

Her Seven LBG 471

Chapter 471

"More than ten?" Vania's eyelids twitched again, and she vaguely guessed what was going on.

"Yes. For rich people like you, it's easy to forget what you've bought. I've encountered similar situations like this before, so it's not that surprising."

The delivery man looked like he had experienced this multiple situations. Since he had encountered too many strange scenarios, he was not curious at all.

Vania could only smile in embarrassment. "Thank you. Please bring them all in."

"Okay, please wait a moment. You can sign it all together later."

"Sure."

The smile on Vania's face was a little stiff. This was probably Hanson's doing, and it was most likely part of his high-profile apology.

More than a dozen large boxes were transported into the office, and Vania was finally about to unpack them.

She opened the first box, but before she could take a look inside, there was a knock on her office door again.

"Come in."

"President Greyson, there are more." As the assistant spoke, he brought in more than a dozen delivery men.

"Miss Vania, please sign for these packages," the delivery men shouted in unison.

Each of them was holding a large box with roses on it, and they looked gorgeous.

At first glance, each was a unique gift box. Vania curled her lips and signed her name quickly.

Seeing that her office had suddenly turned into a warehouse, Vania asked her assistant, "There are no more boxes, right?"

"I guess so," the assistant answered with uncertainty. After all, there weren't any delivery men left downstairs, and the big truck could be heard revving its engine.

"Okay." Vania nodded.

She stopped thinking about the boxes and said, "Please help me prepare for the live broadcast." An idea popped into her mind.

"Okay, President Greyson."

While her assistant prepared for it, Vania sent Hanson a text message. 'I've received your deliveries. Thank you, dear! XOXO!'

Women were always happy to receive gifts, not to mention when it was given by someone they liked.

Naturally, Hanson was happy when he received the text. He immediately replied, 'As long as you like it.'

However, his eyes were still glued to the screen after sending that message, and it seemed like he was having some difficulties. He reluctantly asked Larry, "Do you know what 'XOXO' means?"

XOXO?

Larry didn't understand what Hanson was saying at first, but then he realized it.

He explained in a low voice, "President Luke, it means hugs and kisses."

Hugs and kisses?

Hanson looked at Larry with a dark face, for he felt very uncomfortable.

Chapter 472

Vania was speechless. Why must it be a competitor? Why can't it be Hanson himself? Indeed, the netizens' thoughts could be rather unusual at times.

Below that, there was another headline. 'President Luke responded with a five-minute advertisement to claim his wife.'

Hehe... He would put it on for a longer time, but the power supply in the opposite building was cut off.

Vania looked at the discussion on Twitter, most of which were discussing what happened just now.

'Who is so bold as to fight President Luke for a woman? Aren't they afraid of death?'

'Are you sure it's for Vania? Can't it be for someone else?'

'Why is President Luke's advertisement time so short? Is this contempt toward the opponent?'

Vania really wanted to laugh when she saw the comments. If netizens knew the truth, she didn't know how they would mock Hanson. She looked forward to it.

Right then, she took the initiative to post a tweet. 'There'll be a live broadcast at 12.00PM today.'

It would be more convenient for everyone to tune in to the live broadcast since it would be around lunch break.

After she posted it, she also asked the company's team to publicize it. That way, more people would know about her live broadcast.

Naturally, Hanson received Vania's tweet. She's doing a live broadcast? He was curious about what it was going to be.

He looked at the time, and there were still twenty minutes before noon. As such, he immediately told his secretary to bring lunch to his office.

At this time, he was surfing the Internet and frowned when he saw the comments of netizens.

Who else would dare to show affection toward my woman?

It seemed that he had to find a way to correct the netizens' thoughts.

At this moment, Larry, who had gone out to avoid the scene just now, returned. "President Luke, the investigation has made it clear that the building indeed lost power because the cable was broken. It was not a sabotage."

How unlucky it was for the cable to break right when he advertised, not a moment earlier or later!

"Give them a warning. Let's see if the cables will break when Luke Corporation buys them up."

It was as if he wanted to settle the scores with them.

"Okay." Larry nodded. As expected of a cold-blooded president! He wants to buy up the building just because a cable was broken. The business world has never had such a strange reason for an acquisition.

Larry had to silently light a praying candle in his heart for the unfortunate building manager.

In order to appease Hanson, Larry said again, "President Luke, in order to avoid future sabotage, we have already dispatched additional men to where Eddie is."

