

When His Eyes Opened Chapter 2822 –

When His Eyes Opened Chapter 2822–“Did you see the video your sister posted in the group just now?” Avery asked.

“I didn’t see it. I was in a meeting just now!” While speaking, Layla minimized the call and clicked on the family group.

“She went to the TV station for a trial broadcast today, and the broadcast is very good, very good.” Avery boasted.

“I knew she could do it.” Layla was happy for her sister, “I’ll go back after I get off work.”

“Yes!” Avery felt better, “Don’t be too tired from work, you should Pay attention to the balance between work and rest.”

“Got it! I’ll talk about it when I get back. I’m going to eat first.” Layla finished speaking and hung up the phone.

She clicked on the video posted by Hazel in the group, and after watching the video, she immediately sent a thumbs up emoji in the group.

Then she sent another one: [Our little sister is so powerful, won’t the big brother send a red envelope?] [@Hayden]

At this point, Bridgedale was late at night.

Hayden was a late-night party.

Layla thought that Hayden was most likely still awake at this point.

Sure enough, after a while, Hayden sent a red envelope in the group.

Avery asked: [Hayden, why haven’t you slept yet?]

Hayden: [I’m going to sleep. I fell asleep after watching my sister’s video.]

Robert took Hazel home. After the car stopped, the siblings strode into the house.

Avery put down her phone and immediately greeted Hazel with a smile.

Avery: “Hazel, were you nervous during the trial broadcast today? You performed really well! I can’t tell you were nervous at all!”

"I'm still a little nervous. Teacher Joly said I'm not relaxed enough." Hazel took the contract out of her bag with a smile and handed it to Avery, "Mom, let me show you my contract."

Avery took the contract and said: "Hector sent a soft copy of the contract to your father to have a look."

"The contract is very important, and you can't sign it randomly." Hazel had a different identity now, so she didn't want to involve her family in anything.

"It's great that you have this vigilance." Avery praised Hazel, "Mom really thinks you're smart, well-behaved and sensible."

Hazel: "Mom, these are basic common sense, I'm ashamed of you boasting so much."

Robert said, "Little sister, you are really great. Many wealthy daughters have no brains. People who stay in a comfortable environment for a long time will lack a correct understanding of the real society. You have to stay sober at all times, so that you won't be cheated."

Hazel nodded: "Have you eaten yet, Mom? I ate it in the cafeteria, so go eat some!"

"Haha, have you integrated into the environment over there so quickly?" Avery read Hazel's contract and handed it to Elliot.

"Teacher Joly took me with him, and everyone else treated me very well." When Hazel said this, she thought of the Teacher Joly, "When I was broadcasting, he encouraged me. After I finished the broadcast, he even praised me. "

Avery: "You are so well-behaved and sensible, everyone must like you."

After Avery said this, Hazel naturally thought of her senior sister.

She wanted to say that not everyone likes me, but she was afraid that her parents would worry if she said it, so she held back.

When her mom and dad were eating, Hazel sat next to her dad and drank a bowl of soup.

After lunch, Hazel went back to her room to rest.

She got up early today because she was going to be on trial today, so she fell asleep very late last night.

Her heartstrings were tensed all morning and didn't let up until the broadcast was over.

After drinking a bowl of hot soup right now, she felt drowsy immediately.

After entering her room, she went to the bathroom to remove her make-up.

She put on light makeup this morning.

In fact, she didn't know how to make up. She just put on a foundation, traced her eyebrows a little, and then put on a lighter color lipstick, and her complexion immediately improved.

When His Eyes Opened Chapter 2823—After Hazel removed the makeup on her face with cleansing oil, she took a mask from the drawer with great interest and applied it to her face.

She came out of the bathroom and checked the time on her phone.

Then she lazily sat down on the small sofa and started playing with her mobile phone.

Xiomara sent her a message, asking her how the trial broadcast was going today.

Hazel replied immediately: [It went well, the contract has been signed.]

Xiomara: [Hazel, you are too powerful. When does your show start? I will watch your live broadcast when the time comes.]

Hazel: [It starts at 3:00 a.m. the day after tomorrow.]

Xiomara: [Alright, then I will definitely do a live broadcast.]

Hazel: [I just learned today that not all programs will be rebroadcasted. Like the programs of our interns, rebroadcasts are not arranged.]

Xiomara: [Hahaha, it's okay. Newbies go through this process. When the time comes, ask the staff to copy out the video of your program and keep it for yourself.]

Hazel: [Yes.]

