

HIS LORDSHIP ALEXANDER KANE BY USELESS CAESAR

Chapter 491

Chapter 0491 The combined fighting skills of the two grandmasters were invulnerable, attacking Alexander everywhere. Their moves complemented each other, making no mistakes! At the same time, the 70 to 80 men from the Simmons and Waine families were also in action! Although they were not grandmasters, they had refined vital energy in their bodies. Some were armed with either machetes or daggers in their hands.

Some of them were barehanded, sealing all the directions that Alexander might dodge, thus closing the formation.

It was no exaggeration to say that in that short moment, the attack they launched was flawless, and their ability to contain Alexander was foolproof.

Even a supreme grand martial artist with dominant strength would find it difficult to deal with such a situation.

Even if one was able to deal with it, they would not be able to stop their stormy attack! "It was commendable for a mere second-tier family to come up with this kind of combined combat skills formation." Seeing the grandmasters' imminent strike, Alexander smiled and made a nonchalant comment. Then he raised his right hand and shook it. ""A small formation like this is vulnerable in the face of the truly powerful masters!" Boom! It was soft.

The air in the spacious reception hall seemed to freeze for a moment, and the sound of shattering glass resounded in everyone's ears.

It was as if a stone had suddenly been thrown into the calm lake, and a ripple wave visible to the naked eye slowly spread out, wiping out the two grandmasters and the 70 to 80 men, easily destroying the unbreakable formation! Such was the power of the Lord of War! This was an absolutely crushing and invincible stance. All of them, including the two grandmasters, were tossed aside. They were swept away by this wave and hit the walls of the room almost simultaneously, shattering the reinforced concrete wall into human-shaped dents. Slalch Thi lindNivel.let website on Gøøgl to access chapters of novels early and in the highest quality.

Once again, Alexander had defeated the enemy in a single move! With such an understated move, the formation created by the Waine and Simmons families collapsed. All of them spilled blood and slid down the wall, unable to get up! "No, that's impossible!" Looking at the scene in front of them, Troy and Xerxes were dumbfounded, and their entire bodies trembled violently.

"What kind of martial arts is this? What kind of power does this young man possess?" That was the question on everyone's mind. Even if they saw it with their own eyes, it was still hard to believe!

As second-tier families, Troy and Xerxes had grandmaster executors in their families, and they had seen supreme grandmasters with dominant strength with their elders. The powerhouses of today's martial arts world were no strangers to them.

However, to their astonishment, even an Apex of Grandmaster would not be able to wield such terrifying power! "The world is so big. How much could you have seen? The frog at the bottom of the well will never know the vastness of this world." In the end, Alexander withdrew his right hand, walked slowly toward Troy and Xerxes, and shook his head indifferently. The Redwine family swearing allegiance to Mister Kane was the wisest decision in the history of the Redwine family! "Xerxes is pretty smart, isn't he? He's pretty quick on his feet." Chapter 0492 Kneel or die? Accepting fate or fighting for dignity was the option.

What was dignity when your life was at stake? It was better to die than to live miserably! Troy had been spoiled since childhood.

He had never seen a scene like this. His teeth trembled with fear. Learning from experience, he knelt before Alexander with a thud, his throat instantly dry from crying.

"I will do as I said, kowtow a hundred times!" "One, two, three..." As he kowtowed, he counted. In an instant, the skin on his forehead opened up, blood flowed down his cheeks and into his neck, and his precious suit was stained blood red!

"Frank." Alexander turned his head and said softly to Frank, "Right now, your performance can only be described as barely passing. Do you know why?"

Frank's body stiffened as he thought frantically about what had happened before, his muscles suddenly tightening and his forehead sweating coldly.

"Yes, I understand! "I shouldn't have let Troy and Xerxes come up with a solution right now. I should have taken the initiative and never been passive!"

Alexander smiled.

"As of today, you are a member of my team. From now on, you have to be a man and be brave." Alexander patted Frank on the shoulder and walked past Waine and Simmons' men, who sprawled on the ground to the door.

As he left the room, he gave Frank his last message.

"Buck up if you're one of mine. You don't need to fear or show the slightest weakness to any of the family heads, including the tycoons." "They don't deserve it!" Alexander took Alfred and the usher and quietly left under the stunned eyes of the many guests in the hall.

