as she spoke. Such a grand gift needs to be presented at a more appropriate time to make it grand, sensational, and thrilling enough..

Chapter 124

Matilda opened her makeup kit and took out lipstick in the underground parking garage of Fraley Hospital. Facing the mirror inside the car, she began to apply it, outlining her lips. Despite having just handled Jeffrey's funeral arrangements, she was still dressed in a black dress, her lengthy hair pinned neatly behind her head, exuding an air of solemnity

She had no respect for Jeffrey, handling his funeral was merely to appease Christian. She harbored resentment towards him internally. If it weren't for his incompetence, Lea would have died long ago, and she wouldn't have had to endure her existence. Christian even wanted to give her shares, support, and munere her. Helen, the eldest granddaughter of the Berry family, has yet to receive such an honor. If this continues. Lea will soon remove Helen's position in the Berry family

Fortunately, Frank escaped, leaving Lea with no leverage to use against her. And she still has the leverage to drive Lea out of the Berry family. With this in mind, Matilda's mood instantly lifted, and a smile crept onto her face. After applying her lipstick, she unbuttoned her collar, revealing her ample bosom, exuding allure and sensuality

Matilda pushed open the car door with a bang and headed to the dedicated elevator, where she entered the code. The elevator opened, and she stepped inside, heading straight to the top floor.

The door to the top floor swung open revealing a path strewn with crimson rose petals generously scattered from the entrance to the bedroom and bathroom doorways. A bottle of expensive wine and two tall glasses rested on the table. The air was filled with a sweet fragrance, and the luxurious surroundings and romantic ambiance immediately put Matilda at ease.

"Marida, come in. I'm here," Nixon's voice echoed from the bathroom. His magnetic tone carried a hint of indulgence, deliberately teasing, and coupled with their over twenty years of emotional connection, even a woman like her in her forties couldn't help but feel moved.

Matilda smiled seductively, placing her purse on the table before heading towards the bathroom. The door was ajar, revealing a top-tier bathtub in front, where Nixon was soaking, Rose petals floated on the water's surface, emitting a more decadent fragrance. "My queen, what are you waiting for!" he teased.

"Playing around at this age, isn't it a bit embarrassing?" she muttered, her face flushing despite her words.

Splash! He rose from the water, lifting her and lowering them into the bathtub. "In my eyes, you're always the youngest and most beautiful," he whispered, nibbling at her ear as he helped her undress.

"You're so glib-tongued. Yet she couldn't resist falling for it

Perhaps it was because Ewan had only shown her fear and awe in the decade of years within the Berry family. After Matilda dealt with his affairs outside one after another. Ewan started to loathe her. However, Nixon's romantic gestures, typical of younger lovers filled the gap that she had been missing, satisfying her addiction.

She nestled against his chest, feeling her skin burning, "What did you put in it?" she asked, somewhat surprised.

"Just some essential oils; it'll make you feel relaxed and comfortable." He smirked, massaging her. "It's not like it's the first time you've used it. Why are you so reticent? Come closer.

"Nixon, I need to discuss something important with you," she said, unable to relax due to the weighty matter on her mind. "Ewan is currently staying at Riverview Hospital and seems quite patient. I suspect he's hired a private investigator to look into me. We shouldn't take this lightly during this critical time."

“I’m well aware,” he said confidently. “Let him investigate. After all, he won’t find anything in this room. As for anything else, I deny it. We’re just colleagues with a lot of work to handle together. Our time together is relatively limited. Then, I’ll arrange for the media company to leak his past affairs and photos of his pregnant lover online and get him to the trending searches. We’ll spin it as him slandering you to justify a divorce Nixon continued. “That little brat Lea Berry is quite cunning. How are you planning to deal with her

“On the 7th of next month, at her birthday banquet,” she said with a steely gaze brimming with deadly intent. If we wait any longer, that geezer Christian will make her the next successor,” she added.

“Don’t get angry, his fingers intertwined with her hair, “When she’s kicked out of the Berry family, whether she lives or dies, it’s all up to you.” He picked up the remote control from the side and opened the bathroom’s curtains.

“Why did you open the curtains? She hurriedly retreated into the water,

“What are you hiding from? You can’t see anything from outside, remember? He pulled her up. The windows on this entire floor are made of unique material, making it impossible to see inside from the outside.

“Look at that beautiful view outside. Doesn’t it seem like the entire city is lying at our feet?” The sun had set entirely, leaving only a hint of light at the horizon before total darkness. The city lights began to shine, with skyscrapers illuminated brilliantly, resembling a city of a thousand stars.

“The entire city at our feet? Matilda murmured in response.

She was was born into a wealthy family, naturally gifted, and hardworking. Despite her diligent efforts, she couldn’t even control her marriage, being used as a tool to marry someone she did the surface, everything seemed perfect, but behind the scenes, she was cheated on and unloved by her husband. She meticulously schemed put everything under her control and rise to the top. But now nothing Absolutely nothing

Nixon touched her shoulder, lifting her chin to give her a better view of the grand scene outside. “Once Lea Berry is dealt with, without the geezer holding you back and without Ewan as an obstacle, everything will be yours”

Her eyes gradually brightened with excitement, absorbing the entire city’s nightscape.

Before long, the room was filled with soft, seductive sounds, Outside the glass window, a drone, tiny as a fly, clung to the corner, capturing everything happening inside.

On the other end of the drone's connection. Quicksilver poured a glass of water and returned to the computer. Seeing the screen, he spat out the water in shock, exclaiming. "What the- If Ewan saw this, it would probably infuriate him to death.

The glass on the top floor of Fraley Hospital was designed to be opaque from the outside, but Quicksilver's equipment used the Lars technology specifically to bypass such defenses. He could see everything. It was why 198 Mighty was so formidable—not only did they have the best detective minds, but also the most advised tools,

On Riverview SmartMed's eighth floor, Lea looked at the sky outside the window, which had turned completely dark. It was about time. She looked out her phone and made a call: "Mr. Alfred, please ask your friend to send the message now."

