

Read His Purchased Wife Chapter 50

His Purchased Wife

Chapter 50.

She ignored the warning and smiled. 'First you need to win the bet, Mr Knight!' She whispered, her voice tilted to a low pitch that made it come out as a seductive purr and that was enough for Liam to get the boner.

He hissed when blood filled his dick. The girl was an enchantress, even in this dirty red dress. 'As I said, you will be mine, Mrs Knight.'

Aurora's toes curled in anticipation. Again, the fear erupted in her heart. Fear of Liam knight. She needed a little distance away from him to get her thoughts under control but she didn't want to hurt his feelings. So she did what she always did, she asked him for water which he always bought as he found a freshwater pond somewhere in the jungle or they would be dead or close to death because of dehydration.

'Don't leave the spot! I don't want some wild animal to eat what belongs to me!' Again the same warning he always gives her whenever he went to take the water in the water bottle he found in the lifeboat.

Aurora nodded, words couldn't get out of her mouth even when she tried. Liam walked away, she stared into his retreating figure and when he disappeared among the trees she took a shaky breath.

'Chill, Aurora, he is just a little scary, not bad. If he would have been bad, he wouldn't have saved you from dying. There was no way he was going to win the bet, Right?’ She asked herself, but the answer which came to her mind made her stomach drop in anxiety.

‘Oh, Gabe, where are you? I want to be with you, in your arms. I am losing my sanity and trust in our relationship with every passing second. Only if you had called me at least once!’ Aurora pulled her knees to her chest and rested her head on her knees and sighed deeply.

I hope no one finds us for another day...

His Purchased Wife

Chapter 51.

Have you found the snitch yet or not?’ Liam asked Alexandrios who pinched the bridge of his nose in frustration.

‘Not yet, Liam, the situation is getting worse with every passing second. Ethan has called your father at least fifty times. Hell! He even threatened an open war with Vancouver’s if his daughters didn’t return to him safe and sound in forty-eight hours. Ryan is already on the cruise and I am losing my patience because he tried to threaten me.’

Liam only smiled. He got what he wanted, Ethan Knight should suffer the consequences of declining his proposal after all, the respect Liam gave Ethan by sending his father, Ryan, The boss of Vancouver’s to arrange a marriage but instead of accepting his proposal, his father was insulted by the Vixen. He would have started the war with them right then and there. An open declaration but his father declined doing so, and for what reason, their so-called friendship.

The friendship bond Ethan didn't think twice before warning to end it. That told Liam what he wanted to know. Ethan king gets weak when it comes to his daughter, Aurora who was not even mature enough to handle his business. Forcing her was out of the question at least for Ethan but no one said that Liam won't do that.

And then the opportunity was presented to him on the silver platter itself when Aurora applied for the contest organised by his jewellery brand. The Belle.

That's how his plan started, to make both father and daughter see the reason. Of course Liam was the man of vision and he won't let anyone or anything like in his way, to achieve the position in mafia no one has ever reached yet. The throne of the Canadian mafia. Liam wanted it. He would get it. How, Liam didn't care. And of course, Liam always gets more than he wanted and Aurora was not just a means to an end. The girl was pure intoxication and he wanted to own every piece of her.

Mind. Body. Soul.

Call it an obsession or anything, Liam knight craves Aurora kings but he craves the power more and more power he would get by controlling Ethan's territory. Which would be his, only after he marries Ethan's daughter.

And obviously, Liam didn't want to paint the city red with blood and a war would do that but that was not the only reason. There was one more, Liam genuinely respected Ethan and because of that only he would use the more lenient methods to make Ethan Kings see the rationale and not get blind by his daughter's love.

Oh and one more thing, It didn't matter if he respected Ethan, when the man itself disrespected him. Liam knight. So he needed to suffer the consequences, if not brutal one than the lenient one. But again, he didn't have to do anything because the girl always came to him, wrapped up in a bloody gift box which he needed to rip open.

They bumped into each other on the cruise that fateful night, she was drunk and horny. Fuck he could still feel her taste on his tongue. That intoxicated taste! Her taste!

'What do you think ? Now Ethan would see the benefit of his daughter being married to me and agree to my offer, Alexandrios?' He asked, taking a sip from the hot steaming cup of Black coffee. He needed the caffeine. Urgently.

'Ask Ralph, he would be able to answer the question better after all he was in Dawson keeping an eye on Ethan and those Mexicans.' Again the deep sigh before continuing.

