When His Eyes Opened Chapter 2851—“That’s peach blossom.” Avery saw that Hazel liked it, so she went into the shop with her.

“Mom, isn’t peach blossom blooming this season?” Hazel asked suspiciously, “Is that a fake flower? But it looks so realistic.”

The owner of the store heard Hazel’s words and immediately explained: “This is a real peach blossom. If you don’t believe me, if you look closer, it still has the fragrance of peach blossoms! This is specially cultivated to bloom in January. Therefore, it is more expensive to sell.”

Avery didn’t ask the price, but carefully looked at the peach blossoms and trees.

“It seems to be true.” Avery looked at Hazel, “If you like it, we’ll buy it and take it home.”

Hazel really liked it very much, but there seemed to be only a peach tree in the store.

Hazel moved closer to her mom’s ear and whispered, “I think my sister will definitely like it.”

Avery took another look at peach blossom, maybe Layla would really like it.

“Mom, don’t talk, I’ll bargain.”

Hazel finished talking to her mom in a low voice, and then asked the shop owner how much this peach tree cost.

The shop owner saw that Avery and Hazel were dressed in decent clothes, so he immediately said, “You guys really know the goods. This peach blossom tree only blooms but does not bear fruit. It is a New Year’s Eve flower imported from abroad. It is placed in the living room during the New Year. It can attract wealth and peach blossom luck, and it can survive for a long time if it is properly preserved! We bought this peach blossom tree in our store, and now we sell it to you at a cheap price.”

Hazel didn’t expect that a peach tree would sell for $30,000.

It was still a peach tree that only bloomed but did not bear fruit.

“Boss, if it’s March, how much would you sell for such a big peach tree?” Hazel asked the shop owner calmly.

The owner was stunned for a moment, he didn’t expect Hazel to play cards a little bit out of routine.

“This... we don't sell peach trees in March... I don't know the market in March.”

The Shop owner was a wise man who understood that neither the peach trees nor the peach blossoms could be sold for a high price because the peach blossoms bloom in March.

“Boss, we have several peach trees planted in our yard! It is bigger than the one you sold. When it blooms in March, the flowers bloom more beautifully than yours! Of course, the peach trees in our yard can't bloom now, so it can't compare with you.”

“That's right! It's only valuable because it's blooming now.” The shop owner blushed, thinking that this little girl was quite eloquent, “If you really want it, I can give it to you at a lower price.”

“Boss, how about $8888? Such a big tree will take up space in the store, so it's better to sell it early to recover the cost. It's already late January, and it will be February in a few days. I'm afraid your peach tree will lose one 8 by then.” Hazel actually thinks that $8888 was expensive.”

It's just that it's approaching the end of the year, and everything was expensive.

This tree was also pretty big, and its flowers bloomed well. The shop owner might not want to sell it if the price was lower.

After all, there were many rich people in Avonsville, and there were probably many who are willing to pay a high price for it.

“You little girl is really good at haggling...I'm bleeding because of you haggling...I've never seen you haggling like this. I can't afford four figures.....I can't afford it! Just add more...and I'll sell it to you...” The shop owner said these words with a heartbroken expression.

Avery, who had been silent all this time, planned to raise $10,000 for the boss.

At this time, Hazel took mom's hand and said to the boss: “If you add more, you won't have the good fortune of $8888. Boss, if you sell like this, you will definitely get rich in the future.”

The shop owner: “Forget it, I'll sell you! Do you want to buy something else? Our store has all kinds of flowers...”

“I want this peach tree only.” Hazel was very assertive.

Hazel and Avery exited the flower shop after settling the bill for $10,000 and leaving the address.

“Baby, you really know how to bargain. But why don’t you buy more at that store?” Avery didn’t understand.

“The peach tree in his house is more attractive to me. That peach tree is too expensive. If I didn’t see such beautiful peach blossoms in other stores, I would not want to spend so much money to buy a tree!” Hazel said. Even though the price had been cut by a lot, Hazel thought it was still too much.

Avery comforted her daughter: “It’s the end of the year, and everything will be more expensive. After all, others are still working at this time, and they don’t have time to spend with their families.”

When His Eyes Opened Chapter 2852 — “The boss just now, isn’t his wife and children in the store?” Hazel still felt that the price was too expensive, “If I didn’t think my sister would like it very much, I wouldn’t even buy $1888. “

“Hahaha, if your sister knew that you had invested so much money for her, she wouldn’t know how happy she would be.” Avery could feel her daughter’s sincerity.