"Sure, let's have dinner tonight." Alfred's voice sounded gentle and reassuring.

"Great, it's my treat." Whenever Lea had the time, she wanted to be with him. Hanging up the phone, she turned to the computer screen, where six windows displayed different angles monitoring the top floor of Fraley Hospital.

The two individuals inside the room, under the influence of the drugs, were deeply engrossed in their intimacy. A loud bang echoed through the room as if the sky were falling. The door was forcefully kicked open, and someone rushed in. The two intertwined figures were suddenly startled, caught up in their intimacy.

"Ah Matilda let out a sharp, agonized scream

Thud Nixon w

was stunned that he had lost his grip, causing Matilda to fall from the bathtub and hit the ground hard, crying out in pain.

In an instant, the person who entered was already outside the bathroom.

Chapter 125

Nixon Donovan didn't have time to be dressed. Grabbing a towel, he wrapped it around his waist and rushed to the door to block it before the person came into the room.

He saw who it was.

Smack

He threw out a vicious slap, almost knocking the person out.

"Who let you in?"

The person at the door was his personal assistant.

"Director, I...

The assistant was dumbfounded. He had never expected the director to bring a woman here to do this of all things.

He nearly stumbled upon them.

The scene inside was almost obscene, almost blinding him.

Behind the bathtub hid a woman, her body barely hidden by the object. Her back was turned to him, while her long slender legs were exposed, as with her tousled locks.

Meanwhile, Nixon was wrapped in a towel, his upper body covered in scratches, presumably from the woman. It appeared as though they were having an enjoyable time.

Matilda Berry curled up, her body throbbing from the fall. She clenched her teeth in agony, not daring to make a sound. She could not reveal herself, lest she suffer grave repercussions.

Nixon lost his temper, grabbing his assistant's neck and squeezing so tight he could have killed the man.

"Did I ask you to come in! Did I

He had given the specific order that none were to enter this place without his explicit permission

"The police are here!" His assistant clutched at his arm, blurting out his explanation. They are coming upstairs, they are going to be here soon....

"What What did you say?" Nixon questioned, his grip loosening slightly.

"The police! Loads of them... and there's people from the military as well?"

"What are you talking about?"

The police? It's impossible, they have no reason to come to their hospital.

Not to mention the military? How absurd.

"Frank Conor...Loads of policemen, they are looking for you Director..."

The mention of Frank Conor made his complexion pale and his hand went still

BANG!

His assistant fell from his grip, collapsing to the ground.

"Thod thud thud..."

Multiple footsteps could be heard outside, hinting at an unknown number of people arriving

Nixon grabbed his assistant from the ground and threw him out of the room. He hurried back, finding only a damp bathrobe which he awkwardly threw onto himself.

He took a quick glance at the shivering Matilda, her face white as she huddled behind the bathtub. Nixon gritted his teeth, hurrying out of the bathroom and slammed the door shut

When he walked out, the lobby was already filled with armed police officers. He estimated that there were more than twenty of them.

They were SWAT officers.

Chief Dwayne Brown was at the front, stern and imposing. The moment he saw Nixon, he gave out his orders to his team.

“Take him away!”

Two SWAT officers stepped forward. With a ‘Click!’ handcuffs were around Nixon’s hands, and they began escorting him directly outside.

“What are you doing? Why are you arresting me?”

The name of Frank Connor was enough for him to know what the reason was.

But he was not going to admit it, nor did he wish to be arrested.

Moreover, Nixon had connections. No one would dare to do or say anything against him.

lawyer

“Let me go already...” he shouted, struggling with all his might, “You can’t arrest me! I want to make a phone call, get me my la “Take him away” Chief Dwayne Brown ordered forcefully.

Just on the basis of the evidence he had been given, the chief was already itching to put a bullet into his head right then and there.

However, he was an honest author of the law. He has to adhere to protocol and bring him back to the station instead.

Nixon was escorted by the SWAT officers, with three other teams supporting them. No matter how much he resisted, it was all in vain.

The more he fought and struggled, the more Nixon began to look pathetic and embarrassing, resembling that of a stray dog being forcefully dragged away,

He was ushered into the elevator, where it began to descend.

The outpatient lobby below was packed with police officers.

Armed SWAT officers were guarding each entrance and exit

Administrative officers, technical personnel and crime scene officers were dispatched to various locations and departments to secure the scenes, before conducting investigation and gathering the evidence

The police surrounded the entire hospital.

At the same time, two trending news went viral online.

“The military has arrested a serial killer who is a surgeon at the Fraley Hospital

“Fraley Medical is suspected of illegal organ trafficking and transplantation”

Fraley Medical was thrust into the spotlight instantly.

Meanwhile, back at the hospital,

It had just turned night, the most crowded period of the day.

Police cars surrounded the hospital, their flashing lights and sporadic sirens only serving to cause fear and panic throughout the hospital.

The raid was sudden, plunging the hospital, along with the patients and their families, into chaos.

Fortunately, the police personally directed the evacuation of patients and families out in attempt to maintain some form of order.

“All patients and their families are requested to leave the hospital immediately and go to other hospitals for treatment.”

“Everyone except those currently undergoing surgery
y in the operating rooms must evacuate.”

“Inpatients who can be transferred to another hospital, please do so immediately.”

The police’s orders blared from the loudspeaker.

Everyone was terrified and were in a state of shock, especially the inpatients and their families. They anxiously began to ask,

“What’s going on?”

“Why are there so many copu?”

“Look, they are armed:

“What are they investigating?”

“Why is the hospital being locked down?”

“Lock down the hospital! Did someone die?”

“It can’t be just that, right! Do they need so many SWAT officers just for one dead person?”

“What should we do? My child is still in the operating room!” A young frightened mother burst into tears on the spot.

