

When His Eyes Opened by Simple Silence Chapter 2016

Chapter 2016

Seeing that his emotions were out of control, Avery immediately said, "You can think about the deal I just proposed. As long as you can help me get Elliot's whereabouts, I promise to cure you."

"Go away!" Caleb covered his ears with his hands, not wanting to hear her voice.

Listening for one more second seems to kill him.

Avery was very surprised by his reaction, but in order not to continue to stimulate him, she quickly came out of the room.

"Boss, why did you come out so soon?" The bodyguard stared at her face to see if she had any trouble.

"Go out and talk."

Avery quickly left the house.

On the way back, Avery kept reviewing everything that happened after seeing Caleb today.

The words Caleb said were very strange. He seemed to be implying something to her, but it wasn't obvious.

His reaction was completely different from what she expected, and she wanted to know why.

Back at home, Avery picked up the water glass and drank a large glass of water.

When the nanny saw Avery's return, she immediately brought out the prepared lunch.

Avery had no appetite, but went to the table and sat down anyway. She turned on the phone and wanted to send a message to Emilio, but the moment she turned on the phone, she saw Mike's missed calls and messages.

She dialed Mike's number, and the call was answered in seconds.

"Why didn't you answer the phone?" Mike asked anxiously, "You and Travis have been drinking coffee for so long?"

"No, we finished drinking soon. I went to see Caleb. That is, Travis's eldest son." Avery said doubts in her heart, "He's a little weird..."

Mike: "Weird? You say he is still his son?"

"Both of them are to blame. It seems that I have obstacles when I talk to them both." Avery frowned.

Mike helped her analyze: "Travis is 73 years old this year, and the generation gap between the two of you has been separated several times. It is normal for you to not speak. His eldest son had a car accident before, and it is estimated that there is a psychological problem. It's normal if you can't tell. You don't have to doubt yourself, it's their father and son's problem."

"You can really comfort people. But I don't think it's what you said." Avery felt a hunger in her stomach, "Wait when you come back, I'll eat first."

After talking on the phone, Avery suddenly forgot that she opened her phone to send a message to Emilio.

She put down her phone and quietly started her lunch.

Her sixth sense told her that Elliot was very close to her, and as long as she continued to look for him, she would definitely be able to find him.

The purpose of the two photos sent by anonymous express last night was to make her give up and stop looking for Elliot.

There must be someone behind the scenes who knew she was looking for Elliot, so she was scared.

After lunch, she returned to her room with her phone.

She thought of Emilio and wanted to verify something from him immediately, so she called him.

Emilio answered the phone quickly, and before Avery could speak, he joked, "You met my dad and my elder brother... Now you are calling me non-stop, what do you want to say?"

"Your brother's car accident wasn't an accident, it was man-made." Avery threw the question out, "Emilio, shouldn't you have caused his car accident?!"

Emilio gasped and said, "My eldest brother told you that?!"

Avery: "no."

"Since it's not, why do you think I did it? Just because my eldest brother fell, I can become the heir to the Jones family?" Emilio asked.

Avery didn't answer, it was the default.

"Haha! You're not the first to guess like this. I don't care what others think of me, because their narrow-mindedness can't affect me. But you say that, I'm a little sad." Emilio's tone was aggrieved.

Avery pondered for a moment, then expressed her own analysis: "your eldest brother did not say that you did it, but what your eldest brother meant was that someone planned this car accident and deliberately harmed him. Apart from Jones family, I do not meet other people."

"How come you don't know other people?" Emilio did not accept her explanation, "Margaret, you should know her, right? I haven't forgotten the surprise on your face when I told you about Margaret. You must have been chasing her after asking, where did this woman come from, why did my father stay with her...but you didn't ask anything."

"I'm also very surprised. Margaret went to school to find Professor Hough before, but your father said that you and Margaret met for the first time at your family banquet. Have you really never met Margaret at school before?" Avery asked question.

Emilio: "Avery, these are not important..."

"I always feel that the people in your family don't tell the truth." Avery followed her own feelings and said, "It's because you are all guarding me and afraid that I will find Elliot, right?"

"What do my dad and my brother think, I don't know. You don't look at us as a family, but we are not as unified as you think. I was only recognized by my dad when I was an adult. ...so you should believe that the probability of me telling the truth to you is probably higher than the probability of telling the truth to my dad."

Avery: "So your brother's car accident, did you do it?"

