

When His Eyes Opened Chapter 2639

Chapter 2639

Lucas only remembered that he was very angry at the time, so he refused Siena to send him to the airport. He could even imagine her disappointed expression when she arrived at Hogan's house the next morning, only to find that he had already left.

For some reason, when he saw her frowning because of him, he felt a little pleasure in his heart.

But that's because he didn't know she would leave this world so soon.

If he had known that she would die so soon, he would never have been angry with her.

It's too late to say anything now.

she died.

As suddenly as when his dog died.

Without having time to say goodbye, she left him forever.

Could it be that as long as it is what he likes, it must be taken away?

.....

Aryadelle.

It had been half a month since Hazel returned to Foster's house.

This half month was the happiest time in Hazel's life.

She didn't have to worry about the last meal, the wind and rain, the livelihood of tomorrow, and the tuition fees.

She woke up from the big soft bed every day, and the bright sunshine outside the room, There were beautiful flowers in the room, and the flowers were different every day, just like her new clothes and shoes, they were new every day... She didn't have to do anything, she just needed to enjoy it all.

Going downstairs every day, there were delicious snacks and delicacies, and she could have eat whatever she wanted.

There was no need for her to make any requests, and the delicious food was delivered to her.

Her parents and brother had been with her at home.

Except that Robert had summer vacation, she knew that her elder brother Hayden was usually very busy at work, so now in order to spend more time with her at home, she put off work directly.

They took her to various exhibitions and concerts, took her to amusement parks, and took her to museums. Every day's itinerary was different, and every day's itinerary made her feel fresh.

In addition to taking her to play, they also took her to eat all kinds of delicious specialties. Every time she went out to play, she would buy her various commemorative gifts.

The life of a princess she could imagine was nothing less than this.

The time suddenly came to mid-August.

In half a month, Hazel had to choose a university.

Avery and Elliot naturally hoped that Hazel would choose Robert's university. The siblings were in the same school, so even if they were in different grades, they could at least have a support.

But Hazel didn't want to go to the university where Robert was.

"Are you afraid that others will know that Robert is your brother?" Avery saw her daughter's thoughts, "It's fine if you don't go to the same university. I'll let your father arrange which university you want to go to."

Hazel: "Mom, I want to learn broadcasting."

Avery: "Why do you want to learn broadcasting? Do you want to be a host?"

Hazel: "I think being a host is very attractive."

Avery: "Then you should learn this!"

Hazel: "What did my sister study in college?"

Avery couldn't help laughing: "Your sister studied accounting."

Hazel: "Does my sister like this major?"

Avery shook her head: "Your sister doesn't have a favorite major, because she has a wide range of interests since she was a child, and she can learn what she likes, so she knows a little about everything. It was suggested by your elder brother to study accounting.”

Hazel: “Oh...”

“You don’t need to worry about what they study. If you want to learn broadcasting, then learn broadcasting. In fact, what major you study in university does not affect your employment after graduation. When you graduate from university, what do you want to do, just let your brothers and sisters take you for a while.” Avery reassured her daughter Hazel, “Maybe you will work in your father’s company in the future. Your father is worried that no one will follow him!”