'Liam, don't play with fire, he might look weak but we both know Ethan King was anything but that.'

Chapter 52.

Aurora looked up and watched him clutching the window tightly, heaving.

'Why did you do that ? I took you as my friend. I considered you as my friend.'

Liam, who was trying to calm his anger, raged hearing her words. He sprinted towards her and grabbed her jaw. Aurora gasped, and jumped at the violence.

‘Friends? I am not your bloody friend Mrs Knight. I am your husband. You are mine. Do you understand me? Mine!’

Aurora searched his eyes. All she could see in them was violence and anger. At this moment she hated being in his presence. She wanted to get away from him as soon as possible.

Aurora jerked his hand away. She might be scared of him but she tried to be brave in front of him.

‘Do you understand me or not?’ He yelled again but this time Aurora didn’t flinch in fear. No, on the contrary, she simply looked in his eyes.

She faced the darkness head-on. It was not the first time she was seeing this, she had seen it before in him. But she thought everything changed between them. She genuinely accepted him as her friend but he was not worth it.

Liam Knight didn’t deserve her friendship. So she simply asked him the question which would take her away from him and his insufferable presence.

‘Please call someone and ask them to rescue us from here.’

His Purchased Wife

Chapter 53.

Aurora was staring at herself in the mirror. She washed all the dirt over her body. The warm water soothed her skin and she once again felt like herself.

She was scared and angry for believing a man who was playing with her. Aurora was the kind of girl who, if accept a person in her life, would overlook his mistakes and bad things.

That's why there are not many people in her life, yes she was a sensation on social media but she chose what she wanted to do. She was her own owner, no one can state them for her.

She believes in loving unconditionally. She loves her father, her friends and Gabe. She thought Liam was her friend because he saved her life. He saved her life when they were not on good terms. She even wanted to hook him with her friend Susan but he was playing with Aurora.

‘He has some serious mental illness and I better stay away from him. I need to be calm because everything will be over once I reach the cruise.’

Aurora looked at the white bathrobe and stepped out wearing it. It was too large for her petite body and trails on the white marble floor while she walked out.

Her stomach grumbled once again demanding food. For the last four days, all she ate was those tasteless fishes while Liam was enjoying the good food. There was no need to ask the kitchen's direction. The aroma of coffee and bacon was enough to tell it.

She walked to the kitchen and her mouth widened open. It was filled with groceries. From fruits to vegetables. Nuts to cereals and meat to bread everything was available.

‘This whole incident was planned by him, he lied about not knowing how we both ended up in that lifeboat. Bloody liar!’ She muttered under her breath and made coffee for herself.

People might think that just because she was the daughter of billionaire Ethan King she was a brat and the servants do all her work but that’s not the case.

Yes, she has everything one can wish for but after her mother’s demise, Mrs Dolan always made sure she learned basic culinary skills.

His Purchased Wife

Chapter 54.

Emily nodded, finally deciding to join in the conversation. ‘Yes, you won and the thieves were punished by the judges. They are officially out of this contest now leaving only us and one more of the contestants.’

‘How did they get caught up?’ Aurora asked.

‘Apparently, there were videos of Evelyn hiding your design in her coat and she got caught up. Hence proven she stole your design from our cabin while I was bathing.’

Emily opened the zip of her handbag. ‘Oh, and Alexandrios returned your necklace.’ She handed Aurora her necklace back but Alexandrio’s name felt like a ting in her chest. A sharp pinch!

Aurora touched her mother’s necklace. Her eyes blurred with emotions. ‘Thank you.’ She whispered hoarsely.

I wish you were here Mom. I need you the most now!

‘Alright now, I think we should...’ Susan started but stopped when she felt her phone buzz.

‘Fuck!’ She cursed under her breath when she recognized the caller ID. Susan shifted her gaze to Emily and signalled to her that they needed to talk through her eyes. Emily understood it at once.

‘Aurora, do you mind going to our room and bringing a tampon for me. I think it’s the time of the month and I didn’t have anything on me.’

‘No, not at all. Wait, I think I have a sanitary pad with me...’

‘Oh no! I don’t use pads, you know that. Just go and bring me a tampon please girl.’

Aurora didn’t need to be told twice; she stood at once and ran towards the elevator. Emily sighed and turned her head to Susan.

His Purchased Wife

Chapter 55.

‘Stay away from me, you jerk!’ Emily said to Alexandrios who tried talking to her but once again she gave him the cold shoulder response she had been giving him for the past four days. And her attitude was irritating him.