After all, no one in Hillsworth would dare to trouble Hanson except for that man.

Chapter 473

Hanson clearly sounded like he was gnashing his teeth.

"Not at all, President Luke. You are handsome and outstanding. How could you be a trashy tycoon?" Larry immediately had an epiphany. It turned out that Hanson cared about this news, and he immediately praised Hanson as much as he could.

Only then did Hanson snort a little arrogantly. "Deal with it, then."

These netizens' thoughts were deplorable. How can I be compared with those trashy tycoons?

"Yes, I'll do it right away."

Larry's was extremely efficient. Within five minutes, the so-called trashy tycoon that was trending on Twitter got taken down.

Next, Hanson posted a tweet. 'I am the so-called trashy tycoon. No one deserves to be my competitor, and Vania is my woman.'

Hanson's tweet was very domineering as he explained himself.

However, he didn't say why the billboard only appeared for five minutes. After all, it was such a shameful thing and should not be made known to anyone.

'What a sudden display of public affection! I don't want to read it.'

'That trashy tycoon we've been talking about for so long turns out to be President Luke.'

'I need such a guy in my life.'

'What kind of novel plot is this? It's too sweet.'

Most of the netizens were positively affected by Hanson's tweet, but a handful of them weren't afraid of getting themselves into trouble.

'President Luke explained the first two points, but why not explain the third one?'

'That's right. It's not like President Luke's style.'

'The tweet above is speaking the truth.'

'Haha, President Luke would say you don't deserve to know.'

The netizens' ridiculing comments made Hanson's face gloomy for a while; they were making it seem as though his abilities were subpar.

If those netizens knew that he ran into a power outage when advertising, wouldn't they mock him even more?

Thus, he ignored their comments. Out of sight, out of mind.

However, today's news all seemed to be against him. The news of Luke Corporation's acquisition of the building was even on the trending search at some point.

This was originally a sad thing, but it was turned into a joke by netizens.

'President Luke buys the building in anger since the power went out while he was advertising.'

Chapter 474

Hanson stretched his hand out and motioned for her to come over.

The secretary was a little flattered. After all, she had not had such close contact with the president in the five or six years she had been in the company.

"President Luke," the secretary whispered.

"Do you watch live broadcasts? Do you know what that means?"

Hanson was eager to learn at this time. After all, he knew that the fans were sending these hearts to Vania, but when he thought that there might be men watching the live broadcast, he felt a little uncomfortable.

The secretary was taken aback for a moment, not expecting that he would suddenly pay attention to this.

However, she quickly recalled Vania's live broadcast at noon today, and it turned out that Hanson was also watching it. The secretary immediately stepped forward to explain the purpose of these icons, and Hanson nodded. "Okay, you go out first."

He was going to send them to his wife.

"Yes." The secretary quickly exited.

Hanson's hand began to quickly tap on the phone screen. Soon enough, his name was on the top of the ranking for the most hearts sent out.

Similarly, Vania's stream also became the most tipped live broadcasts at this time.

She was probably the first one to reach the most income before she even started her live broadcast.

Hanson looked at his masterpiece with satisfaction. Very good. I should be the first on the fan list of my wife's live broadcast.

At this time, no one noticed that another person was watching Vania's live broadcast silently—Eddie.

It was almost time, and Vania sat in front of the camera.

However, because she was in the office, the domineering image as a female president appeared instead.

Hence, fans in the live broadcast began to call her 'President Greyson'.

Seeing the fans' warm welcome, Vania stretched out her hand and smiled sweetly at the camera. "Hello, everyone. I'm Vania Greyson, and welcome to my live broadcast."

"Hello, President Greyson."

The chat was full of greetings as if they were having a company meeting.

Vania's smile became even bigger, which made Hanson intoxicated. He seemed to think that if he hid her away, only he could see her smile.

"Today, I'll be going live to talk about makeup."

Vania talked about the contents of her live broadcast curtly. Holding live broadcasts about makeup was not something new in the industry.

Nonetheless, everyone was still a little disappointed. They didn't expect that the long-awaited live broadcast turned out to be about makeup.

Some people were not even interested and quit the live broadcast. When she saw how everyone's reaction seemed rather bland, Vania smiled and explained to everyone, "I haven't finished yet. Don't worry, guys—today's live broadcast will definitely not disappoint you."

Chapter 475

Now, the netizens and fans really wanted to see what was inside the boxes.

