

I Play Yu-Gi 731

Chapter 731: A Classic Battle

Muto Yugi!

The newbies, who originally thought they would not be surprised to see any big scenes today, almost jumped in front of the screen.

This is the first-generation duel king!

What day is today? So many god-level bosses coming online one after another is simply terrifying.

Is this Ragnarok or something?

The gods were talking, and newbies were trembling.

"Oh? Did you meet him?" Yuei Vu replied.

"Yeah, he looks quite energetic." Yugi smiled, "But he walked in a hurry and didn't seem to recognize me."

Yuei Vu: ""

At the beginning of the GX animation, Yuki Judai ran into Yugi on the street while running to the examination room in a panic. The strange thing was that Yugi was clearly Judai's idol, but he didn't seem to recognize him at the time.

Yuei Vu could only guess that maybe its because AIBOs appearance has changed a lot over the years in the animation, he had indeed grown a lot taller and even had muscles which was somewhat different from the Duel King in the original video material, so Judai didn't recognize it.

As for the highly recognizable starfish hairstyle

Maybe its not unusual in the anime worldview.

"But my Winged Kuriboh' seems to like him very much." Yugi said, "So I gave that card to him as a talisman."

Because the original work did not clearly explain whether Muto Yugi had the ability to see spirits, this setting was still a bit controversial among players.

However, Yuei Vu had no doubts about this. At the beginning of GX, Yugi said to Judai "This guy wants to go to your side", and then gave Judai a "Winged Kuriboh" with a spirit in it, and that was also the beginning of the whole story.

It was enough to prove that Yugi could see the Winged Kuriboh spirit, and he was also proficient in the Kuriboh language to know what it wanted to express.

"Then let me thank Mr. Yugi for his care on behalf of the child."

Yuei Vu sent a bowing emoticon.

"We haven't seen each other for a while. Whenever you are free, let's have a meal or something together. I'll treat you." Yuei Vu said.

Before Yugi could reply, President Kaiba spoke again. This time he poked Yugi.

"Yugi! It's been a long time since our last duel. Now that you've returned to Domino, come and have a duel with me!"

Another bunch of popcorn-eating people were booing below, and some people were playing "Duel of the Century" or something.

Once upon a time, Kaiba only thought that Yugi was a vessel for the Pharaoh and didn't bother to play cards with him. However, since Kaiba confidently challenged Yugi five years ago, only to be tricked into a bloody face, he no longer dared to look down on this opponent.

However, Yuei Vu felt that this should be considered a good thing for himself or the president.

For the president, this meant that there was another duelist in the world that he recognized and a new opponent who could relieve his card addiction.

For Yuei Vu, this means that the pressure of playing cards with the president was shared. The number of times he was pulled out of bed by the president to play cards in the middle of the night was significantly reduced

"Sorry, Kaiba, I came back this time because of some urgent matters." Yugi replied, "Next time, definitely next time."

Then he poked Yuei Vu again.

"Let me also say cheers to your student! I wish him good grades!"

After sending the message, Yugi went back to diving, cruelly ignoring Kaiba's request to play cards.

Yuei Vu turned off the projection window of the duel disk and returned to the state of diving and lying down.

Yugi has been traveling abroad recently, and it is rare to come back. The burden of playing cards with the president usually falls on Yuei Vu's shoulders.

Yuei Vu now felt more and more that he must train and develop his lovely student as soon as possible. When Judai grew up, he would be able to have more leisure time as a teacher from now on, and when the president's card addiction got out of control, he could let his student play.

If the president can't even beat my student, I guess he won't come to trouble the teacher again

At this time, Yuki Judai, our new generation of world protagonists, sons of versions, the hope of curing card addiction, has finally arrived.

In the original work, Professor Chronos, who now advocated elite education, was originally determined not to give this poor student who had a poor written test and was late for the exam a chance to take the exam. But now, although the professor was a little dissatisfied with Judai's written test score and lateness, he didn't dare to get angry.

There's nothing I can do, there's someone above me.

And not even ordinary people. Not to mention being late, even if he misses the exam due to traveling around the city, the academy may still accept him

However, regarding the fact that Judai is Yuei Vu's apprentice, in the academy, only Principal Samejima and Professor Chronos were aware of it for the time being.

Oh, and Ryo Marufuji too.

But Ryo was a good boy with a tight mouth. He felt that speaking out about this kind of thing might bring unnecessary attention and trouble to this junior student who had not yet entered school. Therefore, although he often told people that he knew a junior kouhai with extraordinary talents, he never mentioned Judai's name.

Yuei Vu thought it was better to keep it like this. In the early stages of the animation, no one in the entire academy knew that Ryo Marufuji was the direct disciple of Principal Samejima?

Although "The Duel King's Student" was a resounding name, it may cause unnecessary burdens to Judai's school life.

With Yuei Vu's instructions, Professor Chronos took his famous "Ancient Gear" deck and personally went into battle to conduct the assessment and test on Yuki Judai.

Then the duel here started directly.

First up was the energetic Jellyfish Head contestant. Judai normal summoned "Elemental HERO Solid Soldier", and then used his effect to special summon "Elemental HERO Wildheart" in his hand. Then he set two cards in the Spell Trap Zone and directly announced that his turn was over.

It was a very unpretentious start, which even made Professor Chronos think "Just this?" at one point.

To be honest, Chronos felt that Yuei Vu had gone too far in letting him use all his strength to test such a student. From Chronos's point of view, no matter how talented he was, Judai was still just a fifteen-year-old child. And he, Chronos, has already obtained the qualification of professor.

And when he looked at Yuki Judai, he just felt that this kid was stupid and unruly. If Yuei Vu hadn't paid special attention to him and said that this was his disciple, Chronos wouldn't have believed it

Aren't the Duel King's students supposed to be the type who are taciturn, ruthless, and don't talk much, with excellent grades and thoughtful thinking?

To say that Ryo Marufuji in the academy was a disciple of Yuei Vu, Chronos still found it easier to accept.

"Then let me see what's special about you." Chronos said to himself, "My turn, draw, nanone!"

Chronos also kept his promise and did not go easy on Judai. He first activated the sustainable magic "Ancient Gear Castle". This card can increase the attack power of the "Ancient Gear" monster on the field by 300 points.

Then he normal summoned an "Ancient Gear Wyvern", and then according to its effect, he could add 1 "Ancient Gear" card from the deck to his hand.

Chronos chose to add the level 4 monster "Ancient Gear Box" to his hand. Then, according to the effect of Ancient Gear Box, he could add 1 EARTH Machine-Type monster with 500 ATK and/or DEF from the deck to his hand, except "Ancient Gear Box".

The card he chose was the monster "Ancient Gear Frame" with a defense power of 500.

Next, Chronos activated the magic card "Double Summon" and once again normal summoned the "Ancient Gear Frame". He activated the effect of "Ancient Gear Frame", discarded a card and added an "Ancient Gear Golem" from his deck to his hand.

Professor Chronos immediately earned a lot of resources from the start, and there were two monsters on the field that were not weak. After some operations, the onlookers only exclaimed in surprise.

"Who is that child?" Tenjoin Asuka, who was watching from a high place, asked in a low voice, "Professor Chronos actually took action himself, and he seemed to be serious about it."

Ryo Marufuji beside her only frowned slightly, staring straight at Yuki Judai without blinking.

He's finally here!

Ryo Marufuji still clearly remembered the shocking scene many years ago when he saw the little jellyfish head who performed divine draw as easily as eating and drinking in the Cyber Dojo!

After so many years, he must have become stronger, right?

The monsters in Chronos' field received the buff from the "Ancient Gear Castle", and their attack power would all increase by 300.

[Ancient Gear Wyvern, ATK 2000]

[Ancient Gear Frame, ATK 1900]

"The first is the attack of the Ancient Gear Frame!" Chronos waved his hand, "Attack the Elemental HERO Solid Soldier"! Moreover, when the Ancient Gear Frame' attacks, the opponent cannot activate any Spell/Trap Cards!

"Eh? Is there still such an effect?"

Solid Soldier was successfully defeated, Chronos curled his lips and continued to wave: "Then comes the Ancient Gear Wyvern"! Continue to attack the Elemental HERO Wildheart'!

When the Ancient Gear Wyvern' attacks, the opponent cannot activate monster effects! "

Monster effects cannot be activated meaning trap cards can be used?!

With a thought in his mind, Judai immediately waved his hand: "Open the set card: Trap Card Malevolent Catastrophe! When the opponent's monster declares an attack, all monsters on the field will be destroyed!" (Animation effect)

"Nani?" Chronos' eyelids twitched.

The trap flipped over, and the erupting vortex swept across the entire place like a dark tsunami. Both Ancient Gear monsters were crushed to pieces between the vortexes.

But Chronos quickly noticed that the Elemental HERO of Judai was still standing: "Why is your monster still okay, none?"

"Elemental HERO Wildheart' is unaffected by the effects of trap cards." Judai smiled, "Malevolent Catastrophe cannot destroy Wildheart."

"Beautiful," said Misawa Daichi, an onlooker and commentator in the auditorium. "The trap card perfectly matches the effect of his own monster. In this way, only the teacher's monster will be destroyed!"

"Not a bad response." Chronos chuckled, "But do you think I wouldn't have expected such a simple trap?"

"Eh?" Judai blinked his big innocent eyes.

"The effect of the Ancient Gear Frame' is activated the moment it is destroyed!" Chronos said, "If this face-up card leaves the field because of an opponent's card effect, I can Special Summon up to 3 Ancient Gear Golem' and/or Ancient Gear Golem Ultimate Pound' from my hand, ignoring their Summoning conditions!"

The candidates watching in the examination room were in an uproar.