Alexandrios was the kind of man who never chased after a girl but Emily was making him desperate and that was not just his style. He didn’t chase girls, girls chased him.

‘Look, Emily. I am trying to hold a conversation with you...’

‘There will be no conversation between us until my friend came back to this stupid cruise of yours. Do you understand me?’ Emily snapped and picked her laptop from the sunchair, she was about to walk away but Alexandrios grabbed her hand and made her hand.

‘You are not going anywhere, Is it in my hand that she went missing. My friend is also missing. I am worried about him as well but that doesn’t mean I would stop taking everything else for granted Emily. I am angry at the situation too but that doesn’t mean I will start taking it out on other people. I am trying to talk to you but you kept giving me the cold shoulder, goddamnit!’

Emily swallowed the heaviness in her throat. She knew what she was doing was wrong but she was getting too attached to him and this scared her.

Unlike her friends she didn’t come from a rich background and she didn’t want herself to get hurt again. And getting emotionally attached with someone who was just having fun with her would hurt her. Casual sex was okay, but getting involved with a billionaire who lived a jet-set life was what made her toes curled in anxiety.

‘Please let me go!’ She said and jerked out of his hold. Before Alexandrios could even utter a word she walked away from him and once she reached her cabin she left a long depressing breath.

Chapter 56.

‘Good evening, Ethan.’ Liam greeted him, offering his hand.

Ethan eyes Liam with his sharp gaze and accepts his hand. ‘Good Evening, Liam.’ He said looking straight into Liam’s eyes. Ethan King was impressed and irritated with Liam at the same time.

‘Have a seat,’ he nodded at one of the sofas in front of him. Liam sat on it with one leg crossed over the other. Ralph sitting beside him confidently.

‘I hear that you are having trouble with Mexicans again, Ethan.’ Liam started but Ethan kept analyzing him with his scrutinised gaze.

‘They will be dealt with. I am least concerned about them,’ Ethan replied but he and Liam both knew it was a lie. Mexicans were a pain in the ass for Ethan Knight whether he wanted to accept that in front of Liam or not.

‘I heard you saved my daughter on that island Liam ? Tell me what happened there exactly ?’

Thomas who was sitting on the middle sofa was aware of what his friend cum boss was doing. He was assessing him after all Ethan was about to give Liam the most precious thing of his life,

His daughter. But nobody said that he would do that easily. No, on the contrary, Ethan would make sure that Liam and people around him always remember who Aurora King was.

She was his princess and dare anyone to forget that. He would rip that person with his bare hands if his daughter ever frowned in her life.

Liam wanted a King’s daughter then he better treat her like a queen or Ethan king had annihilated enough people that he lost count of it.

Ralph peered at Liam from the corner of his eyes. He could sense fishiness in Ethan's words. Ralph knew that Ethan was an old ally of their father but everyone knew that when it comes to his daughter, Friendship would be the last thing on his mind.

Liam on the other hand raised his face a little and looked into Ethan's eyes.

'Fair enough,' he sighed and then started telling him the whole story of what exactly happened on the island. 'Your daughter was drunk, I met her on the cruise and we had a little chit chat. She was barely able to walk and fell on the lifeboat. I tried to pull her back but then the lifeboat ended up directly into the sea...'

Ethan was listening to Liam but when he kept playing the game with him Ethan lost his calmness and in less than a nanosecond, his gun was out and pointed at Liam's head.

'Fuck!' Liam heard his brother curse when he saw that another gun was pointed at Ralph's head.

'It's against the rules of friendship to point a gun at your friend's sons, Ethan,' Liam said calmly and this calmness in his tone irked Ethan to the core.

Chapter 57

What?' Liam asked his brother who was staring at him in astonishment.

‘ I am just thinking how could you accept such an offer ? I mean do you even know how to date someone. You talk to people as if you are doing them a favour. Do you have any idea how to woo a girl, any girl, let alone Aurora King ?‘

Liam sighed. ‘The girl is an emotional fool. She thinks with her heart not mind. But the main problem is the Restaurant owner...‘ Liam started and the tightness on his face and darkness in his eyes made Ralph’s mind go haywire.

‘Don’t Liam, please. Ethan said he would handle that man and he would. I don’t think we should interfere in his territory more than we already did, at least not till you get married,‘ Ralph suggested.