Vania was not in a hurry to open them. She patted several of the boxes with her hand gently and said, "There are cosmetics in these boxes."

Hanson was not surprised that she could guess what they were. After all, the logos on the boxes already stated what they were.

Vania continued, "I will use these cosmetics during the makeup tutorial today. Since my man has bought too many of them, I will select a few lucky fans for a giveaway during the live broadcast. I hope it will bring you lots of luck in love."

Although this was another wave of PDA, fans were still very happy because they would be receiving gifts from Vania. After all, these cosmetics were very expensive, and one couldn't usually buy them even if they wanted to.

'As expected, President Greyson is right. She won't disappoint us in this live broadcast.'

"The live broadcast will officially start now," Vania said to the camera seriously.

"Before we start, I want to introduce a special friend to everyone. Do you want to guess who this friend is?"

Vania deliberately paused.

'Huh? Is it President Luke?

'Is this another public display of affection?'

When she saw everyone's comments, Vania immediately explained with a smile, "It's not President Luke. I'll give a hint to everyone—it's related to today's makeup theme."

'A celebrity? A makeup artist?'

'An internet celebrity who is a makeup ambassador? Don't tell me President Luke is doing that.'

The speculations of netizens were getting more and more outrageous.

Hanson didn't know much about the field, so he didn't know who it was. Although Luke Corporation had a number of investments in cosmetics, he still didn't pay much attention to people in this industry.

However, he somehow felt that his woman was going to surprise him again.

Vania continued to say, "She is a very influential makeup artist, and this person is extremely outstanding."

Vania was not stingy with words as she sang praises for the makeup artist.

At this time, the netizens in the live broadcast were astounded.

A name suddenly appeared in their hearts—Mona-Artist.

'Is it the makeup goddess, Mona-Artist?

It's not Mona-Artist, is it? President Greyson is amazing.'

'There is nothing that President Greyson can't make happen. It's no wonder she suddenly announced a live broadcast.'

Chapter 476

Applause instantly erupted in the live broadcast, and for a moment, the live broadcast platform lagged because of the huge welcome.

At this time, Vania took out a letter of authorization and a certificate.

This was an identity certificate published on the internet, as well as the real-name authentication of Mona-Artist.

That was to say, with this certificate, it could be proved without a doubt that it was the actual person, not an impostor.

Vania was not in a hurry. As she held the certificate, she introduced the anti-counterfeiting sign on it. "Alright, do you have any questions about this certificate?"

'No, please invite Mona-Artist out quickly.'

Every detail of this document could be verified, so there was no doubt about Mona-Artist's identity.

Everyone was now looking forward to the debut of Mona-Artist.

"Okay, everyone! Look carefully." Vania opened the inner page of the certificate at this time.

'What?'

However, when they saw the signature on it, all the netizens were shocked. Even the running comments in the live broadcast paused briefly.

The netizens felt like they lost their eyesight and couldn't see clearly. Perhaps the internet connection was acting up. Otherwise, how could the name on it be hers?

There was a name written on the letter of authorization—Vania Greyson.

When the group of netizens saw the name, they rubbed their eyes in disbelief.

Mona-Artist is Vania, and Vania is Mona-Artist?

Did she hold a live broadcast today to reveal her identity?

After this exciting news broke out, Vania's name was once again trending on all major platforms.

Hanson smiled knowingly. Sure enough, the surprise was here.

'At first, I thought that my eyes were playing tricks on me. Oh, Mona-Artist has appeared.'

Vania looked at the comments and smiled. She could imagine the surprise of the netizens in front of their phones.

"I am Mona-Artist."

As soon as her laughter came out, everyone returned to their senses. Then, the live broadcast chat began to pop out frantically on the screen. They didn't expect that Mona-Artist was actually Vania. What a plot twist!

'Vania is the queen of plot twists, right? There's a surprise for us every single time.'

'After watching this live broadcast, I can tell everyone that I learned my makeup skills from Mona-Artist.'

Chapter 477

Brandon also looked at the video and asked, "Young Master Eddie, do you want to investigate Vania again?"

"No, you won't be able to find anything." If they could find something, he would have received this information long ago.

Brandon was also surprised. "Young Master Eddie, will this woman ruin our affairs? Should we get rid of her first?"

"Don't worry. The better something is, the more we have to work slowly. This way, when it is destroyed, it will make people more heartbroken, right?"