"Ancient Gear Golem?" Misawa Daichi was surprised, "Isn't that a legendary rare card Didn't the teacher plan to summon this kind of monster in the first turn!?"

"Yuki Judai looks like a pathetic guy." Manjome who felt good about himself sat arrogantly in his seat with his legs crossed, "It seems like he will be instantly killed soon."

"Professor Chronos is he really serious?" Tenjoin Asuka cast her eyes on the back of the young man in the duel field, "That kid doesn't look good. Although it is a very beautiful tactic, But the teacher still saw through it, and it turned out that the teacher was better"

"That's not necessarily true." Ryo Marufuji, who had been silent beside her, suddenly said.

Asuka looked at Ryo Marufuji with some surprise.

She found that the Kaiser of the academy seemed to be a little optimistic about the jellyfish-headed boy below?

Steam burst out, and the sound of a furnace operating came from under the huge mechanical iron shell. The metal giant stepped on the duel field, and the mechanical skeleton supported the huge outline. When the soles of the feet landed, it simulated the projection of the floor being trampled and shattered, giving a full sense of power.

"Oh oh oh! He summoned such a powerful monster during the battle stage!" Judai's eyes shone, "As expected of a teacher! It's super powerful!"

Chronos smiled and nodded.

People are vain creatures, The professor who was hearing phrases was still secretly happy, and his impression of the jellyfish head also changed.

However

"Then if the teacher is so strong," Judai grinned, "this move should have also been predicted by you, right?"

Chronos: "?"

"Trap Card Torrential Tribute!" Judai waved his hand, "When a monster is summoned, all monsters on the field will be destroyed!"

Chronos: "!"

WTF? Why is there still a trap?

The trap flipped over, and boundless blue water waves roared in. The huge Ancient Gear Golem was washed to the ground before it had time to stand firm. The soaked and rusty parts fell apart and were washed away along the current. ..

"Mamma Mia! My Ancient Gear Golem!" Chronos was dumbfounded.

Why do you still bring a double trap?

"Of course, Elemental HERO Wildheart' is unaffected by the effects of trap cards, so it will not be destroyed by Torrential Tribute'." Judai showed a bright smile, "But since you are a teacher, you definitely know it in advance, right?"

Chronos: ""

He had a bad premonition.

Chapter 732: How Nether Meet Divine Draw

The duel between Judai and Chronos was really like a needle-point confrontation. Both sides showed their trump cards, a passionate collision, and a confrontation between ace monsters, it was really a fierce fight well maybe it's just from Judai's perspective.

As for Mr. Chronos, he might have a different opinion.

Because

"When Ancient Gear Castle' is on the field, whenever a monster is Normal Summoned, I can place a counter on it. And if I Tribute Summon an Ancient Gear' monster face-up, I can Tribute this card instead, if the number of its counters is equal to or greater than the number of required Tributes!"

Chronos raised a card in his hand.

"I summoned the second Ancient Gear Golem', nanone!"

The students in the examination room shouted one after another, indicating that the teacher was awesome, and pulled out the second "Ancient Gear Golem" so easily.

Judai also expressed his admiration: "So strong! Teacher is really strong!"

Chronos began to get carried away, and even had the urge to throw his head back and laugh, but he suppressed the urge out of concern for his image as a teacher.

But then he saw Judai continuing to wave: "Then open the set card: Trap Card Floodgate Trap Hole! When the opponent summons a monster, that monster will change to the face-down defense position! And it cannot change its battle position!"

Chronos: ""

But it didn't matter. Most of the monsters in the Ancient Gear deck have the effect of "If this card attacks, your opponent cannot activate any Spell/Trap Cards."

We specialize in beating autism!

Soon after.

"I sacrifice the Ancient Gear Statue' on the field, and the Ancient Gear Golem' in my hand is specially summoned, ignoring its Summoning conditions!" (Animation card)

The metal roared, the gears rotated heavily, the giant's scarlet eye was like a threatening hunter, and the huge body slowly rose surrounded by steam.

Ancient Gear Golem was summoned again!

After summoning the third Ancient Gear Golem, Chronos put his hands on his hips and laughed.

Come on, would you like to flip another one face-down? Arent you particularly good at playing tricks?

So the little jellyfish immediately satisfied his strange request: "Then the Quick-play Spell Book of Moon"! Turns the Ancient Gear Golem' into the face-down defense position."

Chronos: ""

Are you really flipping my Golem face-down?

Fortunately, Chronos listened to Yuei Vu's advice and stuffed a few cards with unknown meanings into the deck before started playing. Two turns ago, he used a "Cursed Seal of the Forbidden Spell" to seal Judai's "Polymerization" card. Therefore, Judai, who was good at using fusion to attack, was helpless and unable to launch a powerful offensive.

Otherwise, Chronos might have died by now.

Careless, really careless.

Chronos cheered up completely.

As expected of a disciple of the Duel King, I never expected that he would be so difficult to deal with!

But he was an elite teacher after all. On the premise of sealing the "Polymerization" spell, he has gained a certain advantage on the scene.

At this time, Chronos had an "Ancient Gear Reactor Dragon" on the field with an attack power comparable to that of Blue-Eyes White Dragon. On the other hand, Judai's field was empty without a single monster, and only had 300 LP left. If he took this attack, he would undoubtedly be instantly killed!

But Judai also had a set card in the Spell/Trap Zone.

Chronos, who was a little dizzy after being tricked all the way, felt a little frightened when he saw the back row.

But it didn't matter, he had the perfect coping strategy.

The teacher first took out the Field Spell "Geartown", then sneered at the corner of his mouth, and unhurriedly drew another card from his hand

I will directly activate Heavy Storm', nanone!

The Spell Card "Heavy Storm" directly destroyed all Spell and Trap Cards on the field. It was a very simple and crude effect, but very effective. It could be called the nemesis of nether players.

The onlookers also gasped.

"When the Field Spell Geartown' is destroyed, you can special summon the Ancient Gear' monster." Asuka said, "Teacher deliberately activated the Geartown' first so that when it is destroyed, a powerful Ancient Gear monster can come out.

The only trap that the student on the opposite side can rely on will be destroyed, and he has no means to deal with the teacher's Ancient Gear' total attack. "

After a pause, she said firmly: "It seems that the teacher finally won this duel."

As she spoke, she glanced at Ryo Marufuji from the corner of her eye, as if trying to seek his opinion.

But Ryo Marufuji had no expression on his face and just shook his head: "Just watch."

Asuka was a little surprised.

Could it be that at this point, Kaiser still thinks there is hope for this young man?

Who is this child? Why does Kaiser believe in him so much?

"The eyesore trap has finally been cleared." At this moment, Chronos felt as if he had finally seen the light after a long night, "It is finally over, nanone."

"That's not necessarily true, sensei." Judai continued to smile brightly.

Chronos: "?"

"The set card you just destroyed" Judai revealed a card, "is the Trap Card Security Orb! When this Set card is destroyed by the opponent's Spell/Trap effect and sent to the GY, it destroys a monster on the field!"

Judai pointed at the flying dragon on the field of Chronos.

"I'm going to destroy the Ancient Gear Reactor Dragon', sensei!"

Chronos's eyes widened.

Ah??

Why do you still have a trap that activates when it's blown up???

Seeing the "Ancient Gear Reactor Dragon" on his field turned into fragments everywhere, the teacher didn't feel so good.

He didn't feel like he was in a duel, but rather playing an old-fashioned side-scrolling mini-game that was full of pitfalls. The game designer was also a master of psychology

But Chronos also had a backup plan!

"When the Geartown is destroyed, I can special summon 1 Ancient Gear' monster from your deck!" Chronos shouted, "I will special summon the Ancient Gear Gadgiltron Dragon' from my deck!"

Countless gears meshed, and a giant shadow rose into the sky from the ruins of Geartown! The giant steel dragon spread out its steel wings and soared into the sky, spreading its endless majesty!

[Ancient Gear Gadgiltron Dragon, ATK 3000]

"Oh oh oh! Another super powerful monster has appeared!" Judai continued to shine with his eyes, as if he was completely unaware that he was in crisis.

Chronos let out a long breath.

Although it was an exhausting duel, it was finally coming to an end.

Chronos could probably understand now why the Duel King insists on going all out to deal with this test, and also understood why he stuffed so many targeted cards with unknown meanings in his deck.

If not, even if he, an elite teacher, was at full strength, he might not be a match for this little jellyfish head!

But fortunately, it should be over now, and he, an elite teacher, would not fall over in the hands of his students.

This was already his limit.

"Ancient Gear Gadgiltron Dragon! Directly attacked Judai-san, nanone!"

But Judai waved his hand again: "Then I'm going to activate the effect of the monsters in the graveyard, teacher!"

Chronos' eyelids twitched.

Don't tell me there are still traps?!

Is this a hero of justice? Why does he place so many pitfalls like a villain?

Judai has already revealed a card from the graveyard: "The effect of the Clear Kuriboh' in the graveyard is activated! When an opponent's monster declares a direct attack: I can banish this card from my GY; draw 1 card.

If I draw a monster card, I can Special Summon that monster in attack position, and the opponent must attack that monster! "

After listening to this effect explanation, Chronos breathed a sigh of relief.

Okay, okay, not too bad.

Chronos clearly knew that there was almost no big monster in the Elemental HERO ecks, and powerful monsters all relied on fusion to summon. In the main deck, the best beatstick was Bladedge with an attack power of 2600.

But his Reactor Dragon's attack power was as high as 3000!

So although it seemed that there was still hope for Judai here, in fact, he has basically lost.