Liam nodded. ‘Even after marrying Aurora, I won’t break my words because my words hold value. But now, my main concern is about how to woo that unbearable shop of chattering.‘

Ralph raised a brow with a smirk on his face. ‘Best of luck with that because I know it won’t be easy for you. From whatever you told me, I gather the girl is the opposite of your personality. You don’t like it when someone speaks a single sentence more than needed and here you want to marry a girl who couldn’t keep her mouth shut !‘

Liam leaned back in the car seat and closed his eyes. Liam Knight for the first time in his life had no idea how to handle the situation he was stuck into.

There has to be a way...

He was thinking and then a thought clicked in his mind. He had the opportunity in his hand. He smirked while pulling out his phone from his coat pocket and dialled his friend Alexandrios number.

‘What?’ He snapped and Liam’s brows jerked together.

‘Is there an issue?’ Liam asked him in all seriousness because he knew Alexandrios in and out and that’s not how he greeted him.

Alexandrio on the other hand pinched the bridge of his nose in frustration and sighed. ‘Yes, nothing serious. Tell me what you want now?’

Liam knew there was something Alexandrio was not sharing. But right now was not the time to persuade him to know. He has other important matters to think about.

‘I want Aurora to win this contest. I will be back in Vancouver till evening but when I reach there I want this contest to be over and Aurora is declared as the winner with a two months contract with, The Belle.’

Alexandrio’s brows jerked upward when he heard his next words. ‘She will work in The Belle’s head office with Rawls.’

‘Head office! Your office, Liam? Do I need to know something?’

Liam chuckled. ‘Do as I say, pal,’ saying that he ended the call and once again leaned back in his car seat but this time with an excited smirk on his lips.

Mrs Knight, it will be so much fun to play with you.

At the same time, Alexandrio called Katie in his cabin and asked her to do as Liam told her with a little change in the words.

Chapter 58

‘Hey, stranger.’

Aurora smiled hearing Susan’s voice. She turned her head and looked at her friend.

‘Haya back!’ Aurora replied. Susan nodded at the place beside her.

‘May I?’ She asked for permission to sit beside her.

‘Since when did you start asking?’ She rolled her eyes and patted on the seat. ‘Come!’

Susan sank down on the chair and sighed. ‘Have you told Ethan about your win?’

‘Not yet, I called but he was busy in a meeting. I told Thomas he congratulated me and told me that he will inform dad about it.’

Susan inclined her head and pointed a finger in the dark sky. ‘Look at those two bright stars. That’s mom and Aunt Savi. See how happy they look.’

Aurora smiled. ‘Thanks for being with me, always Susie. Mom and Aunt are looking upon us from up there.’

‘Is everything alright, Aurora?’

‘It is. I mean everything is fine, and you know what? I am back. I will not think about anything else except for this fellowship now. It’s a career-changing opportunity for me and I won’t let anything steal my moment from me.’

‘Sometimes we just need to let things go and live in the present. Forget about everything except for the moment you are in, Aurora. Be my chirpy old friend again.’

Aurora hugged Susan tightly from the side. ‘Done deal!’ She said in enthusiasm.

‘You love me too much, right?’ She asked, raising her brows.

‘You are family for me Aurora and I can’t see you like this. Was that man more important than me, than your happiness? You knew him what, five months! Is he worth your smile, your confidence...’

‘No, he is not. I get it and I am sorry for everything...But I promise you. I will be myself again...’ she said, kissing her friend on the cheek affectionately.

Or I will try to do so...

Susan smiled and stood up, ‘shall we sleep now, girlfriend. After all, it’s a new beginning from tomorrow for us.’

Aurora stood up as well and they both went back to their cabin for a good night’s sleep because tomorrow starts their new journey.

On the other hand, Liam was in the boxing ring with Alexandrio both fighting a match.

‘So you had this what, a contract with your future father in law to court your fiance...’

Liam didn't like the teasing in Alexandria's voice and he struck a right hook directly on his face which his friend stopped using his fast reflexes.

'Fuck!' He struck back and Liam took two steps back, attacked once again and this time punched him directly in the jaw.

'Alright, I am out.'

Chapter 59

'How was your day, Girls?' Susan asked both her friends while driving.

'Mine was okay - okay because my head is a self-obsessed ass.'

'Ouch!' Aurora muttered under her breath and looked at Emily sympathetically.

'Mine was good, at first Kevin Rawls gave me a cold shoulder but then he was impressed with my skills and you guys know what?'

Susan smiled seeing her old, confident chirpy Aurora back. 'What?' She and Emily asked at the same time and then both met their gazes in the mirror, rolled their eyes at each other and turned their eyes back to Aurora.