"No." Emilio answered her question without hesitation, "If I did it, mr father would not give me the property that was originally entrusted to my eldest brother. If it was done by me, I might be dead now... ..Even if I don't die, I'll definitely crippled."

Avery: "..."

Emilio's answer subverted her imagination.

“My eldest brother told you that someone harmed him... Hehe! Why did my eldest brother tell you this? Avery, what kind of magic do you have to make someone as cautious as my eldest brother unable to resist? You tell the truth.” Emilio wondered.

Avery was stunned: “You said your elder brother was telling the truth, and the car accident was not planned by you. Who is that?”

“You answer my question first, and I’ll answer yours later.” Emilio said lightly.

He seemed sure that Avery would answer his questions in order to get the answer.

“I told your eldest brother that I can cure him, but he needs to find Elliot’s whereabouts for me.” Avery told Emilio after thinking for a while, “Unfortunately, youy eldest brother did not agree to my request.”

“Haha! Avery, you are so ridiculous! My elder brother heard your words, did he laugh?” Emilio’s laughter made Avery feel extremely harsh.

Because of her anger, her fingers tightened while holding the phone.

Avery: “He didn’t laugh instead he was angry.”

“Oh... angry! It’s really annoying! Because you... can’t cure his disease.” Emilio laughed again when he said this. After he laughed enough, he asked back, “I told you so much, haven’t you guessed who made him half-dead?”

“Margaret?” Avery guessed.

Emilio: “...I thought you were so smart! I didn’t expect you to be an idiot.”

After Emilio finished speaking, he hung up the phone.

Avery: “...”

She was sleepy at first, but after talking on the phone with Emilio, not only was she no longer sleepy, but she kept getting angry all the time.

The playboy Emilio even laughed at her for being an idiot!

Chapter 2018

The reason why Avery guessed Margaret was because the two of them mentioned Margaret at the beginning of the call.

But since it's not Margaret, it can only be... Travis? !

After thinking of this possibility, Avery broke out in a cold sweat! But after guessing this, she felt more and more that her guess was close to the truth.

Normal parents will never despise their children like Travis when their children are injured and become 'criminals', and they will not even meet once.

This shows that Travis has no normal father-son relationship with his 'most beloved eldest son' Caleb.

Moreover, Emilio said that she could not cure Caleb's disease. It was definitely not because Emilio questioned her medical skills, but... someone would not let her cure Caleb's disease!

Thinking of this, Avery gasped for breath as if lacking oxygen.

Why did Travis abolish his eldest son?

If he hated the eldest son from the beginning, how could he hand over the property in his name to the eldest son?

What happened in between.

The next morning, Avery brought his bodyguards to Travis's residence.

Travis lives in the famous wealthy area of country Bridgedale.

Without saying hello to Travis in advance, Avery successfully entered the community and came to the location of Travis's villa.

This made Travis's housekeeper very puzzled.

"I have a friend who lives in this community, so I came in very smoothly." Avery explained to the housekeeper after being invited to the house by the housekeeper.

In fact, Avery asked Emilio to bring him here.

She thought about it all night last night, thinking that she had not seen Margaret, so she came to visit this morning.

"Doctor Tate, my master usually doesn't get up until after ten o'clock in the morning. You are early." The housekeeper said.

"I saw your master yesterday. I mainly came to find Ms. Gomez today." Avery sat down on the sofa after entering the living room.

The housekeeper has never seen such a guest who doesn't treat himself as an outsider.

"Ms. Gomez usually goes downstairs with my master."

"Then I'll wait, anyway, I have more time." After Avery's voice was settled, a shadow appeared at the corner of the stairs.

Margaret walked downstairs step by step wearing a silk nightdress.

"I said who was making a fuss at home early in the morning! It turned out to be my brother's proud disciple." Margaret chuckled and walked to Avery.

"Hello, Madam Gomez, I thought you didn't remember me, so I came to visit..."

"Hehe, I don't remember you. It was Travis who told me that he asked you to treat Caleb's illness, so I searched for your information on the Internet, and then I remembered your appearance." Margaret beat Avery. After the measurement, she sat down lazily on the sofa, "You said you came to me, what are you looking for me for?"

"I have something that I can't understand." Avery raised her doubts, "My teacher has praised your ability in front of me more than once, saying that you are extremely talented and a medical genius. Mr. Travis said that you are going to arrange a wedding, I can't devote my energy to treating Caleb's illness. But Caleb's illness is not a sudden one. You can wait until the wedding is over before treating him... Why does Mr. Travis insist on inviting me?"