Even if he drew the Bladedge with the highest attack power in the deck with great accuracy which was already a miracle from a probability perspective it would only have 2600 ATK. The Gadgiltron Dragon's attack could still cause 400 points of combat damage. Judai with only 300 LP left will be defeated directly!

"Don't scare me, nanone." Chronos smiled confidently, "It's just a futile last-ditch effort."

But he soon realized something was wrong.

Because Yuki Judai's eyes were still full of pure enthusiasm when he looked at his deck.

"Sensei, you must think that I can't win anymore, right?" Judai smiled.

"Huh?" Chronos raised his eyebrows, "Then you want to say, can you still turn the tables?"

"Of course." Judai said matter-of-factly, "Duelists should absolutely trust their decks no matter where they are. As long as they have unwavering faith, the decks will definitely respond!"

Chronos couldn't help but feel a little uneasy.

There are no heroes with an attack power of more than 3,000 in the HERO main deck.

Could it be possible that he could print a card to counter me on the spot?

"Then based on the effect of Clear Kuriboh', I'm going to draw a card!" Judai rubbed his hands excitedly, "Maybe this time I draw a card, the world will change! It's so exciting just thinking about it!"

Not only Judai, but also the breathing of all the other candidates watching seemed to have stopped. Countless eyes were cast on the jellyfish head, involuntarily looking forward to the boy's next draw.

Judai knew that the limit of his HERO deck was much more than that.

In the deck of cards that he placed great love on and carefully selected, there was only one card that could help him directly reverse this situation.

All he had to do was to draw that specific card from all the remaining cards in this thick deck with incomparable precision!

Impossible?

For ordinary people, maybe.

But for a real duelist, every card draw is inevitable!

"Draw!"

A card followed the path of Judai's arm, leaving a perfect arc in the air.

Judai's eyes lit up.

"Coming, coming, coming!"

"Huh?" Chronos began.

"I summon 'Yubel' in attack position!!!"

The devil's wings slowly spread out, and the monster spirit slowly opened her eyes, which had different colors. A third eye opened on her forehead, and she slowly landed on the field with her arms folded.

[Yubel, ATK 0]

The examinees who were watching and Chronos in the venue all looked confused.

Why is there such a fiend in your HERO deck?

Elemental HERO Yubel?

"A monster with 0 attack power?"

"The effect of the Clear Kuriboh means the Ancient Gear Gadgiltron Dragon must be forced to attack Yubel!" Judai said.

Chronos was still a little confused: "But if the battle is established, you will suffer 3,000 points of battle damage"

"No, I won't." Judai smiled, "Yubel's effect I take no Battle Damage from battles involving this card. Before damage calculation, when this face-up Attack Position card is attacked by an opponent's monster: Inflict damage to the opponent equal to that monster's ATK!"

"Nani!?!?" Chronos was shocked.

But he could no longer stop attacking. The parts of the Gadgiltron Dragon's body operated, steam spewed out, and the body surface was burned red. It was like a beam from a furnace hitting Yubel's body, and then it was counterattacked with an even more intense intensity.

Chronos, LP 0

Professor Greed sat down on the ground, everyone was dumbfounded.

How could there be such a nether monster in the world?!

Chapter 733: Result: 100% Disciple

The duel between Judai and Mr. Chronos could be regarded as a classic in the entire GX plot, leaving a very deep impression on a whole generation of viewers. Therefore, this duel naturally attracted a lot of attention among players.

Although no one else was allowed to enter the Duel Academy entrance examination room, thanks to the presence of such a considerate NPC named Yuei Vu who always considered the benefit of players, the players had the opportunity to observe.

Once again, Yuei Vu took his royal camera gadget with him. Miss Yuehua received permission from Yuei Vu himself and followed him to the examination room.

So countless viewers had the opportunity to watch the whole process of the duel through live broadcast.

The intensity of this duel, the level of strength displayed by both sides, and its tortuous process were beyond the imagination of the players.

During this period, everyone's reaction was probably like this.

""

"Damn it, when did Judai become sosunny?"

"Are you really such a boy?"

"Let's learn about nether heroes"

"Also, have you noticed that Judai stuffed a lot of cards like the Pot of Greed and the Card of Sanctity"

The players all thought of someone very unanimously, and at the same time they felt emotional in their hearts.

Good guy, he is indeed a student taught by Yuei Vu san.

Exactly the same shape!

"The appraisal is completed. Result: 100% disciple." someone said.

"Jellyfish: Squid Limited Edition. JPG." Emojis have started to be posted on the forum.

Until the last turn when Judai came back from a desperate situation, using a Clear Kuriboh to accurately draw a "Yubel", which rebounded 3000 damage and directly reversed the table, all the players expressed their opinions

I was so surprised!

Damn, is there still such an operation? What is the probability of this?

Yubel's effect, which could be described as "the harder the better", was autistic enough. The operation of using Clear Kuriboh to summon Yubel not only was autistic to the level of Ufriend Hero but also exceeded most people's imagination!

After all, how can you ensure that you can accurately and impartially draw Yubel from such a thick stack of cards the moment the opponent declares an attack?

Could it be that this is a world that only divine drawers understand?

It can be said that divine drawers would be silent after watching this duel, and nether players would cry after watching it.

Nether was not scary, but the scary thing was that nether players could divine draw!

Of course, some people were aware of other problems.

"Wait a minute, why is Yubel still here?"

"Shouldn't she be side by side with the sun?"

After being reminded of this, many players reacted.

"Sister Yub is still here, will everyone go to another dimension in the future?"

"Not only she is still there, but she even seemed to have a little interaction with Judai after the duel. The master and servant exchanged glances, and their relationship seemed to be quite harmonious"

"Damn it, then if Sister Yub doesn't cause trouble, doesn't it mean that the entire season's plot is missing?"

Also, if Sister Yub doesn't go to heaven then what about Ultraman?

You won't just retcon our Neos, right?

""

This duel was undoubtedly much more intense than the original animation many years ago. Many players believe that due to the changes in the world's plotline, the overall level of the duel world has increased, and the rising tide has lifted all boats. Chronos was much better than the original.

Some people thought that it is not that the teacher has become stronger, but that the teacher at the beginning of the animation did not show his true strength in the assessment. Later in the animation, when Chronos summoned the Ultimate Golem, he said "I never thought I would use this move on a student", which could also prove this point of view.

But no matter what, the consensus reached by the players was that Judai was much stronger than the original anime.

Not only was it reflected in the aspect of trap-heavy playing style, but the adjustment of his deck construction, changes in tactical ideas, and many aspects could be seen with the naked eye. The boy was completely different from the Judai in the early stages of the animation, who usually summoned a Normie (even often in attack position) then directly ended the turn.

The players were having a heated discussion here, and so were the NPCs.

The performance of Yuki Judai undoubtedly shocked the teachers and students in the audience, and many people who were waiting to see his defeat couldn't help but be shocked.

A candidate who has not yet entered school actually defeated the strongest teacher in the college!

Why should you study if you are so awesome? How about going directly to the league?

"No way." Tenjoin Asuka was also surprised, "That Professor Chronos was actually"

She flipped up her long golden hair, and her beautiful eyes couldn't help but be firmly attracted by the young man waving to the astonished crowd in the duel field below.

"Yuki Judai?" Asuka rested her elbows on the railing, tilted her head with her chin in her hands, "He looks like he'll be a very interesting person."

The girl's curiosity was gradually aroused by the jellyfish head below.

Ryo Marufuji, who was known as "Kaiser" in the academy, crossed his arms and leaned against the wall behind him, smiling slightly.

It looked like he had expected this outcome.

As for Yuki Judai himself, he has not the slightest awareness of becoming the center of attention.

"Awesome, Yubel!" Judai said to Yubel happily, "Thanks to you this time!"

As he grew older, Judai has awakened the ability to see and communicate with spirits. Now he was aware of Yubel's existence.

However, because Yubel did not send people to the hospital as often as in the original work, and most of the time he was very obedient in front of Judai, their master-servant relationship was quite good.

After the duel, Yubel had returned to her spiritual state. She curled her lips slightly and said calmly: "You have become stronger too, Judai. That's why you can summon me at the critical moment."

"But I can't do it without your power." Judai scratched his head, "Oh, this teacher is so powerful. I was almost in danger just now. Fortunately, you are here."

Otherwise, no matter what, I won't be able to draw cards that are not in the deck at all!"

"Be confident Judai, you are a unique existence in the world no, in the entire universe. Sooner or later, you will be able to break through the constraints of common sense and become the strongest duelist that has ever been seen before or since!"

It was said that distance created beauty, and the process of mutual appreciation required maintaining a certain appropriate space and psychological distance. However, this might not apply to Yubel.

According to Yuei Vu's intermittent observations, he found that as she stayed with Judai for longer and longer, Yubel's obsession with her master not only showed no signs of fading but instead seemed to be growing day by day and getting deeper

But Yuei Vu didn't think there was anything wrong with having such a strong spirit by Judai's side. After all, the boy was his apprentice. The more trump cards Judai had, the more assured he would be as a teacher.

.

Not long after Judai passed the examination, his future classmate, the elite student among the new students, Manjome Jun, received a phone call. He quietly left his followers behind and left the duel field, arriving at an office on the top floor.

It's rare that Manjome put down the airs of elite students and young masters, and bowed his lower body respectfully.

"Sensei."

"Did you see his duel?" The man sitting in the chair said coldly.

"That boy named Yuki Judai? Yes." Manjome said, frowning, "But I still can't believe that this kind of guy can actually be the Duel King's "

"Don't be deceived by appearances." The person in the chair said coldly, "Are you confident that you can win against him?"

"It's not a problem at all." Manjome answered without hesitation, "He does have some advantages and some strength, but now I am stronger than him."

"Very good."

