

I Have Immortalized: I Frankenstein by Simon E. Evans

Chapter 13

Authors Note: "Warning" story might contain mystery and strong language, readers discretion is advised.

Chapter 13 Mirrors on the wall

What the hell, damn! Damn it! Damn it! I was furious after been struck to the ground by the flashes of lights which emerge from the Mirror, the mirror on the wall.

What a trick pulled by the mirror? some strange trick and stunts.

That wasn't the least I've seen by this mirror, yes, the mirror on the wall, some magic mirror.

That wasn't the end of it. The Mirror started changing in it's forms, some scary trick, another trick is about to be pulled by the mirror, yes, the mirror on the wall, another stunts by the mirror.

The mirror is forming an image, nope! It seems something is appearing in the mirror, what could it be?

I've got my eyes stirring continuously at the mirror, as some beautiful feminine creature appeared and walked out of the mirror, having the looks of a Goddess.

Her eyes whitens in harmony, she was tall and beautiful, her hairs longer and curly, she is truly the fairest thing I have ever seen and a mantle was placed in her hands. Indeed, in her appearance, she is the prettiest among creations.

The moment I saw her, I was captivated by her beauty and I'd already loved her more than I knew. I am Star Queen, Edniel Yoshida, your guardian, I summoned you here, the lady said.

When she uttered those words, my memory quickly reprogrammed the voice, the beautiful voice that spoke to me, at the riverside behind the misty mountain while in the uplands, and the voice sounded exactly the same and I believed her without a second thought.

I stood up from the ground feeling so excited, but I needed to know how I get in here and my way out of this place, so it's you, you're the voice, the beautiful voice! Yes I am, Yoshida replied. Get your clothes on.

You know, after creations let me down here to a fall, I've been naked without even knowing that I am naked, and I need some cotton to make myself look good and warmth.

To me, it's just a natural thing to walk around naked, since I couldn't find a single person with some different appearance.

There are no clothes here, fairest one, I said, Immediately the lady pointed the mantle in her hands towards the wall and a wardrobe appeared and there were so many combat clothing in it, to my greatest surprise, they were magical and of different colors, designs and textile. And she said, "choose."

Wow! Choose? I wasn't troubled with making my choices and getting things right, so I walked down to the wardrobes pick any of the clothing and shoes and glasses and they were a perfect match on me.

You wouldn't tell how I look inside those suit stuff. I was awesome, and in the greatest appearance of myself, the suits were magical and could perform variant actions.

I've got some clothing on me now and looking quite different from my previous self. So I walked up to Yoshida and when she saw me, she said beautiful, you' look great, Frankenstein creature.\

Thank you, fairest one, but there's something I need you to tell me, I know, Yoshida said, everything you seek was in the Book.

Yes, the book, and it reprogrammed in my memory, "Frankenstein the Immortal" but how did she even know about the Book. The Book I left behind the second wall, so I better go back and get it, I demanded.

You can't go back now, Yoshida said, the path is sealed.
There's so much mission ahead of you Frankenstein creature, you must free your mind from what you seek, for that which lies ahead, Yoshida insisted.