Eddie's eyes were dark; he just wanted to see Hanson miserable.

"Yes, we will follow your arrangement." Brandon nodded.

The live broadcast continued. Vania had already opened a box at this time, and in it were lipsticks of big brands in all the popular shades.

'God, I'm so envious.'

'When will someone send me such a box of lipsticks?'

Vania introduced the specific application methods of these lipsticks, and she even did try-ons for the netizens. The style of application was really different, and each style had its own unique interpretation.

'Mona-Artist is really amazing. I've learned some valuable skills, and her explanation is thorough.'

There were a lot of makeup novices in the live broadcast, and they admired Vania very much.

Before Vania knew it, her popularity increased again.

In fact, she had another purpose when she revealed her identity today, which was to elicit Eddie's actions.

She also gave the technical department enough time to check the live broadcast platform to see if Eddie had appeared.

Sure enough, his existence was discovered through the investigation.

At the end of the live broadcast, Vania conducted the lucky draw for fans and went offline.

Just then, the assistant next to her said, "I've found it, President Greyson."

Vania looked at the address the assistant was showing to her. "Gray Condo. Very well. Perhaps Melanie is there as well, so we'll wait and see."

The assistant nodded. Vania then asked again, "Any news about the child?"

"The news still comes from Hammond." It was periodically checked.

"Check out Lilith's identity." Vania's eyes turned cold.

"Yes. Do you want to verify Lily's identity as well?"

Vania was taken aback by the assistant's reminder. She had promised Lily to help find her parents, and she also sent someone to do it, but she never doubted the identity of the child.

After thinking for a while, she agreed. "Run a check on her as well."

"Very well."

At this time, Hanson, who had finished watching the live broadcast, hurried over to Galaxy Corporation.

He couldn't wait to see Vania. His wife was excellent, and he had a sense of crisis since he feared that he would not be worthy of her.

Hanson hurried into Vania's office as if something big was about to happen.

When he saw her, he pulled her into his arms and couldn't help kissing her. "Darling..."

"Ugh..."

After a while, he let go of the panting Vania.

"Darling, you surprise me all the time."

"Of course. That's the only way to match you, isn't it?"

My man is so good, so I have to be as good as him.

"Darling, if you continue like this, I may not be worthy of you," Hanson said what he was thinking.

"I will always be by your side." After Vania finished speaking, she kissed him as if to comfort him.

However, Hanson turned and accosted her at first instance. He wanted to use this method to prove the truth of the moment.

Meanwhile, something else was happening at Gray Condo. Eddie's eyes were extremely dark, and it seemed like he was about to destroy the world.

Chapter 478

It was a pity that his temperament was not enough; he didn't have Hanson's domineering temperament at all, and there was a pretentious air about it.

"It's a pity that I'm not the one using such a woman for my enjoyment." There was a hint of interest on the corner of Eddie's mouth.

"I'm afraid it won't be easy," Brandon reminded him.

"The more challenging things are, the more interesting it is to do them." Eddie glanced at his housekeeper. "Have you heard from the school?"

Brandon nodded. "Yes, Lilith has sent the news back."

"Hehe, she'd better not be as useless as Melanie. What happened to that woman?"

Brandon knew that he was referring to Melanie, so he said respectfully, "She hasn't been out since she entered the apartment."

"After living there for so many days, it's time to charge her rent." Eddie's eyes were cold and calculative.

"It's her honor to be able to do things for you." Brandon had been standing beside him respectfully.

"Young Master Eddie, please give your instructions."

Eddie thought for a while and asked, "Wasn't Lilith being bullied at school today? Go and help her. Give this matter to Melanie."

"Yes, it's Lilith's good luck that you've offered to help her." Brandon praised Eddie.

Five years ago, Melanie brought Lilith to them.

The original plan was to get Vania's child over, but no one expected an accident to happen on the way that resulted in the child being sold off. As such, they had no choice but to bring a new child over.

When they learned that Vania had brought back a girl named Lily, they officially gave her the name Lilith in order to imitate Lily and attract Vania's attention.

Their purpose was to make Vania recognize Lilith as her daughter.

When the time came, they could ask Lilith to help them do more things.

They had been planning this since they knew Vania had ruined that night's plan five years ago.

"Lily, let's walk together after school."

At the kindergarten, just as Lilith wanted to take Lily's arm, she was stopped by six boys who appeared in front of them. They formed a barrier, separating her from Lily.

