ILY Monster 140

"Davi... my... wife..." he said slowly with a voice filled with nothing but love and gentleness. It was as if to him, her name was meant to be called in the most passionate way.

The girl on the other hand, upon hearing him called her name with additional 'my wife' into it, she just started smiling brightly as ever. That moment, her eyes were still narrowed and her face was reddish and drenched with sweat, and yet her angelic beauty remained dazzling despite her situation.

Her slow and soft voice, the slow reaction and movement of her body, and the way she pursed her lips that moment were even more getting seductive, that Sei was almost losing his mind.

"A-again." She pleaded as she started looking so eager and excited despite her being in such state. And seeing her being pleased to that extent, Sei's heart instantly felt an indescribable pleasure.

"Davi my wife." He repeated with the same passionate voice and Davi just hugged him again, looking extremely happy. She was squeezing his neck with such force but Sei don't even mind it at all. All he cared about was that his wife was happy.

Until time passed and his wife never let go of him. Sei didn't moved nor talk again because he was waiting for her to finally fall back to sleep and rest. But the next moment, Davi suddenly let go of his neck and she landed her hands on his shoulders again. She was still kneeling as her gaze fell on him and her eyes were still looking tired and at the verge of falling asleep.

However, that moment, her narrowed eyes were suddenly reflecting a sad emotion as she stared at him. Causing Sei to immediately felt extremely alarmed. Sei reflexively straightened his spine as he looked at her eyes getting even sadder. Until finally, he found his voice and he opened his mouth to speak. But the moment he was about to ask what was wrong, tears suddenly welled in her beautiful eyes and the next second, drops of tears flowed down her face.

That moment, the sky seemed to just fell straight towards Sei._{Please visit freewebnovel.com}

Looking at his wife's tears falling like droplets of crystals made him felt like his heart has been smashed multiple times. His throat began to tightened and he felt like it was getting harder for him to breath.

Sei wanted to ask what was wrong, but his words just seemed to get stocked on his throat. Until the crying girl in front of him slowly opened her mouth.

"Sei... why? Why can't I see your face? Why... why am I not allowed to know you? I... I wanted to see you... I wanted to know you."

Those words echoed inside Sei's brain over and over again as his gaze was locked unto his wife who started sobbing like a kid. And his heart clenched painfully that he just pulled her to his embrace and hugged her tight.

Davi continued sobbing in his shoulder and Sei just buried his face on her hair. He kept on embracing her as he desperately tried thinking about what he should do and what he should say to ease her pain.

However, before Sei could speak, the girl suddenly went limped again as she finally passed out due to exhaustion.

And the moment he felt her finally falling asleep, Sei didn't let go of her. He stayed there embracing her for a long while before he finally unclasped her. And when he finally laid her on the bed, he stood quietly and took another dress to change her drenched shirt.

Afterwards, she slowly made her sit and leaned her on his chest, before he carefully removed her shirt and put another on her.

Sei remained quiet the whole process, his eyes were still reflecting guilt and pain as he avoided looking at his wife's body.