Chapter 1031 The Legend

They could feel something phenomenal was about to begin.

Vania always caught everyone off guard with surprises every time she showed up.

Her appearance was no longer just a plot twist. In fact, her appearance was simply unrivaled.

The background on the stage was replaced by a blank paper.

It complemented Vania's outfit perfectly.

What was presented to the audience was a blank canvas to be painted by her.

Then, soothing music played in the background, and Vania danced gracefully to the music.

Everyone was mesmerized by her dance, and they didn't even notice the changes on the blank canvas.

Just Vania's dance alone was worthy enough to be in a competition.

She danced gracefully with only light movements. It was as if she was dancing on the canvas.

The audience couldn't help but wonder if she was trying to portray a painting with her dance moves.

Her dance moves made her figure appear realistic even on a blank canvas in everyone's eyes. It was so inexplicably beautiful and elegant that it was almost too good to be true.

The top ten comments were from Vania's haters.

Seeing that, Vania's fans reached their breaking point and fought back. 'Is it so difficult to recognize her exceptional abilities?'

And so, this unpleasant topic ended.

Meanwhile, her dance on stage also came to an end.

She bowed deeply to the audience.

At this moment, a staff member came up on stage and put up an enlarged version of a painting.

'What's that painting about? It's messy.'

'Uh... Could it be true what the online haters said? Did she just play to the gallery?'

"So, Vania has also fallen from grace. It appears that she has contradicted the praise bestowed upon her by her fans.'

'It shouldn't be like this. Vania is the Plot Twist Queen. How could she fail so miserably?'

Whispers filled the air as the painting on the stage remained incomprehensible.

Similarly, Hanson sat in front of the television with a proud smile.
Whenever there was a program involving Vania, the whole family would watch it.
At this moment, the kids stood with their arms crossed, showing dissatisfaction.
Mommy only expresses her love to Daddy, but what about us?
Vania was slightly creeped by the intense gaze of the eight people.
Yes, it was creepy.
She felt a stark contrast in temperatures as if her body was caught between a blazing furnace of Hanson's presence and the icy chill emanating from the boys.
Feeling awkward, she touched the tip of her nose and smiled at them.
Hanson's smile broadened as he observed the situation. He joyfully remarked, "I must say, the title Queen of Public Affection suits you perfectly."
He then provocatively looked at the kids. "What do you think?"
"Yeah," the kids responded with disinterest and cast a sidelong glance at him. "You're already a grown man, so don't act like a lovesick fool."

Chapter 1034 The "Eighth" Child

This was completely out of odds with Honson's image as the president of Luke Corporation.

Moreover, Vonio advised him to consider the kids' young age and cut them some slack.

Okay, they're just kids... He pouted in dissatisfaction. Regardless of his status as an unbeatable president, he retorted in a somewhat spoiled manner, "Dorling, I'm also a child and need your love."

She supported her forehead in her mind. His actions do resemble those of a child...

But on the surface, she had to maintain her composure and reassure Honson. "Guess what, I'll spoil all of you. No one will be left out."

For now, I'll treat him as the eighth child. Although he's a bit more mature, he's quite good-looking.

Unaware of Vonio's internal complaints, Honson was extremely proud and looked at the kids to show off his position.

The kids silently disregarded him, as they believed they did not have an immature dad like him.

She sighed and could not help but take out her phone to tweet.

VonioGreyson tweeted, 'Taking care of eight children alone is no easy task.'

As her Twitter account had been primarily used for official announcements and work-related content, sharing personal aspects of her life was completely new and unexpected.

Since she was already popular on the "All-Around Talent" program, her tweet garnered even more attention and quickly rose to the top of the trending topics.

Chapter 1035 Genetic Mutation

Hanson's lack of confidence mainly stemmed from considering his position.

If it were a daughter, his position would still diminish. Looking at his sad expression, Vania decided to provide him with examples to help him comprehend the situation.

"The genes for competing for favor are already ingrained in you, so if we have another child, they will undoubtedly inherit those traits. Just take a look at the seven kids."

