

When His Eyes Opened Chapter 2841 –

When His Eyes Opened Chapter 2841–

azel took a quick glance at the end of the manuscript on the previous page, then looked up at the camera, and continued to broadcast.

At this time, there was not a word in the teleprompter.

She was facing the camera, relying on her own memory, reciting the press release.

When the third piece of news was broadcast, the camera immediately cut to the video corresponding to the third piece of news.

Hazel immediately said to the director: “My manuscript has been changed.”

Hazel didn’t expect to encounter such an unexpected situation on the second day of work!

In fact, she could memorize all the press releases tonight, but because of this accident, her nervousness reached its peak.

She was incredibly tense, and she frequently lost her balance and forgot words.

After hearing her words, the director immediately enlightened: “Don’t panic, after the third video is finished, I’ll insert an advertisement. I’ll ask someone to print another copy of your press release and send it to you.”

“Okay. Thank you for your hard work.” After hearing the director’s words, Hazel breathed a sigh of relief.

in the hotel.

Sloane sat by the bed, watching the news on TV, frowning tightly, and clenched her hands.

When she saw the astonishment and panic on Hazel’s face when she turned over the blank paper, she thought that Hazel was going to mess up this time, but Hazel only paused for a few seconds before restarting the broadcast.

As the third news item’s video was currently playing on TV, an advertisement appeared just as it was about to end.

Sloane gritted her teeth.

Normally, there were no commercials advertisement in her show.

The director must have inserted an advertisement to help her.

After the 90-second commercial ended, the screen switched back to the studio.

Hazel's face regained her composure, and on her desk was a reprinted press release.

The following program was broadcast smoothly... Sloane turned off the TV annoyedly, inserted her hands into the root of her hair, and scratched vigorously.

She underestimated Hazel!

Unexpectedly, Hazel was able to adjust her mood so quickly when she accidentally lost the manuscript, and finished the broadcast without the manuscript.

Sloane thought for a while, if she encountered such a situation, she would definitely not be able to do what Hazel did.

She lost!

Originally thought that Hazel's internship was not as good as her own, but now it seemed that she was wrong!

Studio 6.

After the show was over, Hazel returned to the backstage.

Several staff members came immediately.

"Hazel, who changed your manuscript? This kind of thing is really bad! Fortunately, you reacted quickly and finished broadcasting the third news in time, otherwise you don't know how it will end."

"Yes Ah! When I saw that there were no words on the teleprompter, I panicked to death. Hazel, have you memorized all the scripts, right?"

Hazel's usual smile disappeared. She frowned slightly, thinking whether to express her guess.

She thought that the person who tampered with her manuscript was Sloane, but she had no evidence.

The dressing room was like this. She frequently used this space to get ready for work, apply makeup, and memorise manuscripts.

Everyone was actually a little tired because everyone had their own tasks to complete and didn't interact much, especially during the night shift.

Only Sloane chatted with her a little more. And her position was closest to Sloane's.

After she calmed down, she thought that she only went to the bathroom once tonight, and she left her work station when she went to get flowers from the tea room.

Most of the readers are now reading this novels:-

When His Eyes Opened Chapter 2842 –

When His Eyes Opened Chapter 2842—She didn't read her manuscript during these two gaps, and was replaced unexpectedly.

The person who changed her manuscript was too scheming.

The manuscripts of her first two news stories were all normal, and the manuscript of the third news was also half.

"Hazel, I didn't change your manuscript. I swear, I really didn't do it." It was Lennox, an intern anchor of Nantah University who spoke.

Lennox's character was a bit introverted, and he didn't usually talk to them very much.

Their workstations were cubicles, and Lennox's position was in the innermost.

"Is there surveillance in the room?" Hazel asked the staff.

She had no evidence and dared not speak nonsense.

Because if Sloane didn't do something, then she would have harmed Sloane.

The staff shook his head: "There are corridors outside the door, but not indoors."

"Without monitoring, I have no way of knowing who did it." Hazel was a little frustrated, but calm-headed, "Forget it, I was too careless. I have a long memory tonight, I will hold all the manuscripts in my hands from now on, and I will check them carefully before going on the show."

"It is really difficult to do without monitoring. But tonight there are only a few of you in the backstage, and it will be your manuscript People, just these few people." The staff defended Hazel, but said earnestly, "If you don't memorize the manuscript in advance tonight, then you will definitely have a broadcast accident tonight. Even if you were faced, you can't argue with it. Because the anchor must check the press release before the broadcast, which is written in the regulations."

"Yes. I am too careless to create such an accident for others." Hazel wasn't so angry anymore.

It was because she was not experienced enough and trusted the people around her too easily that she was caught.

Her family always praised her for being cautious, but now the reality had poured cold water on her.

She would have to be more cautious in the future.

“Okay, don’t blame yourself. You performed very well tonight, there is no major problem. Tonight’s ratings are much higher than last night. You go back to get off work and have a good rest. I will tell Director Joly when he goes to work tomorrow.” The staff comforted Hazel.

