

Hero of Darkness #Chapter 841 Carrot And Stick - Read Hero of Darkness Chapter 841 Carrot And Stick Online -

Vildred explained the side effects of this technique he was going to use on Kahn in order to forcefully raise his elemental affinities as the latter glanced at him with a confused expression.

"Each time we do this... you will feel like you're overdosing on some pleasure drug.

But the biggest danger is that your body will not be able to restrain itself, even after the elemental affinity and reserves are at the highest capacity and saturation based on the current threshold... your body will keep asking for more without thinking of the consequences." he explained.

In a way, it was similar to a drug addict who would keep asking for more 'good stuff' despite knowing that it will definitely kill them.

"Wouldn't that mean I could just explode from this overdose?" asked Kahn with a suspicious countenance.

Vildred only nodded and continued in a cautious voice.

"But that's not the end.

Since we would need another element to balance it, we will have to move to the next element that is either more powerful than that element we injected or it's weaker and naturally adverse to it.

Means if we were to start with fire, next we will have to go with water." he simplified.

"Well, I can endure those two." responded Kahn.

Vildred on the other hand, shook his head.

"Here, your identity as Hero of Darkness is your biggest enemy.

Because for this condition to fulfill and balance out all the elements of reality in your body... I will also have to fill your body with those two elements as well." he revealed in a grim voice.

As soon as Kahn heard it... He revealed an aghast expression, fully understanding what the dragon emperor meant here.

"Lightning... I can control it even inside your body because I currently have the highest affinity to Lightning in the entire world.

Even the Hero of Lightning of this new generation can't be compared to be. Just like you can't be compared to my brothers who have Darkness and Fire elements.

You will have to be at least a 9th stage saint to be their equal or superior in those elements." he iterated somberly.

"However, You have some resistance against Lightning. You at least won't die easily against it.

But the problem is the Light element." declared the Sage of Preservation.

"During this reformation procedure, we can't skip on it no matter what.

Otherwise, the other elements will go out of control.

And when I forcefully inject your body with light element...

You will suffer immense and immeasurably terrifying pain. Something that's enough to kill any being with the darkness element easily." he said with an indignant countenance.

"However, due to your regeneration abilities and your title as Hero of Darkness...

You won't die. But the agonizing pain will be burning your blood, your flesh, disintegrating your bones and everything in your body.

It will be like you're being annihilated and pulverized every waking second.

Each moment will feel like you've died hundreds of times already." he revealed another tormenting side effect of this technique.

"Is there no other way?" asked Kahn with a helpless tone.

"No. Not unless you want to spend a century to achieve this feat.

If not for you having access to the Chamber of Exaltation, I wouldn't have even suggested this method because it's impossible to do in the outside world." spoke the lightning dragon emperor.

"This is just the Law of Equivalent Exchange again. Nothing comes without a price.

The carrot and stick method where the carrot is as small as a finger while the stick is as big as a tower." said Kahn as he analyzed the situation from his perspective.

But the next moment, Vildred chimed in again and declared the aftereffects.

"However... Once we go through this and if we succeed.

Out of the 12 Heroes, 6 of whom are representatives of the Gods who represent 6 elements of the creation of Vantrea..."

In the following moments, Vildred's eyes gleamed and his voice became confident and tyrannical at the same time.

"None of them will ever be able to kill you."

10 MINUTES LATER.

Kahn sat in the epicenter of the Convergence of Reality where all elements in the world gathered.

"Kaidbwlah Ksbmroa Bmaodbek Opktbsna Jagfange!"

Vildred started chanting in ancient Draconian language which neither Kahn nor Rathnaar could understand.

Soon, 10 glowing yellow small formations, only as big as a tea saucer, appeared at Kahn's shoulders, wrists, and knees. One on his chest, another on his back and the backside of waist.

And the last one above his head.

Soon, they let out a suction force like a black hole.

Vildred used his black and golden scepter with a blue dragon coiling at the top, to create a barrier and only allowed fire elements to pass through.

"Know this... It will hurt like hell even with your immunity to fire water and darkness.

Because it's not an enemy attack but rather, we're forcefully injecting it inside every vital part of your body to create these reserves.

Your affinity to elements will help a bit but once the threshold that your body as a 4th stage saint is met, it will become painful and start to become unbearable.

You must endure it and not faint." he explained the pain that was to follow.

Even Kahn could tell that this was the purest and most potent condensed form of the fire element, at least 5 times more powerful than the outside world.

Finally, the wormholes spread over his body and started sucking it in.

"Now, start using Harnessing and try to create a thin layer of fire elemental world energy.

Slowly and steadily spread it over your entire body." he ordered Kahn.

"What is this called?" asked Kahn.

"It's an Ancient technique created by a Deity who served the God of Nature.

It's called... the Elemental Transfusion."

Just then, the system warned Kahn.

[WARNING!

Forceful Elemental Transfusion has begun!

The host's body is under protective mode.]

"No, shut down all the protective measures." he ordered with a voice filled with indomitable willpower.

"Do not use them no matter how much it hurts."

[Command Accepted.] responded the system.

At this moment, what Kahn didn't know was that compared to the physical and mental torture he faced while practicing Harnessing and Conceptualization; He was going to suffer a fate...

Worse than Death.

Hero of Darkness #Chapter 842 Worse Than Death - Read Hero of Darkness Chapter 842 Worse Than Death Online -

Kahn agreed to follow Vildred's suggestion and let go of all the defensive mechanism

or the aid from the system to yield the perfect result from Elemental Fusion as he didn't want to waste this opportunity by using his body's resistance to the fire element granted by his various passive abilities, the bloodlines or the Divine Key Flamescion.

Soon, the wormhole-like formations suddenly glowed and formed thin needles of fire, each carrying the strength of an unimaginable amount of blistering and blazing flames that could burn down cities instantly.

Even Kahn's temple region of the head was pierced by it.

Those needles then pierced Kahn's body in all the places the wormholes appeared and injected all the amassed fire by Vildred.

"Arrrhghhhh!!"

Wailed Kahn in agonizing pain as if someone was drilling a metal rod in his head, flesh and bones in all these points.

Swoom!

This pain was so intense that he felt his entire body shuddering and vibrating like hot magma was running through it while destroying him from within.

Crack!

Shatter!

Every bone in his body started crumbling and shattering.

Sizzle!

Sizzle!

In upcoming moments, Kahn's flesh started burning from the inside as the orifices also started bleeding including his eyes.

Scorching heat appeared throughout the point of piercing and in a matter of seconds, Kahn was completely coated by a thin film of pure and potent fire as if being engulfed by flames.

"Arrrrrreggggg!!!" groaned Kahn and screamed despite trying his best to endure the pain.

Soon, the damaged nervous system lost connection with his mind and the pain receptors turned useless.

But as an aftereffect, Kahn started having seizures in succession as his body was no longer in his control.

At this moment...

Kahn was burning as if he was bathed in magma inside an active volcano.

However, this immense and terrifying pain Kahn was enduring... Was just the beginning.

Minutes passed.

But in the meantime... Kahn was dying, scorched and burned to cinders alive every waking second.

Unlike how God of Darkness killed him thousands of times when he met them before being thrown into Vantrea...

This wasn't only momentary death which also reincarnated him in picoseconds.

Because here... he could feel every bit of pain and agony in his body and consciousness amplified by a thousand times.

His fate... was Worse than Death.

Hours passed and Kahn kept enduring the horrifying pain as his Instant Regeneration skill and his various bloodlines activated on their own and kept bringing him back to life.

But each time, he kept feeling like his body was churned and turned into ashes as his charred skin kept dropping on the ground, forming large heaps of ash around it.

This pain was many times more terrifying and mortifying than anything he had experienced before.

And for the first time even after mastering Harnessing and Conceptualization, Kahn felt like he no longer had the will to live.

At this point, whether it was his body or his mind... Both of them had broken.

The light in his eyes... was of a dead man.