The chair turned around.

The person sitting in that chair was none other than the legendary duelist Seto Kaiba.

"Failure is not allowed." Kaiba put his fingers on his chin and said in a deep voice, "Don't let me down."

"Yes, sir."

Chapter 734: Play Along With The President

When Mr. Takahashi was designing characters for the planning of "Yu-Gi-Oh GX", in the early setting of the character Manjome Jun, he was set to be the apprentice selected by Kaiba Seto himself.

It's just that the world line has changed, and this was deleted in the supplements and modifications of subsequent plans, turning it into black history.

But now the world line has changed again. Maybe it was because he saw Yuei Vu taking on a disciple like Yuki Judai the president even had the honor to experience the future Yuki Judai's amazing strength in person.

That experience not only made Kaiba change his mind and allow Yuei Vu to teach at Duel Academy, but it also made him have similar thoughts.

That Yuei Vu can recruit disciples, why can't I, Kaiba Seto, do the same?

After so many years, no matter how hard he tried to adjust the deck structure, and even accelerated the printing of cards with the help of W, printing a lot of fancy white dragon vests, he could never beat Yuei Vu in the end.

But he lost and lost, and he was used to losing.

Even when he kept trying and failing again and again, he still felt

This is so Yuei Vu!

This is the strength that his opponent should have!

But looking at the little jellyfish head growing up next to Yuei Vu, the president began to have other thoughts.

Although I can't beat Yuei Vu, if I teach an apprentice to beat Yuei Vu's apprentice, rounding off the numbers, does that mean I'm putting Yuei Vu down?

The president was like this. On the surface, he was cold and stoic, but he really cared about his face. No matter what he did, he must be the best in any field.

And this was not an exaggeration. President Kaiba was now a leading tycoon in the energy industry, he was also a leader in the aerospace field, and it went without saying that in the gaming entertainment industry even the Industrial Illusions, which originally claimed to account for half of the duel world, was now overwhelmed by Kaiba Company.

It could be said that President Kaiba is ranked first in the world in every other field he is involved in, except for his duel skills which were inferior to only two people!

So if he wanted to accept disciples, he would naturally want to accept the best ones. Although he had long thought about taking a disciple, he had never been able to find a suitable one.

Based on President Kaiba's experience, he has encountered many young geniuses. But President Kaiba had a high standard, and with Yuei Vu's students as a comparison target, the selection of people would naturally become more stringent.

Whenever he saw some talented young man who seemed to have decent qualifications and was outstanding among his peers, Kaiba would immediately compare them with the Yuki Judai from the future that he met at the KC Cup, then rejected them immediately.

Not to mention finding someone with the same qualifications as that jellyfish head, at least find someone with 60% qualification right?

You can't just let him find a duelist who has no talent like a certain horse bone who can only rely on dice, and train him to the same level as Yuki Judai, right?

(Jounouchi, who did nothing: What the hell)

After so many years, Kaiba had almost given up on this idea. Because he searched through the freshmen of this class after class, he found that there seemed to be no such talented people as Yuki Judai.

The more Kaiba thought about it, the angrier he became.

Damn Yuei Vu, where did you pick up such a jellyfish head that was a natural-born divine drawer?

If compared with some xianxia novels, Judai might be the "innate card physique", the kind that came only once in a thousand years, but it happened to be picked up by Yuei Vu's great luck.

Two years ago, Kaiba discovered Ryo Marufuji among the freshmen entering the academy. He was the best prospect he had seen in these years. Unfortunately, after asking around, the president found out that he already had a master before enrolling, and his master was the principal of the academy, Samejima.

After all, he already has a master. If Kaiba intervened again, wouldn't he become a third party?

That's not possible!

Until recently, he discovered this so-called elite class No. 1 in the middle school department affiliated with the college.

The reason why the president noticed this Manjome Jun was not because of anything else.

That day, Kaiba happened to have something to do in the middle department. When he passed a corridor of the teaching building, he inadvertently looked down through the window and happened to see Manjome Jun of the playground.

He saw Manjome Jun pointing his finger to the sky with a twitchy look: "One!"

"Ten!" A follower echoed.

"Hundred!"

"Thousand!"

All the students in the audience, led by Manjome Jun, shouted together: "Manjome Thunder! Thunder! Thunder!"

Kaiba stopped and raised his eyebrows in interest.

The accompanying teacher suddenly became ashamed and said with some embarrassment: "Kids are just fooling around."

Such a scene made even the teacher feel embarrassed.

But President Kaiba didn't think so.

Not only did he not feel embarrassed, he even curled up the corner of his mouth and said to himself: "Interesting."

"Arrogant, confident, and possessing the momentum of a tyrant."

"This kid has a bit of my style!"

Then Kaiba appeared in front of Manjome Jun.

"You have aroused my interest." Kaiba crossed his arms and said coldly, "Let's duel. If you can get the recognition of the card in my hand, I will consider accepting you as a student."

Manjome Jun and all the students present took a deep breath.

Kaiba Setos student!

In addition to the two first-generation duel kings, this was a legendary boss who was inferior to the two and above everyone else!

Manjome Jun was ecstatic at that time: "Please give me some advice, President!"

Of course, that duelyou could guess the outcome just by thinking about it with your feet.

"Tough! Invincible! Strongest!"

"Crush! Shatter! Destroy!"

Kaiba raised his voice and waved his hand without feeling embarrassed at all.

"Neo Blue-Eyes Ultimate Dragon's attack! Three consecutive shots!"

"Uhhhhhhh!!!"

Poor Manjome Jun was directly blown to the ground. If this was a Shadow Duel, Neo Ultimate Dragon's triple shot would turn the duelist into mosaics.

There is no suspense, a complete crushing.

Manjome fell to his knees in despair, extremely frustrated.

He felt that he must have messed up.

Under Kaiba's suppression, he didn't even display half of his usual strength. He was suppressed and beaten the whole time. His usual tactical layout was crushed by his absolute strength. It can be said that he was completely defeated.

He encountered an excellent opportunity, which may be once in a lifetime, but he failed to grasp it.

But he never expected that Kaiba, who had blasted him, put away the duel disk, showed a faint smile, and snorted: "It's not bad."

Manjome Jun raised his head in surprise.

"You passed." Kaiba said coldly, "You have potential, but it has yet to be developed. If you are determined to go to hell, come with me."

Manjome Jun's face was filled with joy: "Yes! Mr. President!"

"Um?"

Manjome Jun came back to his senses: "Oh, I meanyes! Sensei!"

So from then on, Manjome Jun became Kaibas student.

But Kaiba never mentioned this matter to Yuei Vu. He wanted to wait until Manjome Jun grew up, and one day a student suddenly appeared out of nowhere and made a fool of himself in public.

At that time, he would stand up again and arrogantly tell the hateful Yuei Vu that he was his student.

Thinking of Yuei Vu's deflated expression at that time, the corner of the president's mouth couldn't help but curve slightly.

Just wait for me, YueiVu!

You are going to lose soon!

But its just that the president thought that Yuei Vu didnt know.

Kaiba specifically told Manjome Jun not to mention to others that he was his student. He didn't even mention this matter to his brother Mokuba.

That kid Mokuba was getting closer and closer to Yuei Vu these days, and he talked to Yuei Vu about anything without any hesitation. Therefore, Kaiba did not mention this matter to him for the time being.

However, despite all the calculations, the president still missed one small detail.

"Speaking of which, Seto seems to have taken on a new apprentice recently."

The person who leaked the information was the white dragon girl Kisara.

At that time, Yuei Vu was having a meeting at Kaiba Company, while Kisara was chatting with the Dark Magician Girl outside.

"Huh? Is he also accepting students?" The Dark Magician Girl tilted her head.

"Yes, yes." Kisara covered her lips with her small hand, "That child is called Manjome Jun? He's a very interesting child, a bit like Seto in some aspects .

""

So from then on, Yuei Vu knew.

But since the president didnt want him to know, he pretended not to hear.

After all, this was the self-qualification of a good employee.

Play along with the president. JPG.

Chapter 735: A Huge Development

In the last two days before the opening ceremony, Yuei Vu officially moved to the island where Duel Academy was located.

As the honorary principal, he not only has his own office on this island but also a rather sparsely decorated residence. After all, this island was so big, but the academy only covered a small area, so there was indeed a lot of free space.

But until now, he has rarely been to his house on the island. Even if he occasionally came to the island for business, he never stayed here overnight.

But that was before.

The era of GX had arrived. From now on, this island would be the center stage of the new version. Yuei Vu, who has been preparing for so long, would not miss it.

After that, he might spend more time on the island, so he might as well move in early.

Now that his tools were all online, there was no need to bother doing things like moving by yourself. Yuei Vu compiled a simple quest and handed it to Snow Wave and several other tool people.

Several players whistled excitedly at that time, and each of them acted like "Duty is Calling" and rushed out to set up the game impatiently.

This quest was posted in the morning. Several players boarded the 9 a.m. ferry at Domino Pier and rushed to Duel Academy with all the necessary tools and furniture.

At about six o'clock in the evening, when Yuei Vu landed on the island, the house that had been idle for several years had been cleaned spotlessly, and everything was where it should be.

Yuei Vu sometimes couldn't help but think that the real-life residences of these screwballs might not be as well-kept as this.

Players are really strange creatures. Things that may make them lazy in real life, such as moving bricks, working part-time, running errands, cleaning, etc., can make them extremely active in the game, for fear that others will do the work for them.

Of course, after some self-reflection, Yuei Vu himself seemed to be like this back then, so he was not qualified to say anything.

This wave of tool people were given some EXP as a reward, and a few of them were as happy as if they were celebrating the New Year, and it lasted for days.