“What happened’ Someone, please tell me?”

People within the hospital building began to flee outside, while those on the outside gathered around, curious and eager to know what was going “There’s news online!

A scream erupted.

*Illegal organ trafficking and transplantation!”

“Doctors are serial killers!”

“What’

“How come?”

“The news came right from the military, surely there’s no mistake”

“Look, the military even raided the hideouts of the serial killer.

“All three hideouts”

“Those are.”

The military’s statement included photos of the victims’ bodies, albeit with some parts obscured. Nevertheless, everyone understood the grim reality the pictures depicted.

Their expressions changed rapidly, and their eyes went wide.

Everyone turned on their phones to check the news online.

Shocked voices began to rise and fall.

“What organs?”

“That doctor!”

“Is there any other details!”

“What?” Someone clutched at their waist, bursting into tears on the spot. “He took my kidney out two weeks ago during surgery, did he sell it?”

“My grandmother had her liver removed by him as well. We were here for a follow-up appointment today”

“He was the one who performed my wife’s cornea removal surgery”

“My appendix was removed by him too, ugh-”

Bystanders were stunned by these words, before one suddenly clutched at his stomach, crying out, “My small intestine?”

Someone even shouted, “My pancreas!”

Any patient who had been operated on by Frank Connor and had their organs removed or transplanted, along with their family members, immediately started to panic, crying out and shouting into a deafening noise.

Even those who hadn’t undergone surgery by him personally were filled with doubt and felt anxious and uneasy.

“Hang-

A loud bang rang across the sky.

Someone had smashed the glass wall beside the outpatient door.

“Murderer: Illegal organ trading and transplantation! |

“Even the renowned Vaporleon City Hospital, the finest in the city, is nothing more than a den filled with heartless people doing horrible dealings.”

Public outrage ignited into a blazing fire.

Everyone picked up anything they could find and hold, throwing them at the hospital.

“The destroy

“Arrest all the doctors”

“Bang, bang bang!”

Whoosh Whoosh! Whoosh!

Everyone wished for the hospital to burn, and for the evil doctor to be finally captured.

Chapter 126

“Stop! Stop...”

The police came forward, stopping the crowd from advancing further.

“You’re disrupting public order, damaging property, and obstructing law enforcement. If you do not stop your actions, you will be arrested?”

“The police is now handling the situation in regards to the hospital. Please aid the police by leaving

The strength of the armed police force was enough to quell the crowd’s anger.

The angry crowd began to calm down, but more people began to come forth with demands for justice.

“I want to verify the validity of my pancreatic surgery”

“Me too!

“I’d want to do so too!”

“Evil hospital, return our huge medical fees!”

“No wonder I’ve been feeling out of sorts after that surgery, like something’s missing in my body, I want a thorough check up.”

I’m calling the police

“I do to.”

“Count me in as well.

Everyone rushed over to call the police.

“Let’s go, I don’t want to be treated here. I don’t want to die for some unknown reason. The sick were also frightened away.

“Let’s go to Riverview Hospital.”

“Wait, let’s go together.”

“The Fraley family had better give us an explanation” Not only was the hospital attacked, but the one who ran it was also targeted.

urry up and come out!

“Mr. Berry! Hurry up

As it turns out, Matilda Berry’s father, and the head of the Fraley family, was also the hospital’s boss..

Even after the hospital went public and there were multiple sales of the stockholder shares, he retained close to fifty percent of it, ensuring his position as the hospital’s primary shareholder and beneficiary.

Last year, Fraley Medical stocks rose rapidly in price, turning him into the richest man and most influential man in Vaporleon City.

Now, however, he has been thrust into the negative spotlight.

“Let’s go to the Fraley family and hold them accountable”

“Yes! We can’t let him get away.

“He probably already has an escape route. The moment he leaves the country, he can spend all of his riches overseas and no one would be able to touch him”

“Let’s drive to the Fraley family and confront them.”

“Use my car”

The police had to put in a lot of effort to calm the situation at the scene.

The angry mob however, did not disperse, c

1. r. choosing instead to remain nearby and await the reveal of the truth.

It wasn’t too long until Nixon was escorted into the lobby by the police.

Upon seeing the sight of the numerous officers and the furious crowd, his pupils trembled and his face turned a ghostly shade of white.

How could this have happened

Even with Frank’s deeds exposed, the police should have been unable to surround the hospital to arrest them for investigation, resulting in a huge commotion. Were they not afraid of causing mass panic in the city!

He no longer had the ability to care for such a matter any more.

With this devastating blow, who knows what kind of impact it would have on the hospital?

He was already panicking

No-

one would dare to touch him.

He had connections and influence. No matter what, no one w

It was simply a public misunderstanding, it can be easily handled as per usual.

BANG!

A cell phone slammed into his head. He stumbled backwards, his head bleeding from the impact.

If not for the police escorts, he would have tumbled to the ground.

Grimacing in pain, he looked around furiously. Before him the sea of people were throwing various things at him.

Takeout containers, pill bottles, their phones, cans, bags, even trash....

It's Nixon Donovan

"He must be the mastermind,"

"We can't let him g go."

"I told you, he looks shady and scheming, he couldn't have been a good person at all?"

"Huh! Look at him, the police must have caught him doing something illegal again!"

Look at all the scratches on his body. He must have been through something crazy, surely he's not a pervert"

"It must have been one of his subordinates"

"You heartless thing

Nixon was escorted into the vehicle, his body covered in bruises and dirt. Even his bathrobe, barely able to conceal his body, was in disarray. He looked almost pitiable, with his disheveled appearance.

The masses even took photos and videos and posted them online.

After escorting him into the car, the police immediately drove ove away

They feared that if they had remained, Nixon would have been beaten to death by the angry mob and affect the case.

On the top floor.

Matilda Berry put on her clothes and tidied her makeup.

