Chapter 0046

Fiona's Pov

As soon as Tiana was out of my room, my knees finally gave way as I slumped to the floor, with tears streaming down my face uncontrollably.

I can't believe I've been so stupid, the evidence was glaring but I chose to ignore it. And Cora, she knew about it, but didn't even say a word, and just let me believe in something that was a lie from the very start.

My heart felt like it was being torn apart piece by piece. This was not just from heartache, this is entirely different.

When Leland rejected me and broke my heart, I thought I knew what pain was, I thought I had been broken to my limit and nothing could get to me ever but this__this is just too much.

This was pure betrayal, from Cora,

I can't believe I treated her like my sister, and friend.

Alpha Izaak also, I thought everything was genuine, but it was all an act from the very beginning. He planned everything out so well that I didn't suspect a thing.

Tiana was right about one thing though, I'm definitely dumb, because only a dumb person will get fooled for this long.

"Luna," Cora crouched down beside me and put her arm on my shoulder.

I shrugged her off, the last thing I need right now is any form of false pretense.

"Luna, your presence is needed," a messenger announced.

I stood up from the floor, and wiped the tears from my eyes with the back of my hand, as I walked over to my dressing table to apply some make up. I need to mask the fact that I've been crying, I can't appear weak, no. Enough with the self pity charade, I need to appear strong, even though I'm breaking inside.

"You kept us waiting Luna," Elder Freya scolded, as soon as I walked into the meeting room. "It's not polite to keep people waiting."

I sighed, trying to control my breath, so it wouldn't be obvious that I'm in pain.

"I'm sorry," I apologized with a forced smile. "Something came up."

I walked over to my seat which was beside Alpha Izaak.

"Is everything okay?" He whispered, his face etched with worry, as he attempted to hold my hand.

I stared at him with a blank expression, I can't believe all this was just an act, all the attention, the love, practically everything. He probably doesn't even know that I've found out about everything.

I couldn't bear to look him in the eyes, as it would only bring fresh tears. "I'm fine," I said flatly, withdrawing my hand, and turning my attention to everyone, as the meeting for the day began.

As the meeting began, my mind was very far away. I could barely grasp what they were discussing, as my mind wandered away. The thought of the betrayal and deceit overcrowded my thoughts, and tears threatened to fall again.

"Are you sure you are fine?" Alpha Izaak asked again, this time touching my neck with the back of his hand.

"Get your hands off me!" I growled.

Before now I would have felt that all these questions he's asking is because he genuinely cares about me, but no. It had been a lie from the very start.

All eyes were on me due to my outburst, but I was too broken to give a fuck.

"Did you two have a fight?" Rick whispered to Alpha Izaak. He shook his head in response, but his eyes never left my side.

"Please excuse me," I said standing up from my seat. "I'm not feeling too fine, I need to rest."

The elders nodded in understanding, giving me their approval. It's not like their approval mattered anyways, I would have still left whether they approved or not.

As soon as I was at the door, Alpha Izaak grabbed my hand, and looked at me with those icy blue eyes of his, and for a moment I saw genuine care in them.

Jeez! Fiona get a hold of yourself. It's all an act, I had to remind myself continuously in order not to get swayed by him again.