“I don’t know what’s going on with Dad and sister.” Hazel was a little worried, “Dad won’t talk about sister, right?”

Avery shook her head: “Probably not. Your father is a loving father. Even if he wants to teach the child a lesson, he will speak well and not lose his temper.”

“I’m afraid that Dad won’t give my sister the household registration book.” Hazel expressed her worry, “My sister has already moved to live with brother-in-law Eric, and I don’t think there is any need to stop them from being together.”

“If you can think that way, your father may not think so. It’s just that your sister is still too impulsive to do things. If she wants to get a certificate on a whim, she must get a certificate, and she doesn’t give other people advance notice...” Avery said.

“After all, she and brother-in-law have gone through many tests. Now they only need a certificate and a formal wedding.” Hazel could understand her sister’s mood.

Avery: “Don’t worry, your father won’t embarrass them. Just wait for your sister’s good news.”

Avery and Elliot had been together for so many years, and she dare not say that she was a roundworm in his stomach, but she knew him very well.

“Yeah! Mom, what should we buy again?” Hazel lost her mind, and smiled again.

“Buy some more flowers and green plants, and then go buy lanterns and couplets... I also need to buy some red paper, and then I can write blessings by myself. Hazel, can you write with a brush?”

Hazel shook her head: “I won’t.”

Avery: “I’ll teach you when the time comes, it’s very simple.”

Hazel: “OK!”

At 5 o’clock in the afternoon, Layla and Eric received their marriage certificate at the Civil Affairs Bureau.

Holding the newly released certificate, Layla took a photo with her mobile phone and sent it to the family group.

Layla: [I’m married I’m married I’m married!]

Robert: [Didn’t you propose marriage?]

Layla: [Please, please! I begged in front of my dad!]

Robert: [You begged Eric in front of your dad?]

Layla: [beats] [He got down on one knee! And the diamond ring too!]

Layla: [The Diamond Ring.jpg]

Robert: [This diamond ring is a bit ordinary.]

Hayden: [Very ordinary.]

Hazel: [Congratulations sister and brother-in-law! The registration photos are so beautiful! The diamond ring is also beautiful! The style is simple and generous, so beautiful to wear!]

Robert: [Little sister, you are really the king of our family! pistachio!]

Hazel: [Hey, second brother, when do you get off work?]

Hazel: [Elder Brother, when are you going back to Aryadelle?]

Hazel: [Elder sister, my mother and I bought you a super beautiful tree! Sent to my brother-in-law’s house!]

Hazel was indeed the supporter and pistachio in the family.

She would support anyone's field.

Robert: [I get off work at 6 o'clock. Do you want me to take a look at the number you bought? Just send it away?]

Hazel: [Why don't you go to see brother-in-law's house then! Or ask sister to take a picture of it. Really nice to see.]

Avery: [It's really pretty. It's a pity that there is only one in the store, otherwise we would definitely buy two.]

Layla: [I can't help but go back to watch it now!]

Hayden: [My plane is two days away.]

When His Eyes Opened Chapter 2853 — Eric's house was not far from Foster's house, and Layla could come back whenever she wanted.

Elliot looked at the new year's goods that his wife and daughter had bought all afternoon, and sighed at their purchasing power.

They bought more New Year's goods this year than in previous years.

They bought a lot of flowers and green plants, which had already been sent to Eric's house.

They also bought countless big lanterns, small lanterns, and various colored lights.

Not only that, but they also bought a lot of colorful balloons and pumps.

Elliot looked at these colorful little things and asked, "Where are you going to hang the balloons?"

Avery: "The living room! When the time comes, the background wall will be filled with balloons to form the words Happy New Year. How festive!"

Elliot nodded: "It's indeed a celebration. Do you need my help to pump up the balloon?"

If Elliot kept himself busy, he wouldn't have time to worry about Layla and Eric getting married.

“Yes! Not only can you help cheer up, but you can also help hang the lanterns on the potted plants.” Avery arranged work for him.

“Hmm. You must be tired from shopping all afternoon, right? Take a break.” Elliot took the pump and started pumping up the balloon.

“I’m not tired. I’m happy shopping with my daughter. My daughter is especially good at bargaining. In fact, I used to be very good at bargaining when I was young. But after being with you, I gradually lost this skill.” Avery complained, “I’ll take you with me next time we go shopping.”