The banquet was far from over, however, and the Troy and Xerxes were not done kowtowing.

It took them ten minutes to complete a full hundred kowtows, and they still dared not get up. Under Frank's supervision, they were like two bereaved dogs, kneeling on the ground and crawling with their heads down.

They crawled out of the hotel before a large group of guests, embarrassed. They regretted their actions! They did not even pay attention to their seriously injured subordinates, including the two grandmasters. They drove their limited edition luxury cars and left the hotel as if fleeing for their lives, each returning to their families.

Dignity swept the floor, and they lost everything!

Chapter 493

Chapter 0493 Early the next morning, at the Simmons mansion in the north. Since the loss of both Veridian and Blossomtown, Zayn has refused to see anyone and lives behind closed doors.

He left all family matters to his subordinates. Sitting in the Simmons family ancestral hall, he seemed to have aged more than a dozen years.

The mood was somber! Blossomtown was the foundation of the Simmons family. With the loss of Blossomtown, most of the industries under his command disappeared, losing their largest economic source.

Even the foundation that has been passed down for more than 100 years cannot withstand such a great loss.

The only way to recover from the defeat was to drive out the tigers and swallow the wolves, annex some third-tier small families in the north, and make up for the losses of the Simmons family as much as possible! "Sir!" Just as Zayn was deep in thought, an old man in a gray robe walked quickly to the door of the ancestral hall, extended his hand, and whispered, "Sir, the young master got in trouble at the Redwine family banquet last night!" Zayn waved his hand slightly and laughed in a low voice. "What can he do? The family business is almost gone, How much worse can it be? Just take care of trivial things like this yourself, don't bother me anymore." The gray-robed old man shook his head slowly, his voice even lower.

"This time, it's different.

"In the past, the young master got into trouble, but he only bullied men and women to show his power, but this time... the young master and Troy offended a man and were humiliated at the Redwine family banquet!" Zayn's muddy eyes suddenly sharpened. With a stern look in his eyes, he urged the housekeeper to continue. "Pip, go on, tell me what the hell is going on!" The housekeeper, Pip, wasted no time in answering truthfully, "Last night..." With a heavy heart, he recounted what had happened at the Redwine family banquet. "If this matter is not resolved soon, I am afraid that the prestige of the Simmons family will plummet, and it will be difficult to maintain the status of a second-tier family!" Zayn jumped off the sofa as if a real flame was burning in his eyes. was furious.

Redwine Family? Although the Simmons family was weak, they were still a top second-tier family. Zayn considered which family he could attack and take over their assets to rebuild the Simmons' name, Since the Redwine family had provoked the Simmons, Zayn thought they were the perfect choice. He would destroy the Redwines and let the forces in the north know that even if Blossomtown was lost, the Simmons family stood firm and tall. The Simmons were not to be taken lightly.

On the other side, Troy was kneeling on the floor at the Waine family mansion entrance.

"Father, I was wrong!" His injuries from the night before were severe. He was covered in bandages as he kowtowed to Ryder, crying bitterly.

Chapter 494

Chapter 0494 Time has a way of slipping through our fingers.

Before anyone realized it, three days had passed since the Redwine family's grand banquet. The events of that night had rippled out, setting off a chain reaction. An increasing number of lesser clans then flocked to the Redwine family, eager to serve, and the family's enterprises were booming like never before.

"Frank, you've outdone yourself." In the opulent hall of the Redwine estate, Vince, the once head of the family, regarded his third son with newfound respect. "I was blind to your talents, but now I see that your choices were spot on.

"Bowling to Mister Kane was the turning point for our family's ascent. You played your cards right!" I Frank beamed with pride.

There was a time when he languished in the shadows of his older brothers, the headship of the family an unattainable dream. However, times have changed. Owen, his second brother, was gone, and Dallas, the eldest, had faded into obscurity. Frank then stood as the new patriarch, basking in his moment of triumph.

"The strength of our family lies in our might. The quicker we grow, the more we need a rock-solid foundation. We must recruit the best fighters, the Envoys, at any cost. If we could even bring a Grandmaster into our ranks, or better yet, a heavyweight..." Vince said, clapping Frank on the shoulder with a grave tone.

Before Vince could finish, Frank's grin widened.