“Don’t tell him.” Hazel hesitated, “Although this matter was manipulated by someone behind the scenes, it was indeed caused by my own negligence.”

The staff: “Even if the person cannot be found out, I still have to tell Director Joly, don’t think too much, get off work!”

Hazel: “Yeah.”

On the way home, Hazel looked at the night scene outside the window and lost her mind.

Her intuition told her that Sloane should be the one who wanted to cause her to make mistakes in her work.

But as soon as she thought of this, Sloane’s kind appearance when she talked to her tonight automatically appeared in her mind.

Without surveillance, without evidence, she had no way to blame Sloane.

So even if she suspected that Sloane did it, she could only feel sad in her heart.

Without evidence, the mastermind behind the scenes would never admit to having done this.

It was conceivable that when seeing Sloane tomorrow, Sloane would definitely talk to her about this incident with an innocent face, maybe even more innocent than Lennox’s reaction.

Because there was no broadcast accident, this incident could be brought up lightly, but it would be disgusting.

When Hazel got home, the lights in the house were on, but her parents were not in the living room, and Robert was not in the living room either.

It should be a lamp specially reserved for her.

After she changed her shoes and entered the house, she turned on the flashlight of her mobile phone, and then turned off the lights on the first floor.

She went upstairs very lightly, for fear of disturbing her parents.

Fortunately, the feared thing did not happen.

She went back to the room, changed into her pajamas, and went to the bathroom to wash her face.

Because she was thinking about what happened tonight, she mistakenly washed her face with cold water, but she didn't feel the cold.

Most of the readers are now reading this novels:-

When His Eyes Opened Chapter 2843 –

When His Eyes Opened Chapter 2843—After washing her face, she went to the bed and sat down.

She thought she would lie down and relax, but she sat stiffly, looking at the phone on the bedside table.

She really wanted to find someone to talk to.

But this matter could not tell the family.

If she told her parents and siblings, they would definitely help her out.

She didn't want to involve her family in the absence of evidence.

Thinking of this, she immediately picked up her mobile phone and sent a message to Hector. After briefly telling Hector what happened tonight, she begged Hector not to tell her parents about it.

After sending the message, she found Lucas's name in the address book.

Looking at his name, Hazel was silent for a while.

She was unaware of Lucas' current situation.

Time had passed more than half a year in the blink of an eye.

Although it was only half a year, it seemed like many years had passed.

Her identity had undergone a huge change, she had learned a lot of new knowledge, and she was like being reborn.

She wasn't sure if Lucas had experienced a similar rebirth in the new setting and school.

She took a deep breath, clicked on Lucas's profile picture, and then edited the message: Young Master, have you come home this winter vacation? I guess you may not be home. I don't know if my guess is right. Whether you go home or not, I hope you can be happy. This winter vacation, I started an internship. I am now an intern anchor and work in a TV station. I used to dream that I could have a decent job, but I never thought that my wish would come true so soon. Wishes come true too quickly, there is always a feeling of unreality.

——Let me show you my selfie in the studio!

——picture.jpg

——Do I look like an adult now? Young master, I often imagine that if we meet again, will you recognize me at a glance? I can definitely recognize you at a glance.

——When I graduate from university, I will go to Thopiavelle to visit my mother-in-law. It would be great if you are also in Thopiavelle.

.....

It's 9:00 a.m.

Elliot received the replay video of Hazel's second episode from Hector.

Elliot cast the video on the TV in the living room and watched it with Avery.

When he saw the tenth minute, Elliot frowned.

He saw Hazel looking down at the documents on the table, obviously the news hadn't finished yet.

Normally, this shouldn't happen.

There must have been some accident, so Hazel lowered her head and didn't look at the camera.

"Why doesn't my daughter look at the camera?" Avery also saw the clue.

After Avery finished speaking, Hazel on the TV raised her head, looked at the camera again, and continued to broadcast the unfinished news just now.

“Maybe my daughter was nervous for a while!” Elliot replied, “Hector didn’t say anything, so it should be fine.”

“Oh... After all, it’s only the second time to go to work, so it’s understandable to be a little nervous.” Avery looked at On the TV, the daughter returned to the normal broadcasting state, and she breathed a sigh of relief.

After the two watched their daughter’s show in the living room, Avery picked up her phone and searched her daughter’s name on Facebook.

Under Hazel’s topic, Avery saw the latest Facebook of netizens.

Netizen A: At 9 minutes and 31 seconds of the latest program last night, Hazel suddenly looked down at the manuscript and stopped for 5 seconds. Normally, this is considered a broadcast accident, right? Can someone who understands tell me why Hazel stopped for 5 seconds?

Netizen B: I watched the live broadcast last night. It was the third news. She stopped suddenly. I thought the TV was stuck!

Most of the readers are now reading this novels:-