

Mated to the Alpha and His Beta Chapter 13

Chapter 13

Zane

Shit, she was beautiful.

I didn't know what I was expecting, and it wasn't like I was expecting her to not be gorgeous. But something about all that flawless porcelain skin and those perfect, full breasts in a simple white, lacy bra had me speechless.

Would her nipples be as pale as her skin? Or would they be darker, like strawberries or raspberries?

Suddenly, I could wait to find out.

I'd been dreading mating with her, dreading what we had to do, but now... Now I wanted to have a bit of fun if we had to do this.

She reared back, a surprised look on her face.

"Um, what does that even matter? How is that any of your business," she bit out tersely.

Xander walked up to stand beside me, stroking the backs of his fingers down her arm. I marveled at the goose bumps that rose immediately on her flesh, wanting to count them all. With my tongue.

“Because.” He stroked back up her arm, up her shoulder, her neck, and then grasping the back of her head. “If 1/2 you haven't been with anyone before, Zane and I will proceed a bit differently.”

She cocked her head to the side as if she didn't comprehend what he meant.

And that told us both all we needed to know.
