

I Regained My Memories and Became Rich After Getting Divorced - Chapter 18

Realizing this, he asked nervously, "What's wrong, Boss? Is the alcohol too strong and you're not used to it? If you don't like it, I'll have someone change it for you!"

It had been a long time since the boss had drunk alcohol, and he had given her a strong drink! Chu Min was very annoyed just thinking about it. He reached out to take the glass from Gu Dai's hand.

But before Chu Min could touch the glass, Gu Dai raised her hand and finished the drink in one go.

Chu Min stared in amazement, and Gu Dai didn't give him a chance to ask questions. She glanced at him and said indifferently, "I'm not used to it, but it's not because the alcohol is too strong, but because it's too weak."

As soon as she finished speaking, Gu Dai headed towards the bartender and said directly when she approached, "Give me the strongest drink!"

The bartender was surprised, as it was his first time seeing such a beautiful woman. Gu Dai appeared to be delicate, but she unexpectedly asked for the strongest drink. He was astonished and stuttered, "This drink is not good for your health."

Chu Min stood aside and saw the bartender's stuttering appearance, knowing that he was another man who had fallen for his boss's charm.

He shook his head helplessly, as his boss was not interested in men.

Gu Dai, unfazed by the bartender's advice, said, "It's fine, I used to drink a lot, and nothing will happen."

"Just make it. Our boss can really hold her liquor. Back then, a bunch of us all got drunk, and she was still sober!" Chu Min also chimed in.

After Gu Dai had several glasses of the strong alcohol, she finally felt the effects of the liquor and felt a little hot, wanting to dance.

She said directly to Chu Min, "I'm going to dance."

“Alright.” Seeing Gu Dai’s normal complexion and knowing her alcohol tolerance, Chu Min agreed without hesitation.

He wanted to go with Gu Dai, but his phone suddenly rang just a few steps after he started walking. He had no choice but to say helplessly, “Boss, you go have fun first, I’ll be right there.”

Gu Dai didn’t mind. She just waved to Chu Min and signaled him to answer the phone.

But as Chu Min turned and left, a flush slowly crept onto Gu Dai’s face. She irritably tugged at her collar, wondering why it was so hot and why her vision was somewhat hazy.

Coincidentally, her phone rang at this moment. She glanced at the contact’s name and read it out loud, “Su Ting.”

In Gu Dai’s mind, an image of a handsome and elegant young man appeared. She blinked twice and then answered the call.

She said, teasingly, “What does my little brother need from his big sister?”

Su Ting on the other end of the phone was caught off-guard for a few seconds, not making a sound. When he spoke again, he found his throat a bit dry, “Sister, have you been drinking?”

“Yes, this bar is really as good as Chu Min said. The alcohol here smells so good and tastes so nice.” Gu Dai squinted her eyes with a satisfied smile.

“Sister, you’re drunk.” Su Ting said softly.

However, Gu Dai didn’t agree with this statement and subconsciously argued back, “I’m not drunk!”
