Chapter 0049

Fiona's pov

The D-Day has finally arrived, and now I can finally have a rest from the constant meetings, and witness the full moon festival in all its glory.

The pack members could not hide their excitement as the sound of their laughter and chatter filled the air, as they got ready for the festival.

Despite today being a joyous occasion, I woke up with a feeling deep inside my stomach that something terrible would happen.

"Good evening," Cora swung open the door to my room, and greeted me cheerfully.

"Good evening Cora," I replied, not able to mask my worries in my voice. Cora and I have gone back to normal. It's been over a week since Tiana's revelation, and I've decided to let it slide, but definitely not alpha Izaak, I still kept him at arm's length.

"C'mon Luna, nothing's going to go wrong today," Cora said, like she could read my mind. "It's the full moon festival, what could possibly go wrong?" She said cheerfully. "You'll be fine, trust me."

"Easy for you to say," I replied. "I just hope you're right," I said, with a sigh.

Cora clapped excitedly. "Of course I am! Now let's get you ready for the festival," she said, making her way to my bathroom.

I decided to believe Cora and be optimistic, what could possibly go wrong right? And besides, it's not like my constant worry would change what's going to happen today anyways.

Cora prepared a floral scented bath of jasmine and orchid. I took my bath, and the warm water helped ease some of my tension. I got dressed, and applied some makeup. I have to look my best today, not just for the festival, but to prove to Tiana that I am stronger than she thinks.

"You look perfect," Cora complimented.

"Thank you," I said with a smile.

My phone rang, and Tiana handed it over to me.

"Dad?" I read the caller ID aloud in shock.

Ever since I got married to Alpha Izaak, my dad and I have spoken only once. Seeing him call now was a shock, it's not like I'm not happy he's calling, but my dad never calls unless something is up.

"Hi dad."

"Hi, Fiona— – I mean Stella," He stuttered.

"They already know I'm Fiona, not Stella dad," I said.

"Really?" He asked anxiously. "How did they find out? What happened when they found out? How are they treating you? My dad kept on bombarding me with different questions all at once, not giving me a chance to speak.

"Dad slow down," I said. "I'll answer all your questions, but you need to give me a chance to speak."

"Okay, okay," he took a deep breath. "Just tell me everything."

"I will, but now is not a good time, there is a festival today and everyone is currently occupied and I need to get ready as well, but I promise to call you and tell you everything, as soon as I can" I assured.

"Alright Fiona, just take care of yourself and stay safe."

"I will dad, take care of yourself too," I said, and hung up the phone.

I was going to tell my dad everything. Well, not entirely everything, I'm definitely going to skip the whole Tiana-Alpha Izaak drama part. That's my own personal shit, and I'm going to deal with it myself.

"It's time to go, Luna," Cora announced.

"Sure," I replied, and we headed out with Cora leading the way.

We soon arrived the venue of the full moon festival. It was an open grassland with stands housing various pack members, with joy evident in their faces.

Seeing them all smiles, and happy warmed my heart, because at the end of it all, all the stress during the preparations were worth it.

As soon as the pack members noticed my presence, they bowed, clapped and cheered me on excitedly.

"Luna Fiona we love you!" Some of them yelled at the top of their lungs.

"Luna Fiona you're beautiful!" Another yelled.

"Thank you," I said with a bow, as I waved at them, and gave them my brightest smile.

I made my way towards alpha Izaak who was seated in a throne like chair, looking handsome as always. Even though I was mad at him, I couldn't deny the fact that he was one hell of a gorgeous man.

As I approached my seat, which was behind his, I could feel his eyes on me. Tiana, along side the Elders were seated on both sides.

Just as I was about passing Tiana and reaching my seat, she set her legs forward in an attempt to make me trip, and make a fool of myself, but I was cautious enough to notice it. When I turned to look at her she gave me a fake smile, feigning innocence.

I scoffed, at the level of her pettiness. I've decided to let her keep Alpha Izaak, but she'd only be a mistress, I won't give up the position of Luna to her. Never!

"You look stunning," Alpha Izaak complimented, as soon as I sat down on my seat.

"Thank you," I replied with my eyes forward, not sparing him a glance.

"Welcome to the full moon festival Luna," Elder Jay said with a smile.

"Thank you Elder Jay," I replied with a smile, and a small bow.

The festival started in full swing as soon as I was seated. It first started off with a musical performance by various pack members, some of which sang alone or in groups. The musical performance that caught my attention were that of a duo, two identical twins that you could hardly tell apart, named Ethan and Nathan. They sang so beautifully that it touched my soul.

After the musical performance, there were several other performances, such as an art exhibition, where pack members showed their creativity, and I was blown away by how creative they were.

I got so invested in watching the performances that for a moment I forgot about all my worries. The performances of the pack members showcased how there was unity and joy within the pack, and I couldn't help but smile, and feel fulfilled.

After all the performances, Elder Freya went to the center of the field.

"Today, we have the opportunity of witnessing a part of the festival, that has not been done for several years now, because of you know what," she said, looking at the pack members, and they all nodded their heads, but the glint in the eyes can't be missed as they stared at me.

I was intrigued, and at the same time clueless to what elder Freya was talking about.

"Luna Fiona, would you kindly come to the center," she said, gesturing with her hand.

Chapter 0049

As I made my way to the center, the pack members clapped and cheered on happily.

"It is time!" Elder Freya announced.

"Time for what?" I mumbled.

"Time to introduce your wolf to us all."