Another hour passed as Kahn kept living through torment and was no different than burnt coal as his hair and skin had completely charred beyond the point of recognition.

Right then... The system sent a notification.

[Elemental Transfusion for Fire Element complete!

Congratulations to the host!

The host has achieved 100% Natural Affinity with the Fire Elemental.

The host can now achieve instant transformation of World Energy into Fire Element at will.] the system notified.

But Kahn on the other side had completely lost his mind.

Soon, his regeneration skills started recovering his body and in minutes, the outer layer of charred skin cracked, revealing the perfectly healed and rejuvenated skin and all fleshly organs.

BOOM!

A massive aura erupted as the ash and dust from the burnt skin were shoved away with a gust.

A scorching red aura suddenly revealed itself, full of violent and terrifying might.

This was the aura full of the Fire Element of Vantrea in its peak form.

Just like the one present at Convergence of Reality, Kahn now emitted the same fire that previously entered his body via the formation created by Vildred.

Huff!

Huff!

The dragon emperor also revealed an expression of victory and contentment.

[If I was at my peak... This process wouldn't have taken so long.

And he wouldn't have experienced death for so many hours.] thought the Sage, clenching his fist in self-hatred as he blamed his current weakness.

He had seen what Kahn went through and could understand how it felt being turned into cinders and then recovering just the next second to live through that horrifying pain again and again for so long.

During the Elemental Transfusion procedure that took more than 5 hours and by his estimation...

Kahn had died and returned from the dead more than 18,000 times.

Something that was not even the top powerhouse such as 8th stage saints in the world could easily go through.

"Kahn... wake up!" he exclaimed.

But Kahn didn't move as if he was in some sort of trance.

His eyes were open but his mind was blank.

The air permeated through his skin but he couldn't feel anything.

His body completely regenerated, revealing even more monstrous strength and fiery aura. But his countenance revealed lifelessness.

To outsiders, Kahn would look completely fine under this domineering aura, akin to a King.

But inside... He was completely a dried husk of his former self.

A few more hours passed but Kahn still didn't move or respond.

Rathnaar also used his core and provided Kahn's body with an abundance of World Energy to pull him out of this state.

Yet there seemed to be no life as if his soul had left his body.

However, at this very moment...

Whoosh!!

Kahn appeared in an astral soul form inside a space unknown. His ethereal body floated in the air.

In this space, everything was made of fire.

Black, white, blue, green, red and yellow colored flames encompassed basically everything in this dimension with no sky or ground.

However, a 1 kilometer tall entity stood atop a throne made of liquified fire and gazed at Kahn with glowing eyes full of discerning countenance.

Kahn also gazed at this entity with whom he felt an indescribable connection.

"Who are you?" asked Kahn with a vigilant expression.

"Ah... Didn't think I would see you like this one day.

Especially not after you killed my previous contractor." spoke this massive being made of multicolored flames that didn't have a fixed position or direction.

"Who are you? Do you know me?

Have we met before?" queried Kahn again, revealing no fear in his demeanor either.

"Of course I do... Hero of Darkness.

Didn't they tell you that 'we' have a sentience of our own?" spoke this ginormous being with a tyrannical, terrifying and ghastly voice.

"My name is..." revealed the being in a majestic voice as if it was an Overlord of all the Fire in the world.

"Amaterasu."

Hero of Darkness #Chapter 843 Divine Fire - Read Hero of Darkness Chapter 843 Divine Fire Online -

The being akin to a deity that lorded this plane of existence where Kahn was suddenly thrown into revealed its true identity to be none other than the Divine Weapon, Amaterasu.

Kahn's eyes were left wide open as he was speechless and too stunned to comprehend this predicament as not even in his wildest dreams did he imagine this scenario.

"Where am I? And why did you suddenly appear?" he questioned with a cautious gaze.

The first thing Kahn needed to know was if he was in danger.

"This realm is inside the Divine Key, Flamescion.

The part which has merged with your own." revealed Amaterasu, whose entire body was made of multicolored flames and sat on a massive throne that was at least 600 meters in height alone.

The tiny ant-sized Kahn then questioned the divine weapon with a look filled with hostility.

"Why am I here in my soul form? Why did you summon me suddenly?"

To his words, the fiery being with a humanoid structure and a face with glowing red eyes replied.

"I didn't. You appeared here by yourself.

And the only way for a chosen Hero to appear in this realm is meeting the prerequisite condition to form the contract." responded the divine weapon carefreely.

"Conditions? For what?" asked Kahn with a puzzled countenance.

"Looks like you have met the 100% affinity condition for the Fire Element." he revealed with a discerning gaze as he scanned through Kahn's spectral form.

"This was why I hadn't acknowledged you as my contractor." he iterated solemnly.

"Contractor? You mean your owner?" asked Kahn.

However, Amaterasu shook its head and replied...

"There is no fixed owner for a divine weapon like me.

We only have temporary contractors, all of them are the Heroes and Heroines of the element we were created with.

For me, it has always been a Hero/Heroine of Fire."

Kahn finally understood what was going on here. Neither did he come here willingly nor did Amaterasu summon him.

Without knowing, he must have met a condition he was unaware of.

"What are the conditions you speak of?" he asked in a stern voice.

"One of the conditions to form a control between a divine weapon, which is created solely for the chosen Hero is 100% Natural Affinity with that element.

Otherwise, the heroes cannot wield us at our full power. Because our powers will end up killing them instead." explained Amaterasu.

"The Divine Key of that element has 3 main uses.

One is to grant the hero or heroine a body that has full immunity and natural affinity with the element.

The second use is that the Divine Weapon can only be bound to the Divine Key as already using us consumes a lot of Soul Essence.

If we were directly tied to the soul itself, the user would die in the matter of months.

Hence, a divine weapon can only be used by a chosen hero." he revealed truthfully.

"And the third use... like the word says, it's a 'key'." the divine weapon's voice echoed.

"A key to what? A lock, some formation or a door?" asked Kahn curiously.

Soon, Amaterasu spoke and revealed the truth.

However... for some reason, Kahn couldn't hear it and Amaterasu's mouth didn't produce any sound when he tried to speak the truth again.

"Looks like gods made sure that it can't be shared with other heroes." spoke Amaterasu after assessing the situation.

He then glanced at Kahn.

"You're at least different... than your predecessor."

Amaterasu suddenly mentioned the 8th Hero of Darkness out of nowhere, raising Kahn's curiosity.

"You're not like him. Unlike him, you actually have 100% affinity to Fire." he spoke.

"You knew him?" asked Kahn with a baffled expression.

"Of course. That bastard killed my 7th contractor and forcefully commanded me along with other Divine Weapons which were not meant to be used by him.

He primarily had the Divine Keys. That was his main objective.

We divine weapons were just something that came along with them since we're actually bound to the Divine Key and not the Hero/Heroine in the first place." he explained a part of the truth of the past.

"So what did he want? Why did he kill all the heroes?" asked Kahn hurriedly.

This was one of the answers he had been looking for since long ago.

"No idea. I was under forced comatose just like others until he died.

After his death, all of us returned to the empires that store and protect us through True Dimension, to keep us protected for the next summoned hero." he revealed honestly.

"Do you know about my divine weapon?" asked Kahn.

"Him? Do you not have him?" questioned Amaterasu, a visible surprise revealing on his face.

Kahn shook his head in response.

"No wonder I didn't get that ominous and eerie feeling from you.

That guy... even with the short time I shared with him...

I couldn't see through him or even understand. It was like endless darkness that consumed everything in the world." he spoke and was lost in his own thoughts.

Kahn on the other end was processing this whole advancement and decided to make a few choices of his own.

"The current Hero of Fire is dead." he said to the divine weapon.

"I know. That was a very shameful defeat.

Even worse than Fringilla, the 7th Heroine of Fire when we fought against the 8th Hero and your divine weapon.

If only that useless runt had focused more on training and becoming stronger instead of playing savior in front of others just to feel good about herself... I wouldn't have lost against your divine weapon so miserably.