She had always been so meticulous about her appearance, but this time was different. Her hair was disheveled, her lips red and swollen, while her neck was covered in bruises and mark all the way down to her chest. Her V-neck dress could not begin to hide those marks.

Right now, however, she could care less about how she looked. She hurriedly opened the window and looked down at the scene laid out before her

The hospital was surrounded, locked down and destroyed. The angry people were surrounding the hospital and their staff and calling for the Fraley family...

It was as if an entire empire had suddenly collapsed and given way to chaos.

Her skills in media marketing gave her enough to understand the impact of such an event on the hospital.

It's over!

When the door broke open, she and Nixon felt as though they had been in heaven.

Right now, they were both in bell

1 year

In the darkness of the night, her reflection in the window showed herself, haggard and tired, as if she had aged over ten

Outside, the unmanned drone lurking in the corner captured the scene both inside and outside the building.

On the other end of the surveillance camera, 198 stared in disbelief at the chaotic scene unfolding around the hospital.

The hospital was likely finished.

His new teammate, an illegitimate second daughter of the Berry Family, had stopped him from handing over information to Ewan Berry. Moments ago, the police could have taken Matilda away from the bathroom and expose her affair on the spot, but they did not.

Then her motive-

His new partner was a liule frightening, actually.

The situation was bigger than he thought.

It was turning into something he could look forward to:

On the eighth floor of Riverview Hospital, Lea Berry watched the monitors, capturing the scenes both inside and outside the hospital from over a dozen camera angles.

She too was shocked.

She knew the police would arrest Nixon, but she could have never guessed that so many officers would be sent, much less closing off the hospital and causing a huge commotion

Even the military had dispatched a team specifically to assist

The effect was tens of times larger than she had expected

She ducked her gaze, quietly contemplating. Gradually, a smile stretched across her face, as her mood lifted.

After fighting with Matilda for this long it was finally ending in her victory,

Her smile was so bright on her beautiful face, almost blinded everyone else around her.

Chris Foster blinked. No wonder their leader was moved. No one, not even male or female, could tear their eyes off her when faced with her beauty.

“Miss Berry, why didn’t you let the police arrest Matilda Berry as well? That would have been the highlight scandal for the history. Just the thought of it is exciting”

She understood Lea Berry’s abusive past at the hands of the Berry family for the past nineteen years

Matilda Berry had also tried to kill her time and time again, using the cruelest and most vicious methods. She had always wanted to get her revenge on Marika.

Shannon Yancey also glanced at Lea, the same thought running through her mind,

She didn’t have such a strong desire for retaliation; rather, she believed that exposing Matilda Berry’s actions would ruin her reputation, dealing a far more effective blow on her.

A dangerous enemy like her should be taken out as soon as possible,

Other staff members were simply here to watch the show unfold.

Chapter 127

Matilda

“She’s still

Berry now. If she’s arrested on the spot, she’ll also affect the Berry family consecutively, causing the shares to plummet

Lea wanted to protect the Berry family’s reputation. Ewan’s reputation, and Christian’s reputation.

The stocks of the Berry Group had been affected several times. Of course, this time, they would still be affected, but they had to minimize the impact as much as possible and not affect their future development.

She had ab

been very protective of the old man.

When they heard this, they nodded.

Her eyes were full of heartache and complicated emotions.

The Berry family was also her home. Naturally, she would not feel good about going to war with her family.

Lea could feel everyone’s sincerity

After experiencing so much, she no longer had any conflicts in her heart

She would spare no effort to destroy Manilda Berry.

This was also a way to save the Berry family

Today was already a very successful day for her. She was very satisfied and happy-

“Chris, today’s overtime pay and bonus will be calculated separately for everyone. Everyone has worked hard today. Let’s have dinner first”

In order to save time, everyone in the hospital ate takeout.

The

takeout in their office had arrived half an hour ago. In order to check their notifications, they had yet to eat

They were all workers. When they heard about the overtime pays and bonuses, a few technicians happily went to eat.

Shannon said to her, “Regarding my mother’s kidneys, I’m almost done investigating the situation. I’ll sue them together with Mr. Phoenix

She used her lacking skills to track the location of the kidneys that were being transplanted in other patients.

Next, she only needed to call the police and find the person who transplanted the kidney to verify the evidence.

Not only them, but Lorrard also planned to join forces with Frank’s victims and the victims in the hospital to sue them.

With one lawsuit after another. Fraley Medical Hospital would collapse.

Chris nodded. “I’ve arranged for the legal team. I’ve also invited two capable individuals from Iverton to help

Of course, she had fought for these from the eldest son. Although he did not arrange it personally on the surface, he had indirectly done these things

Lea paused. Only then did she realize that Alfred was helping her with the preparations. She was touched and glad to be protected, “Buzz buzz buzz... She was deep in thought when her phone rang. It was Alfred.

She immediately answered the call.

“Are you done? Are you going to eat?)

“I’m done?” It was only then that she remembered that she wanted to treat him to a meal. It was already dark, and it was already past dinner time.

She was about to ask where he was when he said, “Come down.

“Okay!

“Hurry up and go.” Chris had already handed her her bag over. He smiled at her like a big sister encouraging her little sister to go on a date.

Lea understood her expression and blushed. She took the bag, put her phone in, and left the office. She took the elevator down. It was crowded inside and out. The queue for the consultation was so long it stretched till the road outside.

A few staff members at the front desk of the hall were calling
I were calling their leaders to make their report.

“Mr Phoenix, there are too many people seeking treatment. Our doctors, tests, surgical resources, medicine are all insufficient.”

“There are a lot of people who need to be hospitalized. Our beds are not enough?”

“What should we do? Should we dissuade them?”

Lea looked around. There were indeed a large number of patients in urgent need of treatment. There were even patients who had gotten into a car accident and were bleeding profusely, waiting in line for treatment.