Its like using lollipops to fool kindergarten children.

Yuei Vu settled down in the house, put down his luggage, and took a nice hot bath. After washing away the fatigue and sleepiness from the long journey, Yuei Vu sat in front of his personal computer, started the machine, and started working.

He asked for a complete list of new students from Principal Samejima, along with the detailed files submitted by each person, and divided them into categories based on the academy's evaluation and entrance exam scores.

This time in Domino, he temporarily recruited a dozen players to the island and temporarily set them up as special mentors.

According to the plan, he planned to select a small number of students from the freshmen to participate in a special training program. These special instructors taught students card-playing skills.

Because he was not sure whether the deck construction methods and card skills that the card players had figured out were really suitable for these local NPC students or not similarly, Yuei Vu was not sure whether it was a good idea to let these out-of-touch screwballs become teachers. So he only found a dozen or so players for testing in the first batch to see what the results were.

If this was effective the players' playing ideas successfully improved the NPC students' dueling skills, he would then proceed to promote this teaching method and establish a mature system.

"Yu-Gi-Oh GX" was undoubtedly a work of excellent quality, at least it has successfully withstood the test of time. But this work could not be said to be perfect, and there were many regrets that players would never forget.

For example, the most annoying thing was that in the entire GX anime, except for the protagonist Yuki Judai, the other teachers and students in the entire academy were basically a burden.

They did whatever they wanted in the first place, fooling around outside all day long, but still feeling confident even if they went to feed the opponent, highlighting the idea of "giving Judai a motivation to win".

One day, they accidentally lost, and everyone turned around to blame Judai, despising the eldest brother for being too weak to take care of them.

Yuei Vu felt that this model of relying solely on Judai to save the day needed to be changed. Even if you could not break out of the role of a minor character in the story, steal the spotlight from the protagonist, and defeat the BOSS, at least you shouldn't lose your life when clearing the minions, right?

If putting aside the divine draw bonus of Duelist Rank, Yuei Vu himself didn't dare to say that his card skills were much better than other card players in a real card competition.

If even these players couldn't teach these incompetent students how to play cards, then Yuei Vu might have nothing to do.

Yuei Vu browsed the information of the new students, pulled out the files of the students he was interested in, and threw them into a separate folder, as candidates for this first round of "tutor responsibility system" training program.

The doorbell rang outside.

Yuei Vu felt strange that someone came to visit him in the middle of the night on the first day he landed on the island. He stood up and left his seat, walked through the spacious and somewhat empty hall, and opened the door.

The girl stood on tiptoe outside the door, looking up at him, her long silver hair illuminated by the light on the edge of the door.

Chika was dragging a large trolley suitcase in her hand. She tilted her little head and asked expressionlessly: "Which room should I live in?"

Yuei Vu: ""

He asked: "You have your own room in the dormitory on the island, right?"

"Yes." Chika nodded, and then asked, "So, which room should I live in?"

Yuei Vu had no choice but to turn aside and let her in.

He closed the door, took the heavy suitcase from Chika's hand, and dragged her inside with the suitcase.

"There are a lot of vacant rooms, you can pick one you like."

Chika thought for a while: "Which room do you live in?"

"Right here." Yuei Vu pointed to his door, "The next room and the opposite room are both empty. You want to choose these two rooms, right?"

Chika pondered for two seconds and said calmly: "Actually, I want to say that I will stay in your room."

Yuei Vu: ""

The layout was still small.

Chika lowered her head and remained silent, but she still dragged her luggage to the next room.

She put down her luggage and went to the bathroom first. When she came back, she poked her silver head out of the door and asked, "I'll take the clothes to be washed."

"Oh."

Yuei Vu was staring at the computer and responded casually, but then he felt something was wrong and quickly got up and came out.

"Wait a moment"

Pushing open the bathroom door, he saw Chika holding the clothes he had just changed into the most conspicuous place on it was a certain personal item.

However, the girl remained expressionless and only tilted her head slightly: "What's wrong?"

"fine."

Yuei Vu left without saying a word, returned to his room, and sat back in his seat.

Everyone pretends nothing happened. JPG.

Chika pretended to be nonchalant, but when she went out holding the clothes, her little heart was beating loudly.

Fortunately, she had facial paralysis, and Yuei Vu didn't seem to see anything wrong with her.

But the girl felt that today she had made another huge development in her long journey!

Chapter 736: Special Instructors

September came quietly with silent steps, and at the beginning of the new semester, a luxurious passenger ship rode the wind and waves, full of young men and women who yearned for Duel Academy.

The freshmen landed on the island at ten o'clock in the morning, and what greeted them was perhaps the grandest banquet of the year.

The school, which was mainly funded by the Kaiba Corp, generously showed everyone its strong financial resources. The academy prepared a sumptuous lunch for the students in the splendid hall.

The long dining table that appeared in movies was filled with dishes that seemed to come from all over the world. It seemed that the academy had gathered top chefs who were proficient in the customs of various countries.

The school staff led by Principal Samejima took the stage and delivered speeches respectively, expressing their high hopes for the students. It's just that Principal Samejima may not be as eloquent as Kaiba. He talked on the stage for a long time, and the students in the audience were either drowsy or focused on the upcoming feast.

But when Yuei Vu stepped onto the podium, the students' enthusiasm was immediately mobilized. Some students even jumped up and waved desperately. The scene was a bit like a big-name concert.

After all, many people come here for the title of "Duel King", and it was precise because of this that this school was the No. 1 school in the world.

The freshmen had completed most of the procedures before landing on the island, but there were still many things to deal with on the first day at the academy. The children were busy all day long, receiving Duel Disks and school uniforms of the corresponding dorms, and then went to the canteen to buy daily necessities.

The manager of the canteen was Tome-san, an aunt with a round figure and a plump figure (lets call it plump). She wore a pair of round-rimmed glasses and had a friendly appearance. She was deeply loved by teachers and students in the school.

It's just that this aunt has caused a psychological shadow on many freshmen today.

Because of the beautiful idea of "leaving good memories for the freshmen", Tome-san put on the "Dark Magician Girl" costume that she has treasured for many years

Although saying this may be a bit rude to Tome-san, the lethality of her Dark Magician Girl costume was truly astonishing. Many newcomers who came to buy daily necessities vomited blood on the spot, and some strong men even had the urge to blind themselves

What's even more shocking is that when Tome-san received the checkout halfway through, something on the back of the costume exploded with a "stab" sound. Tome-san turned back with a blank look on her face and muttered: "That's strange, it seemed to fit just right last year"

Poor Judai's new younger brother Sho Marufuji, whom he just met on the way to school, happened to witness this scene while shopping at the canteen, and was hit hard, making his whole body feel bad.

Sho Marufuji was a freshman who entered school in the same class as Judai. He stubbornly regarded Judai as his Aniki because of his amazing performance in the entrance exam.

When Sho came out of the store, his eyes were empty and he was muttering "My Dark Magician Girl" over and over again like a robot, as if his whole mind was crushed.

"Sho, what's wrong with you?" Judai expressed concern.

Sho Marufuji raised his head, glanced at Judai who had a nonchalant expression, sighed, and shook his head slightly.

"Aniki, you must not have seen a real Dark Magician Girl with your own eyes, right? You don't understand. I just lost my biggest dream in life."

Judai: Not only had I met her, but I had also played with her. You may not believe it, but she even hugged me when I was little

That was when Judai first awakened the power of seeing spirits. One day, Yuki Judai suddenly grabbed Yuei Vu's clothes and said, "Sensei, sensei, I see a lot of ghosts around you"

However, seeing his younger brother Sho Marufuji's devastated look, Judai instinctively felt that speaking out would be a bigger blow to him. In addition, Yuei Vu had warned him not to tell people that he was his apprentice, so Judai remained silent.

On the first day of admission, the freshmen were busy settling in, and the whole day passed quickly.

It was worth mentioning that the Osiris Red Dormitory here was not as shabby as in the original work.

After all, with the efforts of Yuei Vu and the Three Egyptian Gods themselves Osiris, Obelisk, and Ra dormitory no longer had advantages and disadvantages, they simply represented different styles.

Therefore, the treatment in dormitories was theoretically equal.

Of course, its just "theoretically".

The truth was that the treatment and facilities in the Osiris Red and Ra Yellow dormitories were equal, but compared to these two, the Obelisk Blue dormitory was simply a VIP area.

Obviously, it was President Kaibas private kind of stuff, but no one dared to say anything. After all, that's his money

Early the next morning, a small number of freshmen and some old students received a notice.

The academy informed them that they had obtained a very rare qualification and could participate in a "double selection meeting" to select a special tutor.

There was no such precedent in earlier years. No one had ever heard of the "double election". This school has never introduced the concept of "tutor" since its establishment. Students were basically managed like sheep except for taking exams in class. Learning depended entirely on interest and self-discipline.

The freshmen were told that these instructors were all experts among experts, with the most ruthless vision and unique understanding of dueling. This makes the selected freshmen both excited and anxious along the way.

Sho Marufuji was surprised to find that he was actually among the selected students which made him realize that the students selected this time may indeed be completely random and have nothing to do with grades or strength.

After all, he was an absolute bottom in theory and practice.

He was surprised to find that the blond girl Tenjoin Asuka who impressed everyone the most when she entered school was actually on the team.

"Asuka!" Sho Marufuji greeted warmly.

Asuka noticed him: "Are you Judai's younger brother?"

Sho Marufuji's smile stiffened for a moment.

Because Asuka remembered his Aniki's name, but not his.

"I'm Sho Marufuji." He introduced himself.

Asuka nodded to express understanding, and then asked, "Didn't Judai come?"

Sho Marufuji: ""

Why dont you talk about Aniki every time?

