

I Have a Shop of Infinite Resources

Chapter 2

Transmigrated as THAT Plastic B*tch

“Susu... Susu!”

The door was pushed open with hurried footsteps.

Before Tang Su could react, a middle-aged woman hugged her in her arms. “Are you scared? don’t be afraid, don’t be afraid. They were just quarreling upstairs.”

“Yeah, it’s so late. Our entire building got woken up,” the other middle-aged man complained, but he gently pressed the corner of the quilt for her.

Quarreling? No, that wasn’t a quarrel. It was said that June the 5th, 2051 was the beginning of God’s punishment of humanity, viciously bringing on them the end of the world.

In fact, in the early morning of May 29th, the apocalypse had already quietly arrived. It was just that there was no large-scale outbreak, so it didn't attract much attention.

"Susu, if you're afraid, you can sleep with me, your second brother." The young and handsome man yawned as he walked over, his tired face showing concern.

Behind him, a messy head popped out. "It's better she sleeps with me, her third brother. I'm very obedient when I sleep."

Then, her slender arms were pulled on both sides, and the two of them engaged in a tug of war, trying to snatch her over.

"You're so old, yet you're still making a scene!" Mrs. Tang scolded as she pulled her daughter into her arms.

"It was Tang Mingqi who wanted to snatch her from me," Tang Mingchu pouted unhappily. When he met Tang Su's gaze, he was stunned for a moment before he winked at her.

Brother...

Tang Su's expression was slightly startled. She felt a broad and strong hand on her shoulder and the warm embrace from her mother.

An unfamiliar yet intense emotion filled her heart.

These were the relatives of this body?

They weren't some virtual bits of data. They could breathe, talk, and express emotions. Were these all real people?

Tang Su licked her dry lips. "I'm called Tang Su... Su?"

Although the scenes in the dream were even clearer and more detailed than the game plot, Tang Su still had a trace of uncertainty.

She had thought that the apocalypse would come to her world, so she had prepared a lot of supplies.

In the end, she had transmigrated into the game and became the plastic b*tch supporting player who had been abused by the heroine thousands of times—Tang Susu?

“Silly girl, are you still in a daze?” Mr. Tang patted her head, his heart aching for her. They thought she wouldn’t be able to make it this time, but thankfully she did...

“Yea, I guess.” Tang Su lowered her eyes to hide her emotions. Yes, she was just an orphan who had drifted alone in the city. How could she have so many relatives who cared about her? Even her boyfriend just wanted to leech off her popularity, not to mention those so-called friends who only cozied up to her for benefits.

After some time, Tang Su finally accepted her new identity.

From then on, she had a family. Finally, she had something to rely on!

Thinking that the zombies had already appeared, Tang Susu was still worried. “Can we sleep together?”

The family did not hesitate to lie on the floor in the living room and stare helplessly at each other.

However, they all cherished this rare time together. They talked softly and occasionally laughed quietly.

Tang Susu's eyes teared up from the warm atmosphere.

It would be even better if she could bring all the tens of millions of supplies that she had carefully prepared.

[Hello. System 088, at your service!]

What... the heck?

Tang Susu thought that it was a prank.

The cold mechanical voice with a hint of excitement sounded again.

[In view of my 108 warnings to the host in its sleep, which consumed a large amount of energy, the host's net worth of 6.1315926 million Yuan has been deducted to replenish energy.]

[In view of the large amount of energy required for the continuous and effective work of the system, one-third of the host's resources will be deducted to purchase energy for storage.]

[The host still has two-thirds of the resources stored in the system backpack, which can be checked on the light screen.]

Tang Susu's heart tightened. She nudged her third brother next to her.

“Did you hear something?”