

Chapter 0055

Tiana noticed my hesitation, and decided to take the lead. She placed her lips on mine, and kissed me. Savoring every part of my mouth with her tongue. I kissed her back, but it just felt plain, nothing special.

Tiana broke the kiss, went down on her knees, pulled down my shorts slowly till there was nothing left but my dk, and she sucked on it.

.....

I woke up the next day with splitting headaches. It was even worse than a hangover headache, and what makes it more puzzling is the fact that I haven't tasted alcohol for the past two days.

I scrunch my brows as the headache intensifies. It feels like the universe is punishing me for having sex with Tiana, while Tiana on the other hand seems fine, as she slept peacefully at the other end of the bed.

I groaned as I stood up from the bed, and with each step I took, it only became worse. I went straight to the shower, and stayed under the cold water for a few minutes.

"Babe, can I join you?" Tiana asked, as she knocked on the door. I knew she was going to wake up any moment soon as I stood up from the bed, and I needed some alone time. So when I went into the bathroom, I locked it from the inside.

"Not now T, some other time," I replied, and I could hear her already grumbling.

By the time I was out of the bathroom, Tiana was gone. I quickly got dressed and headed straight for work.

"Mtchew," I sighed, because I was having difficulty concentrating on work. 1

"Hey man, are you okay?" Rick asked. "You look miserable."

"These works are never-ending," I grumbled.

Rick chuckled. "Next time, do a better job at hiding your feelings," he said, as he walked over to my desk and dropped another file.

I glanced at the file, and realized it's almost time for the alpha's parade, but this time I won't be going alone, I will go with Fiona.

The thought of having to work with Fiona again just like for the full moon festival brightened my mood, and I got to work immediately.

Fiona's pov

Last night, I thought long and hard about what Tiana said. Even though most of what she said was total bullshit and made absolutely no sense, she was right about one thing, I was neglecting my duties as Luna.

I've been given a second chance to prove myself, and I'm not going to waste it.

As soon as Cora stepped into my room that morning, I wrapped my arms around her. "I'm sorry Cora," I apologized. "You were right, I need to face my fears."

Cora returned the hug, and tightened her arms around me. "Welcome back Luna," she said casually, like I had just returned from a trip. Well, one can call my attitude for the past couple of days a trip, an emotional one, but I'm glad I'm back.

"It feels good to be back Cora," I replied, and the both of us burst out laughing.

"Everyone would be glad to have you back."

"I sure hope so," I said, wiping a tear from my eye. "I need you to get me a really eye-catching dress, I'm resuming Luna duties today."

Cora's face lit up. "I've got you!" She replied happily, and got to work immediately while I headed into the bathroom to take a bath.

Cora was done selecting my outfit by the time I was done. She helped me in getting dressed, She let my hair down this time around instead of the usual bun I'm used to, and applied some makeup.

When I arrived at the meeting, they were already having a discussion, but everywhere became silent as soon as I walked in.

Alpha Izaak's jaw literally dropped in shock, as he stared at me wide-eyed.

'Good. Mission accomplished.' I thought to myself. From the looks on everyone's faces it means the silver and black sequin dress Cora picked did the magic. I paired it with red high heels. I bowed to everyone, and walked elegantly towards Tiana.

"You are in my seat, get up!" I ordered.