"Father, you're about to meet some very special individuals." With a dramatic gesture, Frank beckoned and then turned to Vince with a confident flare.

"Envoys, step forward!" In a flash, three figures appeared as if summoned from the shadows. Sath the FindNI.not website on Google to access chapters of novels early and in the highest quality.

The moment Frank finished speaking, three venerable figures appeared, moving with the grace of swans in flight. They descended from the night's embrace to the grand hall's threshold, bowing in harmony.

"Greetings to the elder patriarch, greetings to the young master. The Three Sages of Cidda City offer their respects!" The Three Sages of Cidda City?! A wave of wild joy washed over Vince's face. He sprang from his seat, eagerly guiding Frank to greet the newcomers, bowing with fists clasped, his voice quivering with excitement.

"Elders, is it truly you?" "With you three as our Envoys, the Redwine family can finally breathe easy. I'm just... I'm over the moon!" Vince's reaction was understandable.

The north was a land of endless breadth, teeming with formidable fighters, and the Three Sages of Cidda

City were among the elite, Grandmaster at peak-level combatants. They were brothers of one blood, their minds in perfect sync, a force combined that could even topple an early-stage heavyweight.

Frank must have moved mountains to bring such champions to their side!

"Dad, we can finally relax, right?" After exchanging pleasantries with the Three Sages of Cidda City, Frank's face lit up with a smile. "The elders have vince was beside himself with glee, nodding vigorously. "And it's not just any banquet. We'll invite a crowd, and we must have Mister Kane there to show the whole north..." Are you trying to broadcast to all the noble houses that the Redwine family's downfall is at hand?" "Since you cross the Waine family, you better be ready to face the consequences. Chapter 495

Chapter 0495 While the Redwine father and son were reeling in shock, Ryder and Zayn were already basking in smug triumph.

Right there at the Redwine estate gates, the heads of the Simmons and Waine families stood, an aura of death around them, flanked by the last two Grandmaster Envoys of their respective clans. Behind them, a hundred of their finest troops stood ready.

Leading the pack was a giant of a man, nearly two meters tall, with a chest and back as bare as the day he was born.

His body hair thick and wild, like a bear on the prowl.

He was the Polar Heavyweight, known as the Icefield Violent Bear, Roman Sonov! "Heavyweight!" In the heart of the estate, the Three Sages of Cidda City, who had managed to maintain their composure until then, were suddenly stricken with terror. Their eyes met, each reflecting the same dread they felt.

That was no mere supreme grand martial. That was a heavyweight at the major level! The fighter from the distant northern reaches stood at the gates of the Redwine family's home, an immovable iceberg personified, exuding an aura of icy ferocity. Even from a distance of over two hundred meters, they could sense his chilling presence with unsettling clarity.

He was an adversary beyond their ability to challenge.

"Young master." The eldest of the Three Sages of Cidda City, a gaunt elder with snowy hair, turned to Frank with a weighty tone.

"Our foe's power is overwhelming, his level too advanced. If we face him head-on, I'm afraid..." Frank felt a heavy dread settle in his chest, his face draining of color.

The Three Sages of Cidda City, whom they had just enlisted, were no match for the combined might of the Simmons and Waine families. Unless a miracle occurred, that day could spell doom for the Redwines.

"You're still hesitating?" In the midst of Frank's anxious panic, Ryder and Zayn strutted to the forefront of the great hall. They gazed at Vince and Frank, their faces ashen, and laughed mockingly. "The Redwine family's banquet three days ago made a mockery of our Simmons and Waine families.

"Did you ever consider what today would bring?! "Out with it, where have you hidden that enigmatic young man? Give him up!" The night of the gala was thick with tension. Troy and Xerxes Simmons had only heard whispers of Alexander, known simply as a friend to the Redwine family. Little did they know that he was the cause of the significant losses in Veridian and Blossomtown.

Their covert strike had crossed swords with a legend the indomitable Alexander, the very myth of Ol' Mare, who had felled eight of the mightiest Envoys, leaving a trail of devastation in his wake.

Frank's mind echoed with Alexander's warning. "Stand tall, never bend..." The fear that once gripped his face melted into resolve as he stood defiant before Ryder and Zayn. "You may have the upper hand against my Redwine family, but you're dead wrong if you think we'll bow down. We're warriors to the end, not cowards who flee from death. Do you want a battle? You've got one, and we'll fight till our last breath!" he declared.