Fraleigh Hospital was sealed off, and with their reputation and trust that has collapsed, all the patients could only squeeze into the remaining hospital left

She had expected such a scene, but she did not expect so many patients to crowd around them.

She took out her phone and called Chris

“Sister Chris, there are many patients. Arrange for us to activate our resource-sharing system”

Chris was shocked.

Lorrain had just called her to tell her about the situation in the hospital. She even said that it would be great if the resource sharing system could be used

“Can we use it now?” urged Lea.

“Let’s activate it first. It should help?” agreed Chris.

“Alright, I’ll make the arrangements now,” responded Lea.

The Resource Sharing System was an independent system in the hospital’s smart system. It could connect to all the hospitals in the city and distribute resources intelligently to optimize the city’s medical system.

The architecture was built by Lea and continued to be developed by two technicians.

She went to their office and instructed them to enable it

Downstairs

Lea hung up the phone and finally squeezed out of the hospital. Just as she was about to go to the parking lot to look for the eldest son's car, she many cars parked around

The cars were lined all the way to the traffic light at the back, no car could drive in

The traffic police had to work at the intersection and direct the traffic to maintain the surrounding traffic.

was

She took out her cell phone and was about to call Alfred and ask where he was when she heard two honks. She looked up and saw a black business Mercedes in the traffic opposite

It was the car that was here to pick her

1. up.

Alfred was looking at her through the car's windows

The young girl was wearing a black dress and carrying a small black bag. The bag was a luxury brand. The platinum decoration on it was luxurious and dazzling. Her soft long hair was of excellent quality and reflected the surrounding light. It made people want to hold it in their hands.

She was squeezed into the stream of people, so eye-catching that he saw her immediately.

squeezed through and arrived in front of the car. She could barely open the door and got into the passenger seat.

Alfred sat in the driver's seat. Jason was not around, it was just Alfred.

He was wearing a fashionable black shirt, and his hair covered his forehead slightly. He was only in his early twenties, making him look even younger and extremely youthful.

His outfit was surprisingly compatible with her black dress.

Although she was dressed a little solemnly, she was young. Coupled with her extremely good looks, she looked pure and charming.

Alfred sized her up from top to bottom and was very satisfied with her outfit.

He knew what she was wearing today. When he went out, he had specially changed.

"What would you like to eat, Mr. Alfred"

Lea asked as he searched for a place in his mind.

"I've already chosen the place, Alfred said as he drove forward

In the information technology office on the eighth floor, Shannon was picking up her takeout and preparing to eat.

"Ms. Yancey!" The nurse who was taking care of Donna rushed in. "Your mother insisted on being discharged. We couldn't stop her. She has already packed her things and left the ward"

When she heard this, she threw down her chopsticks and went to the inpatient department.

Although

there was already a DNA test, and they were not related by blood, she could not abandon her now. With her physical condition, if she did not care, she would count death

Moreover, at this critical moment, she still needed her to sue Fraley Hospital.

At the elevator on the 17th floor of the Inpatient Department.

Donna was holding a bag and waiting for the elevator. She cursed,

“What kind of lousy hospital is this? It’s so crowded. I can’t even wait for an elevator.”

It took a few m

squeeze in minutes to get to

to the elevator. She had just waited for two elevators, and they were filled with people. There was no way

she could

Finally, the elevator door opened again. It was still packed with people. She crossed her arms and wanted to squeeze in “Ms. Yancey The doctors and nurses who had chased after her immediately stopped her. “You haven’t gone through the discharge procedures. You can’t be discharged.”

“You don’t meet the discharge requirements, You can’t leave

“If you get discharged now, it’ll affect your injury. It’s very dangerous”

Chapter 128

“You’re the ones who refused to let me be discharged from the hospital! You are responsible for this!” She immediately cursed. “What do you want from me!! Why are you forcing me to stay in the hospital “Don’t think I don’t know your tricks. You forced me to the hospitalized and paid expensive hospital fees and medical fees.

I’m gonna sue you!”

There were 20 to 30 people squeezed into the elevator. They were patients and family members. Everyone was waiting for her, and now they were looking at the situation unfolding.

if they had not already known about the reputation and standards of this hospital, they would have been misled by her words

The doctors and nurses were ses were sweating.

The patient’s attitude was bad and unreasonable. Their previous thoughts about her had totally changed

If not for the fact that her daughter was classmates with Miss Cheng and had received special care from Director Shen, no one would have wanted to keep her in the hospital and deal with the trouble.

Besides, her body was not suitable to be discharged from the hospital. This concerned her health and life. They had never seen such a person.

However, they could only persuade her. This was their job.

“Ms. Yancey, your injuries still need to be treated. If you insist on being discharged, we’ll report in to the attending doctor and see if we can get you discharged earlier,”

“Will you please come back to the ward with us?” pleaded the nurse

“Who wants to go back with you! If you stop me again. I’m going to call the police.”

With that, she squeezed into the elevator.

She was so intimidating that ng that the people inside tried their best to squeeze in, not daring to come into contact with her

The nurse was on the verge of tears. “Ms. Yancey...

“Let her go,” a cold voice travelled across the hallway.

Everyone turned in the direction of the voice and saw a young girl in school uniform. She had shoulder-length hair and irregular bangs, and she was very beautiful and spirited. At this moment her expression was cold and firm.

“Ms. Yancey?” The doctors and nurses looked at her as if she was their savior.

Shannon walked up and stared at Donna sternly.

“Even if you are left with one kidney or none at all, if you continue refusing to receive the treatment, you’ll collapse soon enough and won’t be able to get upd

“Even if Hua Tuo reincarnates, if your illness relapses, he won’t be able to save you.”

“If you don’t want to live, then leave this place quickly.”

With that, she reached out to press the button to close the elevator doors, gesturing for her to leave

The elevator doors slowly closed.

As expected, Donna jumped up anxiously ously and tried her best to squeeze into the half half-closed elevator door

“Wretched girl, what are you doing? Fm your mother. Are you trying to kill me

The passengers in the elevator hurriedly pressed the buttons.