Xiomara: [By the way, did you see the sophomore senior today?]

Hazel: [I see. She went ahead of me. When I went to the TV station, she happened to be doing a test run.]

Xiomara: [How is she broadcasting?]

Hazel: [Very good. She is also very beautiful.]

Xiomara: [Hazel, I have never heard you speak ill of anyone. You always praise others, you are too kind.]

Hazel: [What I said is the truth. She is really beautiful.]

Xiomara: [I have seen her photos, she is indeed very beautiful in the photos, but I heard that she speaks ill of you behind your back.]

Hazel: [Since it was said behind my back, it doesn't matter. Although my programs with her are next to each other, there will be no intersection.]

Hazel just wanted to do her job well and didn't want to bother with other things. She didn't want to waste energy on things that didn't make sense.

Xiomara: [Well, she is not the only one who speaks ill of you in university. When your show is broadcast, and everyone sees your strength, they will naturally shut up.]

Hazel smiled and went over.

15 minutes later, Hazel got up from the sofa and went to wash her face.

The sky changed during the afternoon. There were dark clouds and thunder and lightning.

Hazel was awakened by the thunder, opened her eyes and looked at the dark sky outside the window, and couldn't believe that she had slept through the night.

She picked up her mobile phone and was relieved when she saw that the time was only 4 o'clock in the afternoon.

She lifted the quilt and came out of the room with her mobile phone.

The living room on the first floor was brightly lit. Avery was trimming the flowers on the ground, while Elliot was peeling an apple with a fruit knife.

Robert sat on the sofa next to Elliot, holding a document in his hand, and read it carefully.

After Hazel came down from upstairs, she went to her mother first.

Hazel: "Mom, did you buy these flowers?"

“No, they are from the backyard. It was getting dark and it was going to rain, so I picked the flowers back to the house.”

Avery liked flowers and plants. When she retired, she liked to mess around with them.

Fresh seasonal flowers were placed in the basement of the house all year round.

“Have you slept well?” Elliot handed the peeled apple to Hazel, “It’s raining so heavily outside, let’s eat at home tonight!”

Hazel took the apple and nodded, “Okay!”

Hazel took a bite of the apple, walked to Robert’s side to see what he was looking at, he was so serious.

Hazel: “Brother, what are you looking at?”

When His Eyes Opened Chapter 2824–Robert heard Hazel’s voice, and immediately handed the document in his hand to her.

Robert: “Dad asked me to read it.”

“Oh...” Seeing the title of the document, Hazel immediately lost interest in gossip, “Go ahead and read it! I won’t bother you anymore.”

Robert took back the document, dumbfounded, and then glanced out the window.

Robert: “It’s raining so much, will my sister come over later?”

“Is my sister coming?” Hazel was a little surprised.

“My sister told my mother to come over for dinner tonight.” Robert replied, “It should be to praise you in person!”

The corners of Hazel’s mouth immediately turned up, her mood soaring uncontrollably. But she looked at the bad weather outside and was a little worried: “Is it dangerous to drive in this weather?”

“It’s okay for experienced driver, like me. But my sister doesn’t drive as much as I do.” Robert praised himself, “Little girl, when you are free, I will teach you how to drive.”

“Okay!” Hazel agreed without hesitation.

About half an hour later, Layla came back.

The weather suddenly changed in the afternoon, so Layla finished work early.

Because of the weather, she dared not drive too fast.

If she didn’t get off work early, it would be very late when she returned to Eric’s side.

“Little sister, I bought you a gift.” Layla held a gift box in her hand.

Hazel immediately walked up to her sister and took the gift: “Thank you sister. Are you not wet?”

“I have an umbrella.” Layla changed her shoes, took Hazel’s hand and walked towards the living room, said, “Watching your trial broadcast, it feels like you’ve become an adult all of a sudden.”

“Because the clothes I wear are more mature. The staff lent me a suit jacket.” Hazel smiled shyly, “Sister, what gift did you give me?”

“Open it and have a look.” Layla said. At that time, seeing Hazel in a suit, she felt that Hazel would look better if she wore a watch, so after lunch, she went to the mall to buy a watch.

When Hazel saw that the gift from her sister was a watch, she was a little surprised and liked it very much.

The watch was silver with a white base inside the dial, but the hands inside were peacock blue.

Hazel: “Sister, I like it very much. But I don’t know if the TV station can allow me to wear a watch.”

“Of course. I deliberately didn’t buy a particularly expensive watch. I will take you to buy some work clothes tomorrow. The suit jacket you are wearing today is obviously too big and it doesn’t fit.” Layla came here just to give her sister a gift and ask her to go shopping tomorrow.

