

When His Eyes Opened Chapter 2674

Chapter 2674

“Mom! I can find someone from the housekeeping company to clean up! You don’t need to do this kind of rough work.” Layla forcefully invited Avery to sit down on the sofa, “Mom, Have you had dinner? If not, let’s have it together!”

“I have eaten with your father.” Avery couldn’t sit still because she found that her daughter’s face seemed to have lost weight, “Layla, have you lost weight? Why have you become so haggard after two days of absence?”

Elliot also looked at Layla after hearing this.

It’s okay if he didn’t watch it, but he couldn’t sit still after watching it.

“Baby, do you not eat well every day? Do you not sleep well either?”

Layla panicked all of a sudden.

The worried and distressed eyes of Avery and Elliot made Layla feel particularly guilty.

She felt that she shouldn’t hide it from her parents, but she also thought that if she told the truth to her parents, they would definitely feel even more heartbroken.

“I... I’m just on my period... I don’t have a good appetite.” After hesitating for a few seconds, Layla decided to make the big problem smaller, after all, her gastroenteritis was almost cured.

“Then you should go home for the next few days! Why do you have to cook for yourself when you’re so haggard! No matter how bad it is, you can order takeaway!” Avery said, taking off the apron from her daughter.

Seeing her daughter wearing an apron, Avery couldn’t stand it.

Layla had never been in the kitchen to cook since she was a child. Now that she was so weak, she still had to cook and eat by herself. It was really hard!

“Mom, I’m just on my period and I’m not sick! I look weak, but I’m actually fine!” Layla stood up from the sofa to prove that she was fine, “Look, I’m really fine!”

“You just don’t want to go home, right?” Avery saw Layla trying to be brave, although she felt distressed, she would not force her.

“Hey, I just want to stay in bed these two days and don’t want to move.” Layla curled her lips, “I’ll be fine in two days. When my appetite improves, I’ll gain weight back soon.”

“Okay. You can eat first!” Avery took out the food she brought from the bag, and the aroma immediately hit her nostrils.

Layla's stomach growled.

In the past two days, she followed the principle of eating less and more meals, and she didn't eat much at each meal, so she was hungry quickly.

"Are you so hungry?" Avery handed the chopsticks to Layla, and then brought out the soup for her.

Seeing Layla starting to eat, Elliot got up and walked towards the kitchen.

Out of the corner of her eye, Layla watched her father go to the kitchen. Although her heartstrings were tense, she was still calm.

As long as Elliot didn't go to the guest room, it's fine.

"I'll go to the kitchen to have a look." Avery thought about what Layla said to clean up in the kitchen, but she might not have cleaned it up yet, so she wanted to go to the kitchen to help her clean up.

"Okay!" Layla responded, and Avery walked towards the kitchen.

On the counter in the kitchen, there were pre-cut vegetables, and on the cutting board, there were chopped green onions, ginger and garlic...

"Our daughter is quite patient!" Avery looked at the ingredients on the counter, and smiled, "It seems that she really likes to cook. People who have their periods are very weak. If it were me, I would definitely not cook by myself."

Elliot didn't want Layla to suffer from cooking, so he didn't pick up the compliments on Avery.

Layla saw her Mom and Dad in the kitchen, so she slipped into the bedroom immediately with the bowl in hand. Hide all the stomach medicine in the bedroom under the bed!

In case Avery insisted on coming to clean her room later, no matter whether it was placed in the bedside cabinet or in the closet, it might be seen by Avery.

After hiding the stomach medicine, Layla's tense nerves immediately relaxed a lot.

She came out of the bedroom with the bowl in her hand, and suddenly found that her mother was alone in the kitchen.

"Mom! Where's Dad?" When Layla asked this sentence, she found that the door of the guest room opened at some point!

With a bang, Layla felt a thunderbolt knocking her down!

"I don't know! The house is only this big, let's see if your dad went to the bathroom..." Avery didn't know where Elliot went.

“Dad!” Layla ran into the guest room with a bowl in her arms.

in the guest room.

Elliot stood in front of the bed, frowning slightly, looking at Layla.

“What’s wrong?” Elliot just came in out of curiosity.

It was found that the bed was made in the guest room, and it seemed that someone was sleeping here.

“Dad, this is... This is the room where Daisy sleeps. There are her personal belongings in it... nothing to see.” While lying, Layla quickly looked around the guest room, and unexpectedly she didn’t see Eric!

She didn’t know where Eric was hiding!