Chapter 496

Chapter 0496 The Icefield Violent Bear from the icy reaches of Siberton, Roman, was not just all talk-he was a fighting titan.

The moment Ryder's words hung in the air, Roman was already on the move. Standing over two meters tall, the supreme grand martial artist, known as the Icefield Violent Bear, attacked just like his namesake: an unstoppable steel juggernaut barreling straight for Frank.

He charged with unstoppable force, his sheer power level crushing.

His mid-stage heavyweight strength was leagues beyond what Frank could handle, sending shivers down the spines of the Three Sages of Cidda City.

The trio of white-haired sages mustered all their might, conjuring a shield of vital energy, shouting at the top of their lungs, "Elders, young master, run!!"

Run? There was no chance.

Roman bared his teeth in a sinister grin, a low chuckle rumbling from his throat as he was wrapped in the tyrant's fierce aura. His right fist, tight as a hammer, came crashing down on the vital energy shield.

The sound of the impact boomed.

The defense, crafted by three peak-level heavyweights, crumbled like it was made of clay and paper, obliterated by the Icefield Violent Bear's nonsense punch! Such was the fearsome might of a heavyweight at major-stage! One against three, he triumphed with a single blow! The eldest of Cidda City's famed trio reeled from the punch's aftershock in the thick of the tyrant's reign. Blood gushed from his mouth, staining his beard and shirtfront crimson.

The gulf between a Grandmaster and a heavyweight was vast, and the three brothers were outmatched! With each clap, Ryder and Zayn's smirks widened. They sauntered forward, taunting the ashen-faced Frank, "Feeling the might of the Mister

Violent Bear now, are you?" "Weren't you the one who boasted that the Redwine family only has warriors who die fighting, not cowards who die fearing? Let's hear that bold claim again. Show us that Redwine spine!" they jeered.

Frank's jaw was set, his eyes a fiery red.

They were outclassed with no recourse.

The trio from Cidda City had fought with all their might against Roman's assault.

However, the Violent Bear's power was overwhelming, and the Redwine family stood no chance.

Chapter 497

Chapter 0497 It was a dog-eat-dog world where only the strongest survived. The high-stakes games of the elite were no different.

Roman made his move again, that time pulling no punches. Like a mountain on the move, his massive frame closed the distance to Frank in a heartbeat. He was unstoppable.

The Three Sages of Cidda City had put up a fight, but they were like leaves in a storm. Roman brushed them aside, his body a juggernaut, sending them flying. Then, with a swift motion, his hand came crashing down on Frank's head.

An avalanche of force! It was not a fancy move, just a devastating palm strike, but the power behind it was monstrous.

Ryder and Zayn were already smirking wickedly behind him, practically visualizing Frank's head exploding and his lifeless body hitting the ground. However, in reality...

Nothing of the sort happened! Out of nowhere, a young man appeared silently next to Frank.

With an effortless flick of his wrist, he scattered Roman's brutal attack, chuckling lightly. "Looks like I made it just in time." "A major-level heavyweight? We don't see many of those up north." What?! Roman's eyebrows shot up, and he quickly retreated to stand with Ryder and Zayn.

The two were initially shocked, then scrutinized the newcomer with narrowing eyes.

Who was that guy? If Troy and Xerxes were to be believed, a mysterious youth had humiliated them at the Redwine family's banquet, shaming both the Waine and Simmons families.

Could it be that very stranger? "Mister Kane!" In that instant, Frank's face lit up with an excitement he could not hide, a euphoria like being granted a second chance at life, and he was dying to express his gratitude to Alexander.

Alexander had arrived, and the Redwine family had a fighting chance! "Did you bring The Three Sages of Cidda City on as your Envoys?" Alexander, smiling, paid no mind to Ryder and Zayn and did not even bother looking at Roman. He gave Frank a reassuring pat on the shoulder, his eyes filled with approval. "The Waine and Simmons families are out for revenge, and it's smart to bring in some muscle. Good job.

"Just now, you remained steadfast, unwavering even in the shadow of death, truly fit to lead the Redwine family."

He was so overwhelmed with emotion that words failed him.

However, not everyone was eager to heed his call.

