

Her Revenge 16

Chapter 16

Lea struggled to control her emotions as she gently lifted her child's shirt, revealing scars on her abdomen. Her fingertips trembled.

Next to them was an ultrasound machine, not too old, with basic color ultrasound functions.

She performed another ultrasound for her child. Sure enough, Anna had only one kidney.

Her father had done everything he could to save her, enabling her to live until now

Without saying anything in front of the child, Lea turned to Lorrard, "Do you have the medical records?"

"Yes," said Lorrard,

Lorrard reached deep into the medicine cabinet and handed her a thick stack of medical records.

Lea quickly flipped through them, then tossed him a bottle of the anti-inflammatory painkiller she had just taken. "Feed her half a pill first."

Lorrard had wanted this medicine himself

His eyes lit up with gratitude. Thank you" He then fed his daughter half a pill.

After taking it, the child's eyelids drooped, and she soon fell asleep.

She was too

was too exhausted

Before long, the child's breathing became even. This was the most peaceful sleep she had had since Lorrard had seen her after being released from prison

Lorrard looked at his daughter in his arms and suddenly knelt beside the bed. "You must have a way to save her, right!"

Lea had brought out this medicine, indicating the most advanced medical technology available

"As long as you can cure my daughter and restore her health. I'll do anything for you. My life is yours! Lorrard said.

Lorrard's eyes reddened, tears rolling down his rough face. He was prepared to sacrifice everything.

Lea looked at him, recalling herself from a past life.

She suppressed the surging emotions in her chest her calm demeanor ringed with coldness.

"I don't need your life, but I do need a good doctor," answered Lea.

Her achievements in medicine in her past life were one of her powerful weapons now, and his medical skills were valuable to her.

"Okay!" Lorrard said.

Lea nodded and handed him three boules of medicine she carried with her, instructing him on their usage.

“When her body recovers and she grows a bit older, we’ll transplant another kidney,” Lea uid.

Although one kidney could function like that of a normal person, the Favored this child and wanted the best for her.

Perhaps it was because of that one word, “Mommy!

Lorrand nodded. “How did she lose her kidney?”

The medical records showed that her kidney was removed during surgery when she was four months old.

“When I saw her, she was already six months old. The hospital said her kidney had congenital defects” Lorrands expression was filled with doubt and mistrust.

Lea frowned but said nothing

Lorrand carried the child upstairs to bed. Gack down, he saw the little girl sitting by the surgical bed, already asleep

Her petite body was wrapped in a cloak, her long hair covering her small face.

He couldn’t help but feel sorry for her, as if he were seeing his own daughter.

He took the clinic’s only blanket and covered her with it, then went to the outer room, closed the door, and lay down on the small, worn–out sofa to rest

In the room at the Sedrin Hotel in Vaporleon City where Lea was staying with her identity card, the white light from outside reflected on the heavy curtains, making the room as dark as night.

*Click!”

The lock clicked open.

The door was gently pushed open, and a waiter pushed a breakfast cart in, walking lightly into the bedroom, only to see a figure lying on the bed, sleeping with the covers over their head,

He pushed the cart to the bedside, then suddenly approached, grabbing the person and the covers with his left hand, while his right hand held a dagger. With a “click,” he slit the throat, feathers flying in an instant.

He was stunned, pulling back the covers, only to find a long pillow inside.

He quickly tidied up, left the room, entered the elevator, and made a call.

“There’s no one in the room,” said Lea

“No one?” The person on the other end of the phone couldn’t believe

They searched the whole city, had hackers search all the network information in the city, only to find that Lea had checked into this hotel

They hadn't expected it to be an empty city plot

How could a runaway girl set up such a trap?

hed into day, the sun rose in the east.

As night turned i

After a day and night of thunderstorms, the summer weather was unusually clear, with a bright morning

“Bang Bang Bang!”

The banging on the door made the whole clinic tremble.

Lea woke up abruptly, got out of bed, and looked outside through the door curtain.

Lorrard was also awakened. He opened the door, and a person collapsed straight into the room, the person who had supported him almost falling with him.

“Dr. Phoenix, please take a look at him” The man said.

The middle-aged fat man said as he stuffed a wad of money into his hand and then ran away.

The money was stained with blood, only about a thousand yuan.

Lorrard looked at the fleeing figure, his expression freezing, but he didn't shout for help.

He had lost his medical license and had a criminal record, so he opened this clinic here to perform surgeries and earn money to support his daughter.

His clients were the people from the boxing arena.

Every day, several people would come to see their injuries. Those with more money would give him more, while those with less would give him less, but he would always have some income.

He looked down at the person on the ground, his mind shaking,

It was a young man of eighteen or nineteen, six feet four, with thick eyebrows and a sharp look. Since half a year ago, when he often came to see his injuries here, they had become quite familiar with each other.

But now, he was bleeding from his mouth and nose, blood still flowing out, his face black and purple, his body stiff, on the brink of death,

Lorrard squatted down and lifted his boxing outfit, revealing his chest. There was a depression on the left side, indicating a broken sternum. It was beyond saving!

But Lea crouched down, pressing her fingers against the wound, slowly increasing the pressure, and then said, “Take him inside”