

HIS SECRET MILLIONAIRESS WIFE (LAUREN)

Chapter 41

Chapter 41

Kelly was like: (OO) and she thought. "Can I take back everything I just said?"

Seeing that Kelly didn't move. Lauren raised her head and took a glance at Kelly. Soon she understood what was going on and then said, "I will finish this very soon."

Lauren was so gentle so Kelly curiously looked at the literature and said with embarrassment, "I thought it was in English."

"A lot of it has been translated into English," Lauren nodded, "But I like watching the original."

Lauren thought seeing the translation version might make her lose some information.

Kelly took a glance at Lauren's desk and asked her, "How many languages do you speak?"

Lauren thought for a while and said, "Seven or eight."

Kelly didn't know what to say. She should know Lauren was very smart.

"Do you have any good ways to learn?" Kelly asked Lauren.

Kelly thought Lauren must take special learning method to learn foreign languages.

Lauren thought she just learned languages step by step, and then replied, "Memorizing words."

The foreign words were so difficult to memorize for Kelly so she kept asking.

"Do you have any good ways to memorize words?"

Lauren nodded. This question was also asked to her by others in the past.

Kelly was pleasantly surprised. She thought, "Great! I could finally learn a good way."

Lauren said, "You can't just read the words once."

Kelly nodded and agreed with Lauren. Repeating was very important in memorizing.

Then, Lauren continued, "You have to watch it twice and then you can remember."

Kelly had nothing to say. Lauren was so talented so she could always achieve goals with less effort than others.

Kelly found that she had nothing to do and in order not to affect Lauren, she sat in a corner to play with her phone. Then she started to play Sudoku. This game got harder and harder and Kelly thought she had to use paper and pen to do the math. She changed her posture and planned to continue to play but she saw Lauren standing up and walking toward her.

"Are we leaving now?" Kelly quickly stood up.

Lauren nodded.

Kelly quickly walked over and showed her phone to Lauren, saying, "It is so difficult."

Lauren glanced at it, and then took the phone, entering a few numbers. Then she said to Kelly. "Let's go." That didn't even take half a minute! Kelly was shocked while Lauren had already walked to the door with gifts.

She watched her phone and thought that the problem that had plagued her for a long time just now had been solved so easily.

Chapter 42

Chapter 42

Kelly brought a lot of gifts to Lauren's place because she thought Lauren could choose one or two from these gifts. After all Leo was a baby boy that Lauren knew just for a few days.

But Lauren squatted, fiddling with those gifts. She said she wanted to give all of them to Leo.

It was a wonderful feeling for her. At the thought of Leo, Lauren's heart was soft, and she couldn't help but to give him everything. After a long time, Lauren decide to give Leo Lego and a model car.

She wanted to surprise Leo, but when she arrived, she was told that Leo was not at home.

Lauren was a little disappointed and then wondered why Leo was not at home.

The living room was empty. The maid Daphne stepped forward to greet Lauren, enthusiastically took the gift in her hand and said while walking. "Leo must be very happy if he knows that you are here.

Yesterday he talked about you all day and asked me to prepare delicious food for you."

Imagining Leo's beautiful face, Lauren pursed her lips and then smiled.

After Lauren sat down on the sofa, Daphne said, "Leo was waiting for you, but yesterday he was took to his grandparents' home.

Leo will come back at noon, and he left a letter to you." Daphne took out a pink piece of paper, on which was the childish

handwriting:

Dear Lauren:

I'll go to my grandma's place today and come back at noon. Please wait for me and I will come back soon.

At the end of the letter, two people were holding hands.

After reading the letter, Lauren's heart seemed to be drenched in warm water.

Holding the letter, Lauren didn't want to leave and she just wanted want for Leo.

Daphne was afraid that Lauren might feel boring, so she served some fruits and snacks, and then gave Lauren a book to read. Daphne said, "I'm sorry, Miss Bennett. I still have some work to do in the kitchen so I cannot accompany you."

Lauren didn't need anyone to accompany her, so she nodded and then opened the book.

This was Gone with the Wind, and Lauren liked reading this book very much when she was in junior high school. She liked the heroine. At that time, she was young and she admired her classmates who could get love and support from their family.

So she told herself that she must be as strong as Scarlett O'hara.

