

In Love, Never Say Never Chapter 847

He fixed me with an intense gaze. He remained silent for quite a long while before he nodded. "Alright. But don't leave me suffering alone for too long."

Suffering? He just said it was suffering instead of waiting. I guess it must be tormenting to him to keep waiting for me.

I simply stared at him blankly. In the few days that I had not seen him, I could see his eyes were now filled with sorrow and loneliness. Moreover, he was acting like a misanthrope, looking haggard and lonesome.

My heart ached to see him like that. Instinctively, I reached out my hands and stroke the spot between his brows. I muttered, "Are you feeling tired recently?"

He held my hands, his gaze softening. "It's normal."

Just then, I realized that I had never truly cared for him before. I leaned into his arms and hugged him. I asked, "Ashton, do you think I'm failing as a wife?"

He brushed the hair off my forehead gently. Feeling a little surprised to hear my question, he said, "Why do you keep denying and doubting yourself? Scarlett, this is all just part of our growth. We're slowly helping each other grow."

I nodded and leaned against his chest. Listening to the sound of his heartbeat, I asked, "Do you want to stay in Moore Residence for the time being? The Lavelian Village project is not completed yet. So, I will still have to go back there after Independence Day. I knew there's a lot of things you need to deal with in Fuller Corporation. I can't help you much, but at least I can give you a massage when you get home at night. Besides, my mom can also cook delicious food for you. What do you think?"

He held me up from his arms. He then cupped my face and smiled gently. "So, does that mean I am marrying into the Moore family?"

I smiled faintly and said, "Well, according to R Province culture, there is no such thing as a man marrying into the wife's family. As long as the couple gets married, they become a family."

He simply grinned in response. Perhaps he hadn't been sleeping well lately, but the moment we were done with lunch, he dragged me into the private restroom for a rest. Soon, he fell asleep. My heart couldn't help but hurt a little to see him sleeping soundly.

Suddenly, Joseph's voice came from the door. I stood up and walked out of the private restroom. Joseph was putting some documents on Ashton's desk. Upon seeing me, he said, "This is the quarterly report from HiTech. Please tell Mr. Fuller to take a look at the report after he wakes up."

I nodded and stared at him. "Joseph, can I ask you something?"

He gave me a nod. "Of course, Mrs. Fuller. Feel free to ask me anything you want to know."

"In regard to the base in Lavelian Village, have you looked into what Ashton told you to? Did you find out anything?" Although I was quite busy recently, I still kept that in mind.

Joseph was shocked, but he managed to recompose himself in a moment. He answered, "I've investigated on that matter. However, it is just an ordinary soundproofing system. Mrs. Fuller, please don't worry about it." He left after giving me the brief explanation.

If I was being honest, I didn't buy into his explanation. It was obvious that the base wasn't as ordinary as we saw. But seeing Joseph's reaction, I decided not to ask any further.

Not long after, Ashton came out from the private restroom. I raised my head to take a look at the time, and I realized he only slept for a few minutes. I couldn't help but ask, "Why don't you rest a while more? It's only been few minutes."

He hugged me tightly in his arms before answering me with his raspy voice, "I can't sleep well without you beside me."

I noticed that Ashton was getting better at sweet-talking. I had never thought that I would be this happy to hear those words coming out of his mouth.

I let him hug me. He whispered in my ear, "Won't you have dinner with me tonight?"

Initially, I wanted to say yes. However, I recalled that I had already promised John in the morning. I couldn't help but feel sorry. "I'm meeting John tonight for dinner. He seemed to be in a bad mood. I think he got into a fight with Hannah."

Ashton immediately said, "So? What's that got to do with you? Are you a trash can? Is he looking for you just because he wants to dump his negativity on you?"

I froze and put my hands on his waist. I replied in a sulky manner, "What are you saying? Everyone has bad moments in life. Besides, it's been a while since I saw my brother. Shouldn't I be meeting him at least once since I just came back here?"

He rested his chin on my shoulder. His tall and slender body was hunched over, making him look like a mischievous kid who was throwing a tantrum. "You can have dinner with him, but only if you bring me along. I don't want to eat alone!"

I nodded and chuckled lightly. "Alright then."

Staying by Ashton's side and watching him work was a pleasure that I had never discovered before. As I observed him silently, I noticed how elegant the man looked with his every movement.

I couldn't help but feel blessed to be able to witness such a charming sight.

He put down the fountain pen in his hand and raised his eyes. Looking at me with his dark eyes, he parted his thin lips and uttered, "Come here."

As if hypnotized, I got up and walked toward him instantly. Ashton curled his lips and pulled me onto his lap. Then, he wrapped his arms around me and raised his brows. "Are you enjoying the view?"

I blushed and nodded my head. "Yes."

He seemed delighted by my answer. He broke into a gleeful grin. "Well, feel free to gaze at me all you want when we get home later at night. For now, you have to restrain yourself a little. I still need to work, and with you staring at me like that, I won't be able to focus on my work at all."