This is why I hate Attention Seekers. I had 3 of such contractors already and none of them could help me reveal my full power during combat." he spoke with discontentment.

"Now, at least for this generation... You have no owner.

So what do you say? Will you acknowledge me as your contractor?" asked Kahn without any hesitation.

To his out-of-the-norm and obtuse proposition... the divine weapon replied calmly.

"Well, you have the divine key and 100% fire immunity as well as natural affinity now.

You met all 3 conditions to become my contractor, same as Axel." he declared.

But the next moment, he asked in a grim voice, showing a domineering countenance.

"But why should I?

Hero of Darkness #Chapter 844 Terms Of Contract - Read Hero of Darkness Chapter 844 Terms Of Contract Online -

This time, Kahn's proposal was denied by the Divine Weapon despite the former meeting the required conditions to become its contractor as the latter asked him for a valid reason about why he should accept this proposition.

"Because without me, you're just floating inside the true dimension with no end." said Kahn firmly.

"Tch! So what?

I will only become a secondary weapon and a discarded toy once you find your own divine weapon.

Besides... There's no point." said the divine weapon with a discouraged countenance.

"Why?" asked Kahn.

"Because no matter what... None of you can defeat him." declared Amaterasu.

"Who are you talking about?" Kahn queried.

"There's only one being I hate more than your divine weapon.

The one everyone calls... the Demon God."

Kahn was suddenly taken aback after hearing these words.

It meant that Amaterasu had at least encountered the Demon God.

"Tell me what you know about him or it." said Kahn with a stoic expression.

"Four of my contractors have fought him till now in the past 3 thousand years since I was created.

He killed 2 of them, 1 fled from the fight and the last one was gravely injured 900 years ago which ultimately led to his death." said Amaterasu as he revealed a bit of the past.

"By my guess... He Should already be way too powerful than all those centuries ago.

Whether it was Axel or even you... you're both just too weak to even stand in front of him without dying." said the divine weapon, heaving a helpless sigh.

"Is that so? Tell me something... How does he look or what powers does he have?

Why haven't all the heroes with divine abilities and divine weapons managed to kill him in the past 3 thousand years?

And why can't all the powerhouses of the world come together and kill him along with the heroes?" asked Kahn, throwing a lot of questions at once.

"So naive... Let me tell you what I know from my personal experience fighting him.

Other than an extremely strong hero and a divine weapon at full capacity... No one can fatally harm him.

Someone will have to be at least a Peak Saint already to overcome his law of reality." he explained.

"What law?" asked Kahn.

Obviously, he knew about how Demon God was born. But he had no knowledge of his powers.

Amaterasu spoke and revealed.

But just like before... This formation too couldn't be heard or spoken by both parties.

"Dammit! Just know this... The Demon God cannot be killed easily.

He has no fixed body, appearance, or identity. Also, he isn't bound by laws of reality or elements of nature, and a confirmed way to be killed.

No matter what divine abilities any hero has... He is a being that simply cannot die." he spoke in a ghastly voice as his flaming body shone brightly, reflecting his anger and hatred against the Demon God.

"Out of all the times I faced him, he was a completely different being.

Sometimes a monster, sometimes a saint, once he was just a pure form of unknown energy and once, he had multiple bodies that were differing in race, species, regions of vantara they existed in.

As for the reason why we can't kill him... No one knows.

Some have succeeded in killing him and even destroyed his body and soul completely but he always came back alive after some time. And his next appearance was hard to trace. " revealed Amaterasu.

"Son of a bitch! This means forget fighting and killing him... You can't even find him or think of a way to kill him unless you had prior information.

And based on what you said... the method of killing him is probably always changing each time as well." hypothesized Kahn.

Otherwise, at least one Hero would have succeeded till now.

"Well, that's just my opinion based on personal experience.

There could be many other reasons why no one including your predecessor succeeded despite being one of the 3 strongest Heroes ever summoned in this world.

Back then, your predecessor was a 9th stage saint, the strongest one among all the summoned heroes.

With all the Divine Weapons and Divine Keys in his hand... He was possibly the strongest Hero in history." he stated without shame or indignation.

"Also, I do know that he used me and all the others during a fight.

If I wasn't forced to sleep, I would've known what happened during their battle and the aftermath. Maybe your own divine weapon will tell you since he was most likely awake." spoke Amaterasu.

"Then grant me your strength.

Do you not want to settle the score with him if I ever come to face him?" asked Kahn, trying to instigate the eternal flame named Amaterasu.

"Now... That is a great motivation.

However... How do I know you will actually strive to become worthy to yield me at full potential?" he questioned the Hero.

"To be honest... My situation isn't any better." said Kahn in response.

Soon, he revealed everything about his situation in Vantrea and how he was being hunted.

"Oh, so you have no choice but to become stronger than everyone else if you want to survive.

Well, that at least guarantees a few things." said Amaterasu and started giving a few thoughts and analysis of his own.

Finally after hours of discussion and pestering, Kahn managed to appeal to the divine weapon's decision.

"Fine! Build up your soul essence first.

I will share my knowledge and techniques to reinforce your soul so I can use my strength and you also don't waste excessive soul essence.

But know this...

These methods are different for every divine weapon based on their elemental affinity." revealed the eternal flame.

"Wouldn't Hetrax be angry?" queried Kahn curiously.

"I'm aware that I was made from a small portion of Hetrax's divine essence condensed in his heart.

But I don't know him.

Although I was created from him... I am my own being. I have no loyalty or allegiance to anyone." he declared fearlessly.

"We divine weapons solely exist to fight and kill.

Just that all of us need the Divine Key and a Contractor to gain soul essence and use our powers. The stronger the contractors, the more powerful a divine weapon.

So I will lend you my aid only if you promise to keep practicing and become stronger unlike my previous two contractors who simply didn't take these matters seriously and died so pathetically.

And together... We will kill that Demon God bastard." said Amaterasu as he set up his own terms.

Kahn only nodded in response. Even he could tell that one day, he would be facing the Demon God even if he didn't want to.

"Alright then. I accept."

Inside the Chamber of Exaltation...

Kahn's soul finally regained control over his body sitting at the epicenter of Convergence of Reality and he opened his eyes.

And in the very next moment, the system sent notifications in his mind.

[Congratulations to the Host!!

The host has made a contract with Divine Weapon Amaterasu. The divine weapon has acknowledged the host as its contractor.

The host gained 100% control on Divine Weapon Amaterasu.] it reported.

Kahn also had a satisfied smile.

Dying for more than 18,000 times just to gain 100% natural affinity to fire element gave an unexpected result that no one saw coming.

Because now... even though it happened out of pure coincidence; Kahn finally had true ownership of Amaterasu, a full-fledged divine weapon.

After all these years spent hiding and building his strength silently...

Kahn was no longer defenseless.

Hero of Darkness #Chapter 845 Soul Technique - Read Hero of Darkness Chapter 845 Soul Technique Online -

Kahn finally absorbed his current advancement and finally had full control over Amaterasu, the divine weapon that originally belonged to all the Heroes/Heroines of Fire, which was passed down from generation to generation of summoned heroes since the past 3,000 years.

"System, based on my current rank and soul essence, how much and for how long can I use Amaterasu?" asked Kahn to the system.

[Based on the host's current rank as a 4th stage saint, the host can only use 40% of his total soul essence in order to utilize the divine weapon.

Currently, the host can make only 8 attacks using the divine weapon Amaterasu.

More than that would adversely affect the host's soul and physique, causing an immense backlash that would incapacitate the host and render him unable to fight or even more for close to 3 months.] reported the system.

"Damn! No wonder no hero likes to use their divine weapon unless absolutely necessary." he sighed.

[However... Based on current physical stats and purity of the soul itself, the host can fight even a being 3 ranks higher than him.] notified the system.

"What?! You mean I can at least face a 7th stage saint if I'm using Amaterasu?" asked Kahn, completely bewildered.