Later, when she grew older, she had less desire for parents' love. And she would still read this book frequently.

Lauren was not in the mood reading, but there was nothing to do, so she flipped through the book. She accidentally discovered a line of words in the book. It was beautiful handwriting, very similar to hers.

"Charlie will love Lauren for a lifetime!"

Lauren froze and stared at this line of words. The handwriting was so familiar. It was strange!

Lauren put the book on the coffee table, took out her pen from her bag, and then wrote the same line.

After finishing, the two lines were compared by Lauren. The handwriting was almost identical.

Lauren had been practicing writing since she was a child. So she knew how similar these two lines were. The similar handwriting, as well as same names, made Lauren feel strange. She stared at that line for a long time.

After that, she flipped through a few pages to see if there was any similar handwriting, but she didn't see it. At the end of the book, in the corner of the last page, she found a reply.

Chapter 43

Chapter 43

It was different handwriting and it looked like from a man.

"I will"

It replied the previous line.

Lauren's fingertips suddenly itched, with subtle emotions drilling into the bottom of her heart. She closed the book and took a sip of water, calming herself down.

At this moment, Charlie walked in from outside the door. He was wearing a black suit with documents in his hand. He walked really fast as if there was something urgent and when he saw Lauren, he just nodded to her and then quickly walked upstairs.

But suddenly he retreated and then stood beside Lauren, with his eyesight falling on the book placed on the coffee table. Lauren explained softly, "Daphne is afraid that I will be bored, so she brought it for me to kill time."

Charlie ignored Lauren, and leaned down to pick up the book. Then he patted it carefully and put it in his arms. It looked like he cherished this book very much.

“I will ask Daphne to give you another book,” Charlie said and then walked upstairs.

Hearing Charlie’s voice, Daphne ran out of the kitchen immediately.

Charlie turned to Daphne and said, “Don’t touch this book in the future.”

Daphne nodded repeatedly and said, “I am sorry, Mr. Frank. I will never touch this book again.”

Lauren, who was sitting on the sofa, was a little embarrassed. Daphne just wanted to give this book to her for killing time so Lauren felt sorry for Daphne. “It seemed that this book was very important to him,” Lauren thought.

While Lauren was thinking whether she should apologize to Charlie, Charlie asked Daphne to clean up the garage. “What’s wrong with the garage? I just went to clean up it this morning,” Daphne thought in confusion. But since Mr. Frank said this, she would better go take a look.

When Daphne passed by Lauren, she said, “I’m sorry, Miss Bennett. I’ll bring you another book later.”

is better not to touch his things.”

“Then help yourself,” Daphne pushed the fruit plate toward Lauren and said, “Mr. Frank probably come back to get the documents and I heard that he had an important meeting today. So he won’t stay here for a long time.”

Lauren just smiled and did not say anything.

After Daphne went to the garage, there was only Lauren in the living room. She raised her wrist and looked at her watch. It was almost 12 o'clock but Leo still didn't come back. Lauren felt a little bored.

So she unlocked her phone to search for the literature on the Internet, but as soon as she took out her phone, she heard a "bang".

which startled her.

It was from upstairs!

Lauren raised her head and looked up worriedly, guessing if something had happened to Charlie. While she was still hesitating whether to go upstairs, another 'bang' came, accompanied by Charlie's moan.

So Lauren no longer hesitated and decisively got upstairs.

Chapter 44

Chapter 44

The door of Charlie's study was not closed, and Lauren walked to the door, leaned over, and listened for a while. There was no sound again so Lauren knocked the door, "Mr. Frank, are you alright?"

No one answered.

Lauren was worried about Charlie, so she pushed the door and walked in.

The study was large, with the bookcases and floor in the color of wood. On the right hand side was a large table with a computer and a stack of papers on it. At the first glance, Lauren did not see anyone in the study, and when she looked closely, she saw Charlie.

It turned out that he was blocked by the curtains. Charlie sat on the bay window, almost invisible in the dark curtains. Lauren walked over.

There was a solid wooden chair on the ground, and Charlie sat on the bay window, with his legs folded.

From Lauren's perspective, she could see the bruises on his toes. Lauren guessed that maybe he was smashed by the chair accidentally.

"Are you all right?" Lauren bent down in front of Charlie and asked with concern.