As his voice faded, Zayn did not send their envoys into the fray. Instead, he took three steps back, locking eyes with Alexander, their gaze darting about, clearly deep in thought.

Yet, that did not stop Roman and the Waine family's envoys from springing into action! "A 3 4H 1 - 3 k In yitomili, angzi wasai, enku! At the front line, Roman's smile twisted into a savage grin as he spoke in the cryptic northern tongue, then let out a thunderous cry, "Sidde dawa lai, Sena xi!"

What? The Waine family's two Grandmaster envoys were about to strike when they froze, confusion written all over their faces as they turned to Ryder.

'What's Mister Violent Bear's game? Did he really need their help?' "Mister Violent Bear's orders are to split up and take them on separately." Ryder's grin was menacing as he glared at Alexander. "The Three Sages of Cidda City are already wounded.

They're sitting ducks! Take them down first, then team up with Mister Violent Bear and rip Alexander to shreds!" With a whoosh, the Waine family's envoys did not hesitate that time. One soared into the air, while the other lunged forward, energy swirling around them as they charged ferociously at the Three Sages of Cidda City.

Roman was quicker off the mark! A giant of a man, towering over two meters, was shrouded in a chilling aura that spread like wildfire across his body. He charged forward like a runaway train, his skin and the air sparking together to create a fiery red glow.

Then there were his fists! His hands, powerful as iron, were like the paws of a polar bear, with a concentrated core of energy that formed into sharp, white ice shards. In the blink of an eye, his palm had already slammed down on Alexander's head!

decent." As the relentless attack bore down like a landslide, Alexander just cracked a faint smile, flicked a finger up casually, and tapped Roman's palm. With a grin, he said, "Too bad your moves are so unsophisticated. You think sheer force can shatter all defenses? You've got a long way to go." Roman, who had seemed invincible just a moment before, then looked utterly shocked, his bearded face freezing in place, his eyes bulging out like huge bells.

Agony shot through him! His entire right arm disintegrated before their eyes, his once mighty form crumbling like dry leaves, skin, muscle, sinew, bone... all turning a ghastly blue and flaking away, leaving nothing but a heap of broken ice on the ground.

The dominant strength he had honed for decades in the harsh northern ice fields had just been turned against him by Alexander's simple touch! "What in the world was that?!" Ryder gasped from a short distance away.

With just one move and one finger, Roman's right arm was utterly destroyed. What kind of martial prowess was that? Roman was a true supreme grand martial, and not just any, but a major-level one! How did Alexander pull that off? Was he even human? Ryder was not the only one gobsmacked; Zayn, along with Frank and Vince, were all frozen, eyes bugging out as they stared at the spectacle before them. Their faces mirrored the same expression: utter disbelief.

"This can't be happening, this just can't be..." The silence that hung in the air was shattered when Ryder, desperate like a man clinging to a lifeline, lashed out at Alexander with a f furious below, I don't care who you are, you've got no right to mess with Regulus Windsur's business. Chapter 499

Chapter 0499 Rules? Alexander could not help but chuckle. S-Dallh the (ind) vel.not website on Gøøgle to access chapters of novels early and in the highest quality.

"Rules are just made up by folks," he said.

He looked at Ryder, who was freaking out, with a composed, steady gaze. His voice was indifferent, like he was just stating the obvious. "Your precious rules are just to bully the small. The big fish eat the little fish, and that's that.

"Sure, you can preach about rules and do whatever you want when you're the one in charge.

"n)." However, me? I am the rule.

The moment he said that the air in the Redwine family's estate seemed to turn to ice. Alexander's presence was like a rocket to the moon! It was as if a legendary beast was waking up inside him, radiating an untouchable, fierce power. The air around him was electric with potential violence, and the threat of death hung heavy as a fog.

That was the aura of a warlord who had seen countless battles, walked fields strewn with the dead, and stood tall amidst mountains of bones. That was the aura of the mightiest Lord of War.

"This can't be happening, it just can't..." Ryder was beside himself.

He was a big shot, the head of a major family, but he had never felt fear like that. The guy in front of him, Alexander, did not seem human. He was like some ancient, unstoppable force of destruction.

What had the Waine family gotten themselves into? If he could take a do-over pill right then, he would gulp it down in a heartbeat.

