Chapter 1627 Do You Think I Can Be The One?

He smiled and raised his eyebrows. "It's my honor."

Lin Wenyu was speechless. She felt a cool breeze brush past her cheek, blowing away the hair beside her ear and stirring her heart.

When she returned home, the blush on her face had yet to dissipate. With lingering charm, she walked up the stairs unsteadily.

"Wenyu? Wenyu?" Qin Zufang called out to her a few times before she reacted.

"Mom, did you call me?"

Qin Zufang said angrily, "I made soup for you. Why didn't you get the driver to send it to you? Why aren't you drinking it now that you're back?"

"Mom, I'm full. You drink it."

Qin Zufang pulled her back. "How can I do that? Didn't you like to drink it before? Why don't you like it anymore? Are you tired of drinking it? I'll make another soup for you, okay?"

"Mom, I've become rounder. I really don't dare to drink it anymore. Also, I'm going to bed. You should rest early after drinking the soup. Good night." Lin Wenyu had something on her mind and hurried upstairs.

"This child." Qin Zufang sighed.

She felt that something must have happened to her daughter. Her daughter was not like this before.

Lin Wenyu went upstairs and happened to see a message from Yuan Haoyang's fans asking her to help edit the photos.

She accepted the task without thinking.

[Thank you. It doesn't matter when you finish editing the photos. We can wait.]

[It's okay. I'll get it done tonight.]

She looked at Yuan Haoyang in the photos with a smile on her face and began to edit the photos.

When she heard the knock on the door, she automatically turned off her computer and opened the door.

Qin Zufang came in with chicken soup. Seeing that her daughter's computer was still flashing but she had turned it off, she said calmly, "You're still busy even when it's so late?"

"I'll wash up and go to bed soon." Lin Wenyu smiled.

"Come, drink the chicken soup," Qin Zufang said. "Didn't you love chicken soup the most some time ago? You drink a big thermos of it every day. You haven't been drinking soup recently, and you've been distracted. Is it because..."

“Are you in a relationship?”

Qin Zufang deliberated for a moment before saying the last sentence.

Lin Wenyu was shocked. “No, no, Mom.”

It would be strange if she didn’t have such a reaction. Qin Zufang said, “Are you chasing after celebrities?”

“Yes, yes, yes. I’m a fan!” Lin Wenyu nodded. “Don’t let Dad know that I’m a fan. Mom, I beg you.”

Qin Zufang rebuked, “You!”

She left the soup and reminded her to drink it before she left.

Lin Wenyu took a photo of the chicken soup and posted it on her WeChat Moments speechlessly: [Can someone help me drink this?]

A moment later, Yuan Haoyang sent her a WeChat message. He took a screenshot of her Moments and replied, [Can you let me be the one?]

[I think only a toilet bowl can do it.] Lin Wenyu replied with a picture of a toilet bowl.

Yuan Haoyang sent a laughing emoji and asked with interest: [Aunt made this?]

[Mothers will think that their daughters are weak. They raise their daughters as though they’re raising pigs. They can’t wait to fatten us up.]

Yuan Haoyang held his phone and grinned. It turned out that it was really her mother who made the soup. Did this mean that he had received his mother-in-law’s kindness in advance?

Lin Wenyu said: [I’m not talking to you anymore. I have to edit photos.] She had to do what she promised others.

Yuan Haoyang’s face darkened. She was helping Guo Xintao edit his photos again?

His face darkened as he replied: [Sleep early. Don’t think that just because you’re a doctor that you don’t need to rest.]

Lin Wenyu did not reply. She was already immersed in editing the photos.

Ah Guo and the others sat at the side and teased Yuan Haoyang when they saw him raise his eyebrows and smile.

However, before they could tease him, they saw his eyes darken. His aura was a little scary.

“Brother Haoyang, what’s going on?” Ah Guo asked.

The others also stared at him with burning eyes.

Yuan Haoyang frowned. “Don’t you have anything else to do? Why are you gathered here?”

“Oh, I still have a tune to write.”

“I’m going to find my violin.”

“I’ll go tune the piano.”

Everyone was so frightened that they got busy. They saw him grinning from ear to ear just now. They just wanted to share the joy.

Who knew that things would change in a second?

...

In a high-end lounge of a private clubhouse.

Qin Zufang was slowly drinking tea while Su Bei, who was sitting opposite her, was sipping her coffee.

“Su Bei, what’s wrong with Wenyu?” Qin Zufang put down her teacup. “I think she’s been acting strangely. Previously, I knew that there was a huge commotion when she was chasing after celebrities, but didn’t this matter die down later? She’s still in a daze, though. I don’t know what happened. I can help her hide it from her father and grandmother, but if something really happens to her, I won’t dare to hide it from those two. You know their tempers.”

Su Bei would receive calls from her aunt every two to three days. Moreover, her aunt was trusting her more and more. She told Su Bei everything, so Su Bei could not refuse to talk to her.

“Actually, what I’m most worried about is... Since Wenyu is a fan of celebrities...” Qin Zufang pointed at her own brain.

Su Bei burst into laughter. “Aunt, it’s not that serious. Wenyu is a fan of celebrities, but she can differentiate between reality and fandom. Besides, she’s not that fanatical anymore.”

“That’s true, but I’m just worried about her. In the past, she loved medicine and didn’t care about anything else. When she was in her teens, she entered the junior class of university and finished her Ph.D. in one go. Later, she began chasing after celebrities without caring about anything else. It’s not that I want to bring this up, but look at how cute Da Bao and Gun Gun are. As for her, she doesn’t even have any interest in this aspect.”

Su Bei smiled again. Sure enough, all parents in the world felt the same. They wanted to hold their grandchildren as soon as possible.

Qin Zufang said, “How about this? I’ll arrange a blind date for her with someone of equal social status. We’ll confirm her marriage matters as soon as possible.”

“Aunt, it’s not appropriate for her to go on a blind date like this, right? Wenyu is still young. She should take her time finding the person she likes.”

“God knows when that day will come. You don’t have to worry about this matter anymore. I’ll arrange it now!” Qin Zufang had made up her mind.

After saying goodbye to her, Su Bei took out her phone and called Lin Wenyu.

Lin Wenyu was with Yuan Haoyang today. Yuan Haoyang had to work out every day and practice his dancing. She was here to check the effects of the fitness equipment on his body.

Yuan Haoyang’s villa was very big. There was a studio downstairs and a lounge upstairs.

There was also a special gym, a singing room, a training room, and others downstairs. The entire team's work and life took place here.

As Lin Wenyu evaluated the impact of the fitness equipment on his body, she took video recordings.

Yuan Haoyang accompanied her the whole time. The others had a premonition that Doctor Lin was undoubtedly their sister-in-law, so they brought her water and ice cream.