Fortunately, he hid, otherwise, if his father saw him, there would be a storm!

“Aren’t you two good friends? You’re so weak now that she won’t stay to take care of you?” Elliot came out of the guest room and asked doubts.

“She also wanted to take care of me, and I asked her to go back. I’m not very strong today, and I don’t want to talk to people. I just want to stay by myself. Dad, you haven’t had a period, so you don’t know how it feels. You can go and ask Mom,” Layla said, walking toward the kitchen.

Avery: “You don’t have the energy to talk to people anymore, you still have the energy to cook by yourself!”

Layla: “I didn’t have any energy when I let her go! After that, I slept better.”

Her explanation made sense.

“Okay, after you finish eating, I will leave with your father. Don’t disturb you and rest.” Avery quickly cleaned up the ingredients on the desk, “I will put the chopped vegetables in the refrigerator for you I see that you have bought a lot of noodles in the refrigerator. You can’t just throw away your three meals a day like this! If you don’t want to cook, you can order takeaway!”

“Got it! You can buy noodles casually. It may not be possible to finish it.” Layla quickly finished the rice in the bowl, and then went to drink the soup, “Mom, I will put the rest of the food in the refrigerator and eat it tomorrow.”

Elliot and Avery did not speak. Because both of them were very sad.

When Layla was at home before, they never let her eat leftovers.

Now Layla had moved out to live, and life had become like this.

If there was a nanny, it would not be like this.

“Dad, Mom, don’t you two look at me with such pitiful eyes! I’m really fine...I look weak because of a special situation. I promise to eat it in two days!” Layla forced a smile.

“I don’t think you were so weak when you had your period before?” Avery recalled when Layla had her period last month, “Are you really okay?”

“It’s really okay!” Layla said, “It’s because you haven’t seen me for two days that you think I’ve changed a lot.”

“Okay! Layla, if you have anything to do, you must tell your parents. If it’s not convenient for you to tell your father, just tell your mother.” Avery urged.

“Sure! You are not only my mother, but also my best friend! I will never hide anything from you.” Layla promised.

Only then did Avery feel relieved.

Before Avery left, she went to her bedroom to take a look.

Seeing that the bedroom was relatively clean, she left with Elliot.

As soon as her parents left, Layla immediately put down the soup bowl and ran to the guest room.

“Eric! My parents have left! Where have you been hiding?”

At this moment, the wardrobe door opened and Eric came out.

Layla: “.....”

Chapter 2676

Layla couldn’t help laughing out loud: “Eric, I didn’t expect you to be hiding in the closet Hahahaha! Have you ever been so ashamed?”

Eric blushed slightly, “Yeah.”

“Are you so afraid of my parents?” Layla sat down by the bed and continued to laugh.

Fortunately, there was nothing in the wardrobe in the guest room, it was empty.

So it wouldn’t be too crowded for Eric to hide inside.

"I'm afraid of causing unnecessary trouble. You are still sick, and you refuse to tell your family about your illness. If they see me, how can I explain it?" Eric stood in front of her, looking down at her, "Have you had dinner yet?"

"Yes. My parents brought it for me, a lot, and it's still hot, go eat it!" Layla stood up, still couldn't help laughing, and joked, "Eric, you are not like an elder at all... There is no elder like you."

"I am indeed too indulgent to you. I should have secretly told your mother the first time I found out that you were sick. As long as your mother finds an excuse to come here, she can find out that you are sick without betraying me." Eric said seriously.

The smile on Layla's face disappeared immediately: "Don't make up your mind. If you really betrayed me, I can feel it. And I'm getting better soon, and you don't need to betray me anymore."

Eric: "Yes."

"The food is on the table, go and eat!" Layla pointed to the food and dishes on the coffee table.

Eric took a look: "You haven't eaten much, have you?"

"After eating a small bowl, I can't eat anymore. My stomach has been hungry for the past two days." Layla sat down on the sofa, leaned against the back of the sofa, and sighed slightly, "It feels like I'm going through a catastrophe these days. I've been eating for a long time Not so unlucky anymore."

Eric went to the kitchen to get his own bowls and chopsticks, chatted with her while eating: "You are not unlucky, it's because you were taken care of so well in the past and never suffered."

Layla: "Forget it What you said makes sense. But I don't think it's necessary to praise suffering, why do you have to suffer?"

"Yes! You don't have to come out to suffer, why do you have to move out?" Eric looked up at her, "When you recover from illness Just move back and live!"