In the beginning, everyone thought that the young girl’s attitude was cold and a little vicious. Now, they finally understood her intentions.

She could not understand how such an unreasonable person could have such a beautiful laughter.

The doctor and nurses assisted her out of the elevator

Shannon pressed the button to close the doors and let the passengers leave. She didn't want them to see her mother slandering the hospital.

As soon as Donna was pulled out, Shannon grabbed her arm and pulled her to the side.

“Has your brain been eaten by a dog? You're still a high school student. How expensive is this hospital? If you stay here and continue letting them suck us dry, even if you sell yourself, it won't be enough to pay the medical fees complained Donna.

In the past, Shannon would have been heartbroken to hear such words, but now, she turned a deaf ear to them.

The doctor was the deputy attending doctor in charge of her recovery. She was in her early forties and happened to have a daughter as old as Shannon. She had just finished the college entrance examination and was very familiar with the situation between the mother and daughter.

She immediately felt pity for her.

“Ms. Yancey, how can a mother be like this? Your daughter is so young. Not only does she have to take care of you, but she also has to work and help you pay for your expensive medical expenses. How can you say such things? Is she really your biological daughter!”

Not to mention, she was still in Qingan High School, which was a school that only geniuses could enter.

If only Donna was half as outstanding as her daughter, the doctor would thank the gods.

She had such a good daughter, but she did not know how to cherish her and trample on her at will. The doctor could not stand it anymore.

Donna became furious instantly.

Usually, she was treated as a patient, a client, and a god. The doctors and nurses were all polite to her. When she was being unreasonable, they would patiently persuade her

When she was really unreasonable, they would give her the cold shoulder.

How could she stand it when the doctor dared to talk to her like that?

This is my family business. What right do you have to interfere? Is this how a doctor, a human being should behave?” She was furious and looked like she was about to beat her up. She spat in his face.

“How to be a proper person! I tell on her hips.

Il you now.

how to be a person and how to be a mother!” The doctor rolled up her sleeves and placed her hands.

The female doctor who had been in the workplace for more than 20 years and fought with the Grim Reaper over lives had a very domineering aura when she exploded with anger

“Your daughter is still a minor. She just took the college entrance examination. It’s your responsibility to raise her and take care of her.”

“On the other hand, you want her to take care of you and earn money to support you. Don’t you have any shanie”

“Even if you’re sick and your situation is special, you should cooperate with the treatment obediently and not cause trouble for your daughter”

“She took such good care of you and sacrificed for you, but you didn’t appreciate it at all You don’t even treat her like a human being”

“From what I’ve seen, you’ve been abusing your daughter. I’m calling the police warned the doctor.

“I can control my daughter however I want. I can hit and scold her whenever I want.” Seeing as the doctor even wanted to call the police, Donna rushed forward and was about to hit her. You dog, you meddling person. If you continue to talk, I’ll tear your mouth apart!”

“You”The doctor was about to faint from anger. “How can you treat your child like this? Are you her biological mother or not? Do you have any sense of humanity!

After being asked this question, Donna’s expression froze. She lowered her head and avoided her gaze, not daring to look at her.

Shannon Mared at her from the side.

Donna felt guilty.

But she wouldn’t admit it

How could someone like her admit it

Her daughter was her automated teller machine, her nunny In short, her daughter was a tool that could solve all her problems

At the thought of this, she felt indignant and angry. Her left fingers gradually curled up and dug into her palm.

Shannon took a deep breath, calmed herself down, and went forward “Doctor, thank you for your hard work, Leave this to me.

The doctor was stunned. She was indignant towards Donna, but on the other hand, her heart ached for this sensible young lady:

She still wanted to educate Donna, but doing this to her would also embarrass the young girl, so she decided to leave first

As soon as they left, Donna started criticizing again.

“Did you see that! Did you see the face of that doctor. Why are you still making me stay here? They’re all ruthless people. How much is the medic 470,000 yuan! Oh my god” She almost fainted. That much money can be used for anything. You can buy Maotai, Lefay, and other high-end wines. It can even.....

470,000

If she went to the casino and played a few rounds, she would be able to win a few rounds and live the life of a rich person if she was lucky.

Shannon knew what she was thinking

In the past, she would have been hysterical and tried to reason with her and persuade her. Now- Sure enough, without the bond of blood ties, she was free.

“So, are you going to be discharged?” asked Shannon:

“1“When it came to Donna’s life and death, she was instantly terrified.

Chapter 129

After a moment of contemplation, a sly look flashed in Donna’s eyes, “Shannon, let’s go to another hospital for treatment. We can try Fraley Hospital. The point is, we need to leave here first

They wouldn’t dare demand medical fees from us. It was their choice to treat me.”

She said with increasing conviction. “Don’t think I don’t know. They’re treating me just to compete with Fraley Hospital for business. They’ve made so much money, and I haven’t asked them for anything, so I’ve already done more than enough”

Shannon Laughed in exasperation.

Once. Donna had been her mother, the one who had given birth to and raised her, someone she respected deeply.

Now, without that binding tie, she saw many truths clearly

It turned out Donna was such a shameless person

“Fraley Hospital, you say?” Shannon opened a webpage on her phone and held it up to Donna. “Are you sure you want to go there?”

Donna took the phone and was instantly dumbfounded.

Gradually, her face turned pale, her pupils dilated and she was filled with horror.

Finally, Donna began trembling, with cold sweat forming on her forehead.

Shannon then said, "That's right. Your kidney was removed and sold to a patient there. That patient, after the transplant, has recovered well and is about to go on an international trip in a few days"

"Shannon, this... Donna instinctively covered her waist, "What, what should I do?"

Donna was an extremely selfish person. Although she was timid and opportunistic, she couldn't stand the idea of her healthy kidney being taken and sold to someone else.