'I saw his teeth!'

'Eww!' Emily gave her a disgusted look while Susan raised her brows. 'Mind elaborating that a little because now my imagination is running wild.'

Yuck, Girl! He shook her head disgustedly. What I am saying is that man knows how to laugh. He even cracked a joke with me.'

Susan nodded. 'Cool, mine was good too. I hope the next two months pass like today without any issues.'

All three fire da nodded at that and then the drive was filled with loud music and the three of them giving a loud competition to the leading singers of Canada.

Susan finally stopped the car when they reached the spa. Once inside they choose what services they want.

'What about body massage?' Aurora asked both Emily and Susan.

'Taking it.' Both her friends agreed and they ordered the services. They enjoyed indulging their bodies under the ministrations of professionals.

Aurora liked pampering herself like this and after the island incident, she craved to be spoiled as much as she could. Once again her thoughts wandered back to Liam and a disturbing feeling aroused in her body but she calmed herself and tried to ignore her thoughts.

'Mam, your massage room is ready.'

Aurora smiled at the attendant and followed her towards the room. The room smelled like roses. It was a beautifully fragranced room with a bed at the centre and soft soothing music playing in the background.

Aurora removed her robe and laid down on the soft bed with towels hiding her feminine parts.

She closed her eyes and listened to soothing music. Aurora was lost in another world when she felt two hands on her shoulder. She was about to open her eyes but a silk cloth was upon them.

She gasped. 'Excuse me, why are you blindfolding me?'

'It's a special massage to calm the body, Miss King. And in this, you just have to feel the touches to your body and relax.'

Aurora calmed to hear the feminine voice and drew in a receiving breath. The music, the intoxicating fragrance, relaxed her mind. 'Alright,' she said and laid back down on the bed and waited for the massage to begin.

Chapter 60

You!!' She snapped fiercely. 'What the hell are you doing here?'

Liam casually leaned back in his chair, raised his eyes and pinned them on Aurora who was seething in anger.

Aurora eyed that lying arrogant receiving bastard sitting leisurely on the chair as if she was not standing there. The bastard. She thought his chapter was over in her life but no, here he was sitting in front of her with that mocking smile and confident look on his face which created a riot in her body.

'Answer me?' She yelled at him slapping her hands against the hardwood of the mahogany desk.

'Do I need to remind you about the consequences of using this tone with me, Mrs Knight?' He drawled in a dangerous silky voice and for a moment Aurora froze. The images of his brutality running in front of her eyes. She recalled how badly he treated her on that island and she curled her toes in fear.

She gritted her teeth. 'What are you doing here?' She forced herself to ask in a composed voice.

'That's the right tone. You will talk to me in this manner only, Mrs Knight.'

Aurora was on the brink of killing him. 'Who are you, some kind of King...'

'Ah..ah! I am a Knight, wife. Your Knight in the shining armor, that's what girls like you call your husband right.'

Aurora had enough of this, she was no longer on an abandoned island where he could do anything with her. No, on the contrary, she was in a civilized society now which was governed by law and she would be damned if she let him suppress herself.

'I won't even keep you as my cleaner, let alone a husband, do you understand me. And I don't fear you because you can't manhandle me here and if you even think about trying to do that, I will call my dad. One phone call from him and he will bury you alive.'

Fury ran through his veins hearing her words. A cleaner! She compared me to a cleaner.

His rage knew no bounds. He stood up in one swift moment, sprinted towards her and clasped his hand tightly in a bruising grip. Aurora was startled by the sudden moment, a second ago he was sitting calmly on the chair he was on her with a blink of her eye. She winced in pain when he pulled her closer to him.

Their eyes met each other, breathing mingled and heart beating faster as if they had been running for a long time.

‘You will not talk to me in this manner, Mrs Knight.’ He ordered her and she pushed him in the chest but for no use as he grabbed her hair from the back of her head and raised her face. Aurora gulped but tried to squirm away from him.

Liam let her try, he was enjoying her struggles. ‘I am your would-be husband but before that, I am your boss. So Don’t force me to use other methods to keep you in line, Mrs Knight,’ he drawled silkily.

Aurora, who was struggling to get away from him, froze. My boss!

Liam sharpened his eyes as his gaze roamed on her beautiful pink lips. He touched her lower lip with his thumb, ruining her lipstick. She looked beautiful with that ruined lipstick and that look of hers ignited him.

That’s what he wanted to do with her, he wanted to ruin her and then pleasure her.