"The students of Obelisk Blue, the students of Osiris Red, and the students of Ra Yellow."

The one who suddenly appeared and spoke was the freshman Misawa Daichi who had also just entered school.

"It seems like the selection is really random."

Sho Marufuji noticed this new classmate and tried to recall: "Ah, are you Mi Mi Mi Misaka Daito?"

Misawa's face suddenly became filled with black lines.

"My name is Misawa Daichi." He said calmly.

What is Misaka Daito?!

"Oh, I'm sorry." Sho scratched his head in embarrassment, "Because of the new entrants, I haven't remembered everyone yet, but I know your name now. I will definitely not forget it in the future!"

Sho Marufuji inserted a big flag as if it was flying in the wind on his head.

The leader of the team took them out of the dormitory area and to the open space outside the academy. His mission ended here.

The person who came out of the woods to take over was none other than Yuei Vu.

"Thank you for your hard work." Yuei Vu walked out with his hands in his windbreaker pocket and nodded to the teacher, "Just leave it to me later."

The teacher bowed to him respectfully and then stepped away.

A group of students were frying pots on the spot.

"The first-generation Duel King!"

"No way!? I heard from my senior that I haven't seen him since I entered school"

"Are we the chosen ones!?"

Sho Marufujis eyes were bright.

At this time, Sho was completely unaware of the reason why he was chosen, and he was completely unaware of what he was about to face.

Sho Marufuji, a teammate who was known as GXs number one feeder, how could Yuei Vu allow him to be a load for Judai?

Yuei Vu specially arranged a special instructor for one-on-one guidance for this boy. Even if the tutor couldn't teach this kid well, at least they had to torture him so that he had no time or energy to cause trouble.

"This is not true, is it?"

Sho Marufuji quickly thought of his eldest brother Yuki Judai whom he had just met.

Although he was not very familiar with him, he also knew that Judai was a user of the HERO deck and was also a super fan of the first-generation Duel King.

On the first day of moving into the dormitory, Judai couldn't wait to talk about Yuei Vu, so much so that he almost slapped the word "brainless fan" on his face.

"If Aniki knew about it, he would definitely be extremely envious, right?" Sho Marufuji thought.

"Mr. Yuei Yuei Vu" A girl with rose hair wearing an Obelisk Blue uniform greeted him sheepishly.

"Sakura?" Yuei Vu also recognized her, "Oh, you've grown so big?"

This girl was naturally the same Sakura Izayoi who had played cards with him in the KC Cup in a daze.

It was said that women underwent a transformation in puberty. After all these years, little Lolita has become a graceful and beautiful girl. And with such an unscientific scale at the age of fifteen, it was hard not to think of Izayoi Aki in the 5DS.

Is it true that excellent genes are inherited?

When other students saw them saying hello, they couldn't help but feel envious of this girl.

She actually knows the Duel King!

This girl must have a lot of background!

Yuei Vu led the students toward the depths of the jungle, leaving the Duel Academy behind them farther and farther away.

The students couldn't help but think wildly and began to picture the "special instructors" they were about to meet.

They began to picture some handsome, cold, unsmiling, and thoughtful duelist images in their minds. Some students even habitually began to apply the images of these mentors to legendary duelists such as Yuei Vu, Yugi, and Kaiba, and naturally thought that these experts should also look similar.

Of course, at this time, none of them realized what they were about to see.

Following Yuei Vu as they marched into the woods, the students seemed to faintly begin to hear Singing?

Chapter 737: Experts Among Experts

No matter what assumptions the students had about these "experts among experts" before, all of them have been overturned by reality.

Yuei Vu led everyone through the forest and out of the bushes, and a stronghold established for the players was immediately displayed in front of the students.

Even the most disconnected students may have to work hard to come to terms with the situation.

"These are the mentors?" Sho Marufuji was a little confused.

The images of smart, tall, and handsome duelists they had imagined in advance suddenly disappeared. What was left to them in reality was a group of singing and dancing lunatics?!

Although saying this may be rude to future teachers, these "teachers" did give students this impression.

It's more like an amusement park than an office space. Some teachers were sitting at the table playing mahjong, some were playing poker, and two guys were dancing passionately on a temporary wooden stage built by hand.

Fortunately, Yuei Vu has stipulated that "uniforms must be worn on campus" for the screwballs. Otherwise, if the screwballs put on those fancy headgear, the students would be even more confused.

Today was the first double selection meeting. It's not like Yuei Vu hasn't thought about asking these idiots to be more honest and act like professionals in front of the students. But then he thought about it, after spending time with this group of students, sooner or later they would discover their idiotic attributes. There was no point in hiding it for a while, so he simply gave up.

It's better to just let the screwballs play their true colors. After all, some people say that geniuses are informal, which is not unacceptable at all.

There were all freshmen present, and they were reluctant to speak out for fear of saying the wrong thing. However, deep down in their hearts, they all doubted whether they had entered some kind of safari park.

"Huh? They're coming!"

Someone shouted. All the players present immediately dropped what they were doing, and those who were rubbing their hands stopped rubbing their hands, and those who were fighting and dancing stopped fighting and dancing, and swarmed up.

The enthusiasm almost scared these little fresh meats.

The clever students quickly discovered that this was a double election meeting with more monks and less meat. The number of students present was far more than the instructor.

If assigned on a one-to-one basis, only a small number of students would be assigned tutors.

While students observe their instructors, the instructors also observe their students.

Players were often very realistic. Their criteria for selecting students were not based on talent, potential, and card skills. In fact, they didn't care much about this at all.

First of all, they preferred to choose famous characters in the original work, and secondly, they preferred to choose female apprentices with slim waists and long legs who could act cute.

Therefore, it was completely foreseeable that Asuka Tenjoin, a model student with outstanding appearance and first-class potential, would become the object of attention of many players; Izayoi Sakura, who looked like the female main character in 5Ds, was also the object of their attention.

As for Sho Marufuji, he didn't know whether it was an illusion, but always felt that the reactions of these teachers when they saw him were like seeing a pile of cow dung.

Sho was very confused at this time.

Is it because I am ugly?

It doesn't make sense

But today was mainly just a meeting. Yuei Vu asked these students to briefly introduce themselves, focusing on their usual decks and understanding of common tactics and combos.

This information could make it easier for tutors to choose students who are more interested in and better at educating.

These students would get an application form when they returned, and they could choose the tutor they want based on their preferences. In turn, tutors could also choose students they are more interested in.

Of course, the final decision must still be in the hands of Yuei Vu.

If you really let the idiots choose, one Asuka was not enough for them

Yuei Vu also clearly told these "tutors" that teaching students was not just for fun. Every month, the college would conduct practical assessments of the students they teach. If the students failed to pass the assessment, or did not improve significantly, they would be expelled as tutors and must leave the island.

In contrast, after players selected the students they want to teach, Yuei Vu would open a "special channel for tutors" in the store for them.

He would help the tutor open the card pool corresponding to the series of decks used by his students for free. And as the apprentice progressed, the master would also receive corresponding generous rewards.

For example, if a player chose to take Asuka as a student, then Yuei Vu's store would open a card pool for the "Cyber Angel" series used by Asuka specifically for this tutor.

Tutors could either start building a deck of this series themselves, or buy cards from Yuei Vu to strengthen their students' decks.

Although the players seemed to be unreliable, Yuei Vu had many ways to make them take it seriously.

You just needed to understand what they want.

A qualified planner must be proficient in player psychology.

The meeting was over and the students had just left. But one of the players just stood there giggling like a fool.

Snow Wave asked strangely: "Why are you laughing?"

One Hammer Deal No Counter-Offer shook his head mysteriously: "You don't understand."

At this time, he felt that he was already stable.

Because just when he met the students when no one else was paying attention, he stuffed a card into Asuka's hand!

The battle for student resources began as early as the moment they met.

One Hammer Deal No Counter-Offer has always been a stingy character, but even so, in order to win high-quality students, he actually made up his mind and gave away a UR-level rare card!

No pain no gain!

He could almost admire his own courage for making such a sacrifice. Even though he felt a little pained when he thought about it, as long as he got the best students, he felt it was worth it!

Looking at the other idiots around him who were having a heated discussion over the students, he felt a sense of superiority deep in his heart.

Oh, you go ahead and fight.

Anyway, the best one is already mine!

.

The students are on their way back to their dormitories.

"Asuka, what is this in your hand?" Sho Marufuji came up and asked curiously.

Misawa also came over: "Axe Raider? In terms of attack power, it's pretty good among Level 4 monsters. But is there any special significance?"

Asuka looked at the "Axe Raider" in her hand that a certain instructor had just thrust into his hand without any explanation, with the same confused look on her face: "I don't know either."

Axe Raider, a Normie with an attack power of 1700. Because it was marked with a rarity of "UR" in the card pool for unknown reasons, it was respectfully called the "Invincible Axe King" by players.

But unfortunately, Asuka-san didn't seem to recognize this noble axe king. She was racking her brains, wondering if the teacher had any special meaning for giving her such an unknown meaning card.

Chapter 738: It's Always Pleasant To See Fans

After the tutor met with the students, Yuei Vu gave them a week to think about it in detail.

According to Yuei Vu's memory of the plot of the original work and his impression of version 2.0 in his previous life, the first truly major disaster in the GX chapter should be the rise of the three Sacred Beasts.

Apart from Kaiba, the other giant sponsor of Duel Academy, the Academy had a chairman named Kagamaru, a rotten old man who had to rely on mechanical equipment to make a living.

In order to regain his youth and extend his life, he decided to acquire the power of the three Sacred Beasts and use the three elves to absorb energy to help his body return to its peak.