Lilith was suddenly aggrieved. "Dear brothers, what are you doing?"

"Who is your brother? Pay attention to your words! We only have Lily as our sister." James' tone was disdainful.

Chapter 479

"You..." Lilith was slightly speechless when Jude scolded her.

She looked at Lily and said, "I know it's my fault today, so I want to apologize to you again. I really want to be friends with you."

This apology made her feel unhappy again.

Then, Morales looked at his brothers and asked in confusion, "Why does she have to be friends with Lily? Even if they are friends, why do they have to walk together after school?"

Although Morales asked innocently, every sentence seemed to be criticizing Lilith.

"You have to ask her this," The four brothers said in unison.

Lilith was a little overwhelmed by what they asked, so she could only continue to say, "I just like Lily so much that I just want to stay with her for a while."

"It's been quite some time. Mommy and Daddy are still waiting for us, so let's go." Morgan kept speaking politely, but he ignored Lilith directly.

The children all nodded in unison. "Okay, let's go."

With that, they left with Lily.

However, when passing by Lilith, James stopped for a while. "Don't think we don't know about your purpose. You'd better stay away from our sister. Otherwise, don't blame us for being harsh."

At such a young age, the warnings spoken by him were very terrifying.

Lilith narrowed her pupils at what he said.

How would they know my purpose? No, they must be faking it.

"No, I have none," she explained subconsciously, but no one listened to her at all.

Meanwhile, the others had already left the classroom.

There was rage bubbling in her heart at the moment. Lilith clenched her fists to suppress her anger.

Looking at their backs, she chased after them.

Don't think you can get rid of me.

As soon as she went out, she saw the others running toward a man and a woman.

"Mommy, Daddy!"

"Darlings."

Hanson and Vania caught the children who were running toward them with smiles all over their faces.

Lilith looked a little jealous at those smiling faces.

She had done her homework when she came, and she knew that the two must be Vania and Hanson.

Here comes the opportunity.

"Lily, wait for me," Lilith shouted loudly.

Chapter 480

Lilith then responded with a smile on her face, saying, "Thank you so much for your guidance, Mr. Luke. I'll learn how to get along with my brothers and Lily in school."

When Hanson heard the little girl's reply, he was even more certain that Lilith was not his daughter. My daughter wouldn't be so dumb. Thus, I'm pretty convinced that she isn't my child. With my wife's intelligence and mine, there is no way we'd have a child as dumb as she is.

After all, Hanson believed his children would understand his sarcasm right away, which was why he was sniggering at Lilith who failed to understand the meaning behind his words.

However, Lilith pressed on with her approach in an attempt to flatter Hanson and the rest. "You look so handsome, Mr. Luke, and you're incredibly pretty, Miss Vania. For some reason, looking at you all just fills me with a strong sense of kinship. In fact, it's as if we hadn't met each other in a while."

Lilith intentionally described her words in an ambiguous way, but Vania and Hanson, along with the children, didn't share her sentiment at all.

"I feel the same way too. Seeing you makes me feel like you're one of us." Vania grinned from ear to ear, looking as though she was smiling sincerely.

"Mom, I think it's time for us to go." James was annoyed even though he knew the smile on his mother's face was fake. However, it still didn't sit well with him to see Vania smiling at Lilith.

"Alright, we should make a move now." Vania gently nodded before she turned her attention to Lilith and said, "Lilith, I'm afraid I'm going to have to get going now, so see you next time."

Thinking she was growing on Vania, Lilith looked at the lady with an innocent smile as she ingratiated herself with her. "See you next time, Miss Vania. Don't forget about me."

Man, look at her smile. It looks almost as if it's real. If we weren't aware that she has an ulterior motive, I bet we would all have fallen for that in the beginning.

"Don't worry, girl. I won't forget about you. Goodbye." How can I possibly forget you after all the effort you exhausted just to enter my life?

"Goodbye, Miss Vania," Lilith replied complacently.

Before Vania walked away, she purposely looked at the child with a heavy heart, but as soon as she turned around, her eyes became cold. "What do you guys think about Lily's sister, Lilith?" Vania asked her children. Although she was aware of what had happened in school earlier that day, she still wanted to hear from her children about their thoughts since the matter seemed rather fishy.

"We only have one sister, and that's Lily." The six boys simultaneously spoke their minds.

"Lilith doesn't deserve to be Lily's sister," Jack added