"You were asking who I am?" Alexander's intense vibe dialed back, and he turned to Frank, who was practically glowing with respect, and said with a smile, "Go ahead, tell him." Frank, barely containing his glee, stepped up and locked eyes with Ryder, his face screaming confidence. "Ryder, weren't you the one gunning for the New Chesire Group, wanting to wipe them out completely? "Listen up, the Redwine family has pledged their loyalty to them. We're in Kane's corner now! "And the guy you're looking at? That's Alexander, the big shot of the Redwine household, the kingpin of Ol' Mare without a crown, and the other half of New Chesire Group's boss, Amber!" Kaboom! Ryder staggered back as if hit by a thunderbolt, his face white as a ghost.

It clicked...

That was Alexander I

He was the one who stormed through the northern defenses in a single night, wiped out Blossomtown, and took out eight of those high-flying fighter Envoys... The Xanthos family was not pulling the strings after all. They got it totally wrong! The man behind it all was right there, the guy whose name he had only heard whispered, and then he was staring at the legend in the flesh. The enigmatic prodigy, Alexander! A secret stops being a secret the moment it's out. And if you want to keep it under wraps, the easiest way is to take out anyone in the know." Alexander said calmly, his finger poised to strike again, "Take this to the grave. Try being a good guy next time around."

Zap! His finger jabbed the air, unleashing a torrent of raw power! Ryder's face twisted in terror, the Waine family's Envoys turned pale, and their elite fighters froze in fear.

Over fifty of them, including Roman with his busted arm, were caught in the relentless blast, their bodies peppered with wounds.

They hit the ground without so much as a peep, stone dead.

Then, silence.

The deep, unyielding silence of the grave.

Chapter 500

Chapter 0500 "Why? Because you are named Kane, because I've figured it out! You're the one stirring up chaos in the North, the center of attention for all the noble families, the fearsome figure marching into the North, Alexander!" Zayn thought. "Mister Kane!" Having seen the Waine family's downfall, Zayn had no more delusions.

He bowed deeply, standing his ground.

"Please, Mister Kane, have mercy. The Simmons family was foolish and has offended you. We hope for your forgiveness and that you might spare US "If Mister Kane agrees, the Simmons family will gladly pledge allegiance!" Pledge allegiance? Alexander had expected that response from Zayn. A slight smirk graced his lips.

He knew his place.

"Frank." He remained noncommittal, turning to Frank, who stood respectfully at his side and offered a smile. "The Simmons family? They're a minor league to me, easily spared or easily erased. I'm curious about your take on this."

Frank, clearly honored by the attention, quickly bowed and gave a respectful nod. After a brief moment of thought, he spoke with conviction, "Ryder has crossed Mister Kane and refuses to see reason. He's not worth our concern. However, Zayn of the Simmons family figured out who Mister Kane was. That takes some smarts."

"With the north in chaos and power plays shifting, the Redwine family could come in handy down the line.

Then again, Mister Kane has the kind of power that could wipe them out without a second thought. You're the real deal, unstoppable." Alexander chuckled.

For a young guy, Frank's insights were sharp, and he had a knack for giving compliments that did not grate, probably because he stuck to the facts.

"Starting today, the Simmons family falls under the Redwine banner." With a casual wave, he turned and headed for the Redwine estate's entrance. "Let's keep this under wraps, especially my identity. Spill the beans, and it's a death sentence." Leaving the Redwine estate, the night was thick around him.

Alexander's stride was easy, unhurried as if he were simply taking an evening stroll. About two kilometers out, he paused, a hint of a smirk on his face.

you've been skulking around once. No eavesdroppers now. Time to come out, don't you think?" With a swift whoosh, the night answered.

The moment Alexander paused, a { fierce wind howled to life like an arrow zipping through the night, hurtling from a hundred meters away straight for his forehead.

"A hidden weapon?" With a chuckle, Alexander shook his head and reached out into the empty air. A soft click echoed as a jet-black abacus bead, suspended in front of him, froze mid-flight, as if magnetized by an unseen force, and lightly dropped into his palm.

"Nice catch!" From the shadows a hundred meters away, a dark chuckle cut through the night. Aman in a black robe, his long hair flowing, moved with the grace of a gibbon, a black iron abacus in his grip. He approached without a sound, emerging from the darkness. His aura was deep and mysterious, a true supreme grand martial.