To this end, he used money and the temptation of dark power to drive seven Shadow Duelists from different fields to work for him, known as the "Seven Stars", and launched a challenge to the teachers and students of the academy. That was also the first real threat that the young people in GX encountered.

But that should have happened in the second half of the semester. During the entire semester before this, Yuki Judai and his friends were mostly experiencing some joyful daily life. Occasionally, he might get into some Shadow Duels by accident, but they were just minor fights.

In the few days since the beginning of the school year, it seemed to be the same.

During this period, Yuei Vu specially asked Judai to come to his office for a talk, expressing concern for the students' living conditions and mental state of course the latter may be redundant.

Judai was full of expectations for his new college life and was enthusiastic about the next three years of life. He told Yuei Vu about his experiences and what he had seen and heard these days, like he was pouring beans out of a bamboo tube. When he talked about the excitement, his tone was like "Yuei Vu-sensei, you really should have seen it there."

Yuei Vu learned that he had had "friendly" interactions with many classmates in the college through playing cards in just a few days. Of course, Judai-san has never lost a game so far.

Although Professor Cronos knew that this jellyfish student was Yuei Vu's student and did not deliberately make things difficult for him like in the original work, Judai still found an opportunity to duel with Tenjoin Asuka this week and left a deep impression on the other party.

Having said this, Yuei Vu asked meaningfully: "By the way, Judai, what do you think of that classmate named Asukawhat do you think of her?"

Judai blinked his innocent big eyes twice and said seriously: "She is very good! Her duel is better than other classmates!"

"Umthat's all?"

"That's allmaybe?" Judai picked his hair.

"That's right! Sensei, you really should see the expression on her face when her ace monster is removed from the game by my Karma Cut'. Haha, sensei, you are right, the duel is so interesting"

Yuei Vu: ""

Did I tell you to put "Karma Cut" in your deck to cut the relationship with a girl?

Seeing that his apprentice was adapting to life in the new semester, Yuei Vu didn't ask any more questions. He just told him as usual to turn off the lights and not run around, don't be late for class, and go to bed early at night, and then let him go back.

Of course, he didn't expect Judai to listen. After all, the boy seemed to be thinking in the small intestine, and what he heard always went in one ear and out the other.

If the human brain was compared to a hard drive, then Judai's hard drive might be formatted every night

Yuei Vu originally had a complete plan for the buffer period in the first semester. He listed the progress made in each stage of the plan every month and set some teaching goals, assessment projects, etc.

He wanted to prepare teachers and students before the real problems that might befall the college came.

But one part that Yuei Vu missed or that he could not have calculated was that the World Link Online version 2.0 had already deviated a lot from its original trajectory due to his emergence as the Duel King.

The enemy came much faster than he expected.

.

On the first day after freshmen entered the campus, the college organized training for them.

The freshman counselors gave them a thick "Duel Academy Student Rules" and repeatedly emphasized the importance of abiding by school rules on the island.

The administrator of each dormitory ensures that students understand some of the taboos on the island. There was a prescribed time for turning off the lights at night, no going out after the lights were turned off, and no utensils allowed in the dormitory.

In addition to all the above matters, the most important point was that it was prohibited to set foot in the restricted areas of the school under any circumstances.

Just like many schools have a tradition of spreading "Seven Mysteries of The School", Duel Academy also has similar urban legends.

Deep in the jungle of the island, there was an abandoned school building. The place has long been in disrepair and has become dilapidated. It has become a gathering place for crows. There were rumors that that place used to be a base for activities of a certain student organization, but it was now abandoned because a student disappeared there.

Due to the strict information control, many teachers and students on the island still thought that it was just a pure legend. They didn't think anything horrific had ever happened on the island.

But that's the truth.

Tenjoin Asuka stood in front of the abandoned school building, wearing blue fingerless gloves, and quietly placed a flower in front of the school building.

It was now past the time to turn off the lights. The dense branches and leaves blocked the stars and moonlight, and there was almost no light in the forest.

The abandoned school building was eerily quiet. Occasionally, a dark crow would flap its wings and fly by. It would land next to the broken light bulb outside the school building and make a hoarse and ominous cry.

Coming to the restricted area at the risk of being directly expelled from school if discovered was obviously not what a model student like Asuka should do.

But this was originally one of her purposes for entering this college.

Among the missing people in this abandoned school building was her brother, Tenjoin Fubuki.

She stood quietly for a long time until a voice came to her ears.

"Who is it!" The girl turned back alertly and at the same time instinctively raised the Duel Disk.

This was a quality a true duelist should have to activate the Duel Disk at any time when in danger. This thing was definitely more useful than a gun.

She was sure that what she just heard was not the sound of a bird or animal, but the sound of someone walking through the woods and their clothes scraping in the bushes.

She quickly saw the culprit.

That seemed to be a man, a rather burly man. He has broad shoulders, a square chin, and half of his face was covered by a white metal mask.

He had a Duel Disk slung across his chest similar to the one used by Mr. Cronos. He was wearing a loose black robe, and his whole body seemed to be wrapped in steaming black mist.

Asuka bit her lower lip: "Who are you? Are you related to the disappearance of the students here?"

The corners of the man's mouth raised slightly.

"Aren't you willing to speak? Then let's have a duel. " Asuka shouted, "If I win, you must"

She realized that her vision had become blurry at some point.

A strong feeling of dizziness attacked her brain, as if everything in her mind was drained out. She felt like the world was spinning, and she felt as if she had returned to the dormitory and the warm bed. Her eyesight went dark, and she fell down softly and lost consciousness.

The man looked at Asuka who fainted in front of him and sneered: "Stupid little girl, who wants to duel with you? Oh, appearing in a place like this in the middle of the night almost ruined my business"

He strode forward and was about to pick up Asuka who had fainted on the ground when he suddenly heard a lazy voice behind him.

"It's a bit dishonor to knock someone down without even playing the cards."

Completely unaware that there was someone behind him, the man was taken aback and turned around hurriedly and alertly.

But when he saw the identity of the person behind him, he couldn't help but scream in even more fear.

"Duel King!?"

"Hey." Yuei Vu sat on an open rock and waved to him, "It's always pleasant to see fans."

Chapter 739: What Did He Use?

"Duel King Yuei Vu!?"

The moment he saw this figure, the masked man's whole body was instantly dominated by fear. A cold numbness seemed to sweep over from the deepest part of his heart, almost dominating his body in a brief moment.

The masked man was obviously an intruder who did not belong to this island. He landed on the island of Duel Academy about two hours ago. The reason why he chose to operate in this forbidden area far away from the academy was to avoid being noticed.

Damn it! Didn't the intelligence say that the Duel King himself was rarely on the island throughout the year?

Could it be that my luck is so bad that the Duel King happened to be here for inspection today?

The thought of escaping was extinguished in the blink of an eye if even half of the past rumors about Duel King were true, he knew that there was no way he could escape from this master.

Then he had one last chance left!

The masked man glared hard and shouted through gritted teeth: "If you want this little girl to live, don't come here!"

He was obviously referring to Asuka who was unconscious on the ground.

"Oh?" Yuei Vu raised his eyebrows.

He knew the details of this man. This was one of the earliest antagonist characters in GX.

This person was codenamed "Titan" and claimed to be a Shadow Duelist, similar to a mercenary. But he was just a bluffing liar, relying on illusion and hypnosis to deceive people.

However, in the anime, his trick was discovered by Judai during the duel.

This guy doesnt want to use a deceitful trick to deceive me, does he?

As soon as he had this thought, Yuei Vu saw a shadow flash behind the big man, and a translucent image flew out from behind him.

The body that seemed to be wrapped in bones, the beating electric current, the skeletal armor, and sharp claws, was clearly the "Infernalqueen Archfiend" among the duel monsters it was also the third monster summoned by the Titans in the original animation when he fought against Yuki Judai.

Spirit?

No, it's not a spirit, but the manifestation of a monster purely by infusing dark power?!

Yuei Vu was a little surprised.

Shouldnt this Titan be just a charlatan who used tricks to pretend to be a Shadow Duelist?

Now it looks like he really has supernatural power?!

The ferocious body of the Demon Queen was almost touching Asuka. She maintained a half-crouched posture, and her skeletal fingers were like white claws resting beside Asuka, only a millimeter away from the skin of her throat that could be broken by blows as if it could be broken with just a little force.

"Just stay there and don't move!"

Titan warned Yuei Vu again, and at the same time, he felt as if his breathing had been cut off.

Hell, Im actually threatening the Duel King!

Although I have done a lot of exciting things and provoked some scary guys, but

This is a new record of craziness!

But Titan was riding a tiger and couldn't get off. Now he had no choice but to bite the bullet.

"Duel King? I know you are very strong, and I have heard about you, but what I want to tell you is that I, I, I I am not afraid of you!"

He felt frightened in his heart when he said this.

"As long as you get even one step closer, I will"

Titan's pupils suddenly shrank, and he swallowed back the second half of his words as if he had bitten his tongue.

The cold and sharp claws of steel appeared at his throat at some point when he spoke, he was so excited that he almost pushed it up his throat.

That was a dark-looking hero with solid armor. His helmet looked like a hungry wolf that preyed on people. The armor on his hands and feet was equipped with sharp blades that flashed with cold light.

Masked HERO Dark Law.

Before the Titan could even blink, Dark Law's blade was at his throat.

He did not doubt that before he had time to give the order to the "Infernalqueen Archfiend", the masked hero's sharp claws would definitely rip his throat open first.

The desire to survive stimulated his body's potential, almost out of instinct. A dark force in his body was instantly released, activating ancient rules, and initiating a battle ritual in this extremely limited area.

"Interesting." Yuei Vu narrowed his eyes, "Will you challenge me to a Shadow Game?"