"Let me put it this way, and I'll say it only once, Shannon said seriously. This hospital has the most advanced medical facilities and medications. If you want to recover, you need to stay here.

"As for the medical fees, we can sue Fraley Hospital and get at least 400 to 600 thousand dollars in compensation. That won't be a problem."

"You heartless girl!" Donna started cursing again. "How could you use the money from selling any kidney..."

To pay your medical bills and save your life?" Shannon interrupted, taking over the conversation. "If you don't want treatment, you can be discharged right now"

Donna had nothing more to say

After a moment of silence, she mumbled, "You've finished the SAT –

"exam, haven't you? Aren't you working now?"

Since Shannon had finished the SAT exam, she had free time and could work to earn money.

The salary could be used to pay for medical bills, and the hospital wouldn't rush them for payment. Even if they did, they could stall.

The 400 to 600 thousand dollars in compensation could be used for other purposes.

Shannon's eyes were red with anger as she bit her lip, swallowing her rage.

In a few days, she would have an interview at Iverion. If she succeeded, she would be heading to Iverton for college in a little over a month, but she still had no way to cover her tuition and living expenses

Even if Shannon were Donna's ATM, Donna didn't consider that she needed to be able to live in order to continue being exploited.

"It's a temporary job, a few hundred dollars a month," she said.

Of course, Chris paid her more than that. As a hacker, her salary was quite high.

But she couldn't reveal that, or she'd be bled dry and unable to support herself.

Shannon threatened coldly. "Spend wisely, or next month you'll be out on the streets"

Donna gritted her teeth but had no choice.

“What about the Fraley Hospital compensation? Donna was worried. It was their only lifeline. “Do we stand a chance without any power or influence?

Shannon was calm. There are many people suing them this time. Ell find a way to get a lawyer and secure compensation.”

“You damn girl, then hurry up and do it” Donna was anxious.

Shannon

gave her a once-over, and before leaving, she warned. “Apologize to the doctors and nurses. Don’t push them to kick you out. If you develop chronic problems, they won’t be easy to cure?”

Donna was trully scared now and nodded meekly.

Only then did Shannon take a deep breath and leave

A black Mercedes-Benz van drove into the bustling city center, along the most lively riverbank in Vaporicon Cary

“The road ahead looks jammed. We can’t drive in. Let’s park here” Alfred said.

Lea nodded

Alfred found a spot by the riverside and parked the car.

She stepped out and was immediately captivated by the sight before her..

It was the busiest time of night, with lights shining brightly and neon glowing vibrantly

The white sandy beach and the blue sea, with waves crashing rhythmically against the shore, combined with the city’s hustle and people’s joyful chatter, created a unique urban symphony.

The scene was exhilarating, beckoning people to dive right in,

Especially tonight, Lea was already in a good mood, and being in such an environment doubled her happiness.

“Handsome guy, buy your girlfriend a bouquet of flowers!” Lea snapped out of her reverie to see Alfred being approached by a young girl selling flowers

The little girl was carrying a large bucket of red roses, their vibrant petals exuding an intoxicating fragrance. The warm yellow balloons and the lights within the bouquets emitted a bright, dazzling glow

For a young woman in love, it was irresistibly alluring.

I you two just finish the SAT exam and come here for a date? You look amazing, way better than the couples in TV shows and anime, the lite girl said, her eyes sparkling with admiration, almost blindingly bright.

Lea’s face flushed with warmth, but she heard Alfred ask, “How much?”

“Uh!” The girl, mesmerized by their looks, had forgotten her purpose.

Alfred turned, glanced at Lea, and picked the most beautiful bouquet. He handed a small stack of bills to the girl, about 100 dollars

The bouquet’s highest price couldn’t have been more than 50 dollars.

Blushing, Lea found the bouquet of roses placed in her arms.

She instinctively hugged in tight, looking up at Alfred, her heart pounding rapidly.

A firework exploded in the distance.

The sea ahead was illuminated by a grand, brilliant display of fireworks, lighting up the man in front of her. His eyes were smiling, gazing at her tenderly, outshining even the fireworks in the night sky.

Lea felt a bit dazed as if the fireworks were blossoming in her heart.

In Alfred’s eyes, it was the same. The fireworks lit up the girl like a celestial being descended to earth, ethereal and enchanting, making everything else fade into insignificance.

He couldn’t help but stare, entranced.

Boom Boom! Boom!

After the fireworks display ended, the night sky returned to its calm state, and the beach buzzed with activity once more.

“Let’s go,” Alfred said, reaching out to hold her hand. With his long strides, he led her along the coastline.

Lea followed him. She lowered her head and sniffed the flowers in her arms. She had a smile on her face and was more delicate than the flowers

They walked quietly for a while.

“Lea” Suddenly, someone called out to her.

Lea turned around and saw a white luxury yacht, where a group of handsome men and beautiful women were having a party.

It was Zed who had called her.

He was dressed in a white shirt and beige trousers, his hair styled fashionably back. He looked more mature compared to before the SAT exam.

In the dazzling night, the handsome young man leaning against the yacht’s railing was particularly eye-catching

Lea frowned, annoyed that her date with Alfred was being interrupted.

Zed stared at Lea and Alfred with intense jealousy and resentment.

Moments ago, while enjoying the breeze on the yacht, his eyes had been instantly drawn to them

Lea was stunning. Even amidst the bikini-clad and beach-dress-wearing beauties around him, she stood out

And Alfred, by her side, was as dazzling as a star in the night sky.

The sight of them, like any other couple on a date, made Zed lose control, and he called out to her.

Chapter 130

Lea didn't want to talk to him and started to walk away

Zed jumped off the yacht and hurried over, masking his emotions. "Lea, we're having a graduation celebration, Join us?"

"I'm not interested" Lea refused him.

He blocked her path. "We're all classmates, from our class and our school. It's care to meet up after graduation. Everyone would be thrilled if you came."

presence alone seemed to distance them.