Charlie now realized that there was a person in his study. He was a little surprised and then looked up at her. Charlie said to Lauren. "Sorry to disturb you."

He was very polite and soft, completely different from the previous days. It seemed that he had changed a lot.

Seeing that Charlie was injured, she was worried about him.

"Do you feel alright? Do you need me to send you to the hospital?" Lauren asked.

Charlie shook his head and said, "Thank you for your caring. I will apply the medicine later by myself."

"I want to know if there is anything that I can help." Lauren asked.

Charlie lowered his head, but in fact, he was smiling. There was a hint of apology in his expression and he said, "I should have said sorry to you on that day."

Lauren raised her head with confusion, but she still looked gorgeous, which made Charlie want to pull her closer and kiss her fiercely.

Charlie turned his head because he thought he would lose control if he kept looking at Lauren who was so beautiful. Then he said, "I am sorry for what I did a few days ago."

Now Lauren understood.

Charlie explained, "There were many women trying to approach me through Leo because they knew Leo was my son and he was very important to me. So I was not very polite to you that day. I am sorry."

Lauren didn't speak and in her heat, she had forgiven Charlie.

Charlie took a glance at Lauren and when he saw she had no reaction, he immediately gave an example to imply that he didn't lie to Lauren, "Last year, there was also a lady whom Leo liked very much and frequently invited her to our home. That lady also liked Leo very much and gave him a lot of gifts. Leo even told me that he wanted that woman to be his mother."

Hearing this, Lauren subconsciously frowned, and felt a little uncomfortable in her heart. Lauren herself didn't know why. Charlie continued and his voice was very charming and convincing. "At that moment, I thought that woman wanted to use Leo to approach me and marry into the Frank family. But I didn't expected her..."

Charlie paused for a while, and suddenly Lauren had a bad feeling.

Soon Charlie said, "She was much 'ambitious' that I thought. She deliberately got close to Leo, and wanted to kidnap him to threaten me."

pain.

Hearing this, Jennifer felt sympathy for Leo and her heart seemed to be grabbed by someone, which even made her shiver in

Chapter 45

Chapter 45

Lauren couldn't control herself and squatted down. She looked up at Charlie and said, "She didn't hurt

Leo, right?"

But Charlie looked at her without speaking, which made Lauren more nervous and worried about Leo.

Lauren felt she couldn't even breathe as if her heart was grabbed by someone.

Charlie was originally very satisfied with the story he made up. But when he saw that Lauren was only concerned about Leo, but didn't care about him at all even if he was standing right before her.

Charlie was a little disappointed and thought, "Why did she just ask about her son? Didn't I mean anything to her? Why didn't she show any concern to me?"

Though Charlie was a little disappointed, he didn't show it on his face. He was pretending to tell a true story to Lauren and implied her he was a good father.

Charlie knew Lauren too well. It was more effective to take a soft attitude when he was facing Lauren.

Although now Lauren forget him completely, but Charlie could feel her personality had not changed.

When he came to know that Lauren had forgotten him, Charlie even wanted to see her immediately and tell her about everything. Charlie wanted Lauren to remember what happened between them.

But he decided not to do that. Charlie thought if he told her everything, Lauren would definitely not believe it. And she even wanted to take Leo away.

Therefore, Charlie made a plan. He wanted Lauren to remember all that by herself.

Lauren now didn't know about what Charlie was thinking and she came to believe him and buy his story. Lauren put her feet into Charlie's shoes and thought if Leo was her child and someone tried use

Leo to threaten her, she would also put on her guards to protect Leo.

Thinking of this, Lauren forgave what Charlie did before. She took a deep breath and asked Charlie,

"What happened later? Was Leo injured?"

"She only cares about Leo! Didn't she see his bruises? Why didn't she care about me?" Charlie thought. He glanced at Lauren and didn't want to mention Leo, "I don't want to talk about this right now.

Then Charlie lowered his head and pretended to look painful.

Seeing this, Lauren got more worried. She wanted to ask Charlie more but she was afraid that she might hear some bad news.

She couldn't imagine that the lovely Leo got hurt.

"Miss. Bennett," Charlie said to Lauren and continued his story, "I hope you can understand me."

Lauren nodded. She knew the reason why Charlie treated her like that was that he cared so much about Leo."