Titan complained repeatedly in his heart.

I'm not, I don't, I really don't want to play cards with you

But this was also a last resort players on both sides were not allowed to directly harm each other during the game. This was his instinctive life-saving behavior at the moment when the Masked HERO Dark Law pressed against his body and the coldness of death penetrated his bones.

"OK."

Yuei Vu agreed generously and pretended to be groping in the inner pocket of his windbreaker. After a while, he took out a deck and inserted it into the Duel Disk.

There were rumors that the inside of Duel King Yuei Vu's black trench coat was actually sewn with pockets from top to bottom, and each pocket had a different deck of cards stuffed in it.

Otherwise, there was no way to explain why the deck of cards he took out every time was different from the last time

"Just what I want." Yuei Vu opened the Duel Disk without any ink, "I still have many things to ask about your identity and your purpose.

That's it. If you lose the Shadow Game, you must listen to me and tell me everything you know. Do you understand? "

In the original animation, Professor Cronos, who acted as the villain at the time, wanted to expel Yuki Judai from school, so he hired a "Shadow Duelist" from outside the school to expel Judai.

But now that the professor knew Judai's identity, it was naturally unlikely that he invited this Titan. Therefore, Yuei Vu had to interrogate the origin of this guy.

Next, Yuei Vu was also more interested in how such a charlatan turned into a real Shadow Duelist.

Titan activated the Duel Disk with a grimace, and his whole body felt bad.

Fortunately, the legendary Duel King seemed to be a nice person, and he didn't seem to want to gamble his life or anything like that.

Now the Titan mentality has become salty. Even if he was caught and dealt with casually, he would accept it. He just wanted the Duel King to spare his life.

And if possible, he also hoped that Yuei Vu could be gentler. Although he looked tall and had a famous name like "Titan", he was actually afraid of pain

"Duel!" x2

Yuei Vu, LP 4000

Titan, LP 4000

"Then it's up to me to take the initiative."

Seeing the indicator light turn green, Yuei Vu took the initiative and drew a card.

"My turn, draw."

Titan held his breath.

As a "professional Shadow Duelist" which was what he boasted to his employers he was not like those villains who didn't know their own weight in their hearts.

Titan clearly knew that a small fry like him was not enough for the Duel King to take out the legendary "HERO" deck.

So the question now was, what did the other party use

"I normal summon Duza the Meteor Cubic Vessel' from my hand in attack position." Yuei Vu said.

The huge mechanical arm was drawn out like a steel wicker, and the bright black round shell broke out of the ground, standing domineeringly on the ground, with dust swirling around it.

[Duza the Meteor Cubic Vessel, ATK 1600]

Titan's eyelids twitched.

The deck used by Duel King isCubic?

Chapter 740: Summoned Skull

The effect of Duza the Meteor Cubic Vessel. Yuei Vu said, If this card is Normal or Special Summoned, send 1 Cubic card from the deck to the graveyard.

I sent the Continuous Spell Card "Cubic Karma" from the deck to the graveyard. "

A card from the deck popped up, was caught by Yuei Vu, and was thrown into the graveyard.

Titan narrowed his eyes, his brain spinning rapidly.

Although the Cubic deck was an extremely rare deck that had never been released or circulated on the market, the existence of this deck was no longer a secret.

The duel at the Kaiba Corp press conference five years ago was witnessed by all the world. Diva used this set of Cubic decks to have a wonderful and fierce battle with the first-generation Duel King Muto Yugi (meaning that he was tricked so much that his mother didn't recognize him after), and then a mysterious character of unknown origin appeared, and took over the Cubic deck, and competed with Duel King Yuei Vu.

Although Titan has never seen the Cubic deck with his own eyes, he has also seen the video of the duel conference and has a general understanding of the characteristics of this deck.

It's just that this Cubic deck should have belonged to Duel King's opponent at the beginning, but now it's actually in his hands.

Thinking of this, Titan couldn't help but feel excited all over.

By the way, there were rumors in the underground world that the first-generation Duel King especially liked to pull out Duel Disks, and also liked to pull out decks as trophies!

Then if I lose this duel, wouldn't my own deck also be

Titan swallowed.

"Set a card, I end my turn." Yuei Vu said.

"Then my turn."

Titan's voice was a bit dry. He drew the card, and his brain was thinking like never before.

Seeing this hand of cards, his eyes lit up, and he took a deep breath and felt that there was hope.

"I summon the Archfiend Cavalry'!"

The blue-maned horse seemed to step out of the void. It had blue eyes like will-o'-the-wisps and was covered in red armor. Its tall figure on horseback was like a ghost, holding a spiral spear made of white bones in its hand, and its scarlet eyes were deeply embedded in the skull's cheeks.

[Archfiend Cavalry, ATK 1900]

"The Spell Card Graceful Charity'! Draw 3 cards, then discard 2 cards."

After changing the cards in his hand, Titan then drew another card.

"Then I'll special summon this card from my hand show up! Archfiend Commander'!"

That seemed to be the Archfiend who plays the ace of the deck. Titan slapped the card onto the Duel Disk with an exaggerated gesture. Endless electricity overflowed from the duel disk, and a huge phantom rose from the ground.

The dark mist spread around like water overflowing from a water tank, and an Archfiend stepped out slowly. The armor on its body seemed to be made of pale bones, its body was as hard as steel, and golden electric snakes seemed to have countless servants leaping on its twisted muscles.

[Archfiend Commander, ATK 2500]

"Archfiend Commander' can be Special Summoned when there is an Archfiend' card on my field." Titan said, "But as a price, when it is Special Summoned this way, I must target 1 Archfiend' card I control; destroy that target."

So I destroyed the Archfiend Cavalry! "

The huge Archfiend's body was covered with electricity like thunder being pulled by a lightning rod. They gathered together and hit the cavalry's body. Both the demon and the horse were blown to pieces.

"The effect of Archfiend Cavalry!" Titan continued, "If this card on the field is destroyed by card effect and sent to the GY: I can target 1 "Archfiend" monster in your GY, Special Summon it, but it cannot attack this turn!"

A card was withdrawn from the Titan's GY area and was revealed by him.

"Returning from the underworld

Summoned Skull! ! ! "

A beam of thunder split open the dark field, blasting the grass into scorched black. The Archfiend's feet stepped on thunder and lightning, its rib-like armor was bathed in lightning, and its ferocious eyes flashed with danger.

That was one of the legendary monsters that once shined in Duel King Yugi Muto's deck many years ago, Summoned Skull!

Summoned Skull, ATK 2500

"It is indeed worthy of encouragement to summon such two powerful Archfiends easily. To be honest, most of the students in this school are already top students in the duel world, but none of them are as strong as you."

Yuei Vu nodded in approval and paused.

"However, Archfiend Commander' cannot attack during the turn when it is Special Summoned by its own effect." He said, "The monsters Special Summoned by the effect of Archfiend Cavalry' cannot attack during this turn. So although the formation is very beautiful, you cant attack at all.

Titan took a deep breath.

It was just as rumored.

There were countless rumors about Duel King Yuei Vu circulating in the underground world, many of which were difficult to distinguish between true and false. Titan once heard someone say that Duel King Yuei Vu was like a walking encyclopedia of cards. He seemed to know the effects and characteristics of various series and decks that exist in the world.

This was something that no one else, including Muto Yugi who was also the first Duel King, could do.

At first, Titan thought this might be an exaggeration, but now he began to believe it.

"I activate the Spell Card The Puppet Magic of Dark Ruler' from my hand!" Titan continued to play a card, "Target 1 Fiend monster in my GY; banish face-up monsters I control whose total Levels exactly equal the Level of that monster, then Special Summon it!"

He pointed at the monster on the field in front of him.

"I removed the Level 6 Summoned Skull' from the game!" Titan shouted in a deep voice,
"Resurrection from the graveyard through the effect of the The Puppet Magic of Dark Ruler!"

Show up! My strongest Archfiend

Skull Archfiend of Lightning! ! ! "

Summoned Skull disappeared and was replaced by a brand new Archfiend who looked similar to him and even seemed to have changed his vest. The blue electric current entangled around his armor made of white bones, and the helmet made of bones was buckled on his head, and the electric current flashed continuously.

[Skull Archfiend of Lightning, ATK 2500]

"Skull Archfiend of Lightning" Yuei Vu said to himself, "What a nostalgic monster."

Is this still the trump card of President Gai of the Nightcrawler World?

Think about it, it seems that I haven't seen President Gai for a while.

"Skull Archfiend of Lightning is Special Summoned through the effect of the The Puppet Magic of Dark Ruler', so it, of course, has no attack restrictions," Titan said.

"Upgraded the Normie monster Summoned Skull' into a vest with built-in resistance, and also gained the power to attack? It's a matter of time."

Yuei Vu has not forgotten that this "Skull Archfiend of Lightning" was another dice-throwing monster.

Skull Archfiend of Lightning: When this card is Tribute Summoned: You can target 1 Level 6 "Archfiend" monster in your Graveyard; Special Summon that target in face-up Defense Position.

A one-half probability was equal to 100% for a guy with Luck 20 like Yuei Vu.

So he automatically filtered the effect of the Skull Archfiend of Lightning to "cannot be the target of card effects."

Of course, it's just "cannot be selected as a target".

"Battle!" Titan shouted, "Skull Archfiend of Lightning, attacks the Duza the Meteor Cubic Vessel!"

Yuei Vu waved his hand gently.

"Open the set card: Trap Card Cubic Ascension!" He said, "When an opponent's monster declares an attack: Special Summon 1 Vjam the Cubic Seed' from my Deck, change the attack target to it, and perform damage calculation!"