Alfred stepped forward, not enough to fully block Zed but enough to create a barrier. His p

"She said she's not interested. Didn't you understand?" Alfred was well aware of Zed's intentions.

If Zed didn't back off, Alfred had plenty of ways to make him disappear.

Zed instinctively shrank back. The subconsciously took a step back, but when he looked at Lea, he steadied himself

This was Vaporleon City, his territory. No matter how impressive this man was, a powerful outsider couldn't outshine the local influence – with him?"

TH

This is Lea's decision. You have no right to interfere. Ignoring Alfred, he turned to Lea. "Lea, are you on a

a date w

The way Zed kept calling her name made Alfred want to punch him.

Lea linked her arm with Alfred's, her gesture tender and intimate. "Yes, we are on a date"

Zed exploded, stepping directly in front of them. "Lea, does your grandfather know about this? Does he approve!"

The Berry family is not an ordinary family. If you're dating, you need at least your family's consent Zed pressed.

Filled terit

"Zed!" Lea spat through gritted teeth. "Stay out of my business"

"Well, Zed, is this your classmate? She's quite pretty? A tall woman sauntered over, her steps doing sensuality,

She was around their age but dressed more maturely, wearing a deep red spaghetti strap dress, smoky eye makeup, and a cigarette between her fingers. She exuded an air of authority.

She emphasized the word “classmate, implying a shared understanding that everyone present knew.

Zed was well-known for his academic prowess and good looks, and he came from one of the top families in Vaporleon City. His aloof, abstinent demeanor made him highly sought after among his peers, yet he remained indifferent to all advances.

Rumor had at that he had feelings for a classmate, who decisively rejected him, which only piqued more interest now, as they were partying on the yacht, he had come down to find her

Just

Naturally, the others followed to see what was happening.

The woman positioned herself in front of Lea, blocking her path. She was wearing high heels, making her slightly taller and adding to her imposing

Behind her was a group of classmates, both boys and girls, dressed provocatively, though their youthful naivety still shone through.

They were the children of wealthy families, out to indulge after finishing the SAT exam

Everyone stared at Lea, especially the few girls dressed seductively but trying to set innocent, who were Zed’s admirers, glaring at Lea with envy.

Zed was eager to keep Lea there. “Lea, these are my friends and classmates. It’s rare to meet up. We should get to know each other since we’ll be in the same social circles”

His real intention was to prevent her from being alone with Alfred.

“Sorry, I have other plans. I need to go,” Lea responded coldly.

“Zed, she has quite a temper, doesn’t she? The woman with smoky eye makeup remarked sarcastically, mocking Lea’s apparent lack of gratitude.

If Zed weren’t so highly regarded among this group, she wouldn’t have been so subtle.

Lea gave her a cold glance, then turned to leave with Alfred.

“Hey, handsome!” The woman stepped in front of them again, this time addressing Alfred. “You look absolutely stunning!”

His features, physique, and aura were so captivating that just one look made her heart race uncontrollably.

A man like him was a once-in-a-lifetime encounter. She couldn’t let him go.

She moved closer to Alfred, her voice dripping with intent. “Go out with me. Name your terms, and agree to anything.”

The woman was bold and somewhat attractive.

“You?” Alfred looked at her sideways, a playful smile crossing his face.

ve her up

Then he glanced at Lea, who was holding onto his arm. “Are you prettier than her? Do you have a better figure than her? Why should I give for you!”

The woman

n with m

smoky eye makeup was taken alock and looked at Lea

They were about the same height, but Lea’s face was significantly smaller, sculpted to perfection

As for the figure, Lea’s chest was fuller, her waist slimmer, and her legs longer. She had a model’s proportions, with skin as smooth and delicate as a baby’s.

It could be said no one would be better than Lea in figure.

And her exquisite appearance made her look like a deity descended from the heavens.

The woman took a deep drag on her cigarette, then tossed it to the ground and stomped it out. With a flourish, she pulled out a check and handed it to Alfred. “200 thousand dollars. Spend the night with me.”

Fresh out of the SAT exam, she had just offered 200 thousand dollars, all her savings, a year’s worth of allowance, a generous a man like Alfred was a once-in-a-lifetime find, and she was willing to pay any price.

But a ma

Lea reached out, grabbed the woman’s wrist, and shoved the check back into her mouth. “Do you think you’re worthy of coveting my man?”

Everyone around was stunned, including Zed, who was standing closest. They couldn’t believe such a delicate girl could be so fierce and domineering “Ah! The woman finally screamed in pain.

Her friends snapped out of their shock and rushed forward, ready to fight.

There were only two of them and at least twenty of her friends. One phone call could bring even more people,

In Vaporleon City, there was no one they couldn’t handle.

Bang! Lea yanked the woman’s hair, pulled her close, and kicked her in the stomach, sending her flying and knocking down several of her friends.

“What? Planning to gang up on us?” She coldly stared at the approaching men and women, her voice soft but her eyes deep and intimidating.

They froze, unable to move forward.

Lea then turned to Alfred

He raised an eyebrow, watching her with a delighted, amused smile.

Lea had just treated him like her boyfriend domineeringly, making him like her very much.

Lea pursed her lips slightly. "Shall we go eat?"

Alfred didn't want the mess of people in front of her to spoil their mood.

She really

"Sure, your man, your call. Alfred smiled.

She pursed her lips again, her cheeks flushing, assertively took his hand, and led the way forward.

Alfred chuckled, watching her, and followed along

As the women sprawled on the ground watched this scene with their eyes bulging

The women

Why would such an exceptionally handsome and outstanding man submit to such a little girl, docile as a loyal hound?

Zed stared straight at Lea. She had fought fiercely for this man, just now with that momentum, as if she was about to sweep across the battlefield, slaughtering everything for him.

Her love was so fierce and profound.

He felt even more sour in his heart