[Yes. The host can at least fight a beginner 7th stage saint on his own if he uses the divine weapon Amaterasu.] responded the system.

"Amazing! This is definitely going to be one of my biggest trump cards and could save my life when I'm out of options such as having no means to flee and being forced to fight." spoke Kahn with an elated expression.

The advantage of finally having a divine weapon of his own was already showing its effect.

"Now... I need to check the Divine Technique imparted to me by Amaterasu." said Kahn and started meditating again.

'Reminiscence of Eternal Flame.'

This was a divine technique that Amaterasu gave Kahn and imprinted in his consciousness after they made their promise and the former finally approved of the latter as his contractor.

If one was to explain this divine technique, it would be like this...

While practicing it, Kahn had to break 1% of his soul and infuse it with Amaterasu's fire which was now accessible to him at will as he finally became its owner.

However, based on his understanding of the technique... It was extremely taxing on the soul, body and mind at the same time.

And then, he'd have to absorb that portion of the transformed soul back into himself, which was even harder since their base properties and form were now different.

It was like trying to mix a drop of oil inside a glass of water, both unable to form a homogeneous solution due to their physical properties.

However, the divine technique had a way to assimilate these two slowly but surely.

And as a result, it will help Kahn's soul to become more familiar and correspond to the Eternal Flame that ranked even higher than the Dragonfire in this world.

If he carried on practicing, Kahn's control over his soul would become powerful over time and then his Soul Essence would undergo a qualitative change; resulting in his soul essence reserves becoming potent as well as bringing qualitative changes.

And finally, after all these changes are brought, Kahn could use Amaterasu without burning excess Soul Essence, like how Axel wasted most of it during their fight.

Unlike him, Kahn didn't have Death Absolution. Hence, he didn't have extra lives to waste his soul essence on either.

And because he was currently only a 4th stage saint, he could access only 40% of his soul essence as stated by the system.

This procedure was going to take a lot of time. Because even the previous Heroes/Heroines of Fire took years to fully cultivate this technique.

Because here, Kahn's blessings weren't going to help him and neither would something like doppelgangers were going to be useful.

This wasn't a combat technique and neither did his doppelgangers possess a soul for any boost in training or some hack to work in terms of mastering it.

Now... There was one big side effect.

Every time Kahn practiced and sacrificed 1% of his soul essence, all his physical stats would decrease by 1% as well.

And during that period, Kahn couldn't level up either as his soul was constantly under tempering.

"System, why can't I level up during practice?" queried Kahn out of curiosity.

[Because the Soul, Mind and Body are interconnected.

If one of them is being affected or undergoing some sort of transformation or tempering, the other two aspects would also be affected.

The host may have not realized it but during Elemental Transfusion for Fire Element, the host's mind and body were in great pain and now emerged stronger as the body became powerful due to elemental transfusion.

As a result, the host's soul has also transformed and it is 10% purer than before.] iterated the system.

"Wait! Does that mean once I reach elemental affinities for all 8 elements... My soul will become 80% purer than before?" he asked with a befuddled countenance.

[Yes.]

"Doesn't that mean my using divine techniques will make my soul even denser over time after I'm done with elemental transfusion for all elements?" he questioned again.

[Yes.] reported the system in its usual robotic and lifeless tone.

"To put it simply... My soul could have close to 180% purity, almost 2 times more than the other Heroes?" he asked again.

[Yes.]

"Holy cow!

Means if I keep working on it... I will not only reduce the amount of Soul Essence required to use the Divine Weapon, but also my Soul Essence will be 2 times more than other chosen heroes!" exclaimed Kahn in astonishment after recounting everything.

"That's too OP and broken!" Kahn said as he grabbed his head in disbelief.

"Dammit!

If Armin was here, he could've used the Soul Reformation skill to heal my soul again and again, making it denser and purer while I practiced the Remembrance of Eternal Fire technique.

Then my soul essence would've been more than 2 times, maybe even 3 times." spoke Kahn as he revealed a greedy and insatiable grin.

"Such a missed opportunity." he thought and heaved a sigh of helplessness.

Whoosh!

Whoosh!

Both Rathnaar and Vildred quickly arrived after noticing that Kahn was out of his trance.

Soon, they too learned about what happened. And both of them shouted at the same time...

"This shameless greedy son of bitch!"

Hero of Darkness #Chapter 846 Last In The List - Read
Hero of Darkness Chapter 846 Last In The List Online -

Both the lightning dragon emperor and the peak saint flared up in rage and openly shouted at Kahn without hiding their discontent and incredulous expressions.

"Why is he getting such a huge power up?!" spoke Rathnaar with discontent.

"Eh? What do you mean?"

"I'm the one who is still losing a lot." Kahn shamelessly claimed that he was suffering a great loss.

But in the upcoming moments, he told them that if Armin was here, the results would be even greater, his tone was akin to a braggart complaining about how great 'loss' was.

Rathnaar on the other end fumed with anger and almost lunged at Kahn.

"This shameless bastard! He's getting something even I did not have as a Peak Saint and he's still complaining!" shouted the first emperor as if he would beat the shit out of this gluttonous individual.

Vildred stopped him and pulled him back.

"Seriously... I have never seen someone who's so lucky but greedy and shameless at the same time." spoke the royal dragon in a grumpy tone.

"You have me, the Sage of Preservation, the once number 1 mage in the world teaching you magic.

There's an Apostle of Slaughter teaching you combat techniques and weapons, the kind that comes only once in a thousand years.

And finally, a Peak Saint sharing his wisdom and knowledge that other saints would sell their souls for.

Then the Tablet of Arcana, which the empires and even 8th stage saints would go to war for.

On top of it, you're the Apostle of the War Deity and Apostle of Blacksmithing at the same time.

This is something even royal dragons like me would feel envious of." said Vildred, almost feeling like a street beggar compared to Kahn.

Rathnaar then spoke with a visible frown in between his eyes...

"If I had that kind of luck, I would've become a Demi-God long ago." he also complained.

"Shut the hell up! I'm the unluckiest person here!

You both have lived as powerful beings and ruled over billions for centuries.

I on the other hand have been without anyone looking after him since day 1 here.

Say that I have more only after I've reached the peak of strength and magic like both of you did." said Kahn as he rolled over his eyes.

"Well, looks like my days of hiding and being on my own are finally over.

It felt like the world was making up for all the misfortunes I suffered ever since I was summoned." he said with visible arrogance.

"Every dog has its day. Mine has finally come."

After an hour of quarreling and fighting like little toddlers who complained about not having enough candies to eat, the three anomalies of the world of Vantrea finally stopped bickering.

"All right then. Let's see how things are carrying on." spoke Kahn.

He then started recounting what he has been covering and the gains he made in the meantime so far.

First, he had Romulus teach him how to increase his strength with the techniques such as Harnessing and Conceptualization as a warrior. And there were 3 more techniques to learn.

Soon, Kahn was going to receive proper and top-tier weapons training. Where once he mastered them, he could leave increasing proficiency to his doppelgangers.

Second, Vildred had already proven his worth as the Sage of Preservation who once ranked as the number one magician in the world.

The dragon emperor didn't even start teaching him properly but the very first Elemental Transfusion he performed on Kahn already helped the latter gain the divine weapon Amaterasu's recognition and become its contractor.

And once the Elemental Transfusion for all the elements was done, Vildred would also start teaching him top-level spells, barriers and formations since his entire body was going to transform and with the help of the Chamber of Exaltation, he would progress at terrifying speed as stated by the Sage himself.

So as per their previous discussion, things were in order.

Along with the Reminiscence of Eternal Flame art given by Amaterasu, Kahn was going to be even busier since increasing his Soul Essence was also part of the priority for his future growth.

Now... All it needed was time and consistency till the seeds grew up to be a tree and bore fruits.

"Kid, it's time. Since your body is changing, it's also the best period for you to learn and condition yourself for it." said Rathnaar as he stood beside Kahn at the epicenter of Convergence of Reality.