Then Charlie continued. "I admitted my mistake. Now I know that you are actually the lost daughter of Mr. Bennett. I hope you can forgive me.”

Lauren smiled and looked sincere, saying, “I know it was because you cared too much about Leo.”

Charlie stared at Lauren for a while, and suddenly said, “Leo likes you and I also think you are a good person. Can I call you ed her eyebrows.

Chapter 46

Chapter 46

Charlie immediately continued and said to Lauren, “You can call me Charlie.
No ‘Mr. Frank’ anymore.”

Lauren repeated Charlie’s name quietly several times and suddenly felt that his name was so familiar to her. It seemed that she once called this name thousands of times. Lauren blinked her eyes, suppressing the strange feeling.

Since Lauren met Charlie and Leo, she always had strange feelings sometimes.

“Leo was such a cute baby,” Lauren thought.

Then Lauren took a glance at Charlie’s bruises, and she thought it was not a big deal. She bent over and wanted to take a closer look. But Charlie’s feet retreated.

Charlie turned his head and his ears turned red. It seemed that he was a little shy. He said, “I am alright and I can take care of myself. Why don’t you wait for me downstairs?”

Usually when Lauren heard this, she would leave immediately but Charlie was Leo’s father so she was a little concerned about him. Then she said to Charlie, "I know some medical skills so maybe I can help with your injury."

Charlie raised his head to look at Lauren and he became a little upset. "She changes her attitude so fast," Charlie thought. Before he mentioned Leo and explained, Lauren was so indifferent to him and now she began to care about his injury just because of Leo!

"Do you only care about Leo? Is it because you are afraid that I couldn't take care of Leo that you showed concern?" Charlie thought in anger and then took a look at Lauren.

Lauren noticed his eyesight and then raised her head to look at him.

Charlie turned his head and his voice became cold, "I don't want to bother you, Miss. Bennett."

"Why does he call me Miss. Bennett again? Didn't he just say that he would call her Lauren?" Lauren thought with confusion and then took a few steps, saying, "I am going downstairs."

Charlie lowered his head and did not look at Lauren without saying anything.

Lauren took a glance at him before she walked out of the study.

After making sure that Lauren had left, Charlie suddenly jumped up from the bay window. He just couldn't believe this! She actually left him! Lauren circled around in his study in sadness and there was nothing wrong with his feet.

When Lauren went downstairs, she happened to meet Daphne who came back from the garage.

"Why did you go upstairs?" Daphne was a little confused and asked Lauren.

Lauren pointed at Charlie's study and said, "Mr. Frank accidentally hurt his foot."

Then Daphne immediately went to find the medical kit, and ran upstairs quickly.

In the study, Charlie was still upset, but he soon heard someone running upstairs. "It must be Lauren!"

Charlie thought with delight.

He soon sat back on the bay window and pretended to check his bruises.

Chapter 47

Chapter 47

Soon the door opened.

Charlie was waiting to see Lauren's face and even thought proudly, "I know you care about me!"

As a result, what he saw was Daphne's face.

Charlie immediately collapsed and his eyes turned cold. There was shock, anger, loss, and even a trace of injury in his eyesight

when he looked at Daphne.

Daphne was very confused. She thought. "Why is Mr. Frank looking at me like that? Did she make some mistakes?"

Charlie suppressed the irritation in his heart and said to Daphne, "Why are you here?"

Daphne said carefully, "Miss Bennett asked me to take care of you."

"Really? Did she say this to you?" Charlie asked Daphne.

Daphne nodded vigorously.

Well, Charlie immediately changed his emotion from irritation to cheerfulness.

He knew that she still cared about him.

Charlie stretched his legs and then nodded to Daphne, returning to his previous cold face, "I don't need your help right now. I am right."

Cathy was used to Charlie's coldness. In the eyes of others, Charlie had always been like this. He rarely talked to people, and was willing to waste time on useless things. But at the same time, he was a sharp and decisive businessman.

Daphne had been in the Frank family for more than ten years. She was serving Charlie's grandparents at first, but after Leo was

m, she started to take care of him.

So Daphne had deep feelings about the changes of the Frank family. In the past, the Frank family was already powerful and had very high status in this city. However, there were still many families who were powerful than the Frank family. Until Charlie

rted to be in charge of the Frank family, it was completely different, in a good way.

