

Chapter 0033

Izaak's pov

I got dressed and soon enough Tiana and I headed towards the garden. The most sacred part of the preparations has been done the previous day, and for the other parts of the preparations, pack members are allowed to lend a hand.

As soon as we stepped inside the garden, Fiona was the first person I saw who was working alongside her personal omega, Cora. Something about her just brought me peace just by staring at her. Fiona was dressed casually in black boyfriend jeans and a yellow crop top, revealing her slender waist, belly button. She looked extremely beautiful with her hair packed in a messy bun.

Seeing her laugh so heartily like she has nothing to worry about in the world calmed my spirit, and my wolf Luo. Fiona was usually at her happiest when she was around Cora.

"Alpha Izaak," Tiana called out to me.

"Yes?" I answered absentmindedly, with my eyes still fixed on Fiona.

"Alpha Izaak," Rick called out, and tapped me on my shoulder, which brought me back to reality. Tiana's face was red with anger, and I could literally see smoke coming out from her ears.

"Tiana," I called out to her but she just ignored me, and walked over to where her grandmother was. I could feel both their stares on me but cared less.

As soon as Fiona noticed my presence, the smile on her face disappeared.

"Greetings Alpha Izaak," she said with a bow, and immediately took her eyes off me.

"Greetings Alpha," the pack members greeted in unison.

I smiled in response, but my eyes were still fixed on Fiona.

"She looks stunning, huh?" Rick teased as he saw me staring, I glared at him but he just smiled. "Go over if you want," he said, pushing me slightly towards Fiona.

I don't really know if it's a good idea, because of what happened this morning, and from her attitude I could tell I'm the last person she needed around her.

"Coward," Luo cursed at me.

"I'm not," I retorted.

"Prove it," he challenged. I knew where Luo was going with all this, but I'm not going to give him something to gloat about. No way!

I walked over to where Fiona was working with Cora. "Can I help you with anything?" I asked.

"No, we'll manage just fine," she replied sternly.

Luo was laughing his ass out at my lame attempt at starting a conversation. "There's nothing wrong in asking for help," I said as I noticed she and Cora were having a hard time.

"Don't bother Alpha, I wouldn't like to take advantage of you," she replied sharply, her voice a little loud which made the pack members look in our direction.

"I just want to..."

"Rick, can you help us out please?" She interrupted, and called out to Rick while ignoring me like I didn't exist.

"Sure thing Luna," Rick replied with a wide grin on his face.

"I said I can help," I insisted, and collected the bowl she had in her hand, and accidentally spilled the liquid in the bowl on her clothes.

Cora gasped.

I looked over at the mess I created, and felt embarrassed. All I wanted to do was help her, and even apologize for my attitude this morning, but I didn't think it would lead to this.

"Oops!" Tiana's voice echoed, accompanied by a laugh.

Fiona sighed, shook her head, and reached out for a piece of cloth on the table to clean the spilled liquid on her clothes.

"Let me, please," I said, grabbing the piece of cloth before she did, and tried cleaning her clothes.

"Just stop!" She barked, causing everywhere to become silent like a graveyard. She took the piece of cloth from my hand forcibly, and tried cleaning the liquid herself.

"I'm sorry," I apologized, and everyone gasped in shock. I was one known to never apologize, I'd always find my way around something if I turned out to be wrong, but here I was apologizing to Fiona.

"You don't have to apologize, Alpha," she said with a smile, but the smile didn't reach her eyes, as she stormed out of the garden.

Fiona's pov

"Like it wasn't enough that he embarrassed me this morning, he still had to do it in front of his pack members," I grumbled to myself, my voice laced with irritation as I made my way to my room, with Cora trailing behind me quietly.

Gosh! Can't I have at least one whole day to myself without alpha Izaak ruining my mood?

Bam!

I slammed my door angrily as I got to my room.

"Ugh, he's so annoying!" I yelled, as I paced around my room.

I went over to my closet and ransacked it looking for something comfortable to wear, and also needed something to help with the way I'm feeling right now, and ransacking my clothes seems to help a bit.

"Cora," I called out to her for no reason in particular.

 +20 BONUS

"Yes Luna," she came over quickly, standing a few feet from me waiting for the next instruction.

"I- I can't c-continue like this," I said, my voice breaking from all the pent up emotions, and I broke into a sob.

This is not just about the liquid spilling on me, mistakes happen, but why does alpha Izaak derive joy in messing with me? Just this morning he insulted me without even giving me a chance to explain myself, then he came over acting like what he did in the morning was nothing, like I should just suck it up and act like all is well.

 Comments

 Vote (1.3K) 