"Time for what?" asked Kahn curiously.

The peak saint heaved a sigh and in the following moments...

Shing!

Clink!

Suddenly, the space around them fractured like shattered glass and a door akin to a void crack emerged.

"Follow me." he said and the other two followed the emperor.

Whoosh!

Whoosh!

After they passed through the void door, all three appeared in a different section of Chamber of Exaltation that was previously hidden from their senses.

A widespread great hall with gigantic pillars and in its center was a 10 meter wide cloud-like wormhole, emanating a golden glow filled with unknown energy.

"Is this... Is this what I think it is?" asked Vildred as he glanced at Rathnaar with disbelief.

"Yes. This is where I trained and perfected it." he replied without explaining anything to Kahn.

"This isn't the same as the floor outside.

The first one is for condensing world energy and raising your levels.

Those Convergence of Reality and other sections that are associated with different Laws of reality are also great. But they're good only if you practice in particular law.

However... none of them can help you like this section as it caters to what you need most." said the peak saint solemnly.

"Perfect it, break it, and master it.

And then you start studying and infusing your law with it." said Rathnaar in a cryptic tone.

"Exactly what are we talking about here?" asked Kahn with a puzzled countenance.

"This region is something every 4th stage saint in the world would give up everything to train in. It is important to decide your future as someone beyond 5th stage saint." he spoke and continued in a grim voice.

"Romulus already showed you how weak and frail the one you possess is. And how much you have downplayed its potential since you never even tried to perfect it." spoke Vildred, agreeing with Rathnaar's judgment after analyzing this great hall.

"It's called the Hall of Sentience."

Finally, Rathnaar revealed the purpose of this hall to Kahn who had no idea.

"This one... Is for your Domain.

Hero of Darkness #Chapter 847 Hall Of Sentience - Read Hero of Darkness Chapter 847 Hall Of Sentience Online -

Kahn and Vildred stood with solemn expressions as Rathnaar introduced them to this new majestic hall with grandiose and articulately built hall that had intrinsic designs and architecture, named the Hall of Sentience.

"Why is it called the Hall of Sentience?" asked Kahn.

"Because this thing... It's alive. It has 'Sentience' of its own." responded the peak saint in a stern tone.

"It feeds on impurities and the imperfections of elements and regenerates them in the purest form.

To put it simply...

It is like a Sun in the sky, full of energy and unimaginable power.

But on the other side, it was also like a black hole that would suck in the domains, laws and elements like a voracious beast." he shared his insight with the other two.

"The energy in the center is not an element found in the outside world anymore.

It's called the Element of Origin." he revealed while pointing his finger at the golden glowing central part of the cloud-like orb that was emanating an unknown form of energy that Kahn had never seen or heard of before.

"Whatever law you practice or element you possess, it can absorb and fine-tune it for you since all the elements are derived from it in the first place.

Unlike the Convergence of Reality, they don't meet or coexist here. Rather, they originated here.

In a way, it's one of the world's best element-purifying mechanisms in the entire world." said the first emperor of Rakos.

"Boy, you need to use your domain here.

This place has a mechanism that will destroy it and rebuild it from scratch.

And they will also absorb your law essence.

In your case, it's the Space Force since you use the Dimensional Law which also created your Dimensional Domain." he iterated in a confident tone.

"In the outside world, if your domain is destroyed, your entire body and world energy reserves will receive a great backlash. Sometimes, even saints are bedridden for months because of it.

But here, that restriction doesn't exist since the Element of Origin will quickly absorb it, feeding on it. And then, it automatically expels out a purer form." he explained.

Kahn on the other end was stupefied.

"What kind of genius built this?" he couldn't help but wonder.

In simple ways...

This seemingly harmless and normal-looking thing, which didn't look majestic or terrifying or some immensely otherworldly region such as the Convergence of Reality was actually the most amazing and powerful section of Chamber of Exaltation.

"This Hall of Sentience will save you decades of study and efforts a normal 4th stage saint has to go through to become a 5th-stage saint by creating a Domain of their own first." he spoke in an almost proudly manner.

"Know this, there aren't even a hundred 5th-stage saints in the world. Many don't even reach that rank even with having a core to absorb world energy from.

Because having a Domain of your own which is made with the law of reality you practice, have an affinity with and have achieved enlightenment goes against the laws of nature." iterated the peak saint again

"When a Domain is created, we are forcefully establishing our dominance and creating space that bends, mends and defies the elements of reality itself. It's like creating a small world that benefits us, the user with the laws beneficial to us during a fight.

Thus, creating a domain is like posing a threat to the laws and elements of nature. Hence, it is seen as a hostile entity by the world." suddenly, Vildred explained his own analysis.

"Wow, I never knew that." replied Kahn, still baffled.

"Well, because you had the shortcut called the Divine Abilities.

Your current Dimensional Domain is more of a poor-quality base version of what it can actually achieve if you perfect it.

Now, I will teach you how to use it." proclaimed the peak saint.

"But it will be no different than what you have endured so far.

First, try to learn and master as much as you can to your maximum capacity.

After that, I will show you the other place." he stated in a grim tone for some reason.

Kahn activated the dimensional domain, encapsulating this entire hall that was akin to an emperor's Throne Hall.

But the next moment, the entire dimensional domain which had the ability to reduce any enemy's physical and magical stats by 50%, quickly shattered and crumbled into small granules.

"Exert out some of your space force." commanded Rathnaar.

Kahn followed the orders and a burst of space force was expelled from his body.

Yet in just a few seconds, it was quickly absorbed by the wormhole-like and cloudy thing in the air at the center of the hall.

Kahn on the other side felt that he had no connections left with his Dimensional Domain.

Soon, he tried but couldn't activate it again either.

"Wait... Did this thing steal my domain?" he asked, his mind discombobulated.

Vildred then started inspecting this whole procedure.

"Oho... This is simply brilliant.

This is both the devourer and source of the world energy, mana, laws and all the elements of reality at the same time.

We're lucky this thing exists only inside this Chamber of Exaltation." he spoke as if they evaded a great danger.

"If it was in the outside world...

The entire world of Vantrea would have been destroyed in just a couple of months.

With access to both mass and everything that exists in the world, it would have engulfed it.

Then purified it and then expelled it again. This time, the saturation of world energy, mana, laws and elements would be many times denser." he explained.

He then looked at Kahn and asked Kahn.

" And what happens when energy is oversaturated?"

"It explodes." replied Kahn as he folded his arms.

"Correct. But things don't end here.

It would have engulfed whatever remained of the world after that explosion, purified it and ejected outside again.

Then there would be another explosion, many times more powerful.

And this process would have repeated itself indefinitely and infinitely." the royal dragon replied with a terrifying truth.

"Doesn't that mean it is even more dangerous than a black hole or a nuclear explosion?

Even the sun would be eaten by this thing and turned into a bomb." he spoke, his heart full of trepidation.

"Seriously... How is this thing even operating?

This breaks all the notions of Law of Conservation of Energy or Law of Equivalent Exchange." he said again with a perplexed countenance.

Because out of all things he had seen so far, Kahn could not grasp the logic behind this Hall of Sentience at all.

Vildred on the other end has his own queries...

"I'm more curious about which Deity made this. What kind of civilization was so advanced that even the current world we live in cannot match their genius and technological advancements?"

To his question, Rathnaar replied...

"Although I'm not sure, I feel like this has to be the work of the First Walkers." he stated.

"Who are they?" asked Kahn.

"Descendants of Primordial Titans.

Let me tell you something...

Primordial Titans weren't just overwhelmingly gigantic monsters or creatures without intelligence.

They were creators, world changers and no matter what law, element or whichever region of the world they resided in, they impacted thousands of kilometers of the region around them greatly.

Many of the species in the world are rumored to be their test subjects spread around the world by Primordial Titans according to ancient records.

Only Dragons and Godbeasts have been existing since the ending period of the same immemorial era as them." he shared a hidden truth about the world.

