

Chapter 0032

Izaak's Pov

My eyelids fluttered open to my unlit room, as my window blinds were not opened yet. I stole a glance at my alarm clock at my bedside stool, as it glowed red, and reached out to turn off the buzzer, because once it's 6am the alarm would go off, and the incessant ringing is the last thing I needed to hear this early morning, as my head throbbed from last night's event.

I groaned softly as I massaged my forehead with the tip of my hand. I attempted to sit up right, only to be held down by a hand wrapped around my waist.

I turned my head to my right, only to find Fiona sleeping with relaxed brows beside me, and some strands of her hair were on her face, she looked so calm and at peace. I laid there for a few seconds admiring her gorgeous features as I tried to resist the urge of removing the strand of hair from her face.

She breathed deeply, and tightened her grip around me.

I carefully removed her hand, in order not to wake her up as I stood up from the bed. I headed into the bathroom, splashed some cold water on my face to help with the throbbing, took off my clothes from last night, and put on my robe as I went back to the room.

"Fiona," I called out to her softly and got no response.

"Fiona," I called a little louder, stirring her up from her sleep as she yawned, stretched her body and scratched her left eye gently, before her eyes fluttered open fully.

"Good morning," she said with a weak smile. 'Good morning?! She mumbled in shock under her breath, and stood up from the bed abruptly, as the reality of the situation hit her.

"What I'm I doing in your room?" She asked, with her eyes wide open.

I furrowed my brows. "I should ask you the same thing," I said. "What are you doing in my room, and on my bed?"

"Uhhmm.." she scratched her hair. "I.."

"Let me guess, you don't remember," I interrupted.

"The only thing I remember was," she began. "After the servants left and ..."

"Your brain surely do have a way of remembering bits and pieces of an event, don't it?" I interrupted. "Giving you the chance to feign innocence, or is this just an act?"

"Alpha Izaak I.."

"If you want me to sleep with you, just come clean, and don't play these pathetic games, it doesn't suit you," I said sternly.

Her lips parted but no words came out as a tear streamed down her left cheeks and she wiped it quickly with the back of her hands.

"Just get out!"

She stared at me wide-eyed as tears rolled down both her cheeks, my heart arched at the sight, but I kept a straight face, wouldn't want her to get the wrong idea. She walked- run to the door, and as she opened it she bumped into Rick.

"Beautiful morning Luna," He greeted her cheerfully with a bow, and a wide grin on his face.

Fiona simply nodded in response and walked out with her eyes to the ground.

"What did you do?" Rick queried, as he strolled into my room.

I simply ignored him and headed to the bathroom to take a bath. I don't usually spend much time when I'm having my bath, but I'm not just ready for Rick's question.

"Yo man," Rick called out. "I'm still waiting for an answer "

I sighed.

I heard a knock on the door, and heard Rick's footsteps as he heads to open the door.

"Hello Tiana."

"Hi Rick," I heard Tiana's voice.

"Alpha Izaak! Tiana is here" Rick yelled, and I heard the door slam, which means he just left. Rick is not one who likes being in the same room as Tiana and I unless when discussing important pack matters, they are always at each other's throats, bantering.

"Hi babe," Tiana said with a smile, as she made to take off her clothes.

"Not today T," I said, as I stepped out of the shower and wrapped a towel around my waist.

"Why?" She whined with a small frown on her face, and tried to lose the towel from my waist.

"I have lots of things to do today," I said, in a lame attempt to avoid further questions. That's not exactly true, but sex is the last thing on my mind right now, not with Fiona's teary face popping up in my head.

"Hmph!" Tiana stormed off with her lips pouted, and went and sat on my bed. I went over to where she was and stroked her cheeks gently. She hit my hand, folded her arms and faced the opposite direction like a kid who was banned from taking extra candy.

"You know I want you right," I tried pacifying her.

"Oh, please," she rolled her eyes. "You wouldn't embarrass someone you'd love," she said, wiping tears from her cheeks. "All because of that..."

"That's enough T," I growled, which not only surprised me but Tiana at my sudden outburst. I knew this was Luo's doing, he wouldn't let me badmouth Fiona, how much more Tiana doing the badmouthing.

"I'm sorry T," I quickly apologized.

"You've fallen for her haven't you?!" Tiana barked.

"W-what?"

"It's true isn't it?" She demanded. "If not, why would you embarrass me yesterday, and..."

I leaned in and kissed her, at first she tried pushing me away, but soon later started fighting for dominance in my mouth.

"Listen T," I said, after breaking the kiss as it seemed it was going to lead somewhere else. "Whatever you think is going on between Fiona and I is just a game, and..."

"Why?" She interrupted. "I mean why go through all that trouble, when you can just ignore her?" She asked.

"Because I need to teach her a lesson, she did a number one on me and I want to make her pay for it," I said with a smile.

She scoffed. "Why didn't you tell me sooner, I got jealous for nothing" she grumbled as she enveloped me in a tight hug.

A knock came on the door. "Who is it?" Tiana asked happily.

"Alpha Izaak, your presence is needed," Rick announced from the other end.