

I QUIT MR 386

Chapter 386 Trouble For Morgan

“It must be true. Why else would Seth leave in such a hurry?”

Isabella and Mandy exited the office, and a few secretaries gathered together, conversing.

“What were you discussing?”

As soon as Isabella spoke, the secretaries dispersed instantly.

“Good day, Miss Symons.”

“What were you talking about?”

The young ladies exchanged glances, and one of them stepped forward and handed her phone to Isabella.

“I’m sorry, Miss Symons, we shouldn’t be chatting in the office area...”

Isabella didn’t pay attention to the secretary’s apology; all her focus was drawn to the information on the phone.

A breaking news report stated that Morgan had been involved in a car accident abroad, and his life and death were uncertain. Seth had urgently taken a private jet to Peru. The accompanying picture was blurry, but Isabella immediately recognized that the person in the photo was Seth.

Isabella held the phone, unable to react for a moment. When she left in the morning,

Seth's condition had just improved, and within just one morning, he had aft the country.

Mandy noticed that something was wrong and nudged her from behind. Isabella snapped back to reality and returned the phone to the secretary.

Everyone dispersed in fear, and Mandy quickly pulled Isabella back to the office. "What's going on? Should we make a call to inquire?"

Isabella sat down and tugged at her lips. "How can I ask?"

A subordinate caring about the boss' father? No matter how she thought about it, it seemed inappropriate.

Mandy pursed her lips and volunteered to bring her lunch; then she left the office.

Isabella sat alone at the office desk, hesitated for a moment, and finally called Nicolas

“Mr. Shaffer didn’t come over. The PR department is currently suppressing the new we don’t know what’s going on.”

Isabella had expected this and hung up the phone. She thought for a moment, then dialed the number Jordan had used to call her a few days ago.

The car that had picked up the doctor last night was still there, but the doctors were gone, probably all on the plane with Seth. As soon as she entered, she saw the old butler sighing in the courtyard.

“Miss Symons?”

“Where’s the lady?” Isabella thought for a moment and didn’t ask about Seth.

The old butler looked around and pulled her aside. “Not long after you left, the lady and Master Seth both left. I don’t know the specific situation.”

Isabella calculated the time; Seth must have been forcibly taken out of bed.

“You can come back again tonight.” The old butler suggested.

Isabella maintained a calm face and thanked him. As she turned around, her expression seemed a bit strained. She had been with Seth for five years and had experienced major events.

But this sudden disappearance, causing the whole world to speculate wildly, was a first. She drove back to Nemotors expressionlessly, but once in the office, she had no heart to work, and she didn't even manage to eat two bites of her lunch.

By the afternoon, Seth had still not appeared, public opinion was once again stirred up, and Shaffer Group's share prices also fluctuated.