They undoubtedly took after him in terms of attitude.

If they were to have one more child, she could already envision the helpless expression on Hanson's face. By then, it would be too late for regrets.

Just as she finished speaking, the kids interrupted her, "No, we didn't inherit any of Daddy's bad genes."

They simply did not want their father to have their mother all to himself.

Jack cast a disdainful glance at Hanson. "We're so exceptional. How could we have inherited Daddy's genes? We definitely inherited Mommy's genes."

Hanson was childlike to them while they considered themselves mature, upright young men.

Otherwise, Hanson would persistently try to take credit for everything.

It's hard to have such a father.

He was left dumbfounded by their explanations. So... if none of the benefits are related to me anymore, then what purpose do I have here?

Seeing his continued reluctance to admit defeat, the kids internally disdained him. If he can't even believe it, then he's hopeless.

The utterly hopeless Hanson struggled. "Am I completely useless?"

If that was the case, it seemed the rumors circulating for many years were all false, and Luke Corporation would also be nothing but an empty shell.

The seven kids looked at him with great sympathy. "In any case, our excellent genes all come from Mommy."

In their eyes, their Mommy was the best in the world. However, they regarded Daddy's achievements as mere strokes of luck.

Luck? Hanson contemplated, as it was the first time he heard such a statement.

Chapter 1037 A Role-Playing Game

Using honorifics, huh? Hanson, who had been quietly competing, loosened his furrowed brow slightly upon hearing Vania's voice.

However, his tone carried a hint of unpleasantness as he replied, "Come in."

At this moment, he once again asserted his authority as a president.

She entered with the sound of her high heels clicking, delicately holding a dessert in her hands.

With a smile, she said in a sweet tone, "President Luke, I imagine you must be tired from work. I've prepared a dessert for you. Please give it a try."

Hearing her soft and tender voice, Hanson knew she was playing a role-playing game with him. Since she enjoys it, I'll go along.

As he lifted his head from the documents, he intended to appear aloof but was taken aback by the sight of Vania standing before him.

Vania seldom dressed in such an alluring work uniform, her long hair cascading down and her graceful figure accentuated. Her captivating smile added to her allure.

She seemed even more delicious than the food in her hands.

Hanson's eyes sparkled, and he was unable to conceal his amazement.

"Sincerity?" Vania raised an eyebrow. Instead of finishing her sentence, she directly extended her fingers to Hanson's neck and gently slid them down to his abdomen.

Her electrifying touch caused his entire body to tremble and tingle.

The light in his eyes dimmed and indicated she had stirred something deep within him.

His expression turned dangerously intense, but she continued her actions and repeated them several times.

Finally, she stopped when beads of sweat appeared on Hanson's forehead.

In a sweet and tender voice, Vania dragged, "It's not that I lack sincerity. I... simply... want... you."

Each of her words carried an ambiguous undertone.

"Haha." Hanson laughed audaciously and pulled her into his embrace.

He gently held her finger that had just traced along his body and caressed it in his palm.

"You truly are one in a million. I haven't experienced what you just mentioned. Why not we give it a try now?"

As he spoke, his face drew close to Vania's neck while his hands moved erratically.

Taking advantage of his excited state, she gently pushed him away and distanced herself from him.

Chapter 1039 Home No More

The two began a beautiful evening over a piece of dessert.

Meanwhile, rumors of Vania's pregnancy continued to circulate online.

Although Thomas maintained a stoic expression upon hearing the news, he felt his heart weep in silence deep down.

In his wheelchair, Thomas switched off his phone as his assistant pushed him to Jasmine.

He questioned, "Did you give money to Yvonne?"

Jasmine did not attempt to deny it. Even now, a trace of anger lingered as she looked at him. She retorted coldly, "As a brother, you prioritize outsiders over your sister. And now you dare to question me for helping my daughter?"

Hearing her insinuating words, he knew Yvonne must have said something to her.

Feeling helpless, he corrected her, "You're not helping but making things worse for her—"

Jasmine interrupted him before he could finish his sentence, "Thomas."