“Yes.” Elliot also wanted to see how Hazel bargained.

Hazel had changed a lot since she returned to Foster’s house in summer until now.

When Hazel first returned to Foster’s house, she was obviously timid, afraid to speak, and there was timidity in her eyes. Now she was cheerful and confident.

“Mom and Dad, look!” Hazel hung a string of colored lights on a green leafy tree, and she turned on the switch of the colored lights. Suddenly, the green leafy tree shone with dazzling brilliance as if it would glow.

“It’s so beautiful.” Avery walked to her daughter, looked at the decorated tree, and smiled, “There are so many lanterns left!”

“These lanterns can be placed in the bushes in the yard.” Hazel had already thought about it in her heart, “I’ll take them to the yard and hang them up now.”

Avery: “It’s cold outside. I’ll get it after dinner.”

“Let’s eat when the second brother comes back from get off work!” Hazel felt a fire in her heart, and she didn’t feel cold at all.

Seeing that she insisted on going to the yard, Avery brought her a coat.

Avery also put on her coat and went to the yard with Hazel.

Seeing that the mother and daughter were going out, Elliot immediately turned on the lights in the yard.

It was only past five o’clock, and it was not completely dark yet.

The house had not been this lively for a long time.

Before Hazel came back, even if Layla and Robert were at home, it was not so lively.

Hazel was now full of enthusiasm for this home, no matter in a certain corner of the house or in the wide yard.

“Mom, it seems to be raining lightly. Go back to the house.” After Hazel came out with a bag of lanterns, she felt the rain hitting her face.

It wasn't raining much, so she planned to dress up the lanterns before going back to the house.

Avery put her coat and hood on for her, and said, “I'll go to the house to get an umbrella.”

Avery had already seen Hazel's determination not to go back to the house until she finished her work.

At half past six in the evening, Robert came home.

Seeing the glittering lanterns in the yard and the red lanterns under the eaves of the villa, Robert once wondered if he entered the wrong house.

“Is our family celebrating the new year early? Our company is not on holiday yet!” Robert muttered in a low voice and stopped the car. After getting out of the car, he walked a few steps to the door of the villa to change his shoes.

As a result, the living room was seen full of balloons.

“Ah! My sister posted it on Moments!” Hazel suddenly swiped to her sister's Moments, and screamed out loud.

When His Eyes Opened Chapter 2854 — Layla posted 9 pictures in Moments.

They were the marriage certificate, a picture of her finger wearing a diamond ring, a selfie of her under the peach blossoms, and a group photo of her and Eric.

The photo of her and Eric was divided into the previous photo of the two of them and the current photo.

After reading these 9 pictures, the mood would rise accordingly, and she couldn't help but scream for their feelings.

“Your sister is not afraid that others will post the pictures she posted on the Internet!” After hearing Hazel’s exclamation, Avery immediately walked to her and saw the circle of friends posted by Layla.

“Brother-in-law has quit the circle, even if everyone knows about the two of them, it shouldn’t matter, right?” Hazel smiled brightly.

She substituted her sister. If she married the man she liked but couldn’t make it public, the joy would be greatly reduced.

“It doesn’t affect Eric anymore, but it might affect your sister. Don’t underestimate Eric’s influence. If some of his fans go to follow your sister, it will affect your sister, is it?” When Avery said this, she couldn’t help but frowned, “Next, we have to arrange more bodyguards for Layla.”

Elliot nodded.

“Okay, let’s go eat first!” Avery was a little hungry, and looked at his son, “Robert, are you tired from work today?”

Robert: “I thought you guys forgot my existence.”

“You are such an old man, how could you forget you? I also heard you outside saying that our family celebrated the New Year early.” Avery smiled kindly at his son, “We are all waiting for you to come back for dinner!”

Robert was immediately coaxed.

“When I first entered the yard, I almost thought I had gone through the wrong door. If I hadn’t seen the car in the yard, I might really have turned around.” Robert walked up to his father, “Dad, did you take a video of the process of proposing to my sister?”

Elliot: “Do you want to see it?”

Robert’s face was filled with gossip: “I’m just curious…”

“You don’t have a girl you like, do you? Want to learn from your brother-in-law how to propose to a girl?” Avery’s face was also full of gossip.

But Avery’s gossip was about his youngest son, Robert.

Robert waved his hands again and again as if his tail had been stepped on: “No, no, mom, don’t guess. I have a very pure relationship with the girls in our class. Besides, even if I am really in love, it’s impossible to propose to someone else!”