Layla: "...I moved out with great difficulty, and I won't move back. Don't worry, if anything happens to me in the future, I won't bother you anymore."

Eric: "That's not what I meant."

Layla: "Then what do you mean? Eric, I find that you are becoming more and more dishonest."

Eric bowed his head and ate in silence.

"You rejected me because you were afraid of my parents' opposition." Layla said her analysis, "You have been so good to me these two days, it is clearly the same as before. Eric, you are afraid of my parents, but I am not. I can persuade them."

"Layla, be more sober." Eric put down the bowl and chopsticks, lost his appetite, and moved his lips. He clearly wanted to say a lot, but in the end, he only said one sentence, "...You deserve a better man."

"What is better? According to my parents, my brother, and my age, a man with outstanding abilities and a distinguished family background is better. Is it right?"

"Yes." Eric said firmly, "You can do nothing wrong if you listen to your parents. They won't harm you."

"Of course they won't harm me. But they are not me after all. They don't know what I want." Layla's tone was also very firm, "I only know that whoever I am happy with is the one I want to be with. I don't care if the other party is rich or similar to me in age..."

"You have too little contact with the opposite s-e-x." Eric made a judgment.

"My parents said the same thing. I also tried to listen to them and meet many men, but the end result is still the same. I can't talk to those people. Sometimes I wonder if you are a fairy tale I have seen too much. You think that the happy life of the princess and the prince is the end. But in reality, not everyone can be so lucky and find someone who will stay together for a lifetime. I can't control the future, I just care about my present I like you now, and I want to marry you, even if I am not happy with you in the end, can't we still separate and start again? Why don't you give me a chance to try and make mistakes?"

Eric looked at Layla, it felt like she had changed somewhat from before.

Now Layla could make him speechless and overwhelmed.

"You all think of me as a child, whether I am five years old, or fifteen years old, or twenty-five years old now, I will always be a child in your eyes. I know you love me, but I don't like this kind of love. So I moved out." Layla said these words, then got up from the sofa and walked towards the bedroom.

Eric watched the bedroom door close, and rubbed the space between his brows with his slender fingers.

Eozambiulle.

After Chad, Hazel and Mike had breakfast in the hotel restaurant, they went to check out.

They had already seen the aurora, so there was no need to stay in this small town.

Next, they were going to the capital of Eozambiulle.

Mike promised Hazel yesterday that after watching Aurora, he would take her to the capital to play.

Avery said that Hazel had suffered a lot in the past 18 years, and taking her out to play, it was best to go to a prosperous place.

That's what Mike planned too.

In addition, the school that Lucas attended happened to be in the capital of Eozambiulle, so Mike planned to live in the capital after going to the capital. In the afternoon, He could take Hazel to that School.

That School was a noble school, and the tuition fees were so high that ordinary families couldn't afford it.

Lucas didn't dislike Hazel before, and he treated Hazel well, so his character should be good.

However, Hazel didn't want to see him, and said that he would focus on his studies in the future, Mike didn't investigate Lucas's detailed family situation.

After nearly two hours of driving, the car stopped at the entrance of the hotel in the center of the capital.

Mike booked a room in advance, so after arriving at the hotel, he went directly to the front desk to get the room card.

After taking the luggage to the room and putting it down, the three of them went to the restaurant to have lunch.

Mike assigned Chad afternoon tasks.

"You make a guide for the game. It must be fun and interesting."

Chad: "Yeah."

"I will take Hazel outside for a walk in the afternoon. I hope to see the guide you made during dinner." Mike continue.

Chad raised a question mark: "You two go out to play, let me do strategy in the hotel?"

Hazel suppressed a smile. It seemed that Uncle Mike really didn't say anything to Uncle Chad.

Mike: "Yes. Are you dissatisfied?"

Chad saw Hazel smiled, so he held back Mike: "Okay! No problem. We won't eat at the hotel tonight. I'll order a restaurant outside, and we'll eat something good. "

"Uncle Chad, thank you for your hard work!" Hazel said sweetly.

"It's not hard, but don't you take a nap?" Chad asked.

Hazel: "I'm not sleepy."

She didn't have the habit of taking a nap at first, but now that she came to Eozambiulle, she felt that she was very close to Lucas, so she wasn't sleepy anymore.

Mike: "I've never been sleepy. So you go to bed after dinner, and Hazel and I will go out for a stroll."

Chad: "Okay."

After lunch, Mike took Hazel to the hotel entrance so they could stop a taxi and go to that noble school.