When she called his name, it was filled with fury and resentment. "Remember, I'm your mother, and it's not your place to lecture me."

Her breath became unstable due to her anger. She supported her forehead and glared at Thomas.

Thomas sighed as he realized further explanations would be futile and had no desire to prolong the conversation.

However, Jasmine persisted and scolded, "Don't think I don't know. You've been deceived by that b*tch Vania. Remember. As long as I'm around, I'll never allow you to do anything that harms Yvonne."

However, Jasmine persisted and scolded, "Don't think I don't know. You've been deceived by that b*tch Vania. Remember. As long as I'm around, I'll never allow you to do anything that harms Yvonne."

Her accusatory expression toward Vania perfectly mirrors Yvonne's.

Thomas was genuinely angered by those words and looked at Jasmine helplessly, questioning, "Isn't she the one harming herself?"

Everything she does leads to a self-destructive path. She's well aware of her wrongdoing, yet she persists without remorse.

Even with numerous individuals seeking to hold her accountable, she adamantly denies her errors and recklessly invites disaster.

Her actions alone could warrant a lifetime in prison. If Vania and Hanson resort to more drastic measures, her life could be at risk.

Thomas smiled bitterly and shook his head. Despite his efforts to help alleviate Yvonne's sins, she and Jasmine failed to comprehend his intentions.

He was well aware of his mother's undeniable responsibility for his sister's current condition. Excessive indulgence of a parent only brought harm to a child.

Although a myriad of words lingered in his heart, he ended up saying, "I can't reason with you. Let's leave it at that."

However, Jasmine persisted and scolded, "Don't think I don't know. You've been deceived by that b*tch Vania. Remember. As long as I'm around, I'll never allow you to do anything that harms Yvonne."

However, his attitude provoked Jasmine. "Get out!"

If he had not intervened and intercepted Thomas, it was likely that Thomas would have never stepped foot in his home again.

With the son and the daughter leaving, Benjamin wondered what meaning this family would hold for him.

Thomas sighed with his head lowered and turned his wheelchair. "Dad, you should know this was never my intention. I have always had the family's best interests in mind."

Benjamin did not refute his words and replied with a touch of helplessness, "We have reached this point. There's no turning back. It's best to stand with Yvonne. Perhaps there is still a ray of hope."

After all this time, he had come to realize this.

Even if they made compromises now, they would still lose Yvonne, and the numerous industries of the Kepler Family would suffer.

Instead of compromising, he believed it would be better to confront the situation. Perhaps they could even explore the possibility of merging certain industries of Luke Corporation and the Joneses. Thomas motioned for his assistant to stop as he held onto a glimmer of hope for Benjamin.

Josmine also stopped smashing things and stood in place with red eyes.

Without turning around, Thomas waited for Benjamin to speak.

By then, the Kepler Family would be truly unparalleled in Hillsworth.

The lost secret bases could be reclaimed, and the international status would undergo significant changes.

Thomas looked up at Benjamin in disbelief. "Are you planning to cooperate with Eddie Luke?"

Benjamin smiled coldly. "When did I ever say I went to cooperate with him? Is he even worth it?"

In his eyes, Eddie was utterly worthless. Like Yvonne, Benjamin looked down on him and was not interested in collaborating. However, he recognized the necessity of utilizing someone when the situation demanded it.

In his view, Eddie held the highest utility at the moment, particularly because Yvonne was still under Eddie's control.

Assisting him in dealing with Luke Corporation would allow Benjamin to reap the benefits.

However, he did not anticipate that his thoughts were shared by Eddie as well.

Thomas was shocked by Benjamin's words as he had never imagined that his father would have such unrealistic ideas.

Knowing Eddie lacked the necessary abilities, he attempted to persuade Benjamin but ended up saying, "Dad, have you really thought it through? Can't you reconsider your decision?"

"I have given it extensive thought, son." Benjamin looked at Thomas and asked, "Are you willing to stand by my side? With your support, our chances of success will significantly increase."