"We're just looking at a creation made by one of their Paragons." he spoke, unable to hide his curiosity and vehement respect.

Finally, the glowing yellow orb-like source released energy and it automatically entered Kahn's body.

[Congratulations to the host!]

The very next second, the system sent a notification to Kahn's mind.

[Space Law infused with the Dimensional Domain.]

Hero of Darkness #Chapter 847 Hall Of Sentience - Read Hero of Darkness Chapter 847 Hall Of Sentience Online -

Kahn and Vildred stood with solemn expressions as Rathnaar introduced them to this new majestic hall with grandiose and articulately built hall that had intrinsic designs and architecture, named the Hall of Sentience.

"Why is it called the Hall of Sentience?" asked Kahn.

"Because this thing... It's alive. It has 'Sentience' of its own." responded the peak saint in a stern tone.

"It feeds on impurities and the imperfections of elements and regenerates them in the purest form.

To put it simply...

It is like a Sun in the sky, full of energy and unimaginable power.

But on the other side, it was also like a black hole that would suck in the domains, laws and elements like a voracious beast." he shared his insight with the other two.

"The energy in the center is not an element found in the outside world anymore.

It's called the Element of Origin." he revealed while pointing his finger at the golden glowing central part of the cloud-like orb that was emanating an unknown form of energy that Kahn had never seen or heard of before.

"Whatever law you practice or element you possess, it can absorb and fine-tune it for you since all the elements are derived from it in the first place.

Unlike the Convergence of Reality, they don't meet or coexist here. Rather, they originated here.

In a way, it's one of the world's best element-purifying mechanisms in the entire world." said the first emperor of Rakos.

"Boy, you need to use your domain here.

This place has a mechanism that will destroy it and rebuild it from scratch.

And they will also absorb your law essence.

In your case, it's the Space Force since you use the Dimensional Law which also created your Dimensional Domain." he iterated in a confident tone.

"In the outside world, if your domain is destroyed, your entire body and world energy reserves will receive a great backlash. Sometimes, even saints are bedridden for months because of it.

But here, that restriction doesn't exist since the Element of Origin will quickly absorb it, feeding on it. And then, it automatically expels out a purer form." he explained.

Kahn on the other end was stupefied.

"What kind of genius built this?" he couldn't help but wonder.

In simple ways...

This seemingly harmless and normal-looking thing, which didn't look majestic or terrifying or some immensely otherworldly region such as the Convergence of Reality was actually the most amazing and powerful section of Chamber of Exaltation.

"This Hall of Sentience will save you decades of study and efforts a normal 4th stage saint has to go through to become a 5th-stage saint by creating a Domain of their own first." he spoke in an almost proudly manner.

"Know this, there aren't even a hundred 5th-stage saints in the world. Many don't even reach that rank even with having a core to absorb world energy from.

Because having a Domain of your own which is made with the law of reality you practice, have an affinity with and have achieved enlightenment goes against the laws of nature." iterated the peak saint again

"When a Domain is created, we are forcefully establishing our dominance and creating space that bends, mends and defies the elements of reality itself. It's like creating a small world that benefits us, the user with the laws beneficial to us during a fight.

Thus, creating a domain is like posing a threat to the laws and elements of nature. Hence, it is seen as a hostile entity by the world." suddenly, Vildred explained his own analysis.

"Wow, I never knew that." replied Kahn, still baffled.

"Well, because you had the shortcut called the Divine Abilities.

Your current Dimensional Domain is more of a poor-quality base version of what it can actually achieve if you perfect it.

Now, I will teach you how to use it." proclaimed the peak saint.

"But it will be no different than what you have endured so far.

First, try to learn and master as much as you can to your maximum capacity.

After that, I will show you the other place." he stated in a grim tone for some reason.

Kahn activated the dimensional domain, encapsulating this entire hall that was akin to an emperor's Throne Hall.

But the next moment, the entire dimensional domain which had the ability to reduce any enemy's physical and magical stats by 50%, quickly shattered and crumbled into small granules.

"Exert out some of your space force." commanded Rathnaar.

Kahn followed the orders and a burst of space force was expelled from his body.

Yet in just a few seconds, it was quickly absorbed by the wormhole-like and cloudy thing in the air at the center of the hall.

Kahn on the other side felt that he had no connections left with his Dimensional Domain.

Soon, he tried but couldn't activate it again either.

"Wait... Did this thing steal my domain?" he asked, his mind discombobulated.

Vildred then started inspecting this whole procedure.

"Oho... This is simply brilliant.

This is both the devourer and source of the world energy, mana, laws and all the elements of reality at the same time.

We're lucky this thing exists only inside this Chamber of Exaltation." he spoke as if they evaded a great danger.

"If it was in the outside world...

The entire world of Vantrea would have been destroyed in just a couple of months.

With access to both mass and everything that exists in the world, it would have engulfed it.

Then purified it and then expelled it again. This time, the saturation of world energy, mana, laws and elements would be many times denser." he explained.

He then looked at Kahn and asked Kahn.

" And what happens when energy is oversaturated?"

"It explodes." replied Kahn as he folded his arms.

"Correct. But things don't end here.

It would have engulfed whatever remained of the world after that explosion, purified it and ejected outside again.

Then there would be another explosion, many times more powerful.

And this process would have repeated itself indefinitely and infinitely." the royal dragon replied with a terrifying truth.

"Doesn't that mean it is even more dangerous than a black hole or a nuclear explosion?

Even the sun would be eaten by this thing and turned into a bomb." he spoke, his heart full of trepidation.

"Seriously... How is this thing even operating?

This breaks all the notions of Law of Conservation of Energy or Law of Equivalent Exchange." he said again with a perplexed countenance.

Because out of all things he had seen so far, Kahn could not grasp the logic behind this Hall of Sentience at all.

Vildred on the other end has his own queries...

"I'm more curious about which Deity made this. What kind of civilization was so advanced that even the current world we live in cannot match their genius and technological advancements?"

To his question, Rathnaar replied...

"Although I'm not sure, I feel like this has to be the work of the First Walkers." he stated.

"Who are they?" asked Kahn.

"Descendants of Primordial Titans.

Let me tell you something...

Primordial Titans weren't just overwhelmingly gigantic monsters or creatures without intelligence.

They were creators, world changers and no matter what law, element or whichever region of the world they resided in, they impacted thousands of kilometers of the region around them greatly.

Many of the species in the world are rumored to be their test subjects spread around the world by Primordial Titans according to ancient records.

Only Dragons and Godbeasts have been existing since the ending period of the same immemorial era as them." he shared a hidden truth about the world.

"We're just looking at a creation made by one of their Paragons." he spoke, unable to hide his curiosity and vehement respect.

Finally, the glowing yellow orb-like source released energy and it automatically entered Kahn's body.

[Congratulations to the host!]

The very next second, the system sent a notification to Kahn's mind.

[Space Law infused with the Dimensional Domain.]

Hero of Darkness #Chapter 848 Law And Effect - Read Hero of Darkness Chapter 848 Law And Effect Online -

Kahn stood bamboozled with a petrified expression after he was taken aback by this sudden notification.

The main factor behind his surprise being the fact that he never knew about a Law being able to merge with a Domain.

"How is that possible?" asked Kahn and shared the information with Vildred and Rathnaar.

"You idiotic and ignorant fool.

Your Dimensional Law only granted you a pre-made domain. It was like giving you the ability to speedrun before you even learned how to walk.

However, it only had the function of lowering the enemy's stats at best." spoke the royal dragon with an annoyed expression.

"Didn't you see Romulus' Domain of Slaughter? That did so many things than just lowering your strength. And we saw only its first form.

So obviously, your domain is no different either." he iterated.

"If you were a 5th stage saint... then

I would be at that rank as well. Then I would've shown you my Domain.

Just know that a proper and powerful domain has multiple uses than just limiting an opponent's strength or fighting abilities.

Although you received a shortcut, it's barely an entry-level domain. And the only method to strengthen your domain is merging and assimilating your Law in it." the Sage of Preservation declared.