“You can propose marriage without graduating. Isn’t there a lot of college students getting married and having children before graduating? As long as the person you are looking for is of good character, your parents will not stop you.” Avery said enlightenedly.

“Mom, don’t talk about it, I have goose bumps. I am still a child! My brother is not married, so I am not in a hurry.” Robert was more homesick. He was sure that he was heteros*xual, but he was really in no hurry to find a woman to marry.

The family sat down at the table and began to eat dinner.

After dinner, Elliot called Robert aside and listened to his report on today’s work.

Avery and Hazel were playing with the balloons that Dad had made in the living room.

About half an hour later, Avery’s and Elliot’s cell phones rang at the same time.

Their phones hadn’t rang at the same time.

So the attention of the whole family was attracted by these two bells.

Avery immediately went to the coffee table to get her mobile phone.

Elliot’s cell phone was on the sideboard.

Robert walked to the sideboard in two steps, picked up his dad’s mobile phone, and handed it to him.

“Hello.”

“Hello.”

Avery and Elliot answered the phone at the same time.

When His Eyes Opened Chapter 2855 — Elliot’s call was from his assistant.

Avery’s call was from Tammy.

“Boss, Eric officially announced his marriage to Miss Layla on his Facebook page. Many business partners called me and asked me if it was true.”

Elliot’s temple twitched.

He only knew that Layla had posted the wedding photo on Moments, but he didn't expect Eric to post it on Facebook as well.

"Let me see." After Elliot said, he minimized the call, opened Facebook with his slender fingers, and found Eric's Facebook page.

Eric also posted 9 pictures. It's exactly the same as what Layla posted in Moments.

But Eric provided the text.

His accompanying text is as follows:

—I'm married. I'm honored that my wife is the girl I have liked for a long time. I considered that I quit the circle and didn't want to occupy public resources anymore, but I thought that even if I didn't make it public online, some media friends would make it public, so let me come forward and explain it clearly to everyone!

My wife is not an insider, but everyone should be familiar with her. I hope fans and friends from the media will not bother her, thank you.

Eric's Facebook page had only been posted for ten minutes, but it already has 100,000 comments and 500,000 likes.

The most popular comment was Tate Industries's official Facebook page.

Tate Industries official Facebook: Congratulations to Eric! Congratulations boss! I wish the boss and Eric a happy wedding and a long and lasting life!

Tammy's laughter kept coming from the phone: "I also commented on that Facebook. When I saw his Facebook page, there were only a few thousand comments. When my comment is posted and refreshed, it will be 20,000 f*cking. There are many comments! My comments were submerged in the vast ocean in an instant! I also planned to let Eric scoop me up, let me feel the joy of 999+ likes! But I was unable to locate my own comments."

Avery's mood was mixed: "I don't know if this is a good thing or a bad thing. Eric's influence is too great, and I'm afraid it will affect their future lives."

"What are you afraid of? So many celebrities have officially announced their marriages, and I haven't seen any impact on their lives." Tammy's laughter continued, "The two of them received their certificates today. Why didn't you tell me about such an important matter? ah?"

"I took Hazel out shopping today, and I've been dressing up at home after shopping." Avery replied, "I'll take a look at Eric Facebook page."

Tammy: "Go and see! It's as lively as New Year's Eve."

After finishing the phone call, Avery opened Facebook.

As a result, Facebook was blank.

"Do you have internet? Why is there no internet on my phone?" Avery thought it was a problem with the internet.

Hazel immediately took her mother's phone and took a look: "The network is connected! See if other apps can be opened."

Hazel casually clicked on any other app, and it could be opened.

"Mom, it's Facebook that's pumped."

"Oh..." Avery's tone was a little regretful.

For a moment, she couldn't tell what it was like.

The daughter's marriage was settled, which was actually a matter of concern, but now that things were going so vigorously, Avery was vaguely worried.

"Mom, don't worry. Brother-in-law must have thought it through before he decided to publish it on Facebook." Hazel advised her mom, "Even if brother-in-law doesn't publish it on Facebook, other media will report it. My brother-in-law took this action because he didn't want to wrong my sister."

After listening to her daughter's analysis, Avery couldn't help but laugh: "Your sister has liked to express herself in public since she was a child. She really doesn't care if everyone knows about her marriage. It is estimated that Eric's doing so will only make your sister happier."