Last year, the Frank family held a banquet at home for Charlie's mother's birthday, and many of the guests were famous people

t she could only see on TV. Such people actually were invited to the birthday because of Charlie.

Lauren sat downstairs for a while, and then Leo arrived. He trotted, carrying a small schoolbag.

The garage was not far from the main entrance, but because Leo was still a baby, it took for a while for

Leo to meet Lauren. The ment Leo saw Lauren, his eyes instantly lit up.

"Lauren!" Leo ran toward Lauren and kept following her. He even didn't want to separate with Lauren for a second. He raised his e head and said, "When did you come? Have you been waiting for me for a long time?"

Lauren lowered her head and touched Leo's forehead. She pulled out a tissue to wipe his sweat.

Leo was very happy, tilting his little head and staring at Lauren without even blinking.

"Are you hot?" Lauren helped Leo take off his bag.

"I am okay." Leo shook his head and he only knew that he was happy to see Lauren. He grabbed his small schoolbag and pulled zipper, but he failed to do that so he looked at Lauren with his cute face.

Lauren asked him softly, "What's wrong?"

Leo was a little shy and lowered his head, saying, "I have a gift for you." Then he took out a pink box from his bag.

Chapter 48

Chapter 48

"What gift would Leo give to me?" Lauren thought.

Lauren guessed maybe it was a doll or Lego. That was also what Leo liked. What's more, the box was wrapped in pink color, so Lauren believed it might be a small toy. However, after opening the box, she was surprised.

It was actually a piece of white jade in the shape of a cat's claw, which was delicate and pure. It was really a lovely gift. Rubbing and pinching the jade with her fingertips. Lauren felt like she was touching the real cat's claw.

She also found that there was a bead with a name on it. It was KITTY. When Lauren saw this name, she was super surprised. "How could it be so coincidental?" Lauren thought because she had a cat called Kitty when she was seven or eight years.

Leo was a sensitive and careful child and since Lauren opened the gift box, he had been looking at her nervously. When he saw Lauren frowning and not speaking for a long time, he started thinking that maybe Lauren didn't like his gift.

Leo was a little sad and his hands were clenched. He was on the verge of breaking out.

"What's wrong?" Lauren noticed Leo's emotions and turned to look at him, touching his head to comfort him. Hearing this, Leo suddenly collapsed and his chest rose and fell violently with tears falling down his cheek, "Don't you like this gift?"

Lauren didn't know what to do when Leo cried, and she hurriedly took Leo in her arms and wiped his tears for him, saying, "I like this so much! As long as it's from you."

Leo's head was buried in Lauren's arms, and when he heard this, he raised his face and said seriously,

"This gift is not good. I will give a better one to you next time."

"It is great and I like it," Lauren hugged Leo and said. "This is the best gift."

Leo lowered his head and insisted, "No, this gift is not good."

In fact, Leo promised his father that he would not tell Lauren this gift was picked by Charlie.

Lauren didn't want Leo to cry so she repeatedly said that she liked this gift very much and would carry it wherever she went. Finally, Leo smiled.

Because of crying, Leo's eye turned red and swollen so Lauren took him to the upstairs room to wash his face and change his clothes. Daphne hurried over and wanted to take Leo to wash his face. But Leo held Lauren tightly.

Lauren smiled at Daphne and said, "I'll help wash his face."

Daphne said, "Thank you for that, Miss Bennett."

When they reached Leo's room, Lauren helped Leo take off his coat and then led him to the bathroom to wash his face and hands

Chapter 49

Chapter 49

Leo thought himself was no longer a baby boy so he was a little embarrassed to be held in Lauren's arms, so he said to her, "I will wash it myself."

Lauren was surprised but she respected him and let him go.

The bathroom sink in Leo's room was a little high, so he stepped on a small stool, and then washed his hands and face. He even knew how to use facial cleanser.

This facial cleanser was chosen by Daphne, with no additives and no fragrance, specially designed for children.

After washing his face, Leo turned to Lauren and showed his clean face.

"You are so great!" Lauren kissed Leo on his cute face, and took him back to the bedroom.

His bedroom has not changed much, except for a dog-like stuffed toy at the head of the bed. This was a gift from Lauren.