Kahn finally understood the difference. This was knowledge he never heard of and wasn't available in any books.

Obviously, the powerful people, especially those who were 5th stage saints and above wouldn't naturally declare it for the world.

If not for Vildred and Rathnaar, Kahn probably wouldn't have even found that his own Dimensional Domain had much more to offer.

System then notified Kahn about what effects did he receive.

[The host can now willingly teleport to any point within the span of his dimensional domain, without needing any other movement skill or evading ability.

The host can also oppress and slow an enemy's attack or skill targeting him by a few seconds.

The host can also decrease the enemy's psychological thought process by 10% during battle.

Note : All these ability effects will rise with the increase in Space Law assimilation with the Dimensional Domain.

Current infusion rate : 5%] informed the system.

"Damn! This is so useful.

In a battle between saints, even a single second is enough to decide life and death.

If I can slow down someone's thought process, then I can possibly reduce their perception and reaction time during a fight.

This is completely different than just reducing someone's physical stats." spoke Kahn.

Because this effect was something he had to use many different abilities separately to achieve.

But now that Space Law merged with his Domain, these became passive abilities. And it was only 5% of effectiveness. With the increase in his mastery and proficiency, the effects would also rise gradually.

System then mentioned that Kahn could go as far as 40% merging of Space Law with Dimensional Domain at best based on his current rank.

After he crosses 50%, only then he would be eligible to develop a 2nd form of Dimensional Domain.

"How do I improve it?" he asked the two ancient freaks in front of him.

"Whether it's magic, law, or a domain... Your progression is dependent on a single decisive key factor." spoke Rathnaar and revealed in a majestic tone.

"Enlightenment."

"Correct. You need a 3rd enlightenment in Space Law to cross that threshold.

It was the same for us with our domains as well." responded Vildred.

"We can't help you with that. It's something only you can achieve on your own.

Complete the 40% merging first in the upcoming months. Then I'll show you a useful place." spoke the Peak Saint, hinting that he also had a few plans of his own for strengthening Kahn's domain as he previously promised.

1 MONTH LATER.

Romulus inspected Kahn's body with a flabbergasted countenance.

"What the hell happened to you?!" he exclaimed in disbelief.

Because Atreus aka Kahn now felt like a completely different being.

Every part of his body whether it was blood, bones, veins and even the skin was in an optimal condition which was nigh impossible to achieve for even someone like him.

What he didn't know was that in the past 1 month... Kahn underwent a literal massacre.

Him being the one who was massacred.

All of this was the result of completing the Elemental Transfusion procedure for all elements.

This experience was no different than what he suffered through for the Fire element.

For water, his body burst out and froze, crumbling to bits and then erupted like a jetstream because of the uncontrollable water pressure.

For the Wind element, the kind Kahn only used in the early stages of his life in Vantrea, he once entirely turned into fog and even almost became a raging storm with his body parts, intestines and flesh flying in it.

For Earth elemental, he turned into a boulder and even his blood turned into slurry. Kahn couldn't even move in that state and felt like he was mummified.

Chaos Element was a nightmare because Kahn's mind turned frantic and full of bloodlust as he went berserk. All he could think about was killing and going on a rampage. His flesh was overgrown and his blood became as hot as lava.

Thankfully, Vildred was here to stop him and keep him sane. Otherwise, he would've gone on a murder spree.

For Wood element, his body exuded Life Force and almost vines grew from his arms and roots from his legs while the hair and skin turned leafy and dried respectively.

Then there was the metal element, the extremely rare kind.

Kahn was no different than a metal ore, with no life, no movement and no consciousness. Kahn felt like he was dying from suffocating for hours.

As for Lightning, he was turned into a charred wood and electrocuted every waking second, fuming with smoke as result.

Kahn literally underwent the Heavenly Tribulation that those traditional cultivation novel protagonists faced every time they made a breakthrough.

But unlike how those stories portrayed invincible might and domineering stature of the MC who didn't bow to the heavens despite getting obliterated while defying normal sense and logic at the same time...

Kahn's bones and muscles cracked like dried wood on fire. He was akin to a slab of charcoal that was getting hit by the most terrifying lighting bolts possible at the same place again and again for hours.

Dying was like breathing to Kahn at this point. But it didn't mean that it hurt less or the pain subsided any less.

And finally, there were the two elements that completely changed his body. Namely...

Darkness & Light.

Hero of Darkness #Chapter 849 Apostle Of Death? - Read Hero of Darkness Chapter 849 Apostle Of Death? Online

-

At the end of his Elemental Transfusion procedure, Kahn was left with only two elements which were very important to balance all the other elemental affinities and finally grant him a body perfectly made for practicing the Law of Magic in every aspect.

Vildred carried on this procedure with extreme precision as Darkness and Light element were too volatile and uncontrollable even to him.

Finally, both he and Kahn started another session of painful and gruesome torture that would kill the latter again and again as part of their daily routine.

An hour passed as Vildred started saturating all the pure and dense darkness element present at Convergence of Reality and infused it within Kahn's body.

However... the Darkness element was surprisingly way too overwhelming for Kahn as he felt like his body was constantly under the bottom of the ocean because the pressure was so tremendous that his body almost got flattened, hollowed and shattered many times from the inside.

This effect was different than Lightning which was too rampant and uncontrollable. Alas, in terms of strength and destructive power, Darkness was evenly matched.

Hours passed as Kahn died hundreds of times, his entire body getting sucked in some sort of black hole and compressed to the point his skin was sticking to his bones.

This was a feeling many times more powerful than any saint pressure he felt in his new life, the aura emitted by Romulus being no exception to this.

But after 14 hours of consistent torment and dying more than 25 thousand times during the process, the 50% affinity to darkness element in Kahn's body finally became 100%.

In the outcome, his entire physiological strength arose tremendously as his resilience to all other elements including lightning rose to a whole new level.

3 Days Later.

Finally... It was time for the bane of his existence aka the Light element.

Here... Kahn was turned into smithereens most of the time and annihilated from every inch of his body.

He turned into ash and small sand granules many times as if he was disintegrated from the inside.

Kahn had barely any resistance against this element and thus, his affinity to build up with the Light element was the hardest compared to both Lightning and Darkness.

It took them 2 days and Kahn died more than 100 thousand times during this procedure. If not for Rathnaar using his core to provide Kahn with world energy consistently and allowing his Instant Regeneration and Phase Shift skill to work all the time, he would have died in the early stages of this session for the last element.

Although he finally achieved 100% affinity, it didn't mean he became impervious to this element.

Affinity and Resistance were two completely different things.

It was like fish having an affinity with Water. But if someone used a high pressured water jetspray against them, the fish would still die.

Any powerful being with light element could still easily kill Kahn.

But the aftereffects were all worth it.

Thanks to all the elemental affinities rising to 100% in his body...

Kahn now achieved a physique many times stronger than before. Every element reforged and caused transmutations in Kahn's body in their own way.

As an aftermath, many of his skills and abilities now rose to a completely higher rank.

S Rank elemental skills, abilities and magic spells now rose as far as up to SSS Rank.

Some SSS Rank skills related to his physiology and elemental affinity straight up rose to Saint Rank.

And the already existing ones also got an 80 to 100% efficiency boost in total damage, range and effectiveness thanks to this massacre and destruction Kahn underwent.

Kahn was now literally akin to Convergence of Reality. As for all the elements in his body; they were 'perfectly balanced'.

In conclusion, Kahn was now fully capable of fighting an Intermediate 5th stage saint with his physical strength alone without even using a single one of his power buff abilities.

And at his peak strength such as Asura Mode & Berserk God Mode... Kahn could even go against a Peak 6th stage saint.

And if he used what he learned from Romulus, then even facing a beginner 7th stage won't be a distant and impossible dream.

"Isn't there an Apostle of Death title? I have died too many times at this point and came back alive." spoke Kahn.