“Teacher Joly does not ask to purchase clothing! There are numerous options for clothing on the stage, so I should not have to purchase them.” Hazel was not afraid of spending this little money, because she was afraid that she would be too special and let other colleagues discuss.

Layla saw her sister's careful thinking, so she said: "Then I will donate a batch of new clothes to the TV station. I'll buy them according to your size and donate them."

Hazel: "..."

Avery listened to the two daughters conversation, couldn't help laughing out loud.

Avery: "Layla, are you hungry?"

"It's not time for dinner yet! I'm not hungry yet." Layla walked to the coffee table, looked at the flowers on the coffee table, "Did you put this in, Mom? It's getting better all the time! It's not as bad as those expert senior flower arrangers."

"Really? Then you take it away!" Avery said, and began to search for bags all over the room.

"Mom, did you really give it to me?" Layla happily took the vase of flowers away.

Eric's house was very clean and had green plants, but no flowers.

"It's just a vase of flowers. You can take whatever you have at home." Avery found a large paper bag.

"I just want this bottle." Layla supported the paper bag and watched her mom put the vase into it. "I haven't married him yet, and I started bringing things from home to his house. It's shameless."

When His Eyes Opened Chapter 2825—"It's just a vase of flowers, what are you doing with so many associations?" Avery said in a relaxed tone, "Although you have moved to Eric's house, you will always be my daughter!"

"Mom, I wasn't really sad at first, but now I don't want to leave."

"Then you won't." Elliot spoke from the side.

Layla couldn't help laughing, and walked up to Elliot: "Dad, are you going to let Robert go to work with you during the winter vacation? Actually, you can hand him over to the vice president, so you don't have to worry about it."

Elliot: "I'm afraid that the vice president will be soft-hearted towards him. Actually, I didn't ask him to come to the company for an internship now, he brought it up on his own initiative."

Layla immediately looked at Robert, who didn't expect him to be so sensible.

"Sister, what do you think I'm doing? Didn't you say that you want me to help dad share the work pressure?" Robert's skin got goosebumps when Layla saw him.

"Very good! Since you have decided to go to work, do it well." Layla urged.

Robert: "I know, I'm already mentally prepared."

After Robert said this, Layla asked Elliot, "Dad, what position do you plan to arrange for him?"

Robert was also very curious, so staring at his dad's face and felt that his dad might let him be the assistant to the vice president.

Because of this, he could take him and let him learn the way of doing business.

Elliot said: "Let's start from the lowest level!"

Layla couldn't help teasing: "Is it a salesman? Or a cleaner?"

Robert: "..."

Avery was puzzled after hearing what Elliot said : "Don't the people in your company know Robert?"

"Of course not to arrange him at the headquarters." Elliot had been thinking about this question for the past two days, and today he had an answer, "Let him go to the branch below to practice."

Robert: "...how do I feel like I'm going to be rejected? Distributed to the frontier?"

Elliot: "Your sister is not afraid of suffering, are you?"

Robert shook his head violently: "Of course I am not afraid. I will start from the grassroots, even if I am a cleaner!"

Avery felt relieved. There was a trace of panic in her heart: "How could your dad let you be a cleaner? Layla is scaring you, Robert!"

Elliot: "Robert, let's start as a salesman! You go to the interview yourself, let alone my son."

Robert: "..."

“Robert hasn’t graduated yet, will others want him?” Avery didn’t expect Elliot to be so cruel to his son.

“Grassroots salesmen only have a very low basic salary, and the requirements are not high.” Elliot had made up his mind, “My son must have a strong ability to survive.”

Avery stopped talking.

Elliot was right, the daughter could be pampered a bit, but the son should be tempered.

What’s more, Hazel had suffered for so many years and was doing well now, and Hazel’s current ability to survive was obviously better than Robert.

It’s not that Robert couldn’t bear hardships, but he just couldn’t figure it out: “Since you want me to work at the grassroots level of the branch company, why did you show me the information of your company’s biggest competitor at noon?” Robert thought that his dad wanted him to help solve this serious problem!

Elliot said casually: “It’s not bad for you to get acquainted in advance. But if your performance at the grassroots level is too bad, you don’t want to take my position in the future.”

Robert: “...”

“Okay, let’s not talk about this for now, let’s have dinner!” Avery felt that Elliot was under a lot of pressure this time, she was afraid that Robert would be scared, so she changed the subject.