Leo's room was neatly cleaned up, and his toys were all placed in a cabinet. There was not a single toy placed randomly. The pencils and notebooks on the small desk were also neatly arranged. There was not even a wrinkle on the sheet. Because everything was so neat, that red dog toy was very conspicuous.

Leo cherished this dog toy very much and he even dressed it with a small hat and cute little leather shoes.

Seeing Lauren staring at this toy. Leo was a little shy. He lowered his eyes and blinked his eyes.

He told Lauren that because he liked this toy very much, he always held it to sleep. After Daphne washed this toy, Leo thought it was no longer cute, so he put clothes on it.

After Lauren heard this, there seemed to be a soft little brush, brushing her heart. It was a pleasure that her gift was cherished ke this. Lauren found that this cute and innocent boy always brought her special feelings. The more time she spent with beo, the more she would like him.

Sometimes, she even couldn't believe she could get such sincere and wholehearted love from a child.

She squatted down, looked to Leon's eyes level, and told him seriously, "Don't worry. I will give you many, many gifts."

"Really?" Leo's eyes widened, and he looked at Leo with surprise and expectation.

Lauren turned around and led Leo downstairs. She showed him the two gifts she brought this time.

After Leo saw the gifts, he happily circled her, and said, "I like them so much! I feel so happy! I am happier than yesterday. I like u, Lauren."

Lauren was almost caught in Leo's sweet words. At this moment, Charlie walked downstairs and saw Lauren and Leo. He even envied his son of staying with Lauren! "Why didn't Lauren care about me?" Charlie thought in his mind.

Chapter 50

Chapter 50

It was about one o'clock and they were going to have lunch prepared by Daphne.

Charlie had something to do so he left and there was only Lauren and Leo having lunch

Daphne served the dishes one by one. Lauren turned her head to Leo to roll up his sleeves The temperature was a little high recently Leo was wearing a light coat and a T-shirt

The dishes were already on the table and most of them were spicy Lauren was surprised and raised her eyebrows, saying, "Do

Leo like spicy food?"

Daphne smiled and brought over a plate of spicy dish and placed it in front of Lauren, pointing to a few dishes in front of Lauren and saying. The spicy dishes were especially prepared for you, Miss.

Bennett."

"By the way, this is for you," Daphne returned and brought a cup of yogurt to Lauren

Lauren looked at this cup of yogurt and seemed to be lost in her memory, some images flashing in her mind.

"I want to eat spicy, spicy food!" a girl said on a man's back.

"But it's not good for your health," the man said firmly with care. Although Lauren couldn't see his face clearly in her memory she could feel the man was gentle and soft.

"That's okay. I can drink a cup of yogurt. Drinking yogurt before meals could protect the stomach," the girl turned her eyes at the man, implying that she must eat spicy food.

This time, the man did not stop her but held the girl's head and kissed her. His voice was as gentle as the spring wind and he said. "Do you have to eat something spicy today? I really think it is not good for your health."

The girl had to give up.

The fragments of the memory were vague, but the affection between the two cannot be obscured.

Lauren was sure that this couple in her memory was in deep love with each other.

"Lauren?" Leo's child voice pulled Lauren out of her memory. "What are you thinking?"

Lauren pressed her temple and tried not to recall those strange memories. She lowered her head and smiled at Leo, "I was thinking that those dishes looked so delicious," Hearing this, Leo looked at the dishes on the table and then said, "But they look so spicy. I want to have a taste too."

Lauren touched Leo's soft hair and then said, "You can taste when you grow older."

Leo nodded and said, "Dad also said so. He said that I would have a same taste as Mom's."

Lauren raised her eyebrows. This was the first time Leo mentioned his mother.

Speaking of this, Lauren felt that Leo was different from other single-parent children who usually avoided talking about their parents. But Leo seemed to have no troubles in this.

Lauren had avoided talking about this issue, for fear of hurting Leo, but since that he took the initiative to mention his mother.

Lauren asked him, "Do you miss your mother?"

"Yes," Leo nodded seriously, and said, "My mom loves to eat spicy food and she knows medical skills.

She is also very beautiful." Leo lowered his head and raised his head again, glancing at Lauren a few times.

He asked in a low voice, "Lauren, do you know medical skills?"