"There's an Apostle of Masochism. You want that title?" asked Vildred with a grin.

Kahn then met Romulus as the latter checked his body, bewildered after inspecting it.

Kahn qualified to achieve this impossible feat by suffering and dying more than 500 thousand times in an entire month.

And now, he had the perfect body to master any kind of elemental magic present in the world.

"Well done. You should start it now that your body has reached its peak potential." commended the heavenly king.

"It will even elevate your control over Conceptualization to a higher degree." he implored Kahn.

A few minutes later, Kahn went back to his villa and met his magic mentor.

"Alright, we will start with Magic Spells first." spoke the royal dragon who was in the center hallway of this villa.

"From now on, even the weakest A Rank spell you use will have 100% of its maximum capacity.

Because you have achieved 100% affinity to the 10 Elements present in the reality and thus, the resultant spell will always have the potency to the max since your body, mana and world energy is the one generating them." iterated the Sage of Preservation.

"So since the source is pure and powerful, the output will also be at maximum capacity by default?" asked Kahn curiously.

"Correct. Now, let's start with your basic foundation first.

The technique I'm about to teach you is similar to Conceptualization. But it doesn't apply to weapons or their elements... Rather the spells, formations and how you integrate your elemental affinity in them." said the dragon emperor.

"Many use chanting to harness elements in the world and produce spells through practice methods.

However... we're taking a shortcut since your body and mind have transcended normal magicians in the world." he declared.

The very next moment, a glowing blue archaic formation appeared on the floor and before Kahn could react...

Bang!

Vildred's open palm struck the center of Kahn aka Atreus' chest and Kahn appeared in the air.

However... the blue wolfskin body remained and fell on the ground while the real Kahn in his human appearance floated in the air as a soul specter.

He looked at his mentor with a bewildered expression.

"Because of Elemental Transfusion, your body and mind became optimal to study and learn magic. Your potential is already on par with the High Elves and even Superior Dragons who have a natural inborn affinity to many aspects of magic.

Now, this is the last step to make you perfect." he declared.

"And that's training your Soul."

Kahn in soul form watched as Vildred revealed his plans.

"Not many people in the world know of this. Even I found it because it was left by one of my ancestors who lived 300 thousand years ago.

This technique is how I achieved my 3rd enlightenment in Law of Magic and it can at least make you an Archmage in the future." said the Sage.

"It's called... Mindless Revisitation."

Hero of Darkness #Chapter 850 Mindless Revisitation - Read Hero of Darkness Chapter 850 Mindless Revisitation Online -

Vildred pushed Kahn's soul form out of his body to teach him the technique which he claimed to be helpful for the latter to become an exceptionally powerful magician in the long run.

Kahn in his spectral form floated in the air as his intangible, translucent and glimmering figure was still stifled and taken aback.

"This is the only way to help you practice this technique." spoke the dragon emperor.

"Okay... Ancient One." replied Kahn.

Soon, the Sage of Preservation started chanting and as a result, 10 blue and glowing threads came out of Kahn's spectral form and attached themselves to Kahn's body which was in the Atreus persona.

"Hmmm... Now what is this?" asked Vildred himself after he noticed something odd while forming a connection between the soul and body.

"Your soul... there's something inside of it." he spoke with a concerned gaze.

"There's something akin to a parasite that is attached to your soul but it has always been inactive." spoke the royal dragon.

"What?! What are you talking about?" asked Kahn, completely bewildered.

"Is it harmful?" he asked hurriedly.

"I cannot say. I have never seen anything of this kind. But by the looks of it, I don't see a threat to you from it." replied the dragon emperor.

"Will it hinder me from training?" queried Kahn again.

"No. Not in the least.

But it's better to stay vigilant." replied Vildred with a worrisome expression.

His gaze then turned to the old man Rathnaar.

"How come you didn't find it? You were a peak saint weren't you?" he asked the first emperor in an admonishing tone.

"Who do you think I am? I'm but a remnant soul now. I have my limitations to notice something so well hidden.

Besides, it took a Sage like you to notice it. I'm sure no other mage would even have sensed it in the first place." argued the peak saint.

"Just a poor excuse for hiding your ignorance." scoffed the royal dragon.

"This is not my area of expertise anyway.

And even you didn't notice this before making the Contract of Familiarity. So aren't you to blame as well?" rebuked the old man.

"Alright! Stop your bickering, you two!" shouted Kahn.

"Since it's not something hazardous and we don't have a way to find out anyways... Let's focus on the topic at hand." he spoke, almost irritated by these two former archenemies.

As the discussion progressed on its own...

Without all 3 noticing, a red and archaic formation akin to a massive rune etched on Kahn's back suddenly appeared.

This formation imprinted on Kahn's soul was something he had no idea of and none of them could even see it for some reason.

It quickly disappeared as the 3 of them were engaged in conversation.

And to this day... The truth behind this red formation shall remain a mystery.

Vildred taught Kahn to chant a spell.

Kahn followed the instructions suddenly...

His body laying on the ground stood up and cast the spell instead of his soul.

Kahn was stupefied to see his unconscious body activating the skill as if he was controlling it like a puppet.

The gust of wind element coalesced on his palm and the whirling windblades blades created friction and then Kahn compressed it like an orb.

This seemingly small orb of wind full of hundreds of windblades was actually carrying the strength of a full cyclone.

If Kahn used it and threw it in the middle of a city... The full strength will be revealed and like a raging storm, the entire city will be uprooted and decimated easily.

Suddenly, Kahn felt great pain and his spectral body caved in like all the strength was leaving out of nowhere.

"What... what's happening?!" asked Kahn as he groaned.

"At this moment, your mind is at rest.

However, your soul is commanding your physical body using your soul essence.

Although the amount is extremely negligible compared to what using a Divine Weapon demands... The aftereffects of using it are still there." responded the magic mentor.

"Each time you use it, your soul will become weaker for a short span. But it will also recover naturally in a few seconds.

So without using your 'mind'... You're 'revisiting' the state of casting spells and attacks.

That's why it's called Mindless Revisitation." explained Vildred.

"What's the use of doing this?" asked Kahn as soon as he recovered.

"To reform and build the resilience of the soul.

This way, your soul will keep strengthening in terms of quality and your soul essence will become denser compared to others.

I have already perfected your body while you get all the credit for your mind which is already on the level of an Archmage due to the trials and torture you persevered through.

By using it, we will bring your soul essence to the point where surpassing the restrictions of body, mind and soul can be achieved.

And only that way... you can achieve your 3rd enlightenment in Law of Magic to become a saint magician." he iterated in a scholarly tone.

"What about Archmage and Sage?" queried Kahn again.

"That can only be achieved once you get 4th enlightenment and cross the 5th stage saint.

As for Sage, 5th enlightenment and a rank of an 8th stage saint is a must."

"I see."

"Now, you have to practice all elements to strengthen your soul.

Although you can't use the Light element, perfecting the rest will do the job." commended the royal dragon.

"This... this will extinguish my soul for real." spoke Kahn as he was feeling constantly tired after using the skill again.

1 WEEK LATER.

[1% soul strengthening achieved.] reported the system.

Ever since that day...

Kahn was practicing incessantly.

He trained in using Reminiscence of Eternal Flame art, and on daily basis, he kept merging his Space Law with his Dimensional Domain in the Hall of Sentience.

He was being taught in using basic weapon skills under Romulus, on the other side... His training in Magic by Vildred in basic spells and performing Mindless Revisitation every day without any breaks or rest didn't stop either.

This strict regime would've broken a normal person and they would've gone mad already.

However... Kahn didn't give up.

Why?

'No great things were achieved without great sacrifices.'

He was continuing for the sake of his future. Because he did not want to be at anyone's mercy any longer.

And even among summoned heroes... he no longer wished to stay at the bottom of the food chain.

He didn't just want the strength to protect himself anymore. The current Kahn... wanted to dominate everyone.

Kahn was tired of being the prey of the world. And now...

He wanted to be the Predator.