

His Sweet Little Mate by Obticeo Decatect

Chapter 72

Even though Micah was half burned to death, with burn wounds littering both his skin and muscles, he still wanted to try one last time to reach her using his voice alone,

The girl indeed asked him to mark herself several times. But now, she was definitely not herself.

And even though he only decided to mark her at this moment to save herself from her, there was still this nagging feeling at the back of his mind that he was doing it while she wasn't aware of him doing it.

However, when the girl didn't respond even after him literally shaking her body while yelling into her face, the King could only go through his initial plan.

For one thing, she couldn't even feel herself getting burned by the fire around her, even though it was created by herself, while he wasn't in a position to waste too much time trying things that wouldn't help her in any way.

After all, he didn't know if her power would burst even more profoundly, which would only cause her and the others more harm.

So after calling her one last time, he bit her neck with no hesitation, causing the girl to shriek hysterically.

The moment Micah's teeth sunk into her neck, an ear piercing scream left Abby's lips as she tried to push the King from her as quickly as possible.

The pain she felt was too immeasurable for her while her mate wouldn't let matter what.

As if mirroring her agony, the fire around her raved even harder, leaving even Mirella to suffer the brunt as the witch couldn't help but feel like she was being tossed around in a frying pan. Literally.

The harder the girl screamed, the harsher her flames burned.

After all, the pain shot through her veins like a powerful impulse, as if lightning struck her nerve endings, causing her to let out shrill screams that left Micah's ears ringing.

Not only Micah, even Mirella and the others felt like their ears would start bleeding as the girl kept screaming at the top of her lungs, all the while pushing the King away from her neck.

The agony she was feeling was so acute, she could cross her heart and swear that she had never felt something like it.

But it didn't end there, as all her memories resurfaced to the forefront of her consciousness, bad ones dominating every other memory.

It was as if pouring salt on her wounds. Somehow, her brain decided to torment

Everything flashed before eyes while still struggling she suddenly started in Micah's arms.

Her body became a vessel of negative emotions, as fear, loneliness, hatred and also longing surged through her veins, leaving her to wheeze for breath.

Fear for her own situation...

Loneliness that stemmed from being abandoned by her own father and being abused by her only sister.

Hatred, as she hated herself for causing her mother to die...

Longing for love she wasn't able to feel for ten years after her mother died...

And because the King was in the marking her, even he could clearly feel mate's body and the experience was all the emotions coursing through his something he would never wish on someone else. No mate should be put through this kind of agony, because the guilt of not finding her and removing all her problems much sooner was something unimaginable. Only he knew how many times he thought how he had been too late to find her.

He indeed nipped her every other problem once he found her, but he was still late. Not just one or two, but ten years!

For a moment, nothing happened.

Then they noticed how a change in the wall of fire could finally be seen as it went wild one last time just as Abby started screaming at the top of her lungs.

For a moment, everyone feared the situation was going to turn even more worse as the flames danced like hell fire, leaving them to pray for the King and themselves.

However, it didn't take long for Abby to stop screaming as it soon started to fade away until they couldn't hear it anymore.

In unison with her voice, they saw how the fire started to turn